DONNELLY'S PLASTER.

A SURE and certain cure for Fever Sores, Felons, Cancers, Burns, Scalds, and all Eruptions of the Skin.

Preston, C W., 1867.

This is to certify that my son had a fearful sore leg, so much so that the flesh fell off and laid the bone bare. Donnelly's Plaster cured it most completely. I strongly recommend it to all suffering from any diseases of the skin, as I have seen it proved in all cases.

Poetry.

TO THE WEEMAN.

I wadna hae a lassie wife
For fear she'd scorn, forsooth;
I wadna hae an ugly wife,
To be a mote in Her'ds eh.
I wadna hae a fat wife,
She'd tak' aver muckle skaith to wear;
I wadna hae a lean wife,
To fend her duddies' sheers wad be sair.
Yet handie maids and ugly maids,
And fat maids and lean get mae;
But if there's no' a better kine,
A Bachelor I shall remain.

I wadna hae a paw'd wife,
She'd need aver muckle drogs and scent;
I wadna hae a feeshie wife,
We'd ca'ed to be anatomy.
I wadna hae a lewd wife,
She'd scunner me and a' the folk;
I wadna hae a clean wife,
Because I like to chew and smoke.
Yet proud maids and humble maids,
And foul maids and clean get mae;
But if there's no' a better kine,
A Bachelor I shall remain.

I wadna hae a tall wife,
She'd maybe gie a wheeshing to the;
I wadna hae a little wife,
She could a tie my napkin to me.
I wadna hae an auld wife,
To preach exposance ilka day;
I wadna hae a young wife,
She couldna mak a cup o' tay.
Yet tall maids and little maids,
Auld maids and young get mae;
But if there's no' a better kine,
A Bachelor I shall remain.

I wadna hae a cross wife,
To lecture, scold, and spit at me;
I wadna hae a fanny wife,
To giggle like a fiel at me;
I wadna hae a noisy wife,
I could na hae a minute's rest;
I wadna hae a quiet wife,
I micht na ken if she be dead or mairt;
Yet cross maids and fanny maids,
And noisy maids and quiet get mae;
But if there's no' a better kine,
A Bachelor I shall remain.

I wadna hae a rich wife
To cast her riches up to me;
I wadna hae a poor wife,
I'd hae to deck her up, you see;
I wadna hae a dowie wife
To be complaining a' the time;
I wadna hae a canter wife
To cheat me out o' fat was mine.
Yet rich maids and poor maids
And dowie maids and smart get mae;
But if there's no' a better kine,
A Bachelor I shall remain.

I wadna hae a good wife
Because they're sae fat what they tell;
I wadna hae a bad wife,
Because I'm laith to touch myself;
In short—I wadna hae a wife ava,
If there's no' some better kine;
But I will trudge along alane
And still be "Lord" over woman kind.

Selections.

Ceremonies on the Death of a Pope.

In the present number of the North British Review there is a long article of forty-five pages, with a short title—"Conclaves." This article contains a marvellous amount of information which must have required the most unwearied industry to collect. The writer's style is scarcely equal to his research, and a more brilliant essayist would have made out of the materials here collected an article worthy to be bound up with Macaulay's famous volumes. But, nevertheless, the article as it is, is very readable, and is peculiarly well timed. We extract a few facts new to most of our readers:—

We find it stated that on the death of a Pope one of the officials of the Camera the Camerlengo proceeds to the death chamber and strikes the door with a gilt mallet. On receiving no reply, he enters the room and taps the corpse on the forehead with another mallet of silver, and falling on his knees before the motionless body, proclaims the Pope to be no more. Notice is then given for the great bell to be rung, and this announces to the people that they have lost their sovereign. The machinery of government then comes to a stand-still, and even the law courts suspend their sittings. A meeting of cardinals is held the day after the Pope's death, when his piscatorial ring is broken, and an inventory taken of all his effects. Nine days must elapse between the decease and the assembling of a conclave for the election of a new Pope. Formerly this interval used to be a time of the greatest scandal and disorders. The Italians with that intense love for gambling, which they have always displayed, made the selection of the new Pope the subject of a large amount of betting. Certain streets in Rome become a sort of Tatter-all's, where the odds against the various cardinals were offered and taken, and varied from day to day, until the excitement thus created generally ended in a riot. During this interregnum the funeral takes place. The corpse is splendidly robed in white, and placed within a shroud of purple silk, ornamented with embroidery and gold fringe. In the coffin are laid three bags filled with medals, and a parchment scroll, wherein is the history of the Pope's life. By the ninth day everything must be ready for the conclave. Each cardinal is attended by two conclavists, and besides there are whole hosts of officials. The whole of these from the cardinals down to the sweepers, have to be locked up until the election has been made. Vote by ballot prevails, and the papers are deposited in a chalice. If a majority of two-thirds has not been obtained for any cardinal, a second ballot is taken, and if even a nine result, the voting papers are burnt, and the smoke is eagerly looked for by the populace outside, who, when they see it, know that they are still without a sovereign and the Church without a head. At the third election no cardinal is permitted to vote a second time for the same candidate; and if he still adheres to his first choice he writes on his voting paper Nemini, meaning that he votes for nobody. Thus at last a majority must be obtained, and as soon as it is known the new Pope takes his place beneath a canopy, and receives the adoration of the cardinals. Then from the recognised balcony he pronounces his blessing to the crowd below, and in a few days afterwards goes to St Peter's in state, where he is crowned with the tiara, and receives the homage of the clergy and then of the laity. The right of election which is vested in the cardinals is absolutely irrevocable. A cardinal may be excommunicated, and yet retain his vote; he may express blame for the punishments dealt out; but no heresy which he can hold, no crime which he can commit, disqualifies him for the duty of electing a Pope. There are certain sovereigns who put into the right of veto at an election. France, Austria and Spain possess that right indisputably, in the case of Portugal and Naples it has been disputed. Spain exercised the right to veto as lately as 1830, when Cardinal Giustiniani, who had been Nuncio at the Court of Madrid, was excluded, for a reason that was not assigned. As the veto can be exercised only once, it has been no uncommon event for the cardinals who wished to elect one of their number who might possibly have offensive to one of the vetoing Powers, to give as large number of votes for a candidate who they were sure would be vetoed, and having thus got rid of this obstacle they proceeded to elect their favorite without fear of interventions from without. These elections in former ages gave rise to a vast amount of treachery and intrigue. On one occasion a certain person who wished to get a particular cardinal elected went to each of the cardinals separately and suggested that as a certain other cardinal was sure to be elected, they might oblige him elf by giving a complimentary vote for his friend. A large number of the cardinals assented each ignorant that the other had done so, and the man whom nobody really thought of electing, very nearly obtained the necessary majority, and it was only by accident that the trick was discovered in time to frustrate it. There is one point which we think is very little known. The Pope may be a layman, and a lay cardinal was, on one occasion, elected Pope. With regard to the oaths taken by the Popes to maintain their temporal possessions, the reviewer says that it is a purely voluntary oath; it is not the condition upon which he receives the tiara. Therefore, "the constitutions of the Court of Rome is so far from being what is generally supposed, a thing of a strictly limited nature, overweighed with the encumbrance of absolute injunctions, that it will be found when the heart of the system is reached to be actually one of the most elastic in existence. Let only the instincts of the body representative church be alive to a necessity, however new, and the body can at once, without taint of illegal and revolutionary pretentions, recognise the existence of new conditions. There is, in fact, no limitation on the plenary power of the governing body, in spite of the stringent formulism within which, at first sight, it seems to be tightly bound." When the reviewer concludes that, should present political circumstances demand concessions from the Pope, he is perfectly at liberty to make them.

Masonic Influence—Incident of the War.

The following incident is an instance where the Masonic tie of brotherhood proved stronger than the fear of death, and more lasting than the hatred of mortal foes:—

At the second battle of Cold Harbor the repulse of the Federals left the ground in front of the Confederate works strewn with their dead and wounded—these, lying more than a day under the hot July sun, dying with thirst, begged piteously for help, but in vain, as the Federal lines were so close that none could leave the protection of the breast-works without being made the target for their bullets. Some dragged themselves to the ditch and were hoisted over by means of waist belts buckled together and let down to them.

At this time, when to cross the works seemed sudden death, two men came to head-quarters and asked permission to bring in a wounded Federal lying in front. They were referred to the order prohibiting such reckless exposure, and the danger of the attempt pointed out. They answered that the man had shown the Masonic sign of distress, and that, as Masons, they felt bound to attempt to relieve him at any cost. The general (R. F. Hoke,) could not refuse his consent, and at nightfall the two went upon the field, and though exposed to the greatest danger, succeeded in bringing the man safely off.

He proved to be a Lieut.-Col., badly shot in the head; he was carried to a private house, carefully attended by Masons, and eventually recovered from his wounds, at first considered mortal. Then, the Masonic signal feebly raised had found a response from hostile breast, and added one more to the many victories of Love over Death.—New York Despatch.

Let Every Man Read This.

As exchanges go we have probably all of us met with instances in which a word heedlessly spoken against the reputation of a female, has been magnified by malicious mouth until the cloud has become dark enough to over-shadow her whole existence. To those who are accustomed, not necessarily from bad motives, but from thoughtlessness, to speak light of females, we recommend these hints as worthy of consideration:—Never use a lady's name in any improper place, or at any improper time, or in mixed company. Never make assertions about her that you think are untrue, or although true she herself would blush to hear. Many a "good and worthy woman's character has been forever ruined and her heart broken by a lie manufactured by a villain, and repeated where it should not have been, and in the presence of those whose little judgment could not deter them from circulating the foul and foolish report. Respect the name of a woman, for your mother and sisters are women; and as you would not have their fair name tarnished, and their lives embittered by shameless being tongue-lashed, heed the ill your own words may bring upon the mother, the sister, or the wife of some fellow-creature.

The Local Legislature.

We observe that in some quarters there is a disposition to underrate the importance of the Local Legislature. It is quite true that the Delegates have somewhat lessened the powers of that body, but still there is a great deal left for it to do, and it will be the more desirable to have good men elected to it. Nearly all the experienced politicians seem likely to be candidates for the House of Commons, and no doubt that body will be a field in which a public man can be of much use to his country—but the effect will be to give us a Local Legislature largely made up of new men. It will be that account, perhaps, be all the easier for a clever man to make his way into that body—and probably the new men, fresh from the people, will be more reasonably disposed than the old politicians. It is a matter of the very greatest importance that the new governments shall start on economically as possible, and the election of new men with economical ideas to the Local Parliament, will not be without its advantages. But a legislature made up in great part of new men, would be liable to make some blunders, unless care is taken to choose men of intelligence and judgement. As the Reform party is certain to control the Local Legislature and to be responsible for its policy, we want to see it as good and useful a body as possible.—The country has been warned, too, by Mr. Hellyard Cameron and other Tories, that an attempt will be made to destroy the Local Governments, and to rob the people of Upper Canada of the control of their local affairs. That Tory game will be most effectually blocked by a few years experience of good Local Legislation.—Once let us get a Legislature of Ontario capable of winning the respect and confidence of the people, Mr. Cameron may give up the hope of destroying the Federal principle in our new constitution. But, on the other hand, a few blunders in the early history of our Local Government might give considerable strength to an agitation such as Mr. Cameron threatens. For that reason, it is of especial importance that we should choose good men to the Local Parliament.

The Legislature of Ontario is likely to contain a good many men well acquainted with the practical working of our municipal institutions, and the experience of these men will probably be made useful at its first session. The Municipal and Assessment Acts of last session, though good bills as they came from the committees, were a good deal injured by tinkering at the close of the session, and will therefore require revision at an early day. In the Canadian Parliament, hitherto, such measures have been passed by men—half of whom had no interest whatever in them—and many of the other half of whom knew little or nothing about municipal affairs.—The Legislature of Ontario will be much more competent to give us good Municipal and Assessment Laws. Among other subjects of importance which will be under the control of the Local Parliament, will be the management of local public works, the management of all the Crown Lands and mines and mining lands in Upper Canada, including those on the North shore of Lakes Huron and Superior; the management of the Common Schools, Grammar Schools, Colleges and Universities, the management of Hospitals, Charities and Asylums, and the administration of justice. These subjects will give ample scope for the talents of our local law-makers, and upon the manner in which they are dealt with, will depend in no small degree the prosperity and progress of the Province.—Ingersoll Chronicle.

Twelve Thousand Acres of Roses.

Mr. Blunt, the British vice-consul at Adrianople, in his report to the Foreign-office this year, gives an account of the rose-fields of Adrianople, extending over 12,000 acres, and supplying the most important source of wealth in the district. The season for picking the roses is from the latter part of April to the early part of June; and at sunrise the plains look like a vast garden full of life and fragrance, with hundreds of Bulgarian boys and girls gathering the flowers into baskets and sacks, the air impregnated with the delicious scent, and the scene enlivened by songs, dancing and music.

It is estimated that the rose districts of Adrianople produced, in the season of 1866 about 700,000 measals of otter of roses (the measal being 1¼ drachm,) the price averaging rather more than 3s sterling per measal. If the weather is cool in spring, and there are copious falls of dew and occasional showers, the crops prosper, and an abundant yield of oil is secured. The season in 1866 was so favourable that eight otes of petals (less than 28 lbs.) and in some cases seven otes, yielding a measal of oil. If the weather is very hot and dry, it takes double that quantity of petals. The culture of the rose does not entail much trouble or expense. Land is cheap and moderately taxed. In a favourable season, a donum (40 paces square,) well cultivated, will produce 1,000 okes of petals, or 100 measals of oil valued at 1,500 piastres—management of the land 55; tithe 150; picking, 75; extraction, 200—leaving a net profit of 960 piastres or about £5 per donum, clear of all expenses.

The oil is extracted from the petals by the ordinary process of distillation. The otter is brought as far foreign markets, into which it passes through Constantinople and Smyrna, where it is generally deposited to undergo the process of adulteration with sandalwood and other oils. It is said that in London and Adrianople otter finds a readier sale when it is adulterated than when it is genuine.

The inhabitants of a noted fever and ague district in Illinois are said to turn their "shakes" to some account; they climb into the top of a "shellbark" hickory tree until thirsty or, and by the time the "general earthquake" leaves them there is not a hickory nut left on the tree.

AN AWFUL TRAGEDY.

A Man Saws his Wife and Child to Death and then Kills Himself—His Extraordinary Confession.

From the Cincinnati Commercial, May 30.

The terrible tragedy that occurred last Thursday, in Perry county, Ind., in which a man beats his wife and child to death with clubs and then shot himself, has seldom been surpassed in dull horror. About five years ago the murderer, Francis J. Smith, of New Albany, purchased and removed to a farm of 320 acres, near Rome, Perry county, Ind. In 1845 he married a refugee from Georgia. In the latter part of the year his wife gave birth to a male child, which almost from its first breath became the victim of its father's vile and cruel nature. On one occasion, after beating his wife, he seized the infant and held it over a blazing fire until its cries of anguish relieved even his closest stony heart. His wife procured a divorce and went to live with a brother in New York. A few months passed and Smith's health began to fail, and fearing that death would overtake him he became much alarmed, and according to a subsequent statement of his wife, wrote to her that if she ever wanted to see him alive to hasten immediately to the place of his confinement. She came, but was met very coldly by Smith, who denied that he had ever written such a letter as "the above mentioned," and expressed the greatest surprise at finding her at the door. She passed from house to house, dragging through a miserable existence, until last Wednesday morning, when she was at the residence of H. Gerrer, not far distant from Rome, contemplating a visit to the Trustee of the township, to obtain shelter for herself and child. Her husband arrived and expressed his desire to accompany her to the trustee's office. She readily accepted his offer, and the two set off on the journey, taking the child with them. A drizzling rain set in, and under pretence of finding shelter under a large tree, standing two or three hundred yards from the roadside, up a deep ravine, Smith invited the mother thither, and after arriving at the designated spot pelted the mother's brains out with large stones, and with each blow on the head of the child killed it.

Many stones were lying near the victims, red with their own blood. Smith took the stones from the dress of the mother, tied her feet closely, and then her hands over her breast, laid the child beside her, covered the two with a light shawl, and then left them. The next day Smith was at his brother's Commodore Smith.—He sat down and wrote a letter, and handed it to his step-in-law, and told her to take it to one of the neighbor's houses and read it. She refused to go, and told him that she had not time. He told her that if she did not go he would have to tell her what was in the letter. He told her that he had killed his wife and child, and that he intended to kill himself, whereupon he seized a loaded gun belonging to his brother, and walked out into the yard and shot himself through the heart. Smith was formerly from New Albany, were some years ago he killed a man, and was cleared on the plea of insanity. In his statement of the manner of the murder, he says:—"Her brother thought me and Mary had better get married again, for he was sure that we were both to blame, (and so we were.) I answered him by telling him the state of my health would not allow me to marry, if I were ever so willing to take her, and I did not expect to live three months. The next thing I heard of them, Mary was at the door. • • • I loved Mary and my boy, therefore I killed them, and such a horrid way to kill any person. Poor Mary, after I had knocked her on the head with a stone, begged me to stop for she would die at that, and she wanted to have some talk with me. I did so. I told her that I did not kill her or the boy through anger, hatred or spite. It drove me mad to see her and the boy kicked about as they had been for the last three months. She says, 'God bless you, Frank; I believe you; let me kiss you,' and I did it—and again before she died. I hope that me and Mary and my boy may be buried near each other. I hope it will be many years hence ever another husband and father will be compelled by such crushing misery to do as I have done."

A KNOTTY RESULT.—The man who depended on the "tie of relationship," to disentangle him from his difficulties, found it but a slender thread—very good to talk about, but of little use—generally leaving people as much used up as ever.

INSINCERITY.—There is but one thing without borrow; sunshine with eternal barrenness, inability to do or be; insincerity, unbelief. He who believes one thing believes only the show of things, is not in relation with nature and fact at all.

A lady in Paris recently gave a concert at her house. "Do you like Rossini?"—said she to one of her guests. "Rossini; indeed I do; he is my favorite composer." "Are you familiar with his 'Barber' (of Seville)?" "Oh, dear no," was the reply; "I always shave myself."

THE REASON WHY.—Sixty years since a West country clergymen, expounding the parable of the supper and the unwilling guests, denounced the excuse of a man "who had married a wife and therefore could not come," as frivolous indeed. "Why, he might have brought her behind him on a pillion."

The danger of Mahomed's overgrown empire was forcibly placed before the monarch by an old woman, who came to demand redress for the death of her son, who, together with a number of merchants, was killed by robbers in the deserts of Nedschoudes. In vain Mahmoud urged the impossibility of sending order in so remote a part of his dominions. "Why, then, do you talk questions," said she, "which you cannot answer, and for the prosecution of which you must answer in the day of judgment?"

POLITICAL.

Something definite has at last been arrived at in reference to the West Riding of this County. Mr. John Walton has consented to be a candidate for the Legislature of Ontario, at the coming election. Mr. W. hails from an old resident of the County, is fast among the first settlers in this county. He is also one of our most successful farmers, and one who has taken a very active part in agricultural societies and municipal matters. He has long been a member of the township council of his own township, and has repeatedly represented it in the County Council; does at the present time. Mr. Walton is also a Reformer of the right stamp, possessing the confidence of his friends to the utmost degree. He also possesses a good judgment, and upright motives. Being a farmer, farmers will find in him a true representative, and we do not fear but that he will receive their almost unanimous support. He has no opponent yet, nor is he likely to have any. A. H. Campbell, Esq., has been spoken of by one or two of his friends, but there is no likelihood of his being fooled by them. Mr. Carnegie has also been spoken of, but almost always in connection with the House of Commons, so that if he comes out, it will be for that house. Mr. Perry has some time since signified his intention of trying his fortune again, but no one knows what his political principles are, and he chooses to leave people in the dark as far as publishing them is concerned. Well, may be he does not believe in political principles. As yet we have not a Reform candidate for the Commons, but a few days may find us in a different position. Our friend the Review, the organ of J. A. in Peterborough, says we are hard up for candidates, but we have not yet gone round the streets trying to find one. Several Reformers have been named, it is true, but their own unwillingness, not want of confidence, prevented their coming out. The tories however, have a man in the field, but they seek to disown him, perhaps they are waiting for one more pliable still.

REFORM CONVENTION, TORONTO.

This day one of the greatest Reform gatherings that has ever been in these provinces will be assembled in Toronto. We may safely say that every county in Ontario will be represented, and momentous questions will be discussed. There never was a time when Reformers required greater unanimity of action than now. For there never was such an effort as is being made by the "no-party cry" to put them off their guard. This convention will strengthen the hands of those who have been battling for the principles of Reform, will induce united action at the approaching elections, and will tend to ensure a larger return of true men than would otherwise be likely. It will also define those great principles for which Reformers are contending, and will explain those things against which they must battle until overthrown. The Convention of '59 was a success, all the great principles then demanded have been in some degree conceded, and now it remains to devise means to make those concessions profitable, for the effort is great to destroy the advantage by making the laws a dead letter through the continuation of the coalition. Let every man be at his post, vote only for the right men and all will be well. But if people vote for coalition, corruption, and for men without principles, they will reap their reward.

East Durham.

At the convention in the East Riding of Durham, the delegates were not able to come to any decision in order to bring out candidates for that Riding, and to consequence the meeting was adjourned for two weeks. After the Convention, the Guide says it was agreed to bring out R. Wallace, Esq., by requisition, and there was a pretty general agreement to support him. Since that we have heard that Mr. Wallace refuses on the ground of ill-health. In that county the number of aspirants is too large, it appears, and hence the trouble to get an agreement. If the would-be M. P. P's. would wait until solicited to come forward, harmony would soon be restored. Very often those in whom the people have no confidence force themselves out, and then cause trouble to themselves and too often to their party.

Magazines and Periodicals.

After Monday, the New Dominion day, all the Magazines and Periodicals can be obtained at GRAHAM & STRATTON'S Book Store, two doors north of Coulters Drug Store, and four opposite Geo. Stetham & Co's. Hardware Store, George Street.

BELMONT IRON WORKS.

In a tour through the township of Belmont last week, accompanied by P. Pierce, Esq., Reeve of the township, we happened to pass near the celebrated iron mines, of Belmont notoriety; and the chance of seeing the miners and the mode of working the mines without asking leave. The immense iron machinery for pumping out the water, hoisting the ore, boring, blasting, shoveling, filling and leveling. Huge piles of the ore are ready to be removed as soon as the Marmora railway will get into operation, which will be opened this day. We also passed along the different offices of the Society. Night and day the men are at work on the road, they had only a few rods to grade, and the rails were all laid but about a mile. Mr. Thos. Dennis was just paying the hands, and huge rolls of bills and baskets of silver were heaped round him—that week he had paid nearly $4,000. Dr. Beatty, too, was at the works and paid the men over $4,400 of wages, making nearly $9,000 in cash scattered around the township of Belmont in two days. There is also a little village springing up, named Blair, after the principal director of the Marmora company. There are already 15 houses erected, and 20 more are to be erected soon. There are two stores, one of which is owned by our good friend, Mr. Roulang, of Norwood. There is no tavern, and we were informed that the company will not permit one to be opened on their lands. There is the greatest activity every place we passed, an evident determination to make the whole pay, and abundant rewards there must be eventually. Cobourg will yet have thousands of tons of the ore passing through her to its destination; on perhaps manufactured there. The iron trade of Marmora will surpass many times the former trade of Peterboro, and by that trade prosperity may again return to her, and her energy and pluck yet amply repaid. If ever any people deserve it those of our sister town do. But it is worthy of remark that all the iron is in this county. Belleville people lament over their loss but that they could call the mines theirs is a matter of surprise. The mines are over a mile from any part of the county of Hastings; in fact, they are altogether in the county of Peterboro, and of course belong to us, and the pity is that we did not make an effort to have the road that will remove the ore, pass this way, as it is more naturally its outlet than Belleville. We, however, now with our sister town, Cobourg, the reward of her industry and patience. The praise is hers, let her also have the profits.

Sabbath School County Convention.

The Sabbath School Teacher's Convention which we referred to last week, was held according to announcement on Wednesday and Thursday, the 19th and 20th inst., in the Rev. Mr. Rogers church. The attendance was not as large as had been anticipated. The Rev. J. Gilmour was appointed Chairman, pro tem, for the purpose of organizing, and the Rev. J. Johnson opened the meeting with prayer, after which a Business Committee was appointed, consisting of the following persons:—Rev. J. Roberts, Rev. D. Cantlon, Rev. J. Johnson, R. Kingan, R. Rutherford, J. Edwards, T. M. Fairbairn, T. Donnelly, D. Peatland, W. Cameron and W. J. Mason—five to form a quorum. This Committee prepared the necessary work for the Convention. The Committee recommended the following persons to be the executive officers and committee of the Convention for the ensuing year—five to form a quorum:—Col. Hanltain, President; Rev. J. Roger, Rev. J. Gilmour and Rev. J. Johnson, Vice Presidents; Mr. D. Hogg, Corresponding Secretary; Mr. W. J. Mason, Recording Secretary. Committee—Messrs. R. Kingan, R. Rutherford, J. Edwards, T. M. Fairbairn, D. Peatland, J. W. Dunnett, W. Brownscombe and all Ministers in the County.

We cannot follow the convention through all its various sittings, as we were not present, but have been informed that the various topics for discussion were thoroughly examined and much valuable information and experience in Sabbath School matters laid before the Convention. The committee then laid before the convention the report of the Sabbath Schools in the county that had sent in returns to the Secretary from which we make the following extracts:—

Number of Schools reported,	32
do Teachers	146
do Scholars,	2133
Denominations—
Bible Christian Schools	4
Canada Presbyterians	6
Baptist	2
Church of Scotland,	1
Wesleyan Methodist	3
Church of England	2
Union,	15

The above does not by any means give the number of Sabbath Schools in the county, many parties to whom circulars had been sent having entirely neglected to report.

On Wednesday evening a large and interesting public meeting of the Convention was held, presided over by Col. Hanltain. The children of the different Schools, under the management of Mr. Millar, sang some beautiful pieces, and five minute speeches were delivered by a number of Ministers and others. The Convention adjourned to meet again D. V., on the 3rd Wednesday of June, 1868, in the Wesleyan Methodist Church.

The Late James Harvey.

The remains of the late James Harvey, so well known in Peterboro, were brought to this place on Monday, and being met at the cars by a large concourse of friends and acquaintances, were conveyed to the Little Lake Cemetery and there interred. The history of Mr. Harvey is too well known to require any remarks from us. By nature he was active and restless, undue excitement always injured him and was the cause of his great trouble. He is now where the weary cease from trouble; let us hope in eternal rest.

Personal.

Robert Nicholls, Esq., left for Europe last week, with intention of remaining some time. The cause of the journey is ill health. Mrs. Nicholls accompanies him. A large number of Mr. Nicholls's friends accompanied him to the train on the occasion of his departure. He left Montreal on Friday evening for Quebec, in order to leave with the first steamer going out. It is expected that if Mr. Nicholls's health improves he will return in about 12 months.

On the 22rd inst., the village of Cayuga, N. Y., was partially consumed by fire. Loss $75,000.

Examinations.

The examinations of the Union School are going on this week. On Monday the Grammar School department was examined and also the fifth division, 1st part. There were very few visitors at either of the days, and especially [illegible] pupils did not make an effort to have the room filled. Parents [illegible] pupils; for [illegible] children who live [illegible] after [illegible] noon were there to see how the pupils did.

At the close of Mr. Shurtleff's examination, the boys of his division presented to [illegible] address, to which Mr. Shurtleff replied. The address and reply are given below:—

GRAMMAR SCHOOL,
Peterboro, June 18th, 1867.

MR. SHURTLEFF:

SIR,—As you are about to resign from this school, we (the pupils attending the fifth division) could not permit you to do so without testifying our high appreciation of your qualities as a teacher while you have been amongst us. It is with pleasure we look back, on this the eve of our separation, and call to mind the fact, that you have, while amongst us, always exhibited the most earnest solicitude for our welfare, and that we should advance as rapidly as possible in the several branches we have been studying.—You have always shown the greatest pleasure in explaining any subject brought before you by any one of us; and while we regret your departure from amongst us, we would express our earnest wish for your future success in whatever situation you may be placed. And now, sir, will you kindly accept this trifle as a token of our respect, and be assured that we shall ever harbour the most lively and pleasant recollection of these days spent with you as school.

Presented on behalf of the pupils of the fifth division.

JOHN W. BELL.
HERBERT CROLY.
WM. CANTLON.
JOHN CLARKE.
G. HATTON.

REPLY.

DEAR PUPILS,—I regret very much in some respects, that circumstances have recently occurred (as you are aware) which render it imperative on my part to resign my position in this school. The course which you have pursued, as well as the spirited manner which you have manifested upon this occasion, is worthy of all praise. Your address is couched not in high sounding words, but in simple and affectionate language. I thank you most sincerely for the high compliment paid me as your teacher, and also for your kind wish respecting my future success. I assure you that I am much delighted in being the recipient of this beautiful and valuable present, and shall ever look upon it as a memento of your affection and esteem.

In conclusion, I beg to state that I shall always entertain pleasant feelings concerning my connection with this school, especially when I consider the honor and integrity of the students under my charge. I counsel you to remain steadfast in the path of rectitude, and your rewards, in this world, will be, no doubt, high posts of honor in the new Dominion. Remember that dishonesty and duplicity can never meet with more than a temporary success. Accept my thanks for all favors received at your hands. Good bye.

GEO. SHURTLEFF.

On Tuesday Miss Kyle's room was examined. Several parents and visitors were present, and were to all appearance exceedingly well pleased. Miss Kyle's classes showed careful training, as all the answers were readily given and correctly. At the close of the examination, Miss H. Burnham, on behalf of the pupils, read an address to Miss Kyle, and Miss McFarlane presented her a very handsome dressing-case. The following is the address:—

To Miss M. E Kyle, Teacher in the Senior Department of the Grammar and Union School, Peterboro.

DEAR AND RESPECTED TEACHER,—We, your pupils now attending your classes, having learned that you have concluded to sever your present connections with us as Teacher, and to remove from us, beg to express our affectionate regard for you, on account of your many kind acts, and our appreciation of your earnest endeavours for our advancement in useful learning. We find that those tender ties formed during the five years you have been our Teacher cannot be broken without strong emotions; feelings of affection on account of your many kind acts, and of regret on account of the loss we are about to sustain in your removal; but it affords us pleasure to know that your act is voluntary, and that there is nothing now to mar the harmony and good will that have always existed between us. We beg also to present you this trifling memento of our high and deserved esteem towards you, and of our remembrance of your devoted labours for our welfare, and also as a token of our desire to retain a place in your affections; but if ever it should bring to your memory the many acts of carelessness that have caused you trouble, we hope that you will attribute them to the thoughtlessness of youth rather than any desire to annoy.

We now bid you an affectionate farewell as Teacher. Though you are about to remove from us, our best wishes shall be with you, and we sincerely desire that your future may be peaceful, happy and prosperous.

H. BURNHAM.
T. McFARLANE.
L. SUTHERLAND.
B. ORMOND.
M. BOUCHER.
M. EDMUNDS.

Miss Kyle replied extempore in the most appropriate terms, expressing her thanks for such a token of their good will towards her. We regret that we took no notes of it.

Miss Kyle has occupied the position she now resigns for five years, and during that time has proved herself an efficient and energetic teacher, and now leaves with the best wishes of her pupils and all their parents.

Wednesday, Mr. McFall's Department, and also Miss Beatty's were examined. The girls of the fourth division showed themselves in advance of the boys in ready and correct answering, as far as we heard; but inasmuch as we did not hear the whole, it may be unfair to draw any comparison.—Several pupils will be promoted from each of these rooms.

To-day, Mr. Taylor's and Miss Borrowman's divisions will be examined.

Steamer Ogemah.

This steamer is again running daily trips between Lindsay and Bridgenorth.—The steamer leaves McGregors Hotel on the arrival of the train from Port Hope, Capt. Wallis and Mr. Turver, the Purser, will be glad to attend to all shipping and other business connected with the above steamer, and we understand that another steamer will be put on the route in a short time.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

THURSDAY—THIRD DAY.

The Council met. All the members present.

[illegible] Minutes of previous meeting were read and confirmed.

[illegible] Petitions were presented from [illegible] Mr. Dunlop, Mr. Carroll and Mr. Pearce.

[illegible] Report was adopted

FLAX GROWING.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.

If any Farmer desires to try an acre or two of Flax, I will furnish them with seed, and wait for the price of it until the delivery of the Flax. As I have established a Spinning Mill amongst you, I think it is for the duty of every Farmer to try an upright net made of flax, for a few years, as the fibre is a silk cloth. That only the best spring crop I will have facts to prove themselves, and will give you the names of a few Farmers who gave it last year to their entire satisfaction:—

R. Brown, Esq., Douro, 2½ acres, 7 tons $160 70
H. Reid, Esq., Douro, 2 acres, 1½ tons, 1,120 lbs. 40 81
C. Crowley, Esq., Douro, 1 acre, 2 tons 1,120 lbs. 40 81
J. Whiten, Esq., Smith, 2½ acres, 7½ tons 145 00
A. Scott, Esq., Smith 2 acres, 7 tons, 110 50
A. Hall, Esq., Smith, ½ of an acre, 2 tons 784 lbs. 47 27
T. Tully, Esq., Smith, 1 acre, 2 tons ... 39 00
Matt. Walton, Esq., Smith, 2 acres, 6 tons 560 lbs. 91 00
A. Rumbery, Esq., Smith, 1 bushel, 2 tons 560 lbs. 39 50
J. Hogan, Esq., Douro, 1 bushel, 2 tons 560 lbs. 46 50
O. McKeon, Esq., Otonabee, 2 bushels, 4 tons 1620 lbs. 92 80

There are a great many more I could give you the names of, but as these gentlemen are the most prominently known I refer to them only. In every other place in Canada where there has been a Scutching Mill established, the Farmers have come forward and willingly bound themselves to raise from 200 to 1000 tons for five years. If the crop will not pay, why do farmers in other places bind themselves to grow it? There was as high as one thousand tons grown in and about Streetsville last year. Let every farmer try an acre or two, until he tests his land how suitable it will be for growing it. I have given you references from all the townships around here; you see they have all done equally well. Another great advantage to some of the Farmers would be the early market they could make, for it is only necessary after pulling the flax to allow it to dry sufficiently before selling it, when they can realize money to assist them in harvesting their other crops.

For further particulars see circulars.

BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY
IN CANADA.

The following testimony from a well known and highly respected Merchant of Prescott, is corroborative of the general approval given to Dr. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY:

Prescott, C. W., Dec. 8th, 1859.

Messrs. S. W. Fowle & Co., Boston.

Gentlemen:—

Being solicited by your Travelling Agent, or an expression of opinion of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, I with pleasure assert that it is, in my belief, the best remedy before the public for coughs and pulmonary complaints.

Having tested the article with myself and family, in case of severe coughs and colds, for years, with uniform and unexceptionable success, I unhesitatingly recommend it, with full confidence in its merits.

Yours truly,
ALFRED HOOKER.

A New Discovery better than the
MADOC COLD.
Notice for a Cold—Relief in five Minutes

WHY do you suffer with a bad Cold when one bottle of Morris's Electric Invigorating Fluid will cure the worst cold in three days. It is far superior to any pain-killer or Liniment or Ready-relief. Try it once and you will not keep your house without it, for after all other remedies have failed it has cured hundreds of rheumatism, frost bites, chilblains, burns, scalds, bruises, sprains, pains in the bowels, fresh cuts, lame back, headache and all pains internal and external. Sold everywhere at 25 cents per bottle. Retail and wholesale only by R. MORRIS, Peterborough, C. W. Guaranteed to give satisfaction or the money refunded. Every one should have a bottle.

Peterboro', Jan. 30th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed with assistance from others, in fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who reside in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr. John Archer to try Dr. Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him great good, after all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid,

THAT THE
GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY
Of the Celebrated Indian, Dr. Lewis Josephine, of the Distinguished Tribe of Shoshoneez, British Columbia, is now for sale in Canada.

THIS all-possessing Great Indian Remedy is wanted, and in broad and emphatic language, we can safely say may be relied upon to make a permanent cure of all Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive Organs, &c., as well as Scrofula, the various Skin Diseases, Humors, and all diseases arising from impurity of the Blood, excepting the third stage of Consumption. In the Western Country where this Great Remedy has been in use for a short time, it has indeed effected some of the most Marvellous Cures, ever recorded in the annals of Historical Medicine. Each being the case, in addition to its former renown and celebrity, we defy humanity to dispute the fact, that this, the Great Shoshoneez Remedy, in connection with the Shoshoneez Vegetable Restorative Pills, is the Remedy of Remedies of the 19th Century, and the great gift boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

CANCERS CURED!

By a new, but certain, speedy, and nearly painless process, and

WITHOUT THE USE OF THE KNIFE.

THE cure will be guaranteed, and, as a proof of this, no pay is required, until the cure is complete. The moment a cancer is diagnosed, it should be cured, as it will soon eat and is more speedily cured then when of longer standing, and there is nothing to gain, and everything to lose by delay. What now seems a harmless pimple the breast, neck, eye-lid or elsewhere, or small wart or sore on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, disgusting, destroyer and cause of death. If neglected, referred cases can be given to parties who have been cured many years since, and who are now sound and healthy. All communications promptly answered. No money required in advance, and none until the cure is complete.

AYER'S
CATHARTIC PILLS.

Are you sick, bilious, and ailing? Ask your self or physician what is the cause of your disease, and you will find, in nine cases out of ten, that it arises from a disordered condition of the digestive organs. Some derangement of these vital organs is the primal cause of half the diseases that afflict mankind. While in this condition, no power in medicine can drive them out of the system, and with it the promise of health again. What is true and so apparent in this trivial and common complaint, is also true in many of the more grave and dangerous diseases. The same principle should guide them. Cleansed by the occasional use of such comparatively mild purgatives as these Pills, with regulated abstinence from unwholesome food, they are restored, and many of those unruly, cured by the same means. Those who know the virtues of these Pills, will exploit to employ them when suffering from the disorders they cure.

Sufferers from Bilious physicians in some of the principal cities, and from other and distant points purchase.

From a Physician Merchant of St. Louis, Feb. 4, 1866.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the purgative of all that is great in medicine. They have saved my family a world of misery upon our hands and feet that had proved intolerable for years. Our mother has been long accustomed to the blessings and promises of her sons and to the best. After our child was cured, she also took your Pills, and they have cured her.

ALEX. MCKNIGHT.

As a Family Physic.

From Dr. E. W. Cartwright, New Orleans.

Your Pills are the prince of purges. Their excellent qualities recommend they authority the people. They are mild, but very certain and effectual in their action on the bowels and system, and are invaluable to us in the daily treatment of disease.

Headache, Sick Headache, Foul Stomach.

From Dr. Edward Hoyt, Baltimore.

DEAR DR. AYER: I cannot answer your kind complaints. I have cured with your Pills better than to say all but on one head with a proprietor medicine. I place great dependence on an effectual cathartic in my daily contact with patients, and tolerant as I do that your Pills afford us the help we have, I of course value them highly.

PETERSBURG, Va., May 1, 1866.

DR. J. C. AYER. Sir: I have been repeatedly cured of the worst headache, my body can have by a dose or two of your Pills. It seems to relax from a bad stomach, which they cleanse of cause.

Yours with great respect, ED. W. PEEBLES, Clerk of Hustings Court, Petersburg.

Bilious Disorders—Liver Complaints.

From Dr. Thornley Bell, of New York City.

Not only are your Pills admirably adapted to their purposes as an experimentalist I find their combined effect upon the Liver very marked indeed. They have in my practice proved more efficient for the cure of Liver complaints than any one remedy I can mention. I accordingly value them very highly as a purgative which in worthy the confidence of the profession and the people.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, }
Washington, D. C., 7th Feb., 1866. }

SIR: I have used your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best cathartic we employ. Their regulating action on the liver is quick and decided, consequently they are an admirable remedy for derangements of that organ. Indeed, I have seldom found a case of bilious disease to obstinate that it did not readily yield to them. Sincerely yours, ALEX. B. BALL, M. D., Physician of the Marine Hospital.

Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Colics, Worms.

From Dr. J. S. Green, of Chicago.

Your Pills have had a long trial in my practice, and I hold them in esteem as one of the best purgatives I have ever found. Their alterative effect made the liver make them an excellent remedy, when given in small doses for bilious dysentery and diarrhœa. Their sugar coating makes them very acceptable and convenient for the use of women and children.

Dyspepsia, Impurity of the Blood.

From Rev. J. T. Hinds, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston.

DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I am called to visit in distress. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood, they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. T. HINDS.

WILSON, Wyoming Co., N. Y., Oct. 24, 1865.

DEAR SIR: I am using your CATHARTIC PILLS in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the blood.

JOHN U. MEACHAM, M. D.

Constipation, Costiveness, Suppression; Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Dropsy, Paralysis, Piles, etc.

From Dr. J. P. Vaughn, Montreal, Canada.

Too much cannot be said of your Pills for the cure of costiveness. If others of our fraternity have found them as effectual as I have, they should join me in proclaiming it far the benefit of the multitudes who suffer from that exceptional, which, although bad enough in itself, is the precursor of others that are worse. I believe sincerely in antidote in the Pill, but your Pills affect that organ and cure the disease.

From Mrs. H. Stuart, Physician and Midwife, Bath.

I find one or two large doses of your Pills taken at the proper time, are excellent purifiers of the natural secretions when wholly or partially suppressed, and also very effectual to cleanse the stomach and expel worms. They are so much the best physic we have that I recommend no other to my patients.

From the Rev. Dr. Stockton, of the Methodist Epis. Church.

PULASKI HOUSE, Savannah, Ga., Jan. 6, 1866.

HONORED SIR: I should be unmerciful for the relief your skill has brought me if I did not report my case to you. A cold settled in my limbs and brought on rheumatic pains, which ended in chronic rheumatism. Nothing internal or I had the best of physicians (the doctors grew worse and were paid) by the advice of your excellent agent in Baltimore, Dr. Machenche, I tried your Pills. Their effects were slow, but sure. By perseverance in the use of them, I am now entirely well.

EDWARD CHAMPION, Baton Rouge, La., 8 Dec. 1866.

DR. AYER: I have been entirely cured, by your Pills, of Rheumatic Gout—a painful disease that has afflicted me for years. VINCENT SLIDELL.

☞ Most of the Pills in market contain Mercury, which, although a valuable remedy in skilful hands, is dangerous in a public pill, from the dreadful consequences that frequently fall or its incautious use. These contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.

Price, 25 cents per Box, or 5 Boxes for $1.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Sold in Peterboro by Ormond & Gilmour, A. W. Kempt, and Wm. Coulter. In Keene by A. Campbell, Campbell McNeil & Co., C. Britton, Lindsay, and all Medicine Dealers.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF CONSUMPTION
BY THE
GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY
IN CANADA.

MESSRS. V. & C.—GENTLEMEN:—I Wilson Storms, of Brighton, C. W., make oath and say—and feel anxious to let you know what the Great Shoshonees Remedy has effected for me. My wife was afflicted with consumption and died; I was also afflicted with the same disease, and after her death I continued sinking just as she had done. I had very severe night sweats; coughed nearly all night and every night I could not sleep unless a little towards morning. I raised over a quart of matter every 24 hours; had severe pain in the left lung, &c., &c., and was greatly debilitated. In fact I was going as fast as I could. I was taking medicine from a regular physician, but it did not even relieve my cough. I went to the village one day about a quarter of a mile, which took me to go and come about two hours.—While there I saw Esq. Wellington, and happened to say to him, "I wish you could give me something to relieve me enough" He said "There is the Great Indian Remedy just introduced by Dr. Barker has it for sale, and I believe it will cure you." I took his advice, and brought a bottle home with me; took a tablespoonful at once which I felt through my whole system; at night I took a tablespoonful, and rested well all night, and continued to rest well every night. The Cough, Night Sweats, raising of matter, pain in the Lung, &c., gradually left me, and I at hearty and strong. I took only three bottles. I am not taking it now, and I am as hearty and as well as ever I was in my life. My sister-in-law was with me for a while, who was troubled with the Liver Complaint. She has taken the remedy, and is well. This certificate you may show to the world if you please.

Poetry.

HOME CHANGES.

You ask of that snowy home of ours,
Where our young days sped so gladly,
You ask of that home, its birds and flowers,
Alas! it is stayed sadly.
Our home has passed to a stranger's hand,
And we who loved it are parted;
You perishing heath in a summer land,
And I looking heath-hearted.

The apple-tree where we used to wait,
And watch while the boys played cricket;
The linden tree by the meadow gate,
And the rose o'er the garden wicket;
The mountain ash and the willow green
Whose branches drooped to the river,—
Are all cut down and new hands have changed
The dear old home-look for ever.

And worst of all, in the garden seat
Where we worked for hours together,
Where rosy blossoms used to greet
Our eyes in the sweet spring weather,
The walls of a factory darkly frown,
And its whirr and crash and ringing,
The noise of the loom and spindle, drown
The voice of the blackbird singing.

The large green field where we used to play
And the hawthorn hedge that bounded it,
The brook where we fished on a summer day
And the reeds and flowers around it;
The group of elms, the old barn a stone wall,
And the strip of tangled wildwood,
Cold careless hands have borne them all
From the home of our happy childhood.

I sought the old place in each hallowed spot,
For the dear things memory cherished;
I wept like a child when I found them not,
And the grave of our dear home perished!
Fresh homes may weave us as firm a spell,
Fresh ties may grow pure and stronger;
But the dear old home we loved so well
May be home of ours no longer.

Selections.

MY SISTER KATE.

BY ANDREW PICKEN.

There is a fine road (but it is not much frequented, for it is terribly round about) that passes at the foot of the range of hills that skirt the long and beautiful gut or Firth of the Clyde, in the west of Scotland; and as you go along this road, either up or down, the sea or Firth is almost at your very side, the hills rising above you; and you are just opposite to the great black and blue mountains on the other side of the gut that sweep in heavy masses, or jut out in bold capes, at the mouth of the deep lochs that run from the Firth into the picturesque highlands of Argyleshire.

There is a little village exactly opposite to you, looking across the Firth, which is called Kirnea, and contains the burying-place of the great House of Argyle; and which, surrounded by a patch of green cultivated land, sloping pleasantly from the sea, and cowering snugly by itself, with its picturesque cemetry, under the great blue hills frowning behind, looks, from across the Firth, absolutely like a tasteful little haunt of capricious spirit of romance.

Well, between this road on the lowland side of the Firth, and the water's edge, and before it winds off round by the romantic seat of Sir Michael Shaw Stewart, further up, there stands, or stood, three small fishing cottages, which from the hills nearly over them, from which General Bruhane used to look after the stars, or from the sea as you sailed past, looked just like white shells, of a large size, dropped fancifully down upon the green common between the hills and the road. In these cottages, it was observed, the fishermen had numerous families, who, while young, assisted them in their healthful employment; and that the girls, of which there was a number, were so wild in their contented seclusion, that if any passenger on the road stopped to observe them, as they sat in groups on the green, mending their father's nets, they would take alarm and like roe run off like fawns, and hide among the rocks by the sea, or trip back into the cottages.—Now it happened, once on a time, that a great event took place to one of the cottager's daughters, which for a long period deranged, and almost destroyed, the happy equality in which they had hitherto lived; and becoming the theme of discourse and enquiry concerning things beyond the sphere of the fisher people and all their neighbors, as far as Gourock, introduced among them no small degree of ambition and discontent.

There was one of the fishermen, a remarkably decent, well-disposed Highlandman, from the opposite shore of Argyleshire, named Martin M'Leod, and he had two daughters, the youngest of which, as was no uncommon case, turned out to be remarkably neat, and even delicately beautiful.

But a body ever saw or thought anything about the beauty of Catherine M'Leod, except it might be some of the growing young men in the neighbouring cottages, several of whom began, at times, to look at her with a sort of wonder, and seemed to feel a degree of awe in her company; while her father took an involuntary pride in her beyond all the others; and her eldest sister somehow imitated her in every thing, and continually quoted her talk, and trumpeted about among the neighbours what was said and done by "my sister Kate."

Things continued in this way as Kate grew to womanhood; and she was the liveliest little body about the place, and used to sing so divertingly at the house-end, as she busied herself about her father's fishing gear, and ran up and down "among the brokers o' the brae," behind the cottages, or took her wanderings off all the way to the Clough light-house at the point; or she would skip on the yellow sands of the sea, beyond her father's boat, when the tide was low, as she used to say, just like a water-wagtail; so that she was allowed to be no worry as she was pretty, and put every one in a good humour that looked at her. I say things continued in this way until a gentleman, who, it turned out, was all the way from London, came to lodge in Greenock, or Gourock or Innerkip, or some where not very far distant; and being a gentleman, and, of course, at liberty to do every sort of out of the way thing that happened, he got a manner of coming down and wandering among the cottages, and asking questions concerning whatever he chose of the fishermen; and then it was not long until he got his eyes upon Kate.

"The gentleman" as he sister used to tell afterwards, "was perfectly ill and smitten at once about our Kate. He was not able, she would say, to take the least rest, but was down constantly about us for weeks; and then he got to taking to and walking with Kate, she linking her arm in his beneath the hill, just as it had been Sir Michael Stewart and my lady; and then such presents as he used to bring for her, brought in the grand coach of Bodin Macnicol, at Greenock; gowns and shawls, and veils, and fine chip hats, never speaking of ribbons an' lace edging, an' moe caps—perfect beautiful.

The whole of the fishermen's other daughters became mad with envy of poor Kate, and admiration of her new dress, which some said was mostly bought by her father, after all, who wanted to have his daughter made a lady of, and now nothing was heard in the hamlet but mermurings and discontented complaints: every gut looking at herself in the little cracked glass, that her father used to shave by, to see if she were pretty, and wishing and longing, not only for a lover of her own, but even for a gentleman. So, as matters grew serious, and the gentleman was fairly in love, old Martin M'Leod, who looked sharply after Kate, believed to have many conversations with the gentleman about her; and masters being appointed to teach her various things, which the fisher people never heard of, but which were to turn her into a lady. Kate and the gentleman, after a time, were actually married, in Greenock new church, and set off for London, or some other grand place, to live where the king and all the great people lived, and to drink wine and wheel about in a carriage for ever more.

During all this time, there were various opinions among the fisher people, how that Kate never was particularly in love with the gentleman; and some even said she was in love with some body else (for pretty maidens must always be in love), or at least, that some of the youths of the neighbourhood were in love with her; but then the old folks said that love was only for gentle-people who could afford to pay for it; and that when a gentleman was pleased to fall in love, he was had the right to say him nay, or pretend to set up against him. Some of the young women to be sure, ventured to contest this doctrine, and cited various cases from the authority of printed ballads bought at the Greenock fair, at a halfpenny each; and also from the traditionary literature of Argyleshire, which was conched in the multifarious numbers of the Gaelic language; but, however this might be, the fame of Catherine M'Leod's happy marriage and great fortune, was noised abroad, exceedingly, among the fisher people throughout those coasts, as well as about Gourock and all the parts a great.

As to the gentleman, it was found out that his name was Mr Pountney, and that little Kate M'Leod was now Mrs. Pountney, and a great London lady; but what quality of a gentleman Mr. Pountney really was, was a matter of much controversy and discussion. Some said that he was a great gentleman, and others thought that, from various symptoms, he was not a very great great gentleman; some went so far as to say he was a lord or a prince, while others maintained that he was only a simple esquire, although he might be turned into a belted knight, or baronet, like Sir Michael who lived in the neighbourhood, which the king could make him, any day he chose, by knocking him down with a sword; for it was part of the king's business to make knights and lords, and that was the way he did it. But as the fisher people, among whom Kate had been reared, did not understand what a knight meant, nor anything of these high matters; and from the rising ambition of fisher girls, to get gentlemen as well as Kate, were much occupied in discussions about the quality of her and her husband; her elder sister, Flora, was constantly appealed to, and drawn out whenever she went upon this interesting subject.

Nothing, therefore, could be talked of any place that Flora M'Leod went, but about "my sister Kate;" and she was quite in request everywhere because she could talk of the romantic history and happy fortune of her lucky sister. Mrs. Pountney's house in London, therefore, Mrs. Pountney's grand husband, and Mrs. Pountney's coach, excited the admiration and discontent of all the fishermen's daughters for many miles round this romantic sea-coast and these quiet cottages under the hills, where the simple people lived upon their fish and did not know that they were happy. Many a long summer's day, as the girls sat mending their nets on a knoll towards the sea, the sun that shone warm upon their indolent limbs on the grass, and the breeze that blew from the Firth, or swept round from the flowery woods of Ardgowan, seemed less grateful and delicious, from their discontented imaginings about the fortune of Mrs. Pountney; and many a sweet and wholesome supper of fresh boiled fish was made to lose its former relish, or was even embittered by obtrusive discourse about the fine wines and the gilded grandeur of "my sister Kate." Even the fisher lads in the neighbourhood, fine fearless youths, found a total alteration in their sweethearts; their discourse was not relished, their persons were almost despised; and there was now no happiness found for a fisherman's daughter, but what was at least to approach to the state of grandeur and felicity so forth nately obtained by "my sister Kate."

The minds of Kate's family were so carried by her great fortune, that rayon wishes and discontented repinings followed their constant meditations upon her lucky lot.—Flora had found herself above marrying a fisherman; and a young fellow, called Bryce Cameron, who had long wanted for her, and whose brother, Allan, was once a sweetheart of Kate's herself, being long ago discarded; and she not perceiving any chances of a gentleman making his appearance to take Bryce's place, became melancholy and thoughtful; she began to fear that she was to have nobody, and her thoughts ran constantly after London and Mrs. Pountney. With these anxious wishes, vague hopes began to suit of some lucky turn to her own fortune, if she were only in the way of getting to be a lady; and at length she formed the high wish, and even the adventurous resolve, of going all the way to London, just to get one peep at her sister's happiness.

When this ambition seized Flora M'Leod, she let the old people have no rest, nor did she spare any assertion to get the means of making her proposed pilgrimage to London. In the course of a fortnight from its first serious suggestion, she, with a gold guinea in her pocket, and two one pound notes of the Greenock bank, besides other coins and valuables, and even a little old-fashioned Highland brooch, with which the quondam lover of her sister, Allan Cameron, had the temerity to entrust her; to be specially returned into the hands of the great lady when she should see her, besides a hearty other charges and remembrances from the neighbours she set off one dewy morning in summer, carrying her shoes and stockings in her hand, to make her way to London, to get a sight of everything great and particularly of her happy sister Kate.

Many a weary mile did Flora M'Leod walk, and ride, and sail through unknown places, and in what she called foreign parts; for strange things and people met her eye, and long dull regions of country passed her like a rapid vision, as she was wheeled towards the great capital and proper centre of England. After travelling to a distance that was to her perfectly amazing, she was set down in London, and inquired her way in the best English she could command, into one of those long brick streets, of dark and dull gentility, to which she was directed; and after much trouble and some expense, at length found the door of her sister's house. She stood awhile considering, on the steps of the mansion, and felt a sort of fear of lifting the big iron knocker that was used to grin down upon her; for she was not a little but of knocking at great folks' doors, and almost trembled lest somebody from within would frown her into nothing, even by their high and lofty looks.

And yet she thought the house was not so dreadfully grand after all;—not at all such as she had imagined for she had passed houses much bigger and grander than this great gentleman's; it was not even the largest in its own street, and looked dull and dingy, and shut up with blinds and rails, having a sort of melancholy appearance. At least it was not at all equal the thought, to many of the white stone villas by the Firth of Clyde, that sat so proudly on the hill face, opposite the sea, near her father's cottage, with their doors wide open to receive the summer air or welcome the passing traveller, and their windows gleaming in the evening sunshine, before it dipped behind the mountains of Argyleshire.

It was strange that reflections about home, and so enhancing of its value, should pass through her mind at the very door where lived her envied sister in London! but she must not linger, but see what was inside. She lifted up the iron knocker, and as it fell the very clang of it, and its echo inside, smote upon her heart with a sensation of strange apprehension. A powdered man opened it, and stared at her with an inquisitive impertinent look, then saucily asked what she wanted. Flora courtesied low to the servant from perfect terror, saying she wanted to see Mrs. Pountney.

"And what can you want with Mrs. Pountney, young woman, I should like to know?" said the fellow; for Flora perhaps looked like a milliner's woman, nor any sort of useful person likely to be wanted by a lady.

Flora had laid various pretty little plans in her own mind, about taking her sister by surprise, and seeing how she would look at her before she spoke, and so forth; at least she had resolved not to affront her, by making herself known as her sister before the servants, but the man looked at her with such suspicion, and spoke so insolent, that she absolutely began to fear from the interrogations of this fellow, that she would be refused admittance to her own sister, and was forced to explain and reveal herself, before the outer door was fully opened to her. At length she was conducted, on tip-toe, along a passage, and then up stairs, until she was placed in a little back dressing-room. The servant, then went into the drawing-room, where sat two ladies at opposite sides of the apartment, there to announce Flora's message.

On a sofa near the window sat a neat youthful figure, extremely elegantly formed, but petite, with a face that need not be described, further than the features were small and pretty, and that as a whole, it was rich in the nameless expression of simple beauty. Her dress could not have been plainer, to be of silk of the best sort; but the languid discontent, if not melancholy, with which the female, yet quite in youth, gazed towards the window, or bent over a little silk netting with which she carelessly employed herself, seemed to any observer strange and unnatural at her time of life. At a table near the fire was seated a woman, almost the perfect contrast of this interesting figure, in the person of Mr. Pountney's eldest sister, a hard-faced, business-like person, who, with pen and ink before her, seemed busy with a parcel of household accounts, and the characteristic accompaniment of a bunch of keys occasionally rattling at her elbow.

A cynical journalist says the reason so many marriages occur immediately after a great war is that butchers become so accustomed to see so that they learn to like it, and after they return in peace they cannot resist any as the next thing to woo.

It is a remarkable fact, to tell a man that he isn't half so big a fool as the world takes him.

THE MOON.

The astronomers are being moon-struck; they were never before paying so much attention to the "man in the moon" as now. The Royal Astronomical Society of Great Britain have appointed a committee of its members, to each one of which is assigned a section of the moon's surface, which he is to study every fair night, and report upon all changes observed. Dr. Schmidt, at Athens, has announced that the researches, are still in active operation. It has been thought by some that the moon was a defunct globe, that its fires had gone out, and it had become a frozen, barren mass, wanting only the final conflagration. Dr. Schmidt has noticed the action of the crater Linne, which is familiar to lunar observers. This, like other craters in the moon, as to its depth, together with the height of the mountains, has been measured. Two thousand of these mountains, have been counted, averaging higher than the Alps in Europe. Thirty-nine of them would overtop Mont Blanc. The craters are very much larger than any of those on our earth, some of them having a diameter of more than a hundred miles, and depth of two or three miles. In the early part of the year, as he was looking at Linne, Dr. Schmidt was surprised to find that it no longer presented a crater-like appearance. The familiar black shadow thrown by the lofty and ragged edge into the circumscribed hole beneath was not visible, but instead the crater disclosed the smooth, bright surface of the flat portions of the moon. The same remarkable phenomenon was observed soon after by Father Secchi, at Rome, and Mr. Birt, of England, and explained by all of them upon the hypothesis that Linne has indulged in an eruption and filled up its crater, about five miles wide, to the brim with lava. Later observations have brought to light a black point in the centre of the site of the old, which proves to be a mountain about two thousand feet high. These phenomena prove quite conclusively that the lunar volcanoes are not yet extinct. The close watch now kept of the moon may disclose other facts that will interest us, concerning the world nearest to us.

The court physician, Dr. Warren, Annie Regina was courtly, skilful, and witty. It was to him that Lady Spencer remarked how bitter must be the reflection of medical men when they thought of a patient who would not have died but for the medical treatment. "Nay, my lady," said the doctor, gaily, "there is a great balance of satisfaction; I have put to save you forty times before I kill you once."

A sea captain being at a ball, had been accepted by a beautiful partner, who, in the most delicate manner possible, hinted to him the propriety of putting on a pair of gloves "Oh," was the elegant reply, "never mind me ma'am, I will wash my hands when I've done dancing.

COALITION FAVOURS.

Last Friday's Globe contains a round dozen appointments of Queen's Counsel for Canada West, and of the dozen there is not one reformer. Mr. Dalton McCarthy, the unflinching opponent of Confederation, and the unscrupulous defender of the McDonald-Cartier Ministry at the late Reform Convention, is left out in the cold, while Mr. John A. Macdonald's Administration delights to honor the lucrative purgers of the Reform party. Robert Baldwin, Esq., Reform candidate for the City of Toronto, is passed over, and Mr. Richards, Mr. Hagarty, Mr. Boulton, and Mr. Harrison, Conservative candidates for the same city, are all honored with the new rank. Mr. Mowat, Reform candidate for Oxford, is passed over, and Mr. Gowan, Conservative candidate for the same county, is honored. Mr. Fergusson Blair, Reform candidate for Waterloo, is passed over, and Mr. Hespeler, Conservative candidate for the same county, is honored. Mr. Scott, Reform candidate for Ottawa City, is passed over, and Mr. Bell, Conservative candidate for the same city, is honored. Mr. Cameron, Reform candidate for Victoria, is passed over, and Mr. Read, Conservative candidate for the same county, is honored. In this to be measured as an exact measure of the influence of the parties fostered by the Coalition? Verily, no. Talent was itself offered at the notion that his name is held to balance its weight into dyed-in-the-wool Tories, and the Hon. A. J. Ferguson Blair to boot. But, however ingenious the estimate may be, the result, in these appointments, is bright proof of any disposition on the part of the Ministry to apportion the honors in its gift impartially. One would have supposed that just at this time, when Coalition is bidding for Reform support, the Cabinet would have an appearance of liberality and fairness up the duty section of patronage. It might have been expected that a few Reformers would have been appointed as between the Tory, Mr. Cayley, for adopting the Coalition, and Mr. Read, as proof that the so-called Coalition was not wholly Tory.

We would not have wished it otherwise. We have long since learned that however ready Conservatives may be to accept the assistance of renegades from the Reform ranks, or even to buy a few Judasses when desirous to make a tour of loan; or bribe of gaining office, they are at least true to their principles in keeping the honours and emoluments of government as much as possible within the ranks of their own party. We recommend a careful study of this list to Messrs. McDougall and Howland, and to the two or three Reform candidates for Parliament, who are said to be wavering between adherence to principle and the allurements held out by the Coalition.—Globe.

LONDON, July 1st, evening.—In the House of Commons this evening, Lord Stanley, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, stated that his Government was making slow progress in its negotiations with the Government of the United States in regard to the Alabama claims; but he did not despair of achieving a happy result. The Foreign Office would soon lay before the House all the documents and correspondence in the case. A large number of English claims against the United States had been lyted.

VIENNA, July 2.—Baron Von Beust has received the appointment of Chancellor of the Austrian Empire, an office formerly held by Prince Metternich.

GLASGOW, July 1.—The steamer United Kingdom, from New York on the 15th ult., has arrived.

PARIS, July 1.—The American Commissioner, Mr. Beckwith, has been made an officer of the Legion of Honour.

PARIS, July 1:—At the distribution of prizes to-day, the Emperor Napoleon and suite were accompanied by the Sultan of Turkey and suite, in six splendid carriages, each drawn by six horses. When the ceremony ceremonies were concluded, the Emperor rose and said:—

"France is proud to be great, prosperous and free; yet she is not unmoved by her material joys. The thoughtful can see the national forces vibrate for the honor of France; but her noble susceptibility should not create fear for the world's repose, as we here prove our anxiety for peace."

He closed his speech by saying:—"This exposition marks an era of harmony and progress, and the triumph of grand moral principles, which with justice can alone establish thrones and ennoble humanity."

Great enthusiasm followed the Emperor's speech. The cries of Vive Napoleon! Vive l'Empereur! continued some minutes.

When the excitement had subsided, the Imperial Commission proceeded to announce the distribution of prizes. At the conclusion of the ceremony, the Emperor and Sultan returned to the Tuileries.

DUBLIN, July 2.—Secret drilling is still kept up by Fenians in various parts of the Island. A large number of men were recently discovered near Wicklow, engaged in practising military manœuvering, and several of them were arrested.

TERRIBLE RAVAGES OF THE YELLOW FEVER IN MAURITIUS.—A private letter from Mauritius, dated May 6, thus describes the ravages of the yellow fever in that colony:—"I write to fulfill my promise and let you know that I am still living, although God only knows how long such may be the case. I am writing from the city of the dead. You will see that 40,000 persons have been carried off last month, the average in town being 200 per day. Every engine driver that I have had at Port Louis has been, or is at the present moment, ill with the accursed fever. I have this morning 712 in a short time the same. A batch of doctors from India is expected next week, but the ravage before then may be fearful. I was struck down again with a very severe attack on the 22nd of April, making the third time. The attacks are sudden. I was taken ill in a moment in my office, and had to be carried to a carriage. In four days I was off my bed again, but I cannot disguise the fact that these attacks, regular every 15th day, weaken me. To-day is the time for the fourth attack. No person appears to be free."

A FIOUS FRAUD.—A Constantinople journal says: "That the Pasha-el-islam has issued a fetfa (religious decree), which declares that the Sultan may go to Paris, but to reconcile that declaration with the letter of the Coran, which assigns to the ruler of the faithful whatever country he sets his foot on, recourse will be had to a certain legal fiction, in virtue of which the soil of France will be considered as Ottoman territory during the whole time that the Sultan shall abide there, but with the reservation of subsequently making a restoration of the country to the Emperor of the French."

THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNORS.—The Morning Journal announces that pending the appointment of Lieutenant-Governors, the following gentlemen will be provisional Lieutenant-Governors:—Gen. Stisted, for Ontario; Gen. Michel, for Quebec; Gen. Williams, for Nova Scotia; Gen. Doyle, for New Brunswick.

It is announced that an International Peace Congress will take place at Geneva on the 9th of September next. The programme has been drawn up, and several persons have formally associated themselves with the project.

THURSDAY, JULY 4, 1867.

POLITICAL.

The news from the East riding is rather meagre this week. Our friends, Capt. Sutherland and Mr. Anderson are still confident of success. Mr. Anderson, we may safely say, will run for the Commons and in consequence Mr. Sutherland for the Legislature of Ontario. Mr. George Read, of Otonabee, is also a candidate for Legislative honors, on the Tory ticket. We pre-mise, but under the "No party" guise. He is going to oppose Mr. Sutherland, but to all appearance with slender hope of success. There is still an idea that Peter Pearce will be a candidate for the Legislature of Ontario also, and hence the Eastern section will have candidates enough in the field. But why do they bring out Mr. Read? Mr. Pearce was, to all intents, in the field before Mr. Read. Is there division in the camp? One thing is certain, they hardly know what to do.

Mr. Grover is still spoken of by his friends but dame rumour has it that he will not move. If he was very anxious for a contest he might do as others do, viz: bring himself out. We would again remind Reformers that they must need be on their guard, and not make hasty promises. There is also a rumour that money is to be spent to ensure the election of Sir J. A. and his clique. We know that nothing that can be done will be left undone, in order to retain power and emolument a while longer. But let the Reformers of the East join heart and hand, and the victory of right will be sure.

In the West Mr. Perry brings himself out, —no one wants, every one eschews him. He goes on his own book. Reports, however, has it that already Mr. Perry has received the means to carry on his election. He is too good a fish not to be taken with a Tory bait. But what on earth will he go to the Commons of Canada to do? To lounge round the corners and hotels of Ottawa, and allow others to work, if he but gets the pay. Well really, if the free and independent electors of this Riding return Mr. Perry, they must be more gullible than we ever gave them credit for. Well perhaps it amounts to this, no other man will run the risk of dealing himself by coming in contact with Sir J. A., McDougall, Blair Galt, and Howland. There is no opposition to him yet; we do not know what a day may bring forth.

Mr. Carnegie is also in the field, and there is a wing of white-pine Tories who are trying to get Mr. A. H. Campbell to represent pine at Toronto; they are urging Mr. C. to come forward and oppose Mr. Carnegie. So far there is Mr. Watson, Reformer, in the field, and Mr. Carnegie, a Tory, likely to oppose him, and Mr. Campbell to oppose both, if pine is strong enough. Mr. Campbell is reticent, says nothing that can be caught by the other trees, so that, as yet, we cannot say that he will be a candidate. He will have more support than Mr. Perry, for one man will bring him out if possible.

Reformers in the west should be aware of the tricks of the "no-party" men, and keep aloof entirely from them; they will contaminate, and better to have nothing to do with them. If Reformers are satisfied to allow Mr. Perry to walk the course, as far as they are concerned, let him walk alone. Let them have nothing to do with bringing out a Tory. Of course, of two Tories we may prefer one to the other, and may vote for one of them, if we have no man of our own in the field; but let us have nothing to do in bringing them out, and much less in supporting them.

On Thursday last the Marmora Railway was opened, not formally, by an excursion train passing over it. The company had invited members of the County Council, the Mayor and Town Council, and the Council of Ashburnham to go and see the iron laid. This a great many accepted, and having enjoyed a sail on Rice Lake and the Trent, then a run over the new road nine miles in length, saw the rights, enjoyed the hospitality of the company by partaking of a lunch provided for them; they returned home highly pleased with the trip, the company, everybody, and we trust, with themselves also.

We regret to learn, however, that every thing did not go equally well with those who went from Otonabee. On the way from Harwood, some cattle were on the track and being in the night, the train was thrown off. The locomotive was dashed down an embankment of several feet and most up, but fortunately no one was hurt. This was the only thing that happened to mar the day's pleasure; and there is cause for thankfulness that no one was killed or injured. The train will be repaired in a few days.

The Reform Convention of 1867.

The great body of Reformers, who have long looked for the rights of the people and the purification of Canada, held a meeting in the Music Hall, Toronto, on Tuesday and Wednesday last, in Toronto. They came over one thousand strong from the various Counties and Boroughs in the Province. Thoughtful, representative men of the different localities whence they came, met together specially, something like a month previous notice of the approaching elections, and we are sure that their action at this moment will have a powerful effect on the country. The Hall in Toronto, it is said, could not contain half of many of the enthusiastic reformers, men who have wrought for the party for a life time, who were determined to pursue the wrong to go on rather than be guilty of treachery. Great excitement. There will now be a thorough purification of the Reform party, and a determination to do battle for the liberties of the New Dominion.

We heard that misgovernment and waste of public money, together with being found hand and foot by Lower Canada, proof of the subjection of Upper Canada having sold themselves body and soul to work iniquity, caused the very Act Confederation, in order to get rid of these sickness and corruption.—The Confederation then spoken of is now a fact. But Mr. Dorion, the power and brain are still at the head of it. The renegades McDougall, Howland and Blair, having deserted to them. The matter for elections now sought that Mr. Dorion, Mr. Holton, Mr. Young, Mr. Mackenzie, Mr. Cartier, Mr. Galt, Mr. Langevin, and Mr. Macdonald, of Toronto, should be returned to the Commons, to put a stop to the increasing artifice and waste of public money kept themselves in power; still the honest sincere Reformers of the country thinking that the Confederation was the only means to put a stop to the corruption of the party in power, and we are mistaken if the honest, youngest of Ontario to Gaspé, will not say to them, we must even swallow our bile. The Convention will do much to hasten this much desired object. The traitors, McDougall, Howland and Blair, who left Toronto at the time holding a Convention at which thirteen were present, who had invited to the great convention. They there endeavored to palliate their crime but to no effect. They are guilty of betraying their party, and their party will hold them guilty. It is very doubtful whether they will get a place for the soles of their feet at the coming elections. They deserve the full opinion of all honest, complete defeat, and they will get it, we hope.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

Owing to press of matter we were unable to refer at any length to the proceedings of the County Council. This was a very important session, a great deal of business was transacted, and interests that required calm consideration. There was first the erection of a House of Refuge; this it was found on one obstruction, could not be gone on with now, and hence the committee thereon were instructed to make further enquiry, or to do what they deemed right toward obtaining a suitable site, and to report at next session of the Council. This, however, is likely to be left for the Council of next year. It must be done next year; there can be no longer delay. It is sought now by the Town Council to unite with the County Council in the work, and thereby save the expense of building two houses, for if the County does the work alone, the town can have no part or lot in the matter. This so far is wise, but there still be eternal bickerings between the two Councils, about the management, just as there is now over every settlement of accounts and claims. Would it not therefore be wise to seek a re-union of the Town and County for Municipal purposes. The Town would then be represented in the County Council, every thing would be done according to assessed value of both and certainly this would be just and right.

During the session too, the subject of Grammar School equivalent was discussed, and one or two of the Council demurred to paying the whole amount, while the Town paid nothing towards the Grammar School. Now a union would remove this also by making every municipality pay its share and no more. There is not a road built but the Town is asked to do one half. Every boundary at or near the town that the county gives money to repair, has always the saving clause, if the Town shall do one half, or if the Town shall give as much.—Union would do away with the also. Now we do not say, that the Town should get off, it should do its share, and if it was represented in the County Council so more would be sought.

Gravel Roads also occupied the attention of the Council, and we may justly say that each Reeve and Deputy Reeve, sought and obtained for his township all he could hope for, indeed we might say more. Mr. Young got the boundary line between North and South Monaghan formed into a Statute Labor beat which had not been before. He also obtained a grant for the boundary from Scott's Corners to the 4th line of Smith. In the County of Victoria would do as much; and the 11th concession line and Keene were added to the list of Roads to be gravelled at his request. All the Reeves wrought equally hard to obtain the best for their townships respectively, but the whole scheme has to be submitted to the Rate-payers; if they endorse it, it will be carried out, if they do not it will fall to the ground.

Roads are required and it is hoped that Farmers feel this and will do their utmost to obtain them, so that now in their old years they will not have, to endure the horrible rocking and shaking of bad roads, when they have it in their power to remedy such things.

The Equalising of the Assessment Rolls was also a work of some magnitude. This is one of the most difficult labours of the session, owing to the discrepancy in the work of Assessors, and also owing to the indifference in the value of lands in the different municipalities. Messrs. Burnett and Peck, laboured hard at this portion of the work, and successfully in some degree, still there are some little grievances that may be remedied next year. In fact it is only after years of experience that a member of the Council can get into the way of working matters, and hence the folly of sending new men every year.

DOMINION DAY.

The new Dominion of Canada was ushered in, on Tuesday, by the discharge of twenty guns, bonfires, &c., the display of bells, and various other marks of the general joy of the citizens. To usher the rising of the birth was a signal of salute, but very soon they found that it was the former generation; the enemy was pushing their fires preliminary to their attack on the garrison. As a very early hour on Monday the Harvard and Hastings Volunteer Companies, under Captains Grover and Hagarty, with their Lieutenants, and at ten o'clock the battalion formed parade on the Market Square. The strength of each was as follows:—

No. 1, Capt. W. C. Rogers, 50.
No. 3, Capt. Kennedy, 68.
No. 4, Capt. J. Z. Rogers, 49.
No. 5, Capt. Grover, 56.
No. 7, Capt. Lightbark, 36.
No. 2, of Lakefield, did not muster with the others, the men being greatly scattered at the present time. They afterwards proceeded to the Cricket Ground Auburnham, and there went through various evolutions, and returning to the Market Square fired a feu de joie. The officers of the Peterboro Companies having provided a lunch for the Battalion, the men then proceeded to the Drill Shed and there partook of the good things provided.

At 3 o'clock, the soldiers and civilians had a game of Cricket, in which the civilians were defeated. The following is the score which has been handed to us:—

It is but just to say that the volunteers were well nigh worn out before the game commenced, or, perhaps, the civilians would not have so much to boast of.

GRAMMAR AND UNION SCHOOL.

The Board met on Tuesday evening. The principal business was to consider the best means of obtaining a Teacher to take Miss Kyles place, she having resigned.

On motion of Mr. Dumble, the Secretary was instructed to advertise for a Teacher.

The Principal's report of the late examinations was read by the Secretary. It referred in favorable terms to the state of the girls' department throughout, and also the primary department, and the efficient state of the 3rd department boys—it being one of the best conducted rooms in the building. The answering of the 5th department boys was not praised, and some remarks referred to the Teacher as not having brought his classes up to the standard expected of him.

On motion of Mr. Clarke, Mr. Shurtleff was heard before the board in reference to the causes that militated against progress in his room. His defence was based on the plea, in part, of want of sufficient time for the classes; the promotion of boys to his department not qualified to be there; and the interference of the Principal, in changing classes or sending classes to Mr. Shurtleff's room.

The Superintendent was required to give his opinion of the state of the room at the late examination. He intimated that there appeared a lack of proper attention on the part of the boys, evident want of thoroughness and a great absence of taste and accuracy in their work. This he did not attribute to Mr. Shurtleff's inability to teach all required of him, but to the listlessness of the boys, that required to be aroused in some way.—He also thought that if the Teacher had a little more energy it would be very desirable, and that if he would make the boys do more and he himself do less, that it would be a benefit to those under his care.

On motion, the Principal's report was received and that portion of it referring to Mr. Shurtleff was referred to the committee on appointments.

The Report also spoke very favorably of the North Ward School, and of Miss Butterfield's attention to her duties as Teacher.

In regard to the school, it appears the same complaint is now made that was two years ago, viz. a want of thoroughness on the part of the boys. The girls are highly spoken of, indeed, nothing else could be done. It does seem strange that the boys do not meet the expectations of even the Teachers themselves. Surely if this matter was laid before them they would show that they can come up to and surpass the girls. The lady Teachers, however, require their girls to answer every question put; not one of the teachers went near the blackboard, the girls had that to do, from which the male Teachers might take a useful hint. The boys at too much in their seats and get into lolling habits that are prejudicial to their progress and that do not speak well for their training.

Pic-Nic.

We had the pleasure of attending a picnic of the Sabbath and Day Schools of Mr. J. T. White's school in Otonabee. There was an abundance of every good thing that heart could wish for in pic-nics, such they also partook of in good accordance. Mr. White who is always provided Teachers, arranged this matter in connection with the locality. The Methodist, Congregational and Christian were present and aided by short speeches or readings from pure pleasantry. Mr. I. McCorkle and Wm. Reed also said some good things to the people and children. Very pleasantly indeed, and we hope profitably, was the first day of the New Dominion spent. May the good people of Otonabee see many anniversaries of our young nation.

St. Andrew's Church.

We have been requested to state that the Congregation of St. Andrew's Church will meet for divine service in the Victoria Hall, on Sunday next, the 7th inst., at 11 a. m., and 6.30 p.m.

At a meeting of Protection Fire Company No. 1., held in the Firemen's Hall, on Tuesday evening, July 2nd, 1867, the following resolution was adopted.

Moved by T. W. D. Croly, seconded by Captain J. Gilder,—That the thanks of this Company are due and are hereby tendered to Mr. John Delarty for a donation of twenty dollars given by him for services rendered at the fire on the 11th June, 1867.—Carried.

THE PEN AND PENCIL.—We have received the first number of a new weekly periodical of light and entertaining literature. It is calculated to amuse readers of romance; it also contains many engraves and games.—The first story is on "Live Yankees, or the Duke Buried at Rome."

The house of a Mr. Dussault, of Contrecœur, Co. Chambly, Lower Canada, and the barns, two old persons over 60 years each, were also consumed in the flames. The whole is supposed to have been the work of incendiaries who set fire to the building to conceal their foul crime.

NARROW OR BROAD GAUGE.—It is said that narrow gauge railroads cost about one third what the broad gauge roads do. Hence $7,000,000 would do what it requires $22,000,000. Worth while to try the scheme on the Intercolonial Railway.

The Bank of Montreal is about to establish branches in the lower or Maritime Provinces.

The M. O. S. S. Company's steamship "North American," sailed from Quebec on the 15th instant for Liverpool, via St. John's, Newfoundland, for which port she had a number of passengers and a Company of the Royal Canadian Rifles. Up to the 26th, no word was heard of her, and great anxiety was felt here as to her safety. On the 28th, however, news was received, which, though telling of loss, relieved us somewhat as to the fate of those aboard. The "North American" went ashore on Sunday night, the 16th inst., at 11 o'clock, a mile and a half off the South point of Anticosti. Passengers and crew were all saved, and at last advices were all well. Mails, specie, and baggage were safely landed, but the cargo was being thrown overboard in order to lighten her. The Captain had good hopes of getting her afloat on the 3 th if the weather held moderate. The steamers St. George and Rothesay were immediately despatched to assist her.—The former to take off the passengers.

Mr. Wright, Principal of the Norwood Grammar School, was on board on his way to Scotland, we learn, but as all the passengers were got off safe, there are no fears concerning him.

Two men named Campbell and Turcotte were playing cards in a hotel in Kingston on Saturday night. They disagreed, when the latter struck the former in the neck with a jack-knife. He died in about half an hour. Turcotte has been arrested.

THE NEW CABINET.

(From the Montreal Gazette.)

Now that the Governor-General has arrived, we may expect to hear of the complete formation of the Cabinet of the Dominion. We understand that it stands will be the number of ministers in the new Cabinet namely, five from the Province of Ontario, four from Quebec, two from New Brunswick, and two from Nova Scotia.

The names we have heard spoken of are the following:—

From Ontario—Mr. John A. Macdonald, Mr. Campbell, Mr. McDougall, Mr. Howland, and Mr Fergusson Blair.

From Quebec—Mr. Cartier, Mr. Galt, Sir Narcisse Belleau, and Mr. Langevin.

From New Brunswick—Mr. Tilley and Mr. Mitchell.

From Nova Scotia—Mr Archibald and Mr. Kenny

It is commonly understood that Mr. John A. Macd onald will be the Prime Minister; and it is not impossible that when all the arrangements are completed respecting the formation of the Local Governments, that Mr Chapais will take the place of Sir Narcisse. The names of men so prominent as Mr Tupper the able Premier of Nova Scotia, and Mr. McGee, not appearing in the list we have given will, we are sure, cause remark on the part of the public. But we feel equally sure of this, that these two gentlemen will themselves be the first to recognize the political exigence governing the situation, which has left them as simple supporters of the Government of the Dominion, instead of placing them in office of Minister of finance, to which the confidence of their party, of the country, and their public services give them title. It is rumored that Mr. Tupper has made over to Mr. Kenny as regards acting the Irish C. holic; and, without having any information whatever for the statement, we may say it appears to us that the reason why Mr. McGee remains out with Mr Tupper may be found in considerations of territory and population. But it is idle to speculate, and men should not for their judgements until explanations are given by the gentlemen themselves, which will undoubtedly be forthcoming in due time.

There is also one feature in the Cabinet of the Dominion wherein it will be different from any which we have had since the Lafontaine-Baldwin Ministry, about a quarter of a century ago; namely that we shall have no more double headed premiers, or double majorities, at once to satisfy and tax sectional parties.—But there will be true Premier and One Majority, and one Union Party. A majority of the whole, as affecting every party, will be held to be absolute; and a majority of the whole will alone be considered.

We understand there will be another feature of the Union Cabinet which will be of interest to an important portion of the community, and that is, that the Minister of Finance, the Minister of Commerce, the Minister of Internal Revenue, and the Receiver-General, will form a kind of Committee of Council, to deliberate and decide upon all questions affecting the tariff and excise, the currency and banking, &c. and it may reasonably be hoped from this arrangement the greater intelligence and more matured action will be secured than a man himself were responsible to any of them one man with too much upon his hands at once.

Lord Monck, the first Governor-General of the Dominion of Canada arrived in Quebec on the 24th inst, in the R. S. "Hibernian." the landing, he received addresses of welcome and congratulation from the City Council, Legislature and the Board of Trade, to which he made suitable reply, thanking all for their cordial reception of him, and offering his congratulations of a glorious and prosperous century the New Dominion.

For the Examiner.

British American Order of Good Templars.

The Peterborough County Lodge of this order, held its quarterly session with "Unity Lodge, No. 274," at Peterborough on Wednesday the 26th June, 1867.

The County Councillor, Bro. John Kennedy, of Peterborough, presided. 34 delegates and representatives representing ten Lodges, were present, besides visitors. Two new Lodges were reported warmed during the quarter.

The Report of the County Secretary below, shows the order to be in a very prosperous state. The following resolutions (among others) were unanimously adopted, viz:

"That each Lodge of which this County Grand Lodge is composed, appoint a meeting in their subordinate rooms previous to the location of each lodge, for the purpose of advocating the claims of temperance, and organizing Lodges of this order, and each appointing the next session to be held with Osseneon Lodge No. 208, at Selwyn, p. m."

Some three reps appear to bearing remarks from the different representatives present, in regard to the condition of the cause in their respective localities, when a very interesting and harmonious session was formally closed.

The following report was read by the County Secretary, and on motion of Dr. Bolton, seconded by E. H. Sellours, J. P., that the Report just read by the County Secretary be received and adopted.—Carried unanimously.

Office of the County Secretary,
Peterborough, June 26th, 1867.

Worthy County Chief, Officers and Men:

In the goodness of Divine Providence, we are permitted once more to greet each other in County Lodge Session. Under such auspicious circumstances, we do well to remember the great source from whence we derive all our blessings, and while the Great Chief of the Universe has designed to bless the feeble instrumentality of an noble Order, in extending the reviving and soul-cheering influence of temperance; that benign influence which has blessed thousands, nay, millions, of our fellow beings, been the means also of removing them from the dens of vice and immorality, placed their feet upon the road that will ultimately lead them to the fountain from whence flows all good and exalted ideas, whereby man is blessed, to the good of society, to his friends, and lastly to himself.

Then may become what God designed him to be, an intelligent being—formed to occupy an exalted position on life's busy stage, and also an eternal destiny hereafter. Let this noble feature stimulate us all to renewed action in this great and noble work now before us; let us accomplish that we have so nobly begun; let it not be said of us that we traveled by the wayside, and left undone that which we should have most diligently accomplished.

Worthy Sir,—When we look abroad into the world and view man,—possessed of talents almost angelic,—procreate them at the shrine of intemperance—minds that could grasp you distant planets, and sweep the mysterious regions of the milky way, have dwindled into nothingness under the power of this mighty deceiver. Thousands, our Sisters and Brothers, far advanced on the road of honor and respectability, have stopped to trifle with this alluring tyrant and monster—intemperance—at the risk of all that is noble, good and holy. These wrecks of humanity have at last found an untimely grave, unlamented by friends and the world, leaving not one salutary trace that they existed.

We are here to-day, assembled in County Lodge session, for the express purpose to devise the most legitimate means to advance in these counties (here to-day represented) this great work of reform. Our object being also to better the condition of man, both physically and morally, and also for the elevation of his intellectual character. This being our chief object in view, we should one and all endeavor to raise the spirit of no-ility in the breast of the despised drunkard. Years of dissipation may have nearly extinguished every spark of freedom in the mind of the inebriate; yet there dwells within him a desire to be free; let us approach the fallen with words of kindness, and we may then do him good and not evil.—Let this sentiment be our motto,—if has acted upon, our efforts in spreading this work of reform, will be crowned with success, to the blessing of many in these counties, and to society at large.

In reviewing the progress of our Order in these Counties for the past quarter, we find two new Lodges organized with a membership of 51, making eleven lodges in good working order, six of which have sent in returns. Increase during the quarter are,—Initiated, 128; joined by card, 1; total, 129; expelled 4; withdrawn, 19; total 23; net increase, 106; number of members in good standing, 420.

Thus you have nearly, as far as I can ascertain, the present position of our noble Order in these counties here represented. May the glorious principles of temperance extend far and wide, until our land will be regenerated from the numberless crimes of intemperance.

I hope our deliberations on this occasion will be fully illustrated by a desire to extend the interest of the great cause we profess to serve. This in discussing the several results of any measure brought before the County Grand session, for that purpose, will be met in a spirit of Brotherly love, which should characterize the conduct of every British American Templar on this Continent. That on retiring from this field, at the close of this session, we may all say with exultation, "How good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

All of which is most respectfully submitted in the bonds of the Order.

JAMES A. BARCHARD,
County Secretary.

Peterborough, June, 1867.

MAXIMILIAN.—The unfortunate Emperor has been shot by the immiate victors, as truly they may be called. Civilization must certainly recoil at the idea of murdering such a man, for murder it is; and almost as certainly as the Mexican Liberals (unworthy of the name) shot him, will they reap the reward of their rashness. Better a thousand times to have the country governed by a Frenchman or Austrian, than to be controlled by those who are to weak for the task

"Captain Austrian Sloop."

The Emperor of Austria and the Emperor Napoleon have been informed by telegraph of Maximilian's execution. The event have produced great excitement here among the foreign ministers.

The following has been received to-day: "U. S. steamer Tuscany, Vera Cruz, June 25th, via New Orleans, to Hon. Gideon Welles, Secretary of the Navy:—Maximilian was shot on the 19th. Begged hard for his life for the American captain, and was refused. The city of Mexico surrendered on the 20th. Vera Cruz holds out on account of the foreign ships. Does custom not acceptance of surrender.

"(Signed) P. H. ROE,
"Commander."

It is believed Juarez will instantly consent to the execution of Maximilian. When the messenger bearing despatches from the United States Government relative to sparing the life of Maximilian, delivered his message to Juarez, the latter said he was prepared to spare Maximilian's life, but the pre-ence from the European leaders and people for his condemnation was so great as would be almost impossible to resist it.

From Ottawa.

Lord Monck has been sworn in Governor of the Dominion.

Chief Justice Draper administered the oaths. Chief Justice Richards and Judge Hagarty, Wilson and Mondelet being associated with him.

Lord Monck then announced that the Queen had conferred on Mr. John A. Macdonald the dignity of K.C.B., and on Messrs. Howland, Mulloagall, Cartier, Galt, Tilley and Tupper, that of C. B.

Lord Monck then shook hands with the Judges and Mr. John A. Macdonald, and the public were then requested to retire.

The proceedings took place in the Executive Council Chamber. There were about 50 persons present to witness the proceedings.

The Cabinet will, it is expected, be formed and sworn in this afternoon.

Lord Monck has called on John A. Macdonald to form the Privy Council. He is now at the task. Shortly after being sworn in, Lord Monck reviewed nineteen companies of Volunteers and two companies of the Halifax brigade, in all about eight hundred men in the Parliament House square. The review was witnessed by about four thousand people. The city is gaily decorated with flags, and the observance of the day as a holiday is universal.

Chief Justices Draper and Richardson and Judges Hagarty, Mondelet and Wilson left the city by the afternoon train.

Stealing a March.

In some few counties where the Reform candidature have not yet taken the field, the Tories are endeavoring to secure pledges of support from Reformers. We do not suppose for a moment that this game can be played with any considerable success, but it would be well for the friends of honest administration to be very guarded about giving any encouragement to doubtful politicians. Very few, if any Coalitionists, will be allowed to walk the course unopposed, and it is important, especially in constituencies that are pretty evenly balanced, that no Reformer should compromise himself by the slightest concessions to the corruptionists. Our friends may depend upon it that an opportunity will be afforded them of recording their votes on the right side, and we hope that none of them will put themselves in a position to be compelled to look on with folded hands when the struggle for Reform has to be made at the polls.—Globe.

In the House of Commons, on the 20th, Mr. Bunny, Home Secretary, after announcing that tranquility had been restored in Birmingham, said he greatly regretted the language used by the agitator Murphy, and he was not surprised that it had produced disturbance. Liberty of expression could not be too severely rebuked when it went to the extent of calling a large number of fellow citizens thieves and assassins. The counties of the Catholic clergy during the troubles had been wise and conciliatory. Archbishop Manning had written a letter to the local clergy, urging them to use all their influence to allay the excitement.

In the House of Lords, on the 21st, Earl Russell eulogized the conduct of Lord Stanley in the Luxenburg affair.

Lord Derby thanked him and stated that England hesitated to take part in the Conference, until it became evident that her participation became necessary to prevent war.

Lord Clarendon also expressed his approval of Lord Stanley's policy.

On the same day, in the House of Commons, a vote was taken on clause 19 of the Reform Bill, giving electors the right to vote by ballot, and the session was rejected by a vote of 272 against 248.

The Zollverine was to meet on the 26th at Berlin, to protect its [illegible]tion. No special subjects were to be discussed except an additional tax on tobacco.

The Ottawa Citizen says that His Excellency the Governor General has been graciously pleased to appoint the following members of the bar with several others, to the honour and dignity of Queen's Counsel:—Hon. A. J. Ferguson Blair, Robert A. Harrison, J. S. Lewis, John Bell, (Belleville,) John Crawford, Clark Gamble, Robert Dennistoun, Philip Low.

The London Pall Mall Gazette says that Lord Monck's appointment to the Governor Generalship of the Dominion is only temporary, and that he will be succeeded in about a twelve month.

A strange and appalling disease, supposed to be the Black Death, or Plague, which ravaged all Europe in the fourteenth century has broken out in Ireland.—Ex.

"He remembered the Forgotten" was beautifully said of Howard the philanthropist. It also applies to every man who brings the small comforts and enjoyments of life within the reach of persons and classes who are otherwise deprived of their advantages. Especially may it be said of him who laboriously seeks and finds new means of preserving health, "the good man's capital and the rich man's power." We think the principle properly applied to J. C. Ayer, of Lowell the renowned chemist of New England who, spending the troddenpaths of fame, devotes his entire faculties and acquirements to the discovery of Nature's most effectual remedies for disease. When the hidden blessing has been revealed, he proceeds to supply it to all mankind alike, through our druggists at such low prices that poor and rich may alike enjoy its benefits.—[Journal and Enquirer, Portland, Me.

Who would not be beautiful? Who would not add to their beauty? Nothing gives that peculiar purity and distinguished appearance as observed upon the stage, and in the city belle? It is no longer a secret. They use Hagan's Magnolia Balm. Its combined use removes tan, freckles, pimples and roughness, from the face and hands, and leaves the complexion smooth, transparent, blooming and ravishing. Unlike many cosmetics, it contains no material injurious to the skin. Any Druggists will order it for you, if not on hand, at 75 cts. per bottle.

"ECONOMY IS WEALTH."—FRANKLIN.—Why will people pay $50 or $100 for a Sewing Machine, when $25 will buy a better one for all practical purposes? Notwithstanding cents to the contrary, the subscribers beg to inform their numerous friends that the "FRANKLIN" and "MEDALLION" Machines can be had in any quantity. This machine is a double thread, constructed upon entirely new principles, and does not infringe upon any other in the world. It is emphatically the "poor man's Sewing Machine," and is warranted to excel all others, as thousands of patrons will testify.

LIFE AND WORKS

ROBERT BURNS,

BY THE

REV. ALEXANDER G. WADDELL,

(Author of the Bi[illegible] Essays on his Genius and Character, and the "Cottage" on the Centenary of his Birth).

This addition will be Illustrated with Two Portraits of the Poet; with Frontispiece composed of five Scenes selected from the Works or Land of Burns; an with Twenty-five Pictures from Original Drawings—the whole produced in Sweet Oil Colours, from Engravings by eminent artists, in the highest style of the art.

The prominent Literary characteristic of this edition will be an entirely New Life of the Poet, in the form of a Spiritual Biography, by the Rev. Editor; with much valuable additional matter relating to Burns—including some hitherto unpublished Fragments of the Poet Himself, interesting original Reminiscences of his Life, original Notes critical and historical on his Poems, and an Essay on the Progress and Development of the Scottish Language up till his day.

In the department of Illustration, the distinctive feature of every Picture will be its Originality in Design, and its absolute fidelity to nature in every detail of Scenery. The usual spot referred to with all its surroundings, wherever locality constitutes a portion of the picture, will be scrupulously adhered to—so that readers at a distance, natives of Scotland, may recognise in these some transcript of the soil; and strangers may look with confidence on every illustration as a reality. On the same department, the Publisher has the pleasure to announce that he is in a position to reproduce an authentic and most wonderful Likeness of Robert Burns—from the original Miniature announcedly, which was painted the year before his death; and of which Burns affirms that it is "the most remarkable likeness of what I am at this moment, that I think ever was taken of any body"—together with a most interesting and beautiful Miniature of his eldest Son, painted at the same time as a pendant to the Poet's likeness. These Portraits which have been lost to the world for seventy-one years, are now in possession of the Rev. P. Hately Waddell; and person still, when presented to the world, to excite universal attention. No 1 portrait of the Poet known can compare for a moment, in fidelity or force, with this miniature of Burns.

The work will be completed in Seventeen Monthly Parts, Demy 4 to 48 pages, price Half Dollar each. Printed from new type upon the finest printing paper.

The great care and beauty with which the above work is being got up will make it an ornament most suitable for the drawing-rooms alike of the poor and of the merchant; whilst the mode of publishing and the price charged will bring it early within the reach of every tradesman throughout the world.

"Beyond the sun—beyond the sun:
All them, and there I love thee!"

FLAX GROWING.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.

If any Farmer wishes to try a crop of Flax, I will [illegible] the SEED for him. As I have established a Spinning Mill on the most approved principles, I am now prepared to buy the Flax, and will pay the highest cash price for it. If the first spring crop I will have facts to prove themselves, and will give you the names of a few Farmers who grew it last year to their entire satisfaction.

E. Brown, Esq., Douro, 2½ acres, 7 tons 400 lbs.....$102 70
H. Smith, Esq., Douro, 2 acres, 2½ tons, 77 00
C. Crowley, Esq., Douro, 1 acre, 3 tons 1100 lbs.....
[illegible], Esq., Ennis, 21 acres, 7½ tons.....
Scott, Esq., Smith 2 acres, 2½ tons, 110 50
A. Hall, Esq., Smith, 1 of an acre, 3 tons 751 lbs.....
T. Totty, Esq., Smith, about [illegible]
Hall, Walton, Esq., Smith, 3 acres, 6 tons 630 lbs.....81 00
A. Ramsay, Esq., Smith, 1 bushel, 3 tons 100 lbs.....20 50
[illegible] Hand Dewan, 1 bushel, 3 tons 600 lbs.....44 50
G. McKeon, Esq., Otonabee, 2 bushels, 4 tons 1620 lbs.....62 82

There are a great many more I could give you the names of, but as these gentlemen are the most prominently known I refer to them only. In every other [illegible] in Canada where there has been a Scutching Mill established, the Farmers have come forward and willingly bought themselves in, from 200 to 700 strong, the first year. If the Crop will not pay, why do farmers in other places bind themselves to grow it? There was as high as one thousand tons grown in and about Streetsville last year. Let every farmer try as more or two, until he tests his land how suitable it will be for growing it. I have given you references from all the townships around here; you see they have all done equally well. Another great advantage to some of the Farmers would be the early harvest they could make, for it is only necessary after pulling the flax to allow it to dry sufficiently before tolling it, when they can realize money to assist them in harvesting their other crops.

BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY IN CANADA.

The following testimony from a well known and highly respected Merchant of Prescott, as corroborative of the general approval given to Dr. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY.

Prescott, C. W., Dec. 8th, 1859.

Messrs. S. W. Fowle & Co., Boston.

Gentlemen:—

Being solicited by your Travelling Agent, or an expression of opinion of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. I with pleasure assert that it is, in my belief, the best remedy before the public for coughs and pulmonary complaints.

Having tested the article with myself and family, in case of severe coughs and colds for years, with uniform and satisfactory results, I unhesitatingly recommend it with full confidence in its merits.

Yours truly,

A New Discovery better than the MADOC GOLD.

Notice for a Cold—Relief in five Minutes

WHY do you suffer with a bad Cold when one bottle of Morris's Electric Invigorating Fluid will cure the worst cold in three days. It is far superior to any pain-killer or Liniment or Ready-relief. Try it once and you will not keep your house without it, for after all other remedies have failed it has cured hundreds of rheumatism, frost bites, chilblains, burns, scalds, bruises, sprains, pains in the bowels, fresh cuts, lame back, headache and all pains internal and external. Sold everywhere at 25 cents per bottle. Retail and wholesale only by S. MORRIS, Peterborough, C. W. Guaranteed to give satisfaction or the money refunded. Every one should have a bottle.

Peterboro', Jan. 30th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed without assistance from others, in fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who reside in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr. John Archer to try Dr. Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid.

GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY

Of the Celebrated Indian, Dr. Lewis Josephus, of the Distinguished Tribe of Shoshonees, British Columbia, is now for sale in Canada.

THIS all-possessing Great Indian Remedy is wanted, and is broad and emphatic language, we can safely say may be replied upon to make a permanent cure of all Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive Organs, &c., as well as Scrofula, the various Skin Diseases, Humors, and all diseases arising from impurity of the Blood, excepting the third stage of Consumption. In the Western Country where this Great Remedy has been in use for a short time, it has indeed effected some of the most Marvellous Cures, ever recorded in the annals of Historical Medicine. Such being the case, in addition to its former renown and celebrity, we defy humanity to dispute the fact, that this, the Great Shoshonees Remedy, in connection with the Shoshonees Vegetable Restorative Pills, is the Remedy of Remedies of the 19th Century, and the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

CANCERS CURED!

By a new, but certain, speedy, and nearly painless process, and

WITHOUT THE USE OF THE KNIFE.

THE cure will be guaranteed, and, as a proof of this, no pay is required, until the cure is complete. The moment a cancer is diagnosed, it should be cured, as it will soon lose and is more speedily cured then when of longer standing, and there is nothing to gain, and everything to lose by delay. Whist now seems a harmless lump in the breast, neck, eye-lid or elsewhere, or small wart or mole on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, disgusting, destroying mass of disease. If required, references can be given to parties who have been cured many years since, and who are now sound and healthy. All communications promptly answered. No money required in advance, and none until the cure is complete.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Pulmonic Consumption, and for the Relief of Consumptive Patients in advanced Stages of the Disease.

This is a remedy so universally known to surpass any other for the cure of throat and lung complaints, that it is useless here to publish the evidences of its virtues. Its unrivalled combination for coughs and colds, and its truly wonderful cures of pulmonary diseases, have made it known, throughout the civilized portions of the earth. Few are the communities, or even families, among those who have not some personal experience of its efficacy—some living trophy in their midst of its victory over the subtle and dangerous disorders of the throat and lungs. As all know the deceitful fatality of these disorders, and as they know, too, the effects of this remedy, we need not do more than to assure them that it has now all the virtues that it did have when making the cures which have won so strongly upon the confidence of mankind.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Sold in Peterboro by Ormond & Gilmour, A. W. Kempt, and Wm. Coulter. In Keene by A. Campbell, Campbell McNeil & Co., O. Britton, Lindsay, and all Medicine Dealers.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF

CONSUMPTION

BY THE

GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY IN CANADA.

MESSRS. Y. & C.—GENTLEMEN:—I Wilson Thomas, of Brighton, C. W., make oath and say:—I feel anxious to let you know what the Great Shoshonees Remedy has effected for me. My wife was afflicted with consumption and died. I was also afflicted with the same disease, and after her death I continued nursing just as she had done. I had very severe night sweats; coughed nearly all night and every night; could not sleep unless a little towards morning. I raised over a quart of matter every 24 hours; had severe pain in the left lung, &c., &c., and was greatly debilitated. In fact I was going as fast as I could. I was taking medicine from a regular physician, but it did not seem relieve my cough. I went to the village one day about a quarter of a mile, which took me to go and come about two hours.—While there I saw Rev. Wellington, and happened to say to him, "I wish you could give me something to relieve my cough." He said "There is the Great Indian Remedy just introduced; Dr. Barker has it for sale, and I believe it will cure you." I took his advice, and brought a bottle home with me; took a tablespoonful at once, which I felt through my whole system; at night I took a tablespoonful, and rested well all night, and continued to rest well every night. The Cough, Night Sweats, Raising of matter, Pain in the Lung, &c., gradually left me, and I feel hearty and strong. I took only three bottles. I am not taking it now, and I am as hearty and as well as ever I was in my life. My sister-in-law was with me for a while, who was affected with the Liver Complaint. She has taken the remedy, and is well. This certificate you may show to the world if you please.

LAW RESPECTING NEWSPAPERS.

Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary, are considered as wishing to continue their subscriptions.

If subscribers order the discontinuance to their papers, the Publisher may continue to send them until all arrearages are paid

If Subscribers neglect or refuse to take their papers from the office to which they are directed, they are held responsible until they have settled their bills and ordered their papers to be discontinued.

If Subscribers remove to other places without informing the publisher, they are held responsible.

The courts have decided that refusing to take a newspaper or periodical from the office or removing, and leaving it uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

Poetry.

The Young Highland Rover.

Adieu! my happy home, adieu!
I sound where cheerful hearth
Nor sparkling wine nor wassail flow,
Or peace in children's mirth.

Farewell! my parents, friends, farewell!
Fourth wheel thrice dear, adieu,
Where my infant accents fell,
And formed themselves in prayer.

Farewell! beloved one! we must part,
And sun between us roll;
The strongest threads in my heart
Are the wishes about you.

Fare thee well, my native hill,
Where I have often stood
To watch the gentle rippling rills
Glide through the shady wood.

Friends of my youthful days, farewell!
With you I've often strayed
Our mountain side, and grassy dell,
And through the smiling glade.

Farewell to you, so barely gained,
Who till thy native soil,
May smiling plenty crown thy plains
And still reward thy toil.

Erin, farewell! thy name is dear!
Thou art my native land,—
I'll drop for thee one dewy tear
As on thy shore I stand.

When in a distant land I roam,
Beneath a sunny sky,
I oft shall think of those at home,
And o'er their memory sigh.

And should it be our lot to meet
On some far distant day,
O! how shall I their presence greet
And chase their cares away.

Selections.

MY SISTER KATE.

BY ANDREW PICKEN.

(CONCLUDED.)

The servant approached, as if fearful of being noticed by 'the old one,' as he was accustomed to call Miss Pountney, and in a half whisper, intimated to the little figure, that a female wanted to see her. "Eh! what—who is it you say, John?" cried the lady among the papers, noising with startled agitation of the affright.

'Nothing, madam; it is a person that wants my lady.'

'Your lady, sirrah! it must be me!—Eh! what?'

'Ma, Madam, she wants to see Mrs. Pountney particularly.'

'Ah, John!' said the little lady on the sofa; 'just refer her to Miss Pountney. There is nobody can want me.'

'Wants to see Mrs. Pountney particularly!' resumed the sister-in-law; 'how dare you bring in such a message, sirrah? Mrs. Pountney particularly, indeed! who is she sirrah? Who comes here with such a message while I am in the house?'

'You must be mistaken, John,' said the little lady, rising, who was once the lively little Kate M'Leod of the fishing cottage in Scotland; 'just let Miss Pountney speak to her. You need not come to me.'

'No, madam,' said the servant, addressing Miss Pountney, the natural pertness of his situation now returning to overcome his dread of the old one!—'this young person wants to see my mistress directly, and I have put her into her dressing-room; pray, ma'am, go,' he added, respectfully to the ladies Kate.

'Do you come here to give your orders, sirrah?' exclaimed Miss Pountney rising like a fury, and looking the footstool half-way across the room,—'and to put strange people of your own accord into any dressing-room in this house! and to talk of your mistress, and wanting to speak to her directly, and privately, while I am here! I wonder what sister Becky would say, or Mr. Pountney, if he were at home?'

The 'old one's' wrath being now aroused she at divorged into a tirade of abuse of John, for various crimes and misdemeanors, with which the examination of the documents before her furnished matter of accusation against him, on household matters, and into which she contrived to include the trembling little victim on the sofa. While she was at the height of this, her sister Becky entered the room, and, as usual helped up the brawl, or rather added fuel to the angry storm with which she raged against the man who listened with the true sneer of a lackey, made inaudible by unholy-like abuse; and also against the unoffending and melancholy Kate, who bore it all with a look of hopeless resignation.

John, however, conceals as he sometimes was, had too much natural gallantry not to feel strongly on the part of his oppressed mistress; and too much common sense not to see the misery of a house divided against itself; besides, he hated his two real mistresses so much as he loved the interesting stranger, who ought to have been such.—Without taking notice, therefore, of all the accusations and abuse thrown upon him he stepped up again to the little figure on the sofa, and begged of her to see the young person who wanted for her.

'I'll have no whispering here,' exclaimed Miss Pountney, coming forward in wrath. 'What is the meaning of all this, Kate? who is this person in your dressing-room? I insist upon knowing; I shall let my brother know all about this mystery!'

'Who is it, John? Do just bring her here, and put an end to this!' said Kate, imploringly, to the man.

'Madam,' said John, at last, to his trembling mistress, 'it is your sister.'

'What, John?' cried Kate, starting to her feet; 'my sister Flora—my own sister, from Clyde sake!—speak, John, are ye sure?'

'Yes, madam, your sister from Scotland!'

'Oh, where is she—where is she? Let me go.'

'No, no; you must be mistaken, John,' said the lady with the keys, stopping forward to intercept the unmoved Kate; 'John, this is all a mistake,' she added smoothly; 'Mrs. Pountney has no sister! John, you may leave the room;' and she gave a dignified look to the other chair, who stood astonished.

The sergeant the servant left the room, Miss Pountney came forward, and stood in renewed rage over the fragile and unmeaning Kate, and burst out with 'What is this, Kate? Is it really possible, after what you know of my mind, and all our minds, that you have dared to bring your poor relations into my brother's house? That it is not enough that we are to have the disgrace of your mean connections, but we are to have your sisters and brothers to eat and cumber into the very house, and receding up their beggarly manners and designations by the very servants! Kate, I must not permit this. I will not, I shall not;' and she stamped with rage.

'Oh, Miss Pountney!' said Kate, with clasped hands, 'will you not let me go and see my sister? Will you just let me go and weep on the neck of my poor Flora? I will go to a private place—I will go to another house, if you please; I will do anything when I return to you, if I ever return, for I care not if I never come into this unhappy house more!' and uttering it in utmost with a shriek, she burst past the woman, and ran through the rooms to seek her sister.

Meantime Flora had been so long waiting, without seeing her sister, that she began to feel intense anxiety; and, fancying her little Kate wished to forget her, because she was poor, had worked herself up into a resolution of assumed coldness when she heard a hurried step, and the door was instantly opened. Kate paused for a moment after her entrance, and stood gazing upon the exquisite of her youth, with a look of such passionate joy, that Flora's intended coldness was entirely subdued and the two sisters rushed into each other's arms in all the ecstasy of sisterly love.

'Oh, Flora, Flora! my dear happy Flora!' cried Kate, when she could get words after the first burst of weeping; 'have you really come all the way to London to see me? poor me? and her tears and sobs were again like to choke her.

'Kate, my dear little Kate!' said Flora, 'this is not the way I expected to find you. Do not greet so dreadfully; surely you are not happy, Kate?'

'But you are happy, Flora,' said Kate, weeping; 'and how is my good Highland father, and mother, and Daniel? Ah, I think Flora, your clothes have the very smell of the sea-shore, and of the bark of the nets, and of the heather hills of Argyleshire. Also! the happy days you remind me of, Flora.'

'And you—Kate, you are not so very happy, after all,' said Flora, looking intently in her face; 'and you are so thin and pale, and you eyes are so red; and yet you have such a grand house, Kate! Tell me if you are not really happy?'

'I have no home, Flora,' said Kate, after a little, 'nor, I may say, no husband. They are both completely ruled by his two vixen sisters, who kept house for him before he married me, and still have the entire ascendancy over him. My husband, too is not naturally good tempered; yet he once loved me, and I might enjoy some little happiness in this new life, if he had the feeling or the spirit to treat me as his wife, and free himself and the house from the dominion of his sisters, especially the eldest. But I believe he is rather disappointed in his ambitious career, and in the hopes he entertained of matches for his sisters, and is somewhat sour and unhappy; and I have to bear it all, for he is afraid of these women; and I, the gentlewoman of the family, and the only one who has a chance of being good tempered, am, on account of my low origin, forced to bear the spleen of all in this unhappy house.'

'But, Kate, surely your husband would not behave so bad, as to cast up to you that your father was a fisherman, when he took you from the honey suc-cle himself, and when he thought himself once so happy to get you?'

'Alas! he does indeed be too often—too often; when he is crossed abroad, and when his sisters set him on, and that is very often of him; and it so humbles me, Flora, when I am sitting at his table, that I cannot lift my head; and I am so sad, and so heart broken among them all!'

'Bless me! and can people be really so miserable?' said Flora, simply, 'who have plenty of money and silk dresses to wear every day they rise?'

'It is little you know, my happy Flora, of artificial life here in London,' said Kate, mournfully. 'As for dress, I count even order one but as my sister-in-law chooses; and as for happiness, I have left it behind me on the beautiful banks of the Clyde.—Oh, that I was there again!'

'Poor little Kate!' said Flora, wistfully looking again on her sister's face; 'and to that the end of all your grand marriage, that has set a' the lasses crazy, from the Fairly Banks to Gourock Point? I think I'll gang back and marry Bryce Cameron after a'.'

'Is Allan Cameron married yet?' said Kate, sadly. 'When did you see him, and how and how Allan Cameron? Alas! the day?'

'He gave me this brooch to return to you, Kate,' it being the brooch out of her bosom. 'I wish he had not given it to me for you, for you're vexed enough already.'

'Ah! well you may say I am vexed enough,' said she, weeping and contemplating the brooch. 'Tell Allan Cameron that I am sensible I did not use him well—that my vain heart was lifted up; but I have suffered for it—many a sad and sleepless night I have lain in my bed, and thought of the delightful days I spent near my father's happy cottage in Scotland, and all of you, and about Allan. Also! just tell him not to think more of me, for I am a sad and sorry married woman, out of my own sphere, and afraid to speak to my own people, pouring my heart out, and dying by inches, like the pretty silver fish that flounder on the bare stones, after my father had them out of their own clear water.'

'God help you, Kate!' said Flora, rising. 'You will break my heart with grief about you. Let me out of this miserable house! Let me leave you and all your grandeur, since I cannot help you; and I will pray for you, my poor Kate, every night at my bed-side, when I get back to the bonnie shore of Argyleshire.'

And was the parting of the two weeping sisters, and many a time at intervals afterwards expressed, yet sweetened, the heart; and anxious was Flora M'Leod to turn her back upon the great city of London, and to Scotland.

It was a little before sundown, on a Saturday evening, that by other than the hands of steam, I set off at the Mid Quay of Gravesend, indicated that a steam-boat had come in; and it proved to be from the far seaport of Liverpool, having on board Flora M'Leod, just down from London.—The boat, as it passed, had been watched by the cottagers where she lived in the Firth; and several of them, their day's work being over, set out towards the Clough, to see if there was any chance of meeting Flora.

Many were the congratulations, and more the inquiries, when they met Flora, hastening townwards with her bundle and her umbrella, weary, and looking sad and sad out for her own sweet cottage by Clyde side. 'Ah, Flora! is this you,' or ed the whole at once; 'and are you really here again?—and how is your sister and all the other great people in London? and indeed it is very good of you not to look the least proud, after coming from such a grand place?'

With such congratulations was Flora welcomed again among the hale-hearted fisher people in the west of Scotland. But it was observed now that her tone was quite altered, and her own humble contentment had completely returned. In short, as being our story to a close, she was shortly after married to Bryce Cameron, and various other marriages soon followed; for she gave such an account of what she had seen with her eyes, that a complete revolution took place in the sentiments of the whole young people of the neighbourhood.

It was observed, in the hamlet, that the unhappy Mrs. Pountney was never named after this, by any, but with a melancholy shake of the head; the ambition of the girls to get gentlemen, seemed quite extinguished; and Flora, in time, began to nurse children of her own in humble and pious contentment.

She received many letters after this from London, over which she often wept to herself, while she prayed in private that poor Mrs. Pountney might yet experience happier days; but she was never heard to utter one vaunting word more concerning 'my sister Kate.'

A young lady refused to go into the Woolwich Arsenal the other day, because she heard that some of the muskets were without breeches.

Joe King was sick in a boarding house, and got his mind made up for some nice chicken broth. The order went down to the kitchen, and the broth came up weak, fat and feminid. The sick man was subsequently relating his disappointment to a friend, who said, 'they just let a chicken wade through it.' 'If they did,' said Joe King faintly, 'it had no stilts.' He recovered.

FIRST SIGHT.—The subject of impression at first sight was being talked over at the supper table, when the lady whose duty it was to preside 'over the cups and tea,' said she always formed an opinion of a person at first sight, and generally found it to be correct.

'Mamma,' said the youngest son, in a shrill voice that attracted the attention of all present.

'Well, my dear, what is it?' replied the fond mother.

'I want to know what was your opinion of me when you first saw me?'

The question gave a sudden turn to the conversation.

THE WHOLE THING IN A NUT-SHELL.—At a temperance meeting an honest German was asked to speak, and after some hesitation did so in the following exhaustive manner:—'I shall tell you how it vas. I put my hand on my head, there vas vun big pain. Then I put mine hand on my body; and there vas another. There vas very much pains in all my body. Then I put my hand in my pocket, and there vas nothing. Now there is no more pain in my head. The pains in my body are all gone away. I put my hand in my pocket, and there ish twenty tollars. So I shall shtay mit de temperance.' Aside from the moral aspects of the question, the Dutchman's experience tells the whole story.

AFRICAN WIDOWS.—They have a matrimonial arrangement which is worth relating. As soon as a child is born it is betrothed to another as soon as possible. When that pair arrive at the age of puberty they are married. The boy presents the girl with a shift and waist-cloth. When the shift is worn out she is at liberty to go where she likes, and marry whom she chooses. She is taught to believe that if she commits infidelity before that time, the Evil Spirit will run off with her. These wives, therefore, remain rigidly constant; but it is not uncommon to see one pounding her shift between two stones.

'BURLEIGH,' (correspondent of the Boston Journal) now in Scotland, writing from Edinburgh, tells a dog story, connected with the Churchyard at the old Grey Friars' Church, now used by Presbyterians. He says, some five years ago a man was buried in that cemetery. His dog made a bed on his grave. From that time to this he has lived in that yard. At a given time, on the pealing out of the clock, the dog goes out for breakfast, which is given to him at one place. At one o'clock, as the time is struck, he goes to a baker's who has given him his dinner all these years. He consumes about one hour and a half to refresh himself. He then crosses back and keeps watch. He has done this more than five years. What is queer, on Saturday he will wait for no extra dinner. This he keeps till Sunday. He does not go for dinner on that day. Thousands visit the yard to see this dog.

Mrs. Candle's Curtain Lectures.

CANDLE HAS BEEN HAVE A MASON, MRS. CANDLE REMONSTRATES AND SUBMITS.

"Now, Mr. Candle—Mr. Candle, I say! Oh! you can't be asleep already, I know—I mean to say is that there is no one time at all to our having our Christmas plum pudding. But at least let us have a little peace to-night, or to-morrow morning or I leave the house. Now, there's an end of the marriage stock, I think—no end of all confidence between man and wife—a thousand to have secrets and keep 'em all to himself. Pretty secrets they must be, when the man with one's heart don't—Not in for a decent person to know, I'm sure, if that's the case. Now, Candle, don't let us quarrel, there's a good soul, tell me what it is all about? A pack of nonsense, I dare say; still, not that I care much about it,—still I should like to know. There's a dear. Eh? O, don't tell me there's nothing in it; I know better. I'm not a fool, Mr. Candle; I know there's a good deal in it. Now, Candle: just tell me a little bit of it. I'm sure I'd tell you anything. You know I would.

"Well, Candle, you're enough to vex a saint! Now, don't you think you're going to sleep; because you're not. Do you suppose I'd ever promised you to go and be made a mason of, if I didn't know I was to know the secret at last? Not that it is anything to brag of; I dare say; and that's why I'm determined to know it.

"But I know what it is; O yes, there can be no doubt. The secret is to all use poor women; to tyrannise over 'em; to make 'em your slaves; especially your wives. It must be something of the sort, or you wouldn't have it done in secret.—It's no insult to a woman for a man to be a free mason and let his wife know nothing of it. But, poor soul! she's sure to know it somehow—for nine husbands they all make. Yes, a part of the secret is to think better of all the world than their own wives and families. I'm sure men have quite enough to care for—that is if they set properly—to care for them they have at home. They can't have very much care to spare for the world besides.

"And I suppose they call you brother Candle? A pretty brother, indeed! Going and dressing yourself up in an apron with a trowel in—for that's what you look like. And I should like to know what the apron's for? There must be something in it not very respectable, I'm sure. Well, I only wish I was queen for a day or two. I'd put an end to free masonry, and all such trumpery, I know.

"Now, come, Candle, don't let's quarrel eh? Your not in pain, dear? What's it all about? What are you lying laughing there at? But I'm a fool to trouble my head about you.

"And you're not going to let me know the secret, eh? You mean to say,—you're not? Now Candle, you know it's a hard matter to put me in a passion—not that I care about the secret itself; no, I wouldn't give a button to know it, for it's all nonsense, I'm sure. It isn't the secret that I care about; it's the slight; Mr. Candle; it's the studied insult that a man pays to his wife, when he thinks of going through the world keeping something to himself which he won't let her know. Man and wife one, indeed! I should like to know how that can be when a man's a mason—when he keeps a secret that sets him and his wife apart? Ha, you men make the laws, and so you take good care to have all the best of 'em to yourselves; otherwise a woman ought to be allowed a divorce when a man becomes a mason; when he's got a sort of corner cupboard in his heart—a secret place in his mind—that his poor wife is not allowed to rummage.

"Candle, you don't—unless you tell me some of it. Come there's a good creature; there's a love. I'm sure, Candle, I wouldn't refuse you anything,—and you know it, or ought to know it by the time. I only wish I had a secret. To whom should I think of confiding it but to my dear husband? I should be miserable to keep it to myself, and you know it. Now Candle!

"Was there ever such a man? A man indeed! A brute!—yes, Mr. Candle, unfeeling brutal creature, when you might oblige me, and you won't. I'm sure I don't object to you're being a mason; not at all, Candle; I dare say it's a very good thing; I dare say it is—it's only your making a secret of it that vexes me—you'll tell your own Margaret? You won't! You're a wretch, Mr. Candle, you're a wretch!

"But I know why; O, yes, I can tell. The fact is you're ashamed to let me know what a fool they've been making of you. That's it. Yes, at your time of life—the father of a family! I should be ashamed of myself, Candle.

"And I suppose you'll be going to what you call your Lodge every night now? Lodge indeed! Pretty place it must be, where they don't admit women. Nice goings on I dare say. Then you call one another brethren. Brethren! I'm sure you have relations enough; you didn't want any more.

"But I know what all this mummery's about. It's only an excuse to get away from your wives and families that you may treat and drink together! that's all. That's the secret. And to abuse women as if they were inferior animals, and not to be trusted. That's the secret and nothing else.

"Now, Candle, don't let us quarrel. You know you're pain. Still, Candle, my love; Candle! Dearest, I say Candle!"

"I recollect nothing more," says Candle, "for I had eaten a hearty supper, and somehow became oblivious."

"Why don't you wheel that barrow of coals Ned?" said a learned

CATHOLIC CONVENTION.

HIS HOLINESS THE PRESENT, AND RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

(From the Globe.)

A Convention, consisting of Delegates from the Clergy and Laity of the Roman Catholic Church, in the Province of Ontario, to consult as to the political action which should be taken by the body under the existing aspect of affairs. The Convention was as successful as could possibly have been contemplated by its promoters. Some little difficulty occurred at first in consequence of a number of parties, known to the Government as [illegible] Reformers, [illegible] Conservatives, [illegible] Catholics. It was finally decided, however, to adopt the generous policy of admitting all Catholics who had come from a distance for the purpose of attending the Convention, whether born of the Catholic Church or [illegible] The result has been a body of about thirty Tories, headed by Mr. Moylan, of the Freeman; Mr. Michael Hayes, County Attorney of Perth; and Alderman Hynes, of this city.

The chair was ably filled by Alderman Emily, Esq., the popular Mayor of London.

The following were the resolutions adopted [illegible]

Moved by Mr. James Rodgers of Hamilton, seconded by Mr. Dee, of Toronto:—

1. Resolved,—That the Confederation of the two Canadas with the Provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, being now happily accomplished, and the Dominion of Canada established, it should be the desire of all classes to contribute to its success and greatness, and the duty of every citizen to promote peace, concord, contentment, and a spirit of patriotism within its borders. Adopted.

Moved by Mr. John Carroll, of Peterboro, seconded by Mr. James Corcoran, of Stratford:—

2. Resolved,—That as a representation of the Catholics of the Province of Ontario, we have no other desire in assembling here than that which will enable us both better and more fully to enforce the sentiments expressed in the foregoing resolution—to place ourselves fairly and equally alongside of our fellow-citizens of other creeds in all their political rights and privileges, and observe that we labour under no social or political disadvantage is working out the [illegible] things. Adopted.

Moved by Mr. [illegible] Donohue, of Toronto, seconded by Mr. L. P. O'Hanly, of Ottawa:—

3. Resolved,—That in order to maintain pure the fountain of justice and the impartial administration of the laws, we should, as Catholics and as being derogatory to and subversive of the free institutions of our country, steadily oppose and withhold our confidence from that political party known to have as its ally and as the special object of its favor secret political religious combinations.

Moved by Mr. John McKeown, of Hamilton, seconded by Mr. James Stock, of Toronto:—

4. Resolved,—That at the great Reform Convention of seven hundred delegates from all sections of Upper Canada, held in the city of Toronto on the 28th and 29th June last, [illegible] the following resolution was unanimously adopted:—

"Resolved—That one of the fundamental principles of the Reform party, now as ever, is—the total separation of Church and State, the support of the clergy of all denominations by the free contributions of their people, and the recognition by the Legislature and Government of all Canadians as subjects of the Queen, and not in any sectarian capacity: The Convention heartily rejoices that the new Constitution sweeps away from the Federal arena every question of a sectional and sectarian character, and records its earnest conviction that on the fidelity with which this vital safeguard is respected in the practical administration of the Government, rests the future harmony and stability of the Dominion; And it joyfully recognizes that by the transference to the Legislature of Ontario of all local matters—the Protestant electors of Upper Canada will have the opportunity of showing to their Roman Catholic fellow-subjects that generous consideration which a minority ought ever to receive in all free countries at the hands of a largely-preponderating majority."

And the Convention having duly considered the kindly expressions of feeling in the resolution of the said Reform Convention, does heartily reciprocate and accept the friendly assurance therein voluntarily tendered to the Catholics of Upper Canada, and each member of the Convention pledges himself to exert his utmost influence for the renewal and maintenance of the alliance that so long and beneficially existed between the Catholic and Protestant Reformers of this Province in former times. Trusting to receive that fair consideration, and that only to which our numbers and influence as members of the United Reform party may justly entitle us. Carried.

The following report from the Committee on organization, and, on motion of Mr. Carroll, of Peterboro', seconded by Mr. J. H. Hagan, of Hamilton, was adopted:—

"The Committee on organization beg leave to report, that they assembled in the Committee room to consider the object of their appointment; and respectfully recommend that an association be formed, to be called the Ontario Electoral Association, to consist of a President, a first and second Vice-President, a Corresponding and Recording Secretary, a Treasurer, and a Managing Committee, to be composed of ten members; and to be called the Central Council of the Ontario Electoral Association;

"And your Committee would further recommend that Frank Smith, Esq., of London, be President; John Shea, Esq., of Toronto, First Vice-President; James Stock, Esq., of Toronto, Second Vice-President; William Hailey, Esq., of Toronto, Corresponding Secretary; C. V. Warmolt, Esq., of Toronto, Recording Secretary; J. McDonnell, Esq., of Toronto, Treasurer."

London, 6th—Ismael Pasha has arrived in London from Paris. The railroad station was decorated with flags and flowers in honor of the illustrious visitor, who was accorded a grand reception in which the Prince of Wales and Lord Stanley played a conspicuous part. A large body of troops were also in attendance and formed an escort to the King of Egypt. Ismael Pasha is the guest of the Earl of Dudley.

London, July 9 (evening.)—In the House of Lords this evening, Earl Derby forcibly denounced the action of the Mexican government in putting Maximilian to death, but he said he did not know what measures the government intended to adopt in regard to Mexico.

ARE THERE PARTIES?

The "no party" cry has led some to infer that the lines of demarcation of parties are not so plain as formerly, and that considerations has pronuced a consternation of principles. Nothing, however, can be farther from the truth. The causes that led to unite to obtain a confederation if possible exist as strongly to-day as they did at the time of the coalition. The abuses and maladministration of the McDonald Cartier government, their wasteful expenditure of the public funds, their paying money without the sanction of parliament, undue preponderence of Lower Canada influence; these and other things led to such a determination on the part of Upper Canada Reformers that the government was too weak to carry on the affairs of the country in a satisfactory manner. The coalition was formed to devise means of removing the then state of affairs, and confederation was the result. Now the same wire-pullers, the same political tricksters, the same blood-suckers of the body politic are at the head of the confederation, that were at the head of all the Grand Trunk jobs, and all the extravagance and injustice under which the country groaned, and the opposition that proved such a wholesome check on corruption also exists. Therefore the party line is very clearly drawn, namely, the government of J. A. and extravagance on the one side, and the principles of reform and economy on the other. [illegible]

Besides these extremes, there is the coalition of the two opposites, for the most selfish and unholy purposes, that if perfected must cause the most fearful results. Sir J. A., Galt, & Co., have united with McDougall, Howland and Blair; these men have been the most deadly opponents; can they now agree? If they can, why? It must be to share the plunder, nothing but the love of money, the cause of so much evil, could ever induce the political antipodes to come together. Opposed to these there is the party that desire that the government of our new Dominion may not be cursed with any such unholy alliances for unjust aims. Men who desire to commence the new state of affairs with lofty ideas than plunder or selfish ambition: men who seek to establish the Dominion of Canada on the basis of political rectitude, and to do away with party sectarian and unjust legislation. These lines are bold enough, the distinctive features of the parties are plain enough, and if the coalition succeeds the results will be grievous enough to be borne. We have groaned under the corruption of the past, but if the same leaches be restored to their work of blood-drawing, the end will be worse than the beginning. We trust, therefore, that those who have nobly and honestly contended for the rights of the people in the past will stick to their colors until the victory be complete, then and not till then should they cast away the weapons of their warfare.

Nonsense.

The death struggle of the party in power leads them to do and say what they know and believe to be wrong. Every speech and every letter rabid anti-coalition and anti-unionists, when speaking of their opponents. Such nonsense may deceive the unwary, but never can deceive any one acquainted at all with the history of the two parties. Reformers have suffered to gain the great object of their desire—union. Mr. Brown, at request of his friends, formed a temporary coalition in order to secure union, and now the earnest desire, the great object of the present political contest, is to secure to the people the blessings of the union. In fact it is the coalitionists that are anti-unionists, not the Reformers; to the Reformers we are indebted for the union and to them must we look for the just and fair developement of the principles of Confederation.

The Coming Man for the Commons of Canada.

At a meeting of the Reform Committee held on Friday last, the choice of the Committee fell on Mr. John Gordon, of the firm of Gordon & McKye, Toronto, to represent this Riding in the Commons of Canada.—The Committee were unanimous in giving an invitation to Mr Gordon, and he is expected here in a day or so. Mr Gordon is a former townsman of Peterboro, and is well known to many of our citizens. He is an able and eloquent speaker, is a consistent and worthy member and manufacturer, and a sound Reformer. We bespeak for him a hearty reception, and trust that our Reform friends will not bind themselves to any one until they hear what he has to say. We expect to be able to give fuller information, but cannot yet; we will be able to do so by circular or otherwise in a day or so.

The [illegible] Candidate for Legislature Council.

This week we are able to give the address of Mr. Walton, the Reform candidate for the [illegible] Riding. For some time [illegible] candidature, but owing to the urgent solicitation of his friends and the strong desire to [illegible] he finally consented to [illegible] himself to the [illegible] Reformers, as the [illegible] Reformers [illegible] Conservatives, [illegible] Catholics. It was finally decided, however, to adopt the generous policy of admitting all Catholics who had come from a distance for the purpose of attending the Convention, whether born of the Catholic Church or [illegible] The result has been a body of about thirty Tories, headed by Mr. Moylan, of the Freeman; Mr. Michael Hayes, County Attorney of Perth; and Alderman Hynes, of this city.

THE CONTEST.

The people of the West Riding are now fairly alive to the importance of electing men to represent them in the coming parliaments of our country, and to this end have chosen to [illegible] tens, party men, whose the exposure parties the districts of sending to parliament. At a convention of Tories, held on Saturday last, at Gilson's Hotel, that party rejected A. H. Campbell, Esq., and elected Mr. John Carnegie, Jr., as their man. Yes, the Tories feed a Tory convention, sent circulars to their supposed party men, invited them to meet and lend their aid in choosing a candidate. Now, who "packed" the Tory convention? Did Mr. Christie allow the electors of the Review and come out himself? Not a bit of it. The Tories held a Tory convention; Mr. Dawkinson, a Tory dyed in the wool, being at the head of it, and Coalitionists of the blackest stamp his supporters. Well, really, who would have thought that the Editor of the Review was a party to that "Yankee device." Nevertheless, he was So much for coalition honesty; but it is the old game of "anything for office." Of course a Tory convention is a "meeting of people," [illegible] convention, is a "note" of invitation. Very polite, and telling lies is nothing at all. What great people the coalitionists are? Their past history shows that they can do and say anything for party ends.

Mr. Perry, however, they could not get rid of. They made a grand effort to throw him overboard too, but it was no go, to use a common phrase. Mr. Perry is above even a Tory convention. He came out himself. Now since he came out of his own accord, surely the Tories who love such conduct will manfully support him. The convention was against him, and only when they knew that he would run anyway did they find it prudent to consent for the time.—Since that there has been an effort made to bring out A. H. Campbell, Esq., and oust Mr. Perry. They were to have another convention for that purpose (so say report). Well, really, the Tories are fast following their leader, Mr. A. T. Galt; they are fast going over to the Yankees. Their next cry instead of coalition will be annexation; they always run to extremes. Mr. Galt, a member of the present coalition ministry, was once when out of office, a strong annexationist.

Mr. Carnegie, their first man, has issued his address to the electors, and after perusing it, the independent electors of the West Riding will hardly be willing to entrust him with their business. Mr. Carnegie is and has been a warm supporter of the J. A. McDonald government; has all along worked, and worked strenuously for them, and now seeks election to support them; yet he declares that their management of the "public domain" requires a thorough revision. Under the John A. regime, the lumberman has too many liberties, and consequently he wasted much valuable timber: and Mr. Carnegie thinks so, yet he, if elected, will support the government that permitted this waste by their manner of management.

Mr. Carnegie sees that there were many "appointments of useless officials to fat offices, and other extravagances" too common in the past, and that economy is needed; yet if elected, he goes to support the men who abused office, by "appointing useless officials," and by their extravagance in Grand Trunk jobs; reckless expenditure on the Ottawa buildings, giving $100,000 to one city for support, and all the endless roll of abuses that have been perpetrated. Mr. C. may be very honest in his intentions, but to go and ally himself with men who have lost all sense of shame and of political morality, speaks poorly for the wisdom of the man who would do so. We are willing to admit that now he is sincere in his intentions, but what wise man, what honest man would join himself to pick-pockets, when he knows and acknowledges them to be such. Mr. C. knows them to be such, and in his address he acknowledges it, and yet will go, if elected, to support those political pick-pockets. With the independent electors of the West Riding allow him to thus blast his political morals? Will they cast their votes to send their fellow into a den of political gamblers? or will they not rather cast their vote for a man who eschews such company, and avoid them as he would a deadly plague. We believe they will, and that Mr. will be allowed to remain at home among decent people.

The Editor of the Review gave vent to some little of his old spleen, in his last issue, and it was just in keeping with all the rest of his trash. We can afford to allow him to ease off now and then. What he does or says, concerns us so very little that we can smile and say, who is "Sir Oracle." Let him play the fool with mirth and laughter.

THE VICTORIA WARDER.—We are pleased to see that the Warder is still alive. Mr. Cooper had to sell the whole office as by a decision of the Court he was ordered to send his former press and material back to Omemee. The Warder is somewhat enlarged, and has a very respectable appearance. The proprietor has our best wishes for his success.

PROTESTANT HOME.—Omitted in the list of donations to the Protestant Home during the past months: Mrs. Alexander Smith, parcel of clothing, beef and milk; Captain Rubidge, black beaver hat; $10 from Ashburnham Council; Grand Jury, $6.50; tea canister from Mr. Lennie.

The Twelfth of July,

This year the Orange body is about to pay a visit to Cobourg. We will therefore have no procession here.

Mr. McGee will be opposed in Montreal by Mr. Devlin, and it is believed with strong hopes of success.

A Great Catholic Convention.

On Tuesday a large and influential convention of Catholics was held in Toronto.—Over 250 delegates from the various parts of the province were present. The greatest unanimity appeared to prevail, the London and all the coalition organs are endeavoring to belittle the convention, because, forsooth, it does not show coalition proclivities. They will endeavour now and head to endure the continuance of their nasty. It is now time that the Catholic body should awake to their true position. No wonder that they feel a little restive; for many years they have allowed themselves to be led by a party who cared as little for them as their rights as they did for the Hindoos, provided only that they could secure the Catholic vote to keep themselves in power. These same unscrupulous party leaders managed to keep the vote of the majority of Orangemen too, and thus as many places the anomaly existed of the Catholic and Orangemen having continued bickerings, but at elections uniting to send to parliament men who hated [illegible] another. At Cobourg a few years ago the Hon. Sidney Smith joined the Orange body just previous to an election. Thoughtful Orangemen know why and waited results; [illegible] Reform. He sold the party that first elected him, and McDougall like went over to the enemy. The same man goes to Peterboro' and gets the entire Catholic vote. This is just the game the coalitionists have been playing all along. Now, we ask can a man serve two masters? Wisdom itself says he cannot, and, too often, they hate one and despise both. Now all that is sought by the contention is to free the Catholic body from the control of those demagogues who used them for selfish purposes and are ready now to abuse for the same end. In this county no offer has been made to obtain the Catholic vote; this we say distinctly. The Reformers have regretted that the Catholic electors should act as they have done, but in no instance have they endeavored to coerce by word or deed. When Catholics voted they were allowed to do so, and the result of their vote was quietly borne by the Reformers; the Tory organ only using abusive language, because they did not follow its editor like sheep to the slaughter.

Reformers in the approaching election will thankfully receive Roman Catholic Votes to aid in returning proper representatives, but no coercion will be used, nor bribes offered. Will the Tories just promise that much.—The interests of Catholics and Reformers are one; from Reformers they received all the liberties and privileges they enjoy; their present allies never granted them anything till they found that Reform pressure was such that not to do so would ensure their own defeat. But a word or two in reference to our respected townsman, Mr. Carroll.—The Leader despises hard names when found in the Globe, but why condescend to use them in the Leader? Personal abuse, too, is resorted to; but then it is to serve the ends of Coalition. Nothing wrong in word or deed—conventions—abuses—slang, or any thing else, if it but serve the ends of Coalition. What a great people Coalitionists are; they say do or say any vile thing—it's for the Government. We hope that Catholics will soon be enabled to understand their men. Mr. Carroll can afford to endure a little of their spleen; all classes of citizens here acknowledge his ability; he is respected and honored by Catholics and Protestants, and no amount of invective will have the least effect upon him or upon his standing in community.

Railways of the Dominion.

In addition to the unequalled water highway which we possess in our great lakes and rivers, the Dominion has no less than 2437¼ miles of railway already opened, the construction of which cost $133,360,409. The following table is derived from official sources:—

Sir N. F. Belleau sent for M. Cauchon to form a local government for the province of Quebec. M. Cauchon declined, but afterwards consented on the condition that he should receive no salary. The following are mentioned as likely to be members of the government:—M.M. Simard, Beaubien, Irvine, Dunkin and Archambault.

The Bishop of Montreal has issued a circular to the clergy of his Diocese, with copies of the prayer for the Governor General and for Parliament, altered to suit the new order of things; the word "Dominion" being substituted for "Province."

MAXIMILIAN.—The latest despatches say that an Austrian fleet is about to sail to Mexico for the body of the Prince.

General Stisted has been sworn in Lieut.-Governor of Ontario; Narcisse Belleau, of Quebec.

—The Minerve defends the composition of the Cabinet from the attack of the Montreal Herald. It says that the policy of the United States was to decentralize power, and that of Canada is to centralize it. There are, therefore, be no comparison drawn between the number of departments requiring representation in the Cabinets of the two countries. The Foreign Minister is needed to negotiate treaties of commerce. The Marine Minister is wanted to create a national fleet to afford employment for the chivalrous spirits of Canada. The four finance ministers are to constitute a council on all financial matters—an improvement on the old system, of leaving all to one man, which is much required, and should be hailed with general joy. This is rather a left-handed compliment from the Minerve to Mr. Galt.—Montreal Witness.

THE SPIRIT OF ESCOBEDO BUTCHER GENERAL OF JUAREZ.—As evidence of the animus of these semi-barbarians Escobedo writes from Queretaro:—"I have by the execution of these master-traitors made terror the order of the day everywhere. I have imposed large contributions on the rich, and confiscated their property and their all. Where I could not do so in person, my delegates have strictly complied with my orders. I hope before closing my military career, to see the blood of every foreigner spilt that resides in my country.

MR. MCGEE IN PARS OFF.—Mr. McGee addressed the electors of Prescott at L'Orignal, on Thursday. As said that his object in yielding to the solicitations of his friends in that county and offering himself for election, was [illegible] that he might be able to speak for the [illegible] minority in the Parliament of Roman Cath[illegible] and of any Ontario. He abho[illegible] anything like a secta[illegible] of his behalf raise[illegible] cry he would turn his ba[illegible] in five minutes. At the same time [illegible] ed it only fair that the Roman Catholic [illegible] ity of Ontario should have some representatives of their views and feelings in the local legislature and he was desirous of serving them in that capacity. Heretofore he had thrown all his influence in the scale in order to secure the [illegible] minority of Lower Canada their just rights and to assure them a satisfactory position under the new constitution, and it could not therefore be taken amiss if he should now desire to do as much for his own co-religionists as he had done for others of a [illegible] cast [illegible].

"He remembered the Forgotten" was beautifully said of Howard the philanthropist. It also applies to every man who brings the amelioration, comforts and enjoyments of life within the reach of persons and classes who are otherwise deprived of their advantages. Especially may it be said of him who laboriously seeks and finds new means of preserving health, "the poor man's capital and the rich man's power." We think the eulogium properly applied to J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, the renowned chemist of New England who, spurning the trodden paths to fame, devotes his native abilities and acquirements to the discovery of Nature's most efficient remedies for disease. What the hidden blessing has been revealed, he proceeds to supply it to all mankind alike, through our druggists at such low prices that poor and rich may alike enjoy its benefits.—[Journal and Enquirer, Portland, Me.

Dental Association of Ontario.

Cobourg, July 3.

The members of the Dental Association of Ontario met in the County Council chamber at Toronto last evening. Present—R. W. Day, M. D. of Kingston, President, in the chair; J. B. Ernst, of Cobourg, and John O'Donnell, of Toronto, Secretaries; C. S. Chittenden, Hamilton; P. T. Wood, Picton; A. D. Lalonde, Brockville; M. E. Quinlan, Toronto; Dr. Callendar, Cobourg.

The following dentists of established office practice of five years and more having filed their certificates as to practice and moral character were reported by the committee on credentials as eligible for election as active members. They being present were severally elected and signed the constitution:—Charles Kelly Bradley; W. C. Adams, Toronto; H. Lennie, St. Catharines; Robt. Reid, Galt; W. H. Card, Whitby; D. Pentland, Peterboro; J. A. Brown, Port Hope; T. J. Jones, Bowmanville; S. B. Chandler, Newcastle; R. Trotter, Brampton; J. F. Kennedy, Perth; W. H. Porter, Holland Landing; D. A. White, Ridgetown.

The following dentists having established office, but of less than five years standing, were elected as inspirant members. Being present they severally signed the constitution:—J. M. Brunsdonne, Bowmanville; J. C. Grant, Windsor; Thomas Rowe, Cobourg; J. B. Irish, Whitby; J. Neelands, Port Hope.

A letter was read from the Rev. S. S. Nelles, D. D., President of the Victoria University, inviting the members of the association to visit the University buildings tomorrow at three o'clock, p. m. The invitation was accepted.

The association then adjourned till tomorrow morning at nine o'clock.

Cobourg, July 4.

There were 31 members in attendance, R. W. Day, M.D., in the chair. J. B. Scott, M.D., and J. O'Donnell, Secretaries.

Letters were read from the following Dentists not in attendance, applying for membership:—J. B. Meacham, Brantford; J. Bowes, Ingersoll; R. J. Brown, Galt; S. L. Waters, Barrie; G. W. Hawk, Lindsay.

Mr. R. Trotter, Brampton, called the attention of the Association to the requirement of the constitution, enacting that dentists must have had five years established office practice in order to be eligible for election as active members. He thought the provision good.

Mr. H. T. Wood, Picton, said that the Association, when in session in Toronto, in January last, fairly considered the point that an established office practice, which was successful for five years in one place was a fair test of abilities and qualifications of practitioner; that he should regret to see the standard of qualification lowered, but hoped soon to see it very much raised.

Mr. C. S. Chittenden, Hamilton, would increase rather than lower requirements for membership. He was pleased at meeting so many of the established dentists of the Province; and hoped we should soon have a Bill passed which would settle the question as to what qualifications should be required of persons practising as dentists.

J. S. Scott, M.D., said if he could have been certain of so respectable an attendance, he would have taken the liberty of inviting prominent gentlemen of the town to attend as visitors. He would now move, seconded by Mr. C. S. Chittenden, that Corresponding Secretary be requested to invite physicians, clergymen and Cobourg editors, to attend meetings of this session of the Association. Carried.

Mr. Thomas Rowe, M. D., stated he had been requested by the editor of the Dental Cosmos to supply for a copy of the proceedings for publication. Granted.

Mr. J. O'Donnell, Secretary of Committee, appointed at the Toronto session to draft an Act of incorporation, read a draft of a Bill to incorporate persons practising Dentistry in the Province of Ontario. Ordered to be read a second time this afternoon at two o'clock. Two p.m., Bill read a second and third time to Committee of the whole and approved.

Mr. J. B. Meacham, Brantford, and Mr. J. Bowes, Ingersoll, were balloted for and elected as active members. Mr. F. G. Callender, on part of Committee, reported a draft of By laws, which were adopted.

Mr. C. S. Chittenden read a paper upon Dentition, which was well received and ordered to be printed.

G. V. N. Relyea, Belleville, signed the constitution and took his seat, he having been elected at the Toronto session.

Mr. L. Vancamp, Berlin, was elected and took his seat.

Mr. R. Trotter moved, seconded by Mr. C. S. Chittenden, that in the opinion of the Association it is not desirable that the title of Dr. should be applied to Dentists who are not legally entitled to it.—Carried.

Dr. G. V. N. Relyea presented to the Association, for inspection, in defs of irregular teeth which had been straightened by mechanical appliances.

Cobourg, July 5.

Dr. G. V. N. Relyea, of Belleville, read a paper upon Nitrous Oxide Gas. He stated that he had administered nitrous gas probably 1,000 times, that he had invariably required that a physician should be in attendance as it not only served to remove the timidity of the patient, but in case of disagreeable results the best assistance would be at hand. He had only one case of apparent danger from chloroform; but there was always a risk with regard to its results; and in case anything disagreeable occurred the presence of a physician would divide the responsibility. He considered nitrous oxide gas preferable; he had administered eighty times during the last nine months with the most satisfactory results. He always required the assistance of an assistant; but did not consider the presence of a physician necessary to insist upon the [illegible] which chloroform is dangerous in the sense in which nitrous oxide was dangerous. In one case [illegible] resorted to—laughing gas, a post mortem examination revealed the fact that organic disease may be existing to an extent that the removal of a tooth would have proved fatal.

J. G. Scott, M. D., of Cobourg, replied to Dr Relyea's question, as to his experience with nitrous oxide gas. He had been using it with most satisfactory results for little over a year. He met with difficulty at first in the way of procuring proper apparatus for manufacturing and preserving the gas—It should be kept on hand in a gasometer ready for use. He had administered nearly a hundred times. He kept a registrar, with the names arranged alphabetically. The best way to administer gas was from a gasometer, dispensing with the rubber receiver.

M. M. Johnson, B.A., of New York, said he was largely interested in manufacturing apparatus for making and administering the gas, and would gladly receive any suggestion as to the best kind of apparatus. He was of opinion that gas should be passed through chemicals, to neutralize any poisonous acid that might be present.

Dr. Scott replied that the old way of passing gas through three wash bottles containing chemicals had not proved satisfactory; that chemicals would soon become charged with impurities generated by increased heat required in using three bottles. One bottle filled with water was all that was necessary. Whatever else might be found most pleasurable was of little consequence, when actual practice showed that one bottle gave better gas than three.

Dr. J. B. Meacham, Brantford, said that he had succeeded very well with gas. He had formerly made it in the old way; but intended to use a gasometer, as he was satisfied it was the better way.

Dr. G. V. N. Relyea moved, seconded by Dr. Wood, that in the opinion of this Association, dentists should not administer chloroform except in presence of a physician.—Carried.

Moved by J. O'Donnell, seconded by W. C. Adams, that this Association [illegible] the discipline of cases of mechanical dentistry at doors, as a means of stimulating the public, and also of suggesting rhymes as a high sounding path of capability, as a species of quackery beneath the dignity of any respectable dentist. The Recording Secretary stated that the Medical Council, which also in session in Ottawa, recently had passed a resolution approving of the passing of an Act to incorporate the dental profession.

Drs. Berryman and Pattulle, members of the Medical Council, were elected honorary members of the Association.

Moved by H. T. Wood, seconded by L. Lemon, that G. V. N. Relyea, C. S. Chittenden, F. G. Callendar, and J. B. Meacham, be elected delegates to the American Dental Association.—Carried.

There were several resolutions passed of special interest to dentists, which will be reported in the printed proceedings. The next session will be held in To

It is an admitted fact that the Mexican Mustang Liniment performs more cures in shorter time, on man and beast, than any article ever discovered. Families, livery-men and planters should always have it on hand. Quick and sure it certainly is. All genuine is wrapped in steel-plate engravings, bearing the signature of G. W. Westbrook Chemist, and the private U. S. stamp of Demas Barnes & Co. over the top.

An effort has been made to counterfeit it with a cheap stone plate label. Look closely!

HORSES SAVED.

The lives of thousands of Horses have been saved during the past year, and the credit is due to "Darley's Arabian Fluxon Remedy and Condition Medicine." This preparation is being extensively used, and exacts from all the highest praise. Nothing of the kind has ever before been half as successful or given universal satisfaction; it cannot be equalled. We can confidently recommend it, and would advise all who own horses to keep a supply of it on hand—it may be the means of saving your horses life.

Remember the name, and see that the signature of Heard & Co. is on each package.

Who would not be beautiful? Who would not add to their beauty? What gives that marble purity and contour appearance we observe upon the stage, and in the city belle? It is no longer a secret. They use Hagan's Magnolia Balm. Its continued use removes tan, freckles, pimples and roughness, from the face and hands, and leaves the complexion smooth, transparent, blooming and ravishing. Unlike many cosmetics, it contains no material injurious to the skin. Any Druggists will order it for you, if not on hand, at 50 cts. per bottle.

DENTISTRY.

MR J. O'DONNELL, Corresponding Secretary and Member of the Board of Examiners of the "Dental Association of the Province of Ontario." Office in Peterborough closed till Tuesday, July 16th

At Sloan's Hotel, Millbrook, from the 16th to the 18th, inclusive.

Peterboro', July 10, 1867.

By-Law No.

A By-law to raise by way of loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, for the purposes hereinafter mentioned.

WHEREAS the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, have resolved to raise the sum of Ten Thousand dollars, for the purpose of erecting and building a Bridge across Chemong Lake, from a point on the shore of said Lake, in the Township of Smith, in said County of Peterborough, to a point on the shore of said Lake in the Township of Ennismore, in said County, and also another Bridge across Pigeon Creek from a point on the shore or Bank of said Creek in the Township of Ennismore aforesaid, to a point on the shore of said Creek, in the Township of Harvey, in the County of Peterborough.

And whereas, to carry into effect the said recited object it will be necessary for the said Municipal Council to raise by way of loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars in the manner hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas, it will require the sum of $1,400, to be raised annually by special rate for the payment of said debt or loan and interest as also hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the said Municipality of the said County of Peterborough irrespective of any future increase of the same, and also irrespective of any income to be derived from the temporary in estimate of the sinking fund hereinafter mentioned, or any part thereof according to the last revised and equalized Assessment Rolls of the said Municipality, is the sum of Two Million Seven Hundred and Eighty Five Thousand Three Hundred and Sixty One dollars, ($2,785,361).

And whereas the existing debt of the said Municipality of the County of Peterboro' is Twenty Nine Thousand Four Hundred dollars, ($29,400) for principal money, and Twelve Thousand and Forty-Six dollars, ($12,046) for interest, and there is nothing in arrear or account of said principal or interest.

And whereas for paying the interest and creating an equal yearly sinking fund for paying the said sum of Ten Thousand dollars, and interest as hereinafter mentioned, it will require an equal annual special rate of one half of a mill in the dollar in addition to all rates to be levied in each year.

Be it therefore enacted by the Municipal Council of the County of Peterborough:

1. That it shall be lawful for the Warden of the said County to raise by way of loan from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate, who may be willing to advance the same upon the credit of the Debentures hereinafter mentioned, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and to cause the same to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the said County of Peterborough, for the purposes and with the objects above recited.

2. That it shall be lawful for the said Warden to cause any number of Debentures to be made, for such sums of money as may be required, not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100) each and not to exceed in the whole the said sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and that the said Debentures shall be sealed, with the seal of the said Municipal Council, and be signed by the said Warden, and countersigned by the Treasurer of said County.

3. That said Debentures shall be made payable in ten years at the farthest from the day hereinafter mentioned for this By-law to take effect, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality, and shall have attached to them Coupons for the payment of interest.

4. That the said Debentures shall bear interest at and after the rate of six per centum per annum, from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half yearly, on the 13th day of October and the 13th day of April in each year, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality.

5. That for the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said Debentures and the interest at the rate aforesaid to become due thereon, an equal special rate of one half a mill in the dollar shall in addition to all other rates be raised, levied and collected in each year upon the rateable property in said Municipality during the continuance of the said Debentures or any of them.

6. That this By-law shall take effect and come into operation upon the Fifteenth day of October, 1867.

The above is a true copy of a proposed By-law to be taken into consideration by the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, at Peterborough, in the said County, on at the hour of TWO o'clock in the afternoon, at which time and place the members of the Council are hereby required to attend for the purpose aforesaid.

The Tenth Day of October, 1867

TO THE

Free and Independent Electors

OF THE WEST RIDING OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN:

Having been requested by a number of respectable and intelligent electors of the Riding to become your representative, and having been named by a large meeting of the Reform Committee as the Reform Candidate for the Local Legislature of Ontario, in the West Riding of this County, I have consented to stand and now respectfully solicit your suffrages.

Having resided in the County for nearly half a century, I may be supposed to be acquainted with the struggles of early bush life, as well as the requirements of the progressive state of the county; and being a practical farmer, I flatter myself that I know somewhat of the wants and desires of the class to which I belong, and if returned as your Representative, the interest of the farmers will receive a large share of my attention.

My political opinions are what they always have been. I belong to the old-fashioned Reformers, and hold the distinctive features of that party. The following are some of the cardinal articles of my political creed: Equal civil and religious liberty to all classes of Her Majesty's subjects, irrespective of origin, creed or color; equal privileges to all religious denominations; no parliamentary interference in matters of religion; no grants to denominational colleges; responsible government; the settlement of the wild lands of the Crown by free grants to actual settlers; the most rigid economy in the public expenditure, consistent with the due administration of the public departments; no spending of public money without the sanction of parliament.

There being a large tract of arable land in our rear, the immediate settlement of which would materially benefit the Town and County generally, my best attentions will be given to any and every scheme, having for its object the settlement, by actual settlers, of this tract, and to the opening up and improving of roads therein, as well as those leading thereto.

Having all my estate in the County, I feel equally interested with yourselves in its prosperity. My object in seeking to go to Parliament is not to look after office or emolument to myself, but simply to seek the good of the country generally, and of this County in particular.

As you have done me the honor to nominate me as your candidate, I trust that, if elected, you will find that your decision and confidence have not been misplaced.

I shall make it my business at an early day to see as many of you in your respective neighborhoods as I possibly can before the election takes place, when I shall be happy to give any information in my power, and my views on any questions submitted to me.

Meantime,
I remain, gentlemen,
Your obed't servant,
JOHN WALTON.

AS my business in the Ready-made Clothing line exceeded much more than I expected, I am about to open another Ladies' Department, so as to have quite room for the sale of Clothing Department; therefore I announce that I will give

TEN PER CENT. DISCOUNT!

On the purchases of the following Goods, that is to say:

DRESS GOODS!

OF EVERY DESCRIPTION, SUCH AS

Delaines, Cobourgs, Prints, Ginghams, Muslins,

BAREGES, RIBBONS,

LACE, GLOVES, PARASOLS,

SHIRTINGS, TICKINGS,

And many other things for Ladies' Wear too numerous to mention.

THIS IS NO HUMBUG!

I am forced to give up selling this class of goods, as I am devoting myself entirely to the Ready-made Clothing business. Ladies wishing to get a cheap dress will do well to call and see for themselves. These Goods have been purchased this last spring, and are fresh and in the newest styles of fashion.

LIFE AND WORKS OF ROBERT BURNS,

BY THE

REV. P. HATELY WADDELL,

(Author of the well-known Essays on his Genius, and Lectures on the "Omens" on the Centenary of his Birth).

This edition will be illustrated with Two Portraits of the Poet; with Frontispiece composed of five Scenes selected from the Works or Land of Burns; and with Twenty-five Pictures from Original Drawings—the whole produced in finest Oil Colours, from Engravings by eminent artists, in the highest style of the art.

The prominent Literary characteristic of this edition will be an entirely New Life of the Poet, in the form of a Spiritual Biography, by the Rev. Editor; with much valuable additional matter relating to Burns—including some hitherto unpublished Fragments of the Poet himself, interesting original Reminiscences of his Life, original Notes critical and historical on his Poems, and an Essay on the Progress and Development of the Scottish Language up till his day.

In the department of Illustration, the distinctive feature of every Picture will be its Originality in Design, and its absolute fidelity to nature in every detail of Scene; The actual spot referred to with all its surroundings wherever locality constitutes a portion of the picture, will be scrupulously adhered to—so that readers at a distance, natives of Scotland, may recognize in every scene a transcript of the soil; and strangers may look with confidence on every illustration as a reality. In the same department, the Publisher has the highest satisfaction in being able to announce that he is in a position to reproduce an authentic and most wonderful Likeness of Robert Burns—from the Original Miniature unquestionably, which was painted the year before his death; and of which Burns alleges that it is "the most remarkable likeness of what I am at this moment, that I think ever was taken of any body"—together with a most interesting and beautiful Miniature of his eldest Son, painted at the same time as a pendant to the Poet's likeness. These portraits which have been lost to the world for twenty-one years, are now in possession of the Rev. P. Hately Waddell; and cannot fail when presented to the world, to excite universal attention. No Portrait of the Poet however can compare for a moment, in fidelity or force, with this miniature of Burns.

The work will be completed in Seventeen Monthly Parts, Demy 4 to 48 pages, price Half Dollar each. Printed from new type upon the finest printing paper.

The great care and beauty with which the above work is being got up will make it an ornament most suitable for the drawing-rooms alike of the peer and of the merchant; whilst the mode of publishing and the price charged will bring it early within the reach of every tradesman throughout the world.

"Beyond the sea—beyond the sun:
Till then, and then I love thee!"

A New Discovery better than the

MADOC GOLD.

Notice for a Cold—Relief in five Minutes

WHY do you suffer with a bad Cold when one bottle of Morris's Electric Inaugurating Fluid will cure the worst cold in three days. It is far superior to any pain-killer or Liniment or Ready-relief. Try it once and you will not keep your house without it, for after all other remedies have failed it has cured hundreds of rheumatism, frost-bites, chilblains, burns, scalds, bruises, sprains, pains in the bowels, fresh cuts, lame back, headache and all pains internal and external. Sold everywhere at 25 cents per bottle. Retail and wholesale only by E. MORRIS, Peterborough, C. W. Guaranteed to give satisfaction or the money refunded. Every one should have a bottle.

Peterboro', Jan. 20th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed withou t assistance from others. In fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who reside in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr. John Arthur to try Dr. Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect; when I bought four bottles more I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid,

GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY

Of the Celebrated Indian, Dr. Lewis Josephus, of the Distinguished Tribe of Shoshonees, British Columbia, is now for sale in Canada.

THIS all-possessing Great Indian Remedy is wanted, and in broad and emphatic language, we can safely say, may be replied upon to make a permanent cure of all Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive Organs, &c., as well as Scrofula, the various Skin Diseases, Humors, and all diseases arising from impurity of the Blood, excepting the third stage of Consumption. In the Western Country where this Great Remedy has been in use for a short time, it has indeed effected some of the most Marvellous Cures ever recorded in the annals of Historical Medicine. Such being the case, in addition to its former record and celebrity, we defy humanity to dispute the fact, that this, the Great Shoshonees Remedy, in connection with the Shoshonees Vegetable Restorative Pills, is the Remedy of Remedies of the 19th Century, and the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

CANCERS CURED!

By a new, but certain, speedy, and nearly painless process, and

WITHOUT THE USE OF THE KNIFE.

THE cure will be guaranteed, and, as a proof of this, no pay is required, until the cure is complete. The moment a cancer is discovered, it should be cured, as it will eat less and is more speedily cured than when of longer standing, and there is nothing to gain, and everything to lose by delay. What now seems a harmless lump in the breast, neck, eye-lid or elsewhere, or small wart or a sore on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, disgusting, destroying mass of disease. If required, references can be given to parties who have been cured many years since, and to be now sound and healthy. All communications promptly answered. No money required in advance, and none until the cure is complete.

Poetry.

AT EVENTIDE.

And as the day fades quite away,
Nor leaves us as it found us;
There's something fled, there's something dead,
There's something missing round us;
We cannot tell, if ill or well,
It's coming as it's going—
We only know the moments go,
While we're older growing.

If some sweet hope blossomed on the slope,
Be it hidden in the shadow,
If promise gave to limpid wave,
Some sunshine from the meadow.
Alas! the day scarce died away,
Ere memory was only
The link between the smiling scene,
And heart by grief made lonely.

If—but, alas!—the day-time pass,
The nights descend upon us;
But here or there, no shining stair
To Jacob's heights hath won us.
We may not know, just when loves go,
But's nothing prompts the story;
And time goes by, nor shows us why
The grief entrains the glory.

HOE OUT YOUR ROW.

BY MRS. N. M'CONAUGHY.

The youngest son stood with his fair bride upon the threshold of the old farmhouse. He was the last of four brave boys who had gone forth from the humble roof to walk their way up manfully, to a place of honor and usefulness in the world. Perhaps there was a little dimness in the old man's eye, and may be a little tremor in his voice as he spoke the farewell words. But he took from the old side-cupboard the parting gift; a bright, new hoe—and as he placed it in the hands of the youth, the accompanying admonition sounded cheerily on his ear, "Hoe out your row."

It was the fourth time a similar presentation had been made in the old homestead.

"Everybody will find his row to hoe in this world, George—and some times it's a mighty tough one; but it is only cowards that shrink it. "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might, and never forget to look up."

The old man wrung the hand of his son, and stooped down to kiss the cheek of his fair, new daughter; while mother busied herself with the dozen "last things," which every one but a mother forgets.—The lingering farewells were all said at last, and the old coach rolled away with the two hopeful, sunny hearts just entering life's bright and beautiful summer.

The old homestead seemed deserted and drear as a last year's nest. The aged pair sat down by their own hearthstone alone as when they began life together. How these old walls had rung to the sound of childhood's mirth, and childhood's step, and in later years had echoed with the tread of manful feet. Now they must live more in the buried past.

But to George and Ellen life seemed all one bright future, with the rainbow of hope arching all their plans and projects.

Their Western home was a humble one, and plenty of work for willing hands with it. The young farmer's chief capital was his strong arm and stout heart, and the sound working-day principles he had been taught from childhood. Sometimes he grew discouraged at the prospect of paying for the place he worked—but he was sure to meet with hearty encouragement and words of cheer from Ellen; a glance, too, at the parting gift of his father, as it stood on the mantle in the family room, was as good as a sermon any day. There it stood ever ready to give encouragement or admonition, as the case might be. Strangers might think it a strange curious ornament for a chimney-piece, but it was soon regarded as one of the household treasures. Dust nor rust were never suffered to mar its brightness.

"Ellen, it is no use trying," said George, one evening, quite despondingly, as he turned away from some figures he had been making on a scrap of paper, "I can't make out the payment this week, and I may as well give it up."

Ellen looked up cheerfully from her work and nodded toward the mantle.

"I have hoed and hoed, but this row is too much for me. The wool will pay the next instalment, and the crops the next; but where this fifty dollars is to come from, that I need in addition to what I can make out, is more than I can see."

"Sell the cow, George," advised Ellen; "you were offered sixty dollars for her, you know."

"But what can we do for butter, and cream to our coffee, and all that?"

"Do without for a time, dear. A home is a great deal more important to us now than any table luxury. Besides, you shall not suffer. These little self denials, you know, are almost unavoidable, if we would fairly hoe out our row."

George, like a sensible man, took his wife's advice; and the satisfaction he felt as he paid down the money promptly and took his receipt, far exceeded that which any table enjoyment could afford him.

Ellen ransacked her memory for economical sauces and gravies, to take the place of old Debby's golden butter and yellow cream; and she never forgot to stir a well beaten egg into the pot of coffee, and so improving its richness that George scarcely missed the favorite luxury.

Steadily onward he hoed his row until the place was all his own. The old home had put on a new face out doors and in.—There were shrubs and rose bushes in attendance at the once tangled and brier-grown door-yard, and a fine young orchard was blooming on the sunny slope toward the south.

There were files of agricultural papers on the broad shelf of the little library, and a choice selection of miscellaneous books above them. There were little tasteful appointments here and there, about the general sitting room, but the bright hue was never displaced by any gun or wrydial. The pretty self-framed pictures might look down upon it, if they chose; it could not be looked out of countenance.

George was respected and known by all his neighbors, and the stranger who shared but for a night the generous hospitality of his broad hearth-stone, went away to speak, years after, of the pleasant hours he spent there; and the kind attentions of the gentle wife, whose whole heart took in every suffering, sorrowing one of earth. The blessing of the Lord was upon the household, and it is that alone "which maketh rich, and He addeth no sorrow with it."

Years sped apace, when one cruelly October, a circular autograph letter went round the circle of brothers, bidding them all come to the golden wedding. And the call gathered them in from their distant homes.

There was a racket of merry, youthful voices on the grandchildren romped through the old halls; but grandfather's face was brimful of smiles; and grandma's pet and name-sake, gentle dignified Grace, took the reins of government into her hands, so all moved on most harmoniously, relieving mother of all care, and leaving them to chat to their heart's content.

Carrie was the daughter-in-law who lived nearest home, so the care of the feast fell on her. "Grandma must not stir from her rocking-chair" until all was upon the table. Indeed it would be hard for her to accomplish much with so many little runaways under her feet all the time, whose manifold perfections must continually be observed and commented on.

The evening lamp was lighted, and a little fire was burning in the open fire-place, as all was seated in the old home-room.

William, the eldest born, stepped forth from the little group, and advancing to his gray-haired father, said:—

"It is twenty-two years since the first of us went forth from this roof to make his way in the world. As each, in turn, took his departure, you presented to him a bright new hoe, with the injunction, 'Hoe out your row.' How well we have followed your directions and the lessons of industry, perseverance, Christian integrity, and self denial, you have always taught, by your words and by your life, it remains for you to judge. As a token that we have not forgotten your teachings, in the name of my brothers and myself, I present this hoe to you," and with a bow he laid it upon the little round stand before him.

The old man dropped his head, and the thin hairs fell upon his temples as he simply said, with choked voice:—

"God bless the boys!"

"Mother," said Ralph, advancing to her side, "we all know that you would not desire any gifts of jewels and golden ornaments, such as are common on these occasions. But we thought the contents of this little box might add some comfort to your lives, which we should delight to be-low, if we were not so widely separated." He placed in her hands a beautiful gilt casket, containing four of the broadest pieces the mint turns out, with a liberal sprinkling of smaller yellow drops from the little grandchildren.

"Now, father," said Dominie Ned, as he walked up to the stand, "I must give you my wedding present;" and he laid before him his beautiful copy of the Testament and Psalms, printed in very large, clear type, so grateful to the failing sight of age. In bright, gilt letters on the side were stamped these words:—

"I love thy commandments above gold; yea, above fine gold."

"Now, perhaps we had better sing our evening hymn; and after worship, let the little ones tramp off to bed."

The patriarch knelt among his flock, and the prayer, from his full heart, to God's blessings upon them, was as if he had entered within the veil. There were tears on many cheeks when they rose, and a subdued tone ran even in the "good nights" of the merry children.

Then all drew up about the fire, and told over tales of other days. William told how he had hoed out a pretty hard row in the new place where he had sought to establish himself as a physician. But after due waiting, the "first patient" came at last, and the second, and so on, until now he was "the old physician" of the place with two young men in the office with him.

Dominie Ned (otherwise Rev. Edward Lent) detailed some of the "Stony Side" experiences of his first charge, but they were pleasantly relieved by the many "Sunny Side" incidents his wife took care to suggest as he went along.

George and Ralph compared farm notes, and altogether, the evening passed as only such gatherings, by such a hearthstone, ever can. It is only such training that can produce such results.

If you wish your boys and girls to grow up useful, honorable, and happy, teach them faithfully "to hoe out their row."

A young couple went to Rev. Paul Davis to get married. Mr. D. is a wag, and by mistake began to read from the prayer book as follows: "Man that is born of a woman is full of trouble, and hath but a short time to live." The astonished bridegroom suddenly exclaimed: "Sir, you mistake; we came to be married."—"Well," replied Davis, "if you insist, I will marry you, but believe me, my friend, you had better be buried."

The Boston Journal says that a gentleman in a suburban town buried his sixth wife last week. Shortly after the funeral he met the minister who officiated and offered him a three dollar greenback. The minister declined to take it, saying he was not accustomed to accept pay for such services. The gentleman coolly replied "Just as you say, but that's what I've been in the habit of paying!"

'SIR,' said an indignant husband to his reckless friend, 'you have abused my hospitality, you have kicked me down stairs, and you have kissed my wife before my face. Beware, sir! A few more such outrages, and, by Jove, you'll rouse the British lion."

An Adventure in the Cars.

There were five of us—you see as happy fellows as ever were let loose from a village. It was vacation, and we concluded to take a trip to the Falls. We got aboard the cars at N——, and were soon travelling very rapidly towards our destination.

We had just seated ourselves, and prepared for a comfortable smoke, when in came the conductor, and who could it be but our old friend, Fred B——. After the usual salutations had passed, Fred said he had some business for us to attend to.

'Out with it,' said we, 'anything at all will be accomplished, so let us have it.'

'Well, boys,' said Fred, in a very confidential tone, 'in the next car there is as loving a pair as it was ever my lot to see. They are going down to H——, to get married, and now if you can have any fun over it just watch in. They must be served for, and I don't know who can do it better than you.'

In a moment Fred was gone, and we went to work to form a plan for 'taking care of the lovers.'

'I have it, boys,' said Bill Steevens.—'We must make the girl think that her lover is married.'

'That's it, Bill—that's it,' said we, not giving him time to finish the sentence.

'That he is a married man, and the father of children,' said Bill.

'That's the game, boys; now let's play it.'

It devolved upon me to commence the operations. Accordingly I entered the car in which we were informed the lovers were. Sure enough, there they were—the girl, thanking, I suppose, she must give her lover all the seat, sat on his knee; and he, for the purpose of protecting her, had thrown his arms around her waist; and so they sat in real soft lovers style.

All this I gathered at a glance. Stepping up to them, I said—

'Why, Jones, what in the deuce are you doing with the girl?'

The girl arose hastily and seated herself on the seat.

'See here, stranger,' said the fellow, 'you are a mite mistaken; my name ain't Jones, no how.'

'Why, Jones,' said I, 'you certainly have not left your wife and children, and tried to palm yourself off for a single man—have you?'

'I tell you my name ain't Jones; it's Harper. It was never Jones, taint a goin' to be neither!'

I merely shook my head and passed on to another seat to see the rest of the fun. The girl looked 'wild.'

About the time they got to feeling all right again, in came Elliott Gregg, walking up to Harper he accosted him with—

'Why, Jones, you here? How did you leave the family at home?'

'Now, see here, stranger, you ain't the first man that's called me Jones, and I have not a wife.'

'Ah, Jones,' said Gregg, 'you'll regret this in future. I pity your wife and this poor girl.'

'So, Mr. Harper, your real name is Jones—is it; and you have been fooling me, have you? Well, we ain't spliced yet—and don't think we shall be soon,' said the girl, and her eyes flashed fire.

'Jane, Jane,' said Harper, 'don't you know that I'm Bill Harper?'

At this moment in came Jeff Jackson, Bill Steevens and Jem Byers, and of course their attention was called to Harper by his loud talking.

They stepped up to him, and appeared greatly surprised, said—

'Why, Jones, what on earth is all this fuss about?'

This was more than Harper could stand. He leaped upon a seat—

'Now,' said he, 'my name is not Jones, and I can lick the fellow that says it in.'

By this time we had got to H—— and our friend Fred came into the car and made Harper keep quiet.

The girl that wouldn't be spliced requested Fred to help her on the train that was going back to S——, which he did, and the notorious Jones alias Harper, followed her.

It is reported that afterwards he proved himself to be Bill Harper instead of Bill Jones, and he and his gal Jane then 'got spliced.'

A Chicago paper says: We took a new reporter on trial yesterday. He went out to hunt items, and after being away all day returned with the following, which he said was the best he could do: Yesterday we saw a sight that froze our muscles with horror. A hackman, driving down Clark street at a rapid pace, came very near running over a nurse and two children. There would have been one of the most heart-rending catastrophes ever recorded, had not the nurse, with wonderful forethought, left the children at home before she went out and providently stepped into a drug store just before the hack passed. There, too, the hackman, just before reaching the crossing, thought of something that he had forgotten, and, turning about, drove in the opposite direction. Had it not been for the wonderful concurrence of favoring circumstances, a doting father, a loving mother, and affectionate brothers and sisters, would have been plunged into the deepest woe and most unutterable funeral expenses.' The new reporter will be retained.

When Dr. Johnson asked the widow Porter to be his wife, he told her candidly that he was of mean extraction, that he had no money, and that he had an uncle hanged. The widow replied that she cared nothing for his parentage, that she had no money herself, and though she had not a relative hanged, she had fifty who deserved hanging. So they made a match of it.

MRS. CRIBBLES has great ideas of her husband's military powers. 'For two years,' says she, 'he was a lieutenant in the home-service, after which he was promoted to the captaincy of a regular squad of cupboards and mirrors.'

Hoeing in Church.

A good story is told of an eccentric old parson, who was evenly annoyed by a habit his people had acquired (and which prevails, by the way, in all other churches, even new and broadboats, to some extent) of twisting their necks around every time anybody entered the door and peered up the aisle of the church to see what manner of person it might be.

Worried with the annoyance, the old man exclaimed one Sunday—

'Brethren, if you will only cease turning your heads toward whenever the door opens, and you will keep your attention on me, I will promise to tell you as I preach, who it is that comes in.'

Accordingly he went on with the service, and presently made a step as one of the deacons entered, saying—

'That is Deacon ——, who keeps the grocery opposite.'

And then he announced in turn the advent of each individual, proceeding the while with his sermon as composedly as the circumstances would admit, when at last a stranger came in, and he cried out—

'A little old man in green spectacles, and a drab overcoat—don't know him—you can look for yourselves.'

It is hardly necessary to add that the good man carried his point, and there was but little neck twisting in his congregation after that day.

A STRANGE INCIDENT.

A party of people, recently amusing themselves at the house of Rev. Mr. White, Terre Haute, Indiana, were suddenly startled on hearing the croaking of a frog in their midst. While they were vainly searching for the frog—an unwelcome visitor, certainly, in a front parlor—they noticed that one of their number, a young girl of 17, named Mary Copar, suddenly uttered a terrible scream and swooned away. As her young companions gathered about her, applying restoratives, they made a discovery that thrilled them with horror. Mr. White coming in at this juncture inquired as to the meaning of the strange tumult, and was informed that the croaking of a frog was heard proceeding from the stomach of Miss Copar.—Yes—there could be no mistake; the voice of the frog came from the young girl!—She swooned away before the kind minister could inspire her with sufficient hardihood and coolness to endure her misfortune as became a Christian and her companions were obliged to take her home in a carriage. Dr. Williams, a promising young surgeon, on a visit to some relatives in this place, was immediately sent for. He perceived at once that his task was a difficult one, but with remarkable self-possession and a steady hand he proceeded at once with the work which alone could save the girl's life. Before night he had made an incision in the flesh just below the breast, and extracted a large green speckled frog almost four inches in length. The girl is now doing well and will recover.

EVIL COMPANIONS.

Parents cannot be too careful in selecting society for their children, and young men cannot be too choice in their associations. The adage has lost nothing by age which says, "A man is known by the company he keeps." To young men especially, it is of infinite importance that they should be furnished with companions possessing generous hearts, and honorable, virtuous sentiments. Says the distinguished Robert Hall, in his "Works," recently published by Harper & Brothers, "Society is the atmosphere of souls; and we necessarily imbibe from it something which is either infectious or salubrious. The society of virtuous persons is enjoyed beyond their company, while vice carries a sting in solitude. The society of the company you keep, is both the indication of your character and the former of it. In company, when the pores of the mind are opened, their requires more guard than usual, because the mind is then passive.—Either vicious company will please you or it will not; if it does not please you, the end of going will be defeated. In such society you will feel your reverence for the dictates of conscience wear off, and that sense at which angels bow, devils tremble, you will hear contemned and abused. The Bible will supply materials for unmeaning jests and impious buffoonery; the consequence of this will be a practical deviation from virtue; the principles will become sapped and the fences of conscience broken down; and when debauchery has corrupted the character, a total inversion will take place; they will glory in their shame."

Poor fellow! So young, too! Well, sooner or later we all bid farewell to the pleasures of life. 'Tis but just ——

What! has anything happened to Sister. Is he dying?

No! so! but he's taken a wife.

An exchange, in speaking of the magical strains of a hand organ, says:—"When he played 'Old Dog Tray,' we noticed eleven purps in front of the machine on their haunches, brushing the tears from their eyes with their paws."

It is said that printed declarations, with blank forms, are to be used by young ladies who have lovers too modest to propose.—The ladies themselves fill out the blanks, and of course, no sensible man can refuse signing them.

The following conundrum is above the average:—Why was Eve the first Ritualistic convert? Because she began by being eve-angelical, and ended by taking to vestments.

THURSDAY, JULY 18, 1867.

Mr. Sutherland.

We regret to be forced to announce that Mr. D. Sutherland has retired from the political arena. It is but justice to him to say that it is not because of fear of results, but because circumstances will not permit him to continue in the field. When Mr. S. was nominated, he accepted the nomination conditionally. At the time he expected an appointment under a foreign government. This we understand is now realized. Mr. Sutherland will, no doubt, give a public explanation of his position at an early day. At present he has left for New York.

MR. EVANS INGRAM, the coming man in his place. After the resignation of Mr. Sutherland, the eyes of Reformers turned toward Evans Ingram, Esq., as the best man for the position, and accordingly a large and respectable deputation waited on him. At the same time a requisition was set on foot, and many of the best names in Otonabee were placed to it. Mr. Ingram being called on, said that although his name had been frequently spoken of as a probable candidate, yet at the present time he was taken unawares. The deputation were led to believe that if the people signified such a desire as would warrant a reasonable hope of success, he would consider the request. There is, therefore, the strongest reason to believe that Mr. Ingram will be induced to accept the condition in Mr. Sutherland's place. Mr. Ingram, we may add, is a sound Reformer, an honest upright farmer, has the confidence of his party and of his opponents also, and will make a good representative. We trust, next week, to be able to declare that he has consented.

The East Riding.

In the East Riding, Mr. Anderson's canvass is proceeding favorably. He has the most favorable assurances of success. He and his friends, however, will do well to be still active, for no effort will be spared to defeat him, if possible. We also trust that Reformers will remain true to their colors, and boldly assert their superiority at the coming contest. Surely they will not stultify their former action and turn round now and support those principles they have for years condemned.

In the West, Messrs. Gordon and Walton have planned out for themselves a part of the campaign. On Friday evening they will address the electors at the Town Hall, North Monaghan; on Monday evening at Garbutt's School House, Smith; on Tuesday evening at Beaubeir School House, South Monaghan. We hope that the friends in those neighborhoods will turn out and hear what they have to say on present affairs. The committee here are satisfied that they are the right men and that they will be elected without fail; but the people must help; let every man do his duty and the result need not be feared. Mr. Gordon is a true Reformer and is a wealthy merchant and manufacturer. His interests are largely interwoven with those of the country generally, and in no way will the people better consult their own interest than by supporting him.

Quebec.

Mr. Couchon failed in Quebec, and Mr. Chauveau has succeeded. The Quebec cabinet are—

Mr. Chauveau (Premier) Secretary and Registrar.
Mr. Dunkin, Treasurer.
Mr. Ouimet, Attorney General.
Mr. Archambault, Commissioner of Public Works.
Mr. Irvine, Commissioner of Crown Lands.
Mr. DeBoucherville, Speaker of the Legislative Council.
Mr. Irvine, Solicitor-General.

Ontario.

John Sandfield McDonald has been called upon to form a government for Ontario. Latest information says he had called on Mr. Carling and Stephen Richards, but Mr. McDonald was not able to get another man to form what the Leader calls a combination government.

RELIGIO-POLITICAL MEETING.

On Sunday last, Innisfil why shew gray ere the Orangemen who had just returned from the Norwood meeting, "breathing out slaughter" against all who claim intellectual liberty, convened a meeting of Catholics and the Separate School cause. The meeting was evidently what Bottom the Weaver would call, but we learn that the Roman Catholic (and other conventions, (or perhaps,) was decidedly opposed in strong terms. Mr. John Cassell also received some attention at the hands of those non-sectarian patriots Bishop Poole and Fitzgerald. Their head and butter is in danger, and hence their enthusiasm in the coalition cause. Will the sober and intelligent Catholics of this County allow those tricksters to hurry them into the old religious strife and bickerings of the past? We ask Catholics also to cease for the character and designs of the men who thus use their religious connexion as a political engine for a corrupt government. The platform has been "no party." This they have refused as useless, impolitic and unpatriotic in Reformers, and have sought to make us believe that their desire was to erase party lines and party issues. Their design, however, were evident to the commonest observer. But if party was wrong last week, last Friday, how did they dare on Sunday to arouse religious party feeling in their so-called interests? If to maintain party lines was unpatriotic last week, how can they rob them of the cover of their patriotism on Sunday and become violent partisans? If a party cry was an index of opposition to confederation, how did they dare to raise the party cry just after offering up their prayers to heaven? How could they dare attempt to arouse that unpatriotic spirit in the minds of their co-religionists and countrymen. If Reformers have done wrong, is it an excuse for them to do so too? Will too wrongs make any thing right? Besides, are political considerations of more importance than good will amongst the different denominations that inhabit our country? Is coalition of more concern to those unprincipled demagogues than individual liberty of thought and action to their friends? Will the intelligent Catholics of this County allow a tyrant to lord it over them by naming to them as a people for whom they shall vote, and that tyrant a political whipper-in, whose only aim is self aggrandizement? We do not accuse the priesthood of interference, for of that we know nothing. But we do ask, however, will the people allow Sir J. A., Poole, Fitzgerald & Co., dictate to them that they must vote for the conservative candidates only? Will they follow the nod of Dr. Poole instead of Mr. Carroll, who has been a life-long consistent Catholic? Will they forget their inalienable birth-right by any adhesion to the dictates of a coalition hanger-on, who would just as ardently advocate J. H. Cameron, the Grand Master of Orangemen as he would Daniel O'Connel, the great liberator. Let them now throw off the shackles that binds them, assert their true dignity, that of free men, vote upon the principles of enlightened reason, and for their true friends, and be no longer at the mercy of any one party, to be used and abused as that party may choose.

"A Man's Foes shall be they of his own Household."

At the Norwood meeting on Saturday, the coalitionists brought out P. M. Grover, Esq., as the coalition and corruption candidate for the East Riding in the House of Commons of Canada. In the East the name of P. Pearce, Esq., has been spoken of for some months as the coalition candidate for the Legislature of Ontario, and accordingly he was heard at the meeting. But his friend, the editor of the Review, was present and opposed him. Evidently a great change has come over the virtual organs of the organ. He has found a wealthier man and money makes the organ grind; it got wrathy at the meeting and said of its old and tried friend some hard things; not satisfied with opposing Mr. Pearce, it almost sins him, with the intent of destroying his public character and standing.

> "Birds in their little nests agree,
> And 'tis a shameful sight,
> When children of one family,
> Fall out and strike an fight"

In fact there were signs of being sold.—Private confabs and cunning manœuvering at an early hour indicated the probable course. The Keene Tories having united with the Town coalitionists, and one or two down Eastern, so managed their affairs that they prevented an unanimous vote against the Keene candidate. But it remains to be seen whether the East will allow their man to be shelved by the medicine men; we are greatly mistaken if they do. Of course, we will be accused of trying to split the Tories, but the Tory organ is the wedge. It has deserted its friend at the tune of "ten dimes make a dollar," no doubt. The friend will not bear it and hence the trouble. But we would remind their new friends that the late Mr. Conger was served the same way when he became poor. Mr. Perry, too, has the name of not having much to spend, and hence the cold shoulder there both at last election and this one. Mr. Pearce must have expected something or be is more short-sighted than most mortals are.

Mr. John Carroll, too, came in for a share of abuse. "He is an unprincipled fellow, that would stop at nothing to encompass his ends" So said the Editor of the Review at the Norwood meeting. Another friend abused. We thought the Globe only was guilty of such conduct; but the Review is just as tyrannical and as ready to abuse.—The Editor of the Review raised the religious cry too at Norwood. He wondered that the Reformers would make overtures to Mr. Carroll, and he a Roman Catholic, those were his words; to which the Editor of the Examiner replied that Reformers did not ask a Reformer what his religious views were. Politics had no religion with them; they would support a Catholic who had their confidence as warmly as they would a Protestant. After the Norwood meeting Reformers will not be accused of raising the religious cry in politics. The Editor of the Review, a Roman Catholic, was the first to raise it, at this campaign; but anything to gain his object. Will the Roman Catholics allow themselves to be made a tool of to suit the political ends of any flunkey? Will they allow themselves and their religious faith to be the cat's paw by which unscrupulous politicians will creep into power and position? Or will they not rather free themselves from the trammel by which such tyrants as the Editor of the Review would bind them? Cast off the yoke, and be free men. To Reformers they owe the privileges and liberties they now enjoy; from Reformers they received Catholic emancipation and toleration. Reformers have been and are their best friends. The Tories have always been their enemies, and are now, under the guise of friendship

TWO DESTRUCTIVE FIRES.

Our Town has again been visited by two very destructive and very unnecessary fires. The first took place on Sunday morning between one and three o'clock. The fire was first discovered in the store occupied by Mr. T. Dunsby, as a Grocery store. At this time the conflagration had made such progress as to render it impossible to suppress it by the ordinary means at command, also the store occupied by Mr. R. Watson, as a Shoe Depot and Saddlery combined. For a while the Victoria Hall appeared in great danger from the fact that some of the beams supporting the rafters of the tower, building projecting into the Hall, fortunately these were kept from firing, the Hall, or especially that room as we would have been added to the list of property destroyed. As it is the loss is heavy. Mr. Watson's loss will be over $6,000, and he is insured in the North British for only $2,000. Some of the property was removed, but an immense quantity was entirely destroyed, except what may be sold as old iron. W. D. Asselstine will suffer not all; the family were in bed at the time, and narrowly escaped with their lives, scarcely getting time to put on their clothes. It was rumoured for a short time that he had been suffocated; he and Mrs Donnelly fortunately escaped, but with the loss of everything clothing, furniture, &c. His loss is about $4,100, insured for $2,500—in the Imperial $1,500, in Lonsdale and Lennox &c, $1,000.

The second fire took place on Monday morning, and was more destructive than even the first. By it T. Lannin's Store and Tin shop, Mr. Larmer's Boot and Shoe shop, J. B. Green, Baker, W. H. Wrighton, Grocer, Dr. Morris, and Lewis Glover, Grocer, all suffered, and at one time the flames threatened to demolish the whole block to McGregor's Hotel. Fortunately, however, the firemen were enabled to stop its course at the stone building occupied by Mr. Glover and owned by Mr Rowe, but the entire corner this far was destroyed. The fire broke out in the shoe shop of Mr Larmer. Lannin's loss will not be so great as was at first anticipated. Every effort was made to save his goods, and a considerable quantity was got out. His loss is $1,700, fully insured in the Commercial Union and Lancashire. Mr. Larmer's loss is $320, insured for $150 in the London Corporation. Mr. Wrighton's loss we did not learn, and we regret that he had no insurance. Dr. Morris's loss is about $2 000, insured for $1,200 in the Lancashire. Lewis Glover's loss is $500, covered in the Royal.

The Companies that suffered are—

The Liverpool & London—on the store occupied by Mr. Walton, $3,300; on the building occupied by J. B. Green, $300; on Mr. Rowe's building, $1,250. Total—$4,850.

The London Corporation—On Mr. Lannin's stock, $180.

Commercial Union—On Lannin's stock, $850; Lasher's damages $700. Total—$950.

Lancashire—On Lannin's stock, $950; on Dr. Morris's stock, $700 to $1,200. Total—$1,550 to $2,050.

Imperial—On Donnelly's stock and furniture, $1,000.

London & Lancashire—On Donnelly's stock, $1,500.

North British—On Mr Walton's stock, $2,000.

Provincial—On R. A. Morrow's building, $1,200; on Mr. Eastland's building, $1,000; on Mr. Green's stock, $200; damages to Mr. Henthorn's building but did not learn the amount.

Royal— on Mr. Glover's stock, $500; damages to Ormond & Gilmour's $35.

Western and British American—$700.

The Insurance offices lose therefore $14,815, or perhaps more. The entire loss, however, must be over $20,000. The whole was evidently the work of an incendiary. What a sad thought it is that there is any one in our midst who would be so vile as to thus burn and destroy valuable property and endanger even the lives of some. Yet so it is. The Council has offered a reward of $50 for the detection of the culprits, but we doubt it is too late.

Accident.

We regret to learn that on Monday, while the train was coming from Port Hope and just on this side of Moffatt's creek, Mr. Bruce Ferguson, the conductor, met with a severe accident, which resulted in a broken leg and other severe injuries, but we are happy to be able to state that they are not supposed to be dangerous. It happened in this way: Mr Ferguson had just uncoupled a car that was about to be left on the track for some purpose, and having done so, leaned against a stake to signal the engine-driver that all was right. The stake was not fixed in its place and gave way, when he was precipitated headlong to the ground, while the train was moving at a considerable speed. By the fall his leg was broken just below the knee, and some other injuries also were inflicted. Our informant tells us that if it had occurred a minute sooner, he would in all probability have been broken to pieces against the bridge.

Lakefield Anglican Church Bazaar.

A bazaar, in aid of the building fund of the above-named Church, will be held in the village of Lakefield, in the course of the first week in September.

Contributions will be thankfully received by any member of the congregation.

Hardware.

We invite attention to G. Stethem & Co's. advertisement in another column.—They have just added to their already large stock a very varied assortment of almost everything in their line. Intended purchasers would do well to give him a call.

COALITIONS.—Steadily, constantly, and firmly, we have opposed coalitions; believing them ever corrupt and extravagant, dispensing with both hands to the hangers on of both parties. Why do we oppose the present coalition? For the same reasons. The very first act of the new ministry is to increase their number to thirteen, with largely increased salaries. The work could be done with five, but the coalition requires thirteen, a far greater number than is required for the cabinet of the United States with their thirty millions of people. Reformers cannot support this extravagance, and to vote for those who do would be an act of madness.—Recorder.

JUST so.—The French papers are out against the English Government on account of making John A. McDonald Sir John A. McDonald, and leaving M. Cartier plain M. Cartier still. The Journal de Quebec considers that a slight has been put on the French Canadian population. We are afraid there is trouble in store for the Near Downings. Perhaps M. Casgrain, the editor of the Journal, considers Mr. Cartier's services in 1837 worthy of a reward.—Recorder.

A. McKenzie, M.P.P., and E. McKenzie, Esq., passed through Brockville on Wednesday morning, to be present at a meeting of the electors of the North Riding of Lanark to-day. The meeting is to be held at Almonte, and Mr. McDougall is to be present. There will be stirring times. Mr. McDougall has issued his per pass to the enjoyment of the electors of North Lanark within the past two weeks. If Mr. Galbraith will consent to run for the House of Commons, Mr. McDougall has no chance whatever.—Recorder.

Coalition Meeting at Norwood.

The Coalitionists held their grand meeting on Saturday at Norwood. Mr. Walter Scott presided, and W. R. Roebuck acted as Secretary. The meeting calling the which figureheaded the affair to be to select a candidate to represent the Riding in the Legislature of Ontario. The chairman explained this, but notwithstanding, it soon appeared that there were other motives in view. The object of the meeting, according to notice, was completely ignored, and instead of selecting a candidate for Ontario they selected one for the Commons of Canada. Mr. Grover is therefore the Coalition candidate for the East Riding for the Commons of Canada, with what success remains yet to be seen.

Soon after the meeting was organized, Mr. Grover was called upon to explain his views on the questions at issue. He simply referred to the existence of the coalition to obtain confederation. Confederation, he remarked, was not yet completed until the whole machinery should be set in motion; and, in his opinion, those men who had been the tools to get the constitution should be allowed to work out the details. Hence, if elected, he would support the coalition no matter of what material formed—Tory or Conservative—he would support them till they forfeited his confidence. Mr. Grover tried also to make it appear that the true, who went over to the coalition are reformers, that showing two conservatives and some reformers in the Government from Upper Canada, and blandly remarked that even from these reformers he had nothing to fear, they would do their duty. He, for his own part, was ready to support the coalition until they got a fair trial, and that he considered would be when they had completed the Confederation scheme. Mr Grover also remarked that if elected he would vote against giving the members of the Executive $8,000 a year; he thought $6,000 would be enough

Mr. Reid, who was also present being called on, said he had been solicited by his friends (friend) to come out, he had consented; he knew he was unworthy to be selected; he had little to say; if elected, he would do his best for the country. He had no political alliance, or attachments.

Mr. Pearce being called on pitched right and left into the parties who called the meeting, and wondered what uncommon influence the coalition had, that it caused them to ignore the whole county but Anybody and Otonabee, and wanted to know had Otonabee taken the whole matter into their own hands; or was one man in Keene, and a few outsiders in Peterboro', to rule the East Riding; and strongly insinuated that the coalition organ had been induced to harmonize with the wire-pullers against the best interests of the East Riding and of the Eastern part of it in particular, but trusted that the iron heel of the West would not be allowed to trample on the interest of the East Riding or dictate to it. He (Mr P.) was willing to grant proportionate rights to Otonabee, but protested against her usurping all. She had now three candidates in the field, but thought she could not be content to more than two. As to Mr. Grover's election, he (Mr. P.) would support him, and do all he could to have him returned; but inasmuch as he had been solicited to come forward himself also for the Legislature of Ontario, it nominated by his friends in the East, he would come out no matter who else was out. He then referred to the action of the Review in opposing him with out just cause; but such conduct, he remarked, might drive him into independent opposition, as he could not afford to lose his good name for any man, and especially at the heels of one or two from the Town which was not in the riding. Again Mr. Pearce asserted that if nominated by the people of the East, he would assuredly run. Mr. Pearce then gave a synopsis of his views on public matters affecting the country; condemned the management of Crown Lands, and also in the matter of appointing old incapables to be Prison Inspectors, and said his policy would be to effect a change in these matter.

Mr. Read made another speech. He would support the Government; give them a fair trial; would not oppose them.

Mr. Grover being asked would he support the government, answered yes.

The Editor of the Review being present, made a severe attack on his old friend, Mr. Pearce, accused him of many hard things; represented him as very unpopular in the west and north of the Riding, and ended by giving a not very good character; asserting that he was allowing himself to be used as a tool by the Reformers.

Spalapins Ford, of Norwood, also made a grand harangue of nine words, supporting the "Review" versus Pearce.

At this point our humble selves were called in, and in a few remarks completely demolished the medicine man, Ford, so that Fibrile appearance took possession of his countenance, there was no more of him. We also were able to make distinct denials of the assertions of the Editor of the Review, and to offer some wholesome advice to the electors present not to support the coalition.

Now followed considerable cross-firing between Mr. Grover and the Editor of the Review, and the Examiner. There appeared some flank movements of the Drs. and Mr. Read to shelve Mr Pearce, if possible. In the meantime it was moved by F. Birdsall, seconded by J.C. Pearce, that P. M. Grover, Esq., be the candidate for the Commons of Canada, in the coalition interest. Mr. Pearce was also proposed contrary to his wish, but the original motion was carried. The dodging again commenced. Mr. Pearce was then proposed and seconded as the candidate for the Legislature of Ontario, when Pearce moved again, but we did not hear the prescription of the Doctor; it had the effect of removing the chairman. He, however, feeling he had done wrong, returned to put the motion, but meekness prevailed again, and the wire pullers got him down without putting it. Thus two men succeeded in their designs to the evident disgust of many present. The meeting then broke up. When this became known there was considerable excitement outside. Mr. Pearce being indignant, said there was a call to the Town Hall to nominate him. At this point our steps had to be directed homeward, and our remarks must leave them in their excitement.

After this, we learn, that there was an effort made to harmonize the contending parties, but to no effect.

FLATTERER.—A meeting of Reform Delegates was held in Belleville on Saturday week, when Dr. Hoskin was selected as a candidate for the House of Commons, and D. Farley, Esq., of Sidney, candidate for the Local Legislature. This is a good ticket, and we trust will be successful.—Recorder.

TWELFTH OF JULY.

This year the Orangemen of the Districts of Peterboro and Ontonabee encamped on its confines from the Cobourg boundary to join with them in celebrating the day in the Town of Cobourg. At six o'clock in the morning the streets were crowded with Orangemen and their friends making preparations for the excursion to Cobourg; the music of the fife and drum being heard in the distance announcing the approach of the neighbouring Lodges. About seven o'clock the line of procession started for the railroad station, headed by the brass band which is being got up in town under the leadership of Mr. Rocket, where a large concourse of people were in waiting to see the Orangemen start. After all had been got safely on board, the signal was given and off the iron horse started amid cheers from the crowd and the band playing "The Girl I left behind me."

At Fraserville a number of people got on board, but no Orangemen, as the Lodge at Springville had made arrangements to celebrate the day at Millbrook. At Millbrook the Peterborough train was joined by one from Lindsay, which made a very imposing scene, as they were both tastefully decorated with flags and evergreens; at the Belmont and other crossings on the road several Lodges were picked up. Port Hope was reached in good time and both trains ran up to the Grand Trunk station where another train was in waiting and all three were connected together and a Grand Trunk engine attached; off they went to Cobourg, where they were met by the Orangemen of that district when all were safely off the train. The following was the order of the procession:—

DISTRICT OF COBOURG.

A. J. VanZingen, County Master of Northumberland, and Capt. Henry Smith, District Master of Cobourg; Cobourg Brass Band; Union Jack and Colors of Lodge No 82; Lodge No 65, Angus McDonald, Master; Lodge No 61, Henry Smith, Master; Colborne Lodge, No 419, R. Gibson, Master; Lodge No 434, Township of Hamilton, Jas. Oastes, Master; South Monaghan Lodge, No 445, Robert Poe, Master; Cold Springs Lodge, No 414, Edward Nickson, Master; Lodge No 969, Cobourg, T. B. Clinch, Master, Lodge No. 1069, Feuella, A. Sherwood, Master.

COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

D. G. Hatton, County Master, and

NEWCASTLE DISTRICT.

J. W. Lucas, District Master; Lodge No. 15, James Conning, Master; Lodge No. 149, Bucelley, W Holtz, Master; No 385, Perrytown, John Lee, Master; Lodge No 621, W Nugent, Master; Lodge No 424, Oak Hill, David Little, Master; Lodge No 1030,——Hill, Stephen Bartlett, Master.

PORT HOPE DISTRICT.

Wm. Stevenson, District Master; Port Hope Brass Band; Lodge No. 64, David Marshall, Master; 141, Wm. Hawke, Master; 309, George C. Ward, Master; 532, Jos. Gallagher, Master.

On the line of march there were a number of banners and flags floating in the breeze, and at the corner of Division and King streets a large arch was erected with the following mottoes, "Welcome our Brethren" and "God Save the Queen," a large crown and braver surmounted all; on turning up King street the following motto was stretched across the street, "Unity, Friendship and Concord." The procession halted opposite the Town Hall, and dismissed for refreshments, to meet again at half-past one to go to Mr. Boulton's woods, were the addresses were to be delivered.

About two o'clock the brethren mustered on the square opposite Victoria Hall, and proceeded, in the order of march observed in the forenoon, along King street to the Park of the Hon. G. S. Boulton, where a stand had been erected for prominent members of the order and others who were expected to address the audience. There must have been about three-thousand persons, including a large number of ladies, on and about the stand. Among those on the stand we noticed the Hon. H. J. Boulton; Hon. G. S. Boulton; Rev. Mr. McKenzie, Baltimore; Rev. Mr. Jones, Cobourg; Rev. Mr. Delmon, Haldimand; Rev. Bro. Cantlon, Co. Chaplain, Peterborough; Rev. Bro. Scott, Peterborough; Bro. A. J. VanZingen, Co. Master, West Northumberland; Bros. D. E. Boulton and H. Smith, Cobourg; Marshals of the day; Bro. D. Marshall, Grand Sec'y, Central Canada; Bro. D. G. Hatton, Co. Master, Peterborough; Bro. Stevenson, District Master, Port Hope; and a number of other well known members of the order.

Bro. VanZingen, Co. Master, called the brethren and visitors to order, and after thanking those present, and particularly the brethren and their friends from Peterboro for their kindness in responding so heartily to the invitation of the brethren of the Cobourg District, called on the Rev. Mr. McKenzie, Presbyterian Minister of Baltimore, to address the audience.

Mr. McKenzie on rising eulogized the conduct and appearance of the large and respectable procession which had been held that day, and thanked the County Master for the honor conferred upon him by calling upon him to address the assemblage then present. He said that so long as Orangemen were guided by the principles laid down in their constitution, and endeavoring faithfully to carry out those principles, so long would they deserve and receive respect; those principles being founded on the true and everlasting word of God—the Bible, which he was proud to see carried open in the procession, showing to the world that Britain's safe guard—the open Bible—was a pillar and support of their institution. The Rev. Gentleman concluded an eloquent address amidst cheers, wishing prosperity to the Orange Order.

The Rev. Mr Jones, Wesleyan Minister of Cobourg and ex-president of the Conference, was next called upon and began by referring to the immortal founder of the order. He said the principles established on the day of which that day was the anniversary, were the true christian principles which were the foundation of Britain's greatness. Not alone did William secure civil and religious liberty to the Protestants of Great Britain but also to Roman Catholics. He looked upon the Orange Institution as one of the safe guards of the British throne, and he believed had it not been for the Orangemen of Ireland, that Island to-day would not have formed a component part of the British Empire. He had heard people say that their processions were an insult to Roman Catholics, this he did not believe. Upon their Banner he noticed the inscriptions, "Fear God," "Love the Brotherhood," "Honor the Queen." Now no men who fear God can wrong or insult their neighbor; those who honor the Queen respect her laws. If Orangemen wrong or insult their Catholic fellow citizens they break their faith with both God and the Queen; civil and religious liberty was what William fought for. The Rev. Gentleman concluded one of the most able and patriotic addresses we have ever heard delivered, amidst the most enthusiastic cheers.

Mr. D. G. Hatton, County Master of Peterborough, was next called upon.

Mr. Hatton thanked the County Master of East Northumberland for the kindness shewn himself and the brethren from the County of Peterborough during the day. He also referred to the remarks made by the Rev. Mr. McKenzie and the Rev. Mr. Jones, neither of whom, he was sorry to say, were members of the order. He felt proud to meet these gentlemen and the other Rev. Gentlemen representing, as they did, all Protestant denominations, upon that Orange platform. The testimony borne by such men as the Rev. Mr. McKenzie and the Rev. Mr. Jones to the loyalty of Orangemen and the necessity that has existed and does exist for the organization, must have a good effect on the institution. Orangemen do not pretend to be the only loyal men, on the contrary, they believe and wish to believe all classes of Her Majesty's subjects loyal; they however know that they are sworn to preserve and maintain British connexion and the Protestant religion. The speaker said owing to pressure of time he would conclude, thanking those present for the hearing accorded to him.

The Rev. Mr. Delmon was next called upon, but owing to the short space between that time and the time at which the brethren from Port Hope and Peterborough had to leave, made were few remarks.

Mr. David Marshall, Grand Secretary of Central Canada, was next called on. He made one of his usual forcible and eloquent speeches.

The procession was then re-formed and proceeded to the Grand Trunk station, when the brethren and their friends filling twenty five cars, left by special train for Port Hope, where it arrived about five o'clock, and on the arrival of the train from Peterborough left for that town, distributing the lodges of the District of Hope at the stations nearest their lodge rooms, and arriving here about half-past eight.

The greatest credit is due to the Railroad authorities, particularly Mr. Williams, Superintendent, for the care and skill shown in the conveyance of such an immense crowd, without a single accident or a minutes delay. Everything was managed as if by clock-work, and the Orangemen should, and we are sure do, feel grateful to the Railway Company for their kindness in making arrangements to convey them to and from Cobourg, without change of cars, for one fare.

To the Electors of the County of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN,—

I respectfully ask leave to make some observations relative to what I conceive to be our duty in regard to the approaching election.

As we are all aware, a great political change has taken place in the country. Old things have passed away. British North America is now entering upon a national existence. We are no longer children, looking to the Mother Country for direction and support; but, aided by England's generosity and wisdom, we are now starting upon a new and more important career, the contemplation of which ought to inspire us with gratitude and pride. Henceforth love of country ought to stimulate our patriotism and teach us faithfully to strive to discharge our new duties as enlightened men and good citizens. To us is now confided the noble privilege of consolidating a d building up a nation whose history sh ll rank equal with that of the most favoured people and to which posterity can point with pride and satisfaction, and who will remember with gratitude the noble legacy left them by their fathers.

Like all other business of life, politics demand our constant vigilance and energies if we would prosper and improve, we must act like men who prize liberty and progress, and we must endeavor to prove that we are worthy citizens of a free country. Upon us now rests the solemn and heavy responsibilities of forming and perfecting and working the machinery of self-government, and of displaying that patriotic pride which belongs to a free and an enlightened people. We possess a land which is second to none for its fertility and goodness. We inhabit a country which is unsurpassed for the salubrity of its climate, and the enterprise and freedom of its people. As a people we have nothing to desire which we cannot obtain, and our future will be great and glorious in proportion as we strive to make it so. The time for action has commenced. We have to choose representatives in the first Parliament of our new Dominion to whose judgement and disinterested patriotism we can confide our national interests, and who will conduct our affairs with ability and economy. Let our conduct now be such that we may be able to hand down to future generations a noble heritage so that they may look back to their sires with satisfaction and pride.

As a general thing the people are responding to the calls upon them On all sides we hear of preparation for the coming elections Perhaps in almost every County and Riding in the new Province of Ontario this is the case, except in the West Riding of this County. The two great political parties—Tories and Reformers—are girding themselves up and preparing for the contest, and it is unaccountable why it is that in this Riding Reformers are so apathetic. The Riding is largely Reform, and yet Reformers are allowing the representation of it in the first and most important Parliament of the new Dominion to slip away from them without an effort to retain it. If ever that effort were necessary, it is necessary now, when the new ship of state is about to be launched and her destinies formed for good or evil. Reformers have fought for many years to bring about the present change, to secure Representation by Population, and to obtain for the people a more direct control over their affairs. But now in the hour of victory, when success has crowned their efforts, we find the Reformers of both Ridings of this County becoming at all once, in the very moment of their triumph, careless and indifferent of the future, and quietly yielding up to their opponents the helm of the ship—the formation and control of their future destiny. It is a strange thing, but it is nevertheless true, that after years and years of political contention they should now, in the hour of their success, when so much depends upon the present attitude and conduct of Reformers quietly fold their hands and leave to their opponents the regulating and maturing and working of the machinery of the future government of the country. This may be generosity but it is not statesmanship. This may be liberality and good neighborhood but it is not political wisdom. It is not the act of men who love consistency or who are guided by principle. If the prize were worth contending for, surely it is worth looking after and caring for now that it has been obtained. Either Reform a have been right or they have been wrong If wrong, then let them say so; but if they have been contending for a reality, —if the party has been something more than a name—if they were really honest in their professions and in earnest after constitutional changes and reforms, then let them show now their good sense and their consistency, by adhering to their principles and by endeavoring to carry out and perfect that which they have at length obtained. If the leading men of the party are to be deserted at this critical time, and all their labors are to be forgotten. If now, when the ground has been cleared ready for the laying of the corner stone of the foundation of the great superstructure which must be raised upon it, Reformers think they have nothing more to do but quietly look on and see their political adversaries take possession and appropriate to themselves all the honors and all the benefits which are intended to flow from their hard earned victory; if in the hour of their triumph they march off the field and leave their opponents in possession; if this is going to be their policy, then all I can say is that they are no longer worthy of the name of Reformers, and ought to be read out of the party There are men now living who, when the name of Reformer was a reproach, hesitated not to wear it and stand up manfully in its behalf, and these men can tell of many a hard fight, when all they had to cheer them was the consciousness that they were doing their duty, and when they had nothing to expect in the way of patronage. They were content with knowing that they were doing their duty, and they were only asking for themselves what they were willing to give to others. The new generation know but little of what their predecessors had to endure; they find the way made comparatively easy for them, and they do not, therefore, as much are by necessity all always be ing the duties of victory within control. It is a true saying that the price of liberty is eternal vigilance. Where, therefore, I see Reformers folding their arms and hear them say that parties are no longer a necessity, that the millennium in politics has come, and when I see them going hand in hand with those who, up to the moment of victory, have resisted them to the last, I can only smile and pity their inexperience and simplicity. I know what must be the effect of this folly, and they will find when the ground has all been secured and every avenue and approach is in possession of their opponents, that the removal of the mask will discloses to them how easily they can thus to be thrown off their guard and lulled to sleep at the most critical period in the history of their country, when so very much depends upon their vigilance and care. At the present moment we are told to bury party and to work with the Tories. We are asked to believe that there is no need of party; that human nature is not the same as it used to be; that it would be unpatriotic and unwise for Reformers to elect Reformers to the Legislature. But while we are told this,our adverse ies are quietly preparing themselves for a strong party contest, and where they have to speak out, they do not hesitate to say that they are determined to elect their own men if they can do so. In all this our adversaries are right, for if Reformers are so very simple as not to know their duty, as not to know that no free people or free government ever yet existed, or ever can exist, without the existence of parties; they have lived and studied to very little purpose and they must shut their eyes to the teachings of actual experience. Who ever heard of a country where there were no political parties. And if you can shew me such a country, I will shew you the country governed by a despot and the people buried in ignorance and poverty. And whoever heard of a party giving up its organization and activity in the moment of victory, when more than ever is required all its efforts and all its wisdom and strength. Just imagine a military commander directing his men to pile their arms after a hard fought day and inviting the enemy to come in and share the ground with them. In such a case it would be needless to ask what became of the general and his victorious men. And so will it be with Reformers if they do likewise. I beg to Reformers if they as a party have any fixed principles, if their object as a party is patriotic and good, if the doctrines which they advocate are right, then as a party carry them out, for they need not expect the Tories to do so for them.—Each party to-day stands just where it stood during the years gone by, and to imagine that simply because Confederation has taken place that there is to be no more political parties is to imagine an impossibility, and a very short time will prove this to be true. And I say, too, that the Reformer who deserts his party upon this flimsy pretense is a traitor and makes this an excuse for his treason. If, however, he has been misled by this pretence, let him be so no longer, but let him return back and prove his consistency and his common sense by doing the utmost for his party at the coming election.

To me, personally, it does not matter so much I have fought many a hard battle for my party, and have not had many defeats I am willing to admit that I have had my day, and I now resign to others the work which I have so imperfectly helped to perform. To the rising young men of the party in this County now belongs the privilege of advocating and perfecting measures for the good of the country, and to them Reformers can look with confidence. They have a good name to win and doubtless they will give a good account. But, I say to Reformers—wake! Spread to the wind your banner and rally round it each and all, and victory will surely be yours. WORK is the duty of each of you, and do not suffer or expect another to do what you ought to do yourself.

The Shooting of Maximilian, Miramon and Mejia.

LAST SPEECH OF THE UNFORTUNATE PRINCE.

FULL DETAILS OF THE LAST SCENE.

(From the New York Times.)

NEW ORLEANS, Tuesday, July 9.

The Times this evening publishes an extra containing a correspondence from Vera Cruz Postal, stating that at six o'clock on the morning of June 19, the troops of Escobedo formed a short distance from the city for the execution of Maximilian and his Generals, the people of Queretaro flocking by thousands to see the closing scenes in the life of the men they loved. As the clock strikes seven, the bells toll and announce that the prisoners have left their prison for the last time, and are on their way to their execution. After a few moments they appear, drawn in carriages under a large guard around them, the Emperor first, Miramon next, and Mejia last. As they near the place of execution, consolsive sobs break from the crowd. The carriages stop, and the prisoners get out. Among the emotions you can hardly see a dry eye. Tokens of dissatisfaction are manifested. Maximilian, on alighting, is saluted by the people. In an easy and graceful manner, and with an elastic step, he marched to the fatal spot. The prisoners were dressed in a plain manner. They were not bound nor blindfolded. In taking his position, the Emperor spoke in a clear and firm manner, and with nothing of bravado. He seemed to feel his situation, and said when he was first walled upon at home by the deputation from Mexico who came with credentials offering him the Government of the country, he refused. At a subsequent meeting the proposition was again presented, and he replied that if convinced that the majority thought it at it was to their interest to place him at the head of the Government he might consent. Another deputation waited on him and brought additional testimonials Up

HOLLOWAY'S WORM LOZENGES

ARE A CERTAIN AND SAFE REMEDY for worms in children and adults. As it is a well-known and melancholy fact that one great cause of death among children is from Worms alone, it cannot be too deeply impressed upon the minds of parents the necessity of closely watching their children. By so doing, and understanding the symptoms and true cause of the disease, thousands of children might be saved from early graves. The following are a few of the very numerous symptoms and diseases which are caused by Worms: Deranged appetite, emaciated extremities, offensive breath, frequent picking at the nose, grinding of the teeth during sleep, hardness of the belly, with frequent slimy stools, and sometimes constitutive fits; pain in the head and stomach, acquiet sleep, faintings, trembling coughs, indigestion, low spirits, fightful dreams, and a gradual wasting away of flesh. Holloway's Worm Lozenges are palatable and if administered to the child drive out the worms thoroughly without pain and completely cleanse the stomach thereby doing away with the necessity of administering Castor Oil or other unpleasant cathartics. Each box contains the facsimile. U. W., who are the sole proprietors. Sold by J. Higginbotham and D. Stott, Bowmanville, and Medicine Dealers everywhere.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE WEST RIDING OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN,—

Having received the unsolicited and unanimous nomination of the Reformers of this important Division, as member of the House of Commons of the Dominion of Canada, I must express the deep sense I entertain of the honor thus conferred on me.

In entering Parliament I have no private ends to serve and no personal objects to attain. Had I consulted my own business interests or the advice of my commercial friends, I certainly would never seek to enter into political life, and have therefore for some time hesitated to accept your nomination. Having, however, been so urgently requested to allow my name to be put in nomination by so large and influential a representation of the county where I have spent so many happy years of my life, and to which I am so much attached by the recollections of my youth, I feel that I would be wanting in courtesy to you, and fail in performing my duty as a citizen, were I any longer to decline acceding to your wishes.

In coming forward as a candidate for your suffrages, I wish all parties distinctly to understand my position. I am no professed politician, but present myself simply as a Canadian merchant and manufacturer. I have a heavy stake in the welfare of the country, and my own and my family's means being all invested in commercial enterprise in the Dominion, are consequently dependent on its prosperity.

I am a strong supporter of the new Confederation now so happily consummated, and if I shall be honored by being your representative in Parliament, shall by every means in my power strive to promote its further consolidation.

I have always been a Reformer, an advocate of party government, and my sympathies are ever with Liberalism in every country. My sentiments on religious subjects are those usually termed "voluntary," and while advocating the fullest religious toleration, every attempt to grant peculiar privileges to any denomination, will meet with my most determined opposition.

The subject which I believe demands the peculiar and prompt attention of the country at this moment is the Finances, and it will be my aim, persevering to oppose the system of reckless expenditure, which has latterly characterized the Administration, and to advocate and support every measure which has for its object the reduction of the taxation and the equalization of the expenditure and the receipts.

It is, I presume, scarcely necessary to say that I would strenuously oppose any further grant of public money to the Grand Trunk Railway Company which has already proved so heavy a drain on the resources of the country.

The recent unwarrantable and dangerous change in the circulating medium of the country, and the interference with its well tried banking institutions, meet with my strongest disapprobation, and every effort in my power will be used to restore the currency to its legitimate condition.

Much has been said and little done on the subject of immigration which is so essential to the welfare of a new country like ours. My plan for securing a large share in the stream of immigration now flowing to America and hitherto passing us, would be to make this country the cheapest place for a man to live in on this continent. This, I believe, can only be done by reducing the taxation to the lowest minimum commensurate with the maintenance of the public credit, and by so developing its agricultural, lumbering, mining and manufacturing resources, as to render it an attractive field for the poorest labourer, and the wealthiest capitalist who must always go hand in hand to make any country prosperous as well as great.

Recognizing the great services of our Volunteers and the alacrity with which they responded to the call of duty in the hour of public danger, it will be my pleasant care to see that any reforms desired by them are carried out, and that all necessary steps be taken to give permanency and efficiency to the patriotic "Volunteer movement" in which I have always felt the warmest interest.

Hoping to have an early opportunity of meeting you personally, in company with my esteemed friend, Mr. Walton, when I shall have an opportunity of renewing many old friendships and of further explaining my views,

I am, Gentlemen,
Your Obd't. Servt.
JOHN GORDON.

TO THE Free and Independent Electors OF THE WEST RIDING OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN:

Having been requested by a number of respectable and intelligent electors of the Riding to become your representative, and having been named by a large meeting of the Reform Committee as the Reform Candidate for the Local Legislature of Ontario, in the West Riding of this County, I have consented to stand and now respectfully solicit your suffrages.

Having resided in the County for nearly half a century, I may be supposed to be acquainted with the struggles of early bush life, as well as the requirements of the progressive state of the county; and being a practical farmer, I flatter myself that I know somewhat of the wants and desires of the class to which I belong, and if returned as your Representative, the interest of the farmers will receive a large share of my attention.

My political opinions are what they always have been. I belong to the old-fashioned Reformers, and hold the distinctive features of that party. The following are some of the cardinal articles of my political creed: Equal civil and religious liberty to all classes of Her Majesty's subjects, irrespective of origin, creed or color; equal privileges to all religious denominations; no parliamentary interference in matters of religion; no grants to denominational colleges; responsible government; the settlement of the wild lands of the Crown by free grants to actual settlers; the most rigid economy in the public expenditure, consistent with the due administration of the public departments; no spending of public money without the sanction of parliament.

There being a large tract of arable land in our rear, the immediate settlement of which would materially benefit the Town and County generally, my best attentions will be given to any and every scheme, having for its object the settlement, by actual settlers, of this tract, and to the opening up and improving of roads therein, as well as those leading thereto.

Having all my estate in the County, I feel equally interested with yourselves in its prosperity. My object in seeking to go to Parliament is not to look after office or emolument to myself, but simply to seek the good of the country generally, and of this County in particular.

As you have done me the honor to nominate me as your candidate, I trust that, if elected, you will find that your decision and confidence have not been misplaced.

I shall make it my business at an early day to see as many of you in your respective neighborhoods as I possibly can before the election takes place, when I shall be happy to give any information in my power, and my views on any questions submitted to me.

Meantime,

I remain, gentlemen,
Your obed't servant,
JOHN WALTON.

Over a Million Dollars Saved!

Gentlemen:—"I had a negro man worth $1,200 who took cold from a bad hurt in the leg, and was useless for over a year. I had used everything I could hear of without benefit, until I tried the Mexican Mustang Liniment—it soon effected a permanent cure."

J. L. DOWNING.

Montgomery, Ala., June 17, 1859.

"I take pleasure in recommending the Mexican Mustang Liniment as a valuable and indispensible article for Sprains, Sores, Scratches or Galls on Horses. Our men all say it acts like magic."

Gloucester, Mass., Aug 1, 1865.

It is an admitted fact that the Mexican Mustang Liniment performs more cures in shorter time, on man and beast, than any article ever discovered. Families, livery-men and planters should always have it on hand. Look sharp and save it certainly is. All genuine is wrapped in steel-plate engravings, bearing the signature of G. W. Westbrook Chemist, and the private U. S. stamp of Demas Barnes & Co over the top.

An effort has been made to counterfeit it with a cheap stone plate label. Look closely!

By-Law No.

A By-law to raise by way of loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, for the purposes hereinafter mentioned.

WHEREAS the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, have resolved to raise the sum of Ten Thousand dollars, for the purpose of erecting and building a bridge across Chemong Lake, from a point on the shore of said Lake, in the Township of Smith, in said County of Peterborough, to a point on the shore of said Lake in the Township of Ennismore, in said County, and also another Bridge across Pigeon Creek from a point on the shore or bank of said Creek in the Township of Ennismore aforesaid, to a point on the shore of said Creek, in the Township of Harvey, in the County of Peterborough.

And whereas, to carry into effect the said recited object it will be necessary for the said Municipal Council to raise by way of loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars in the manner hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas, it will require the sum of $1,400, to be raised annually by special rate for the payment of said debt or loan and interest as also hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the said Municipality of the said County of Peterborough irrespective of any future increase of the same, and also irrespective of any income to be derived from the temporary investments of the sinking fund hereinafter mentioned, or any part thereof according to the last revised and equalized Assessment Rolls of the said Municipality, is the sum of Two Million Seven Hundred and Eighty Five Thousand Three Hundred and Sixty One dollars, ($2,785,361).

And whereas the existing debt of the said Municipality of the County of Peterboro' is Twenty Nine Thousand Four Hundred dollars, ($29,400) for principal money, and Twelve Thousand and Forty-Six dollars, ($12,046) for interest, and there is nothing in arrear or account of said principal or interest.

And whereas for paying the interest and creating an equal yearly sinking fund for paying the said sum of Ten Thousand dollars, and interest as hereinafter mentioned, it will require an equal annual special rate of one half of a mill in the dollar in addition to all rates to be levied in each year.

Be it therefore enacted by the Municipal Council of the County of Peterborough:

1. That it shall be lawful for the Warden of the said County to raise by way of loan from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate, who may be willing to advance the same upon the credit of the Debentures hereinafter mentioned, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and to cause the same to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the said County of Peterborough, for the purposes and with the objects above recited.

2. That it shall be lawful for the said Warden to cause any number of Debentures to be made, for such sums of money as may be required, not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100) each and not to exceed in the whole the said sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and that the said Debentures shall be sealed, with the seal of the said Municipal Council, and be signed by the said Warden and countersigned by the Treasurer of said County.

3. That said Debentures shall be made payable in ten years at the furthest from the day hereinafter mentioned for this By-law to take effect, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality, and shall have attached to them Coupons for the payment of interest.

5. That the said Debentures shall bear interest at and after the rate of six per centum per annum, from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half yearly, on the 15th day of October and the 15th day of April in each year, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality.

5. That for the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said Debentures and the interest at the rate aforesaid to become due thereon, an equal special rate of one half a mill in the dollar shall in addition to all other rates be raised, levied and collected in each year upon the rateable property in said Municipality during the continuance of the said Debentures or any of them.

6. That this By-law shall take effect and come into operation upon the Fifteenth day of October, 1867.

The above is a true copy of a proposed By-law to be taken into consideration by the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, at Peterborough, in the said County, on

BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY

IN CANADA.

The following testimony from a well known and highly respected Merchant of Prescott, is corroborative of the general approval given to Dr. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY:

PRESCOTT, C. W., Dec. 8th, 1859.

Messrs. S. W. Fowle & Co., Boston.

Gentlemen:—

Being solicited by your Travelling Agent, or an expression of opinion of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. I with pleasure assert that it is, in my belief, the best remedy before the public for coughs and pulmonary complaints.

Having tested the article with myself and family, in case of severe coughs and colds, for years, with uniform and unexceptionable success, I unhesitatingly recommend it with full confidence in its merits.

Yours truly,
ALFRED BOOKER.

LIFE AND WORKS OF ROBERT BURNS,

BY THE

REV. P. HATELY WADDELL,

(Author of the well-known History on the Genius and Character of the "Columbus" on the Centenary of his Birth).

This addition will be Illustrated with Two Portraits of the Poet; with Frontispiece composed of five Scenes selected from the Works or Land of Burns; one with Twenty-five Pictures from Original Drawings—the whole produced in finest Oil Colours, from Engravings by eminent artists, in the highest style of the art.

The prominent Literary characteristic of this edition will be an entirely New Life of the Poet, in the form of a Spiritual Biography, by the Rev. Editor; with much valuable additional matter relating to Burns—including some hitherto unpublished Fragments of the Poet himself, interesting original Reminiscences of his Life, original and New critical and historical on his Poems, and an Essay on the Progress and Development of the Scottish Language up till his day.

In the department of Illustration, the distinctive feature of every Picture will be its Originality in Design, and its absolute fidelity to nature in every detail of Scene, &c. The actual spot referred to with all its surroundings, wherever locality constitute a portion of the picture, will be scrupulously adhered to—so that readers at a distance, natives of Scotland, may recognise in these some transcript of the soil; and strangers may look with confidence on every illustration as a reality. In the same department, the Publisher has the highest satisfaction in being able to announce that he is in a position to reproduce as authentic and most wonderful Likeness of Robert Burns—from the Original Minute, unquestionably, which was painted the year before his death; and of which Burns affirms that it is "the most remarkable likeness of what I am at this moment, that I think ever was taken of any body"—together with a most interesting and beautiful Miniature of his eldest Son, painted at the same time as a pendant to the Poet's likeness. These Portraits which have been lost to the world for seventy-one years, are now in possession of the Rev. P. Hately Waddell; and cannot fail when presented to the world, to excite universal attention. No portrait of the Poet known can compare for a moment, in fidelity or force, with this miniature of Burns.

The work will be completed in Seventeen Monthly Parts, Demy 4 to 48 pages, price Half Dollar each. Printed from new type upon the finest printing paper.

The great care and beauty with which the above work is being got up will make it an ornament most suitable for the drawing-room alike of the price and of the merchant; while the mode of publishing and the price charged will bring it early within the reach of every tradesman throughout the world.

"Beyond the sea—beyond the sun:
Till then, and then I love thee!"

A New Discovery better than the

MADOC GOLD.

Notice for a Cold—Relief in five Minutes

WHY do you suffer with a bad Cold when one bottle of Morris's Electric Invigorating Fluid will cure the worst cold in three days. It is far superior to any pain-killer or Liniment or Ready-relief. Try it once and you will not keep your house without it, for after all other remedies have failed it has cured hundreds of rheumatism, frost bites, chilblains, burns, scalds, bruises, sprains, pains in the bowels, fresh cuts, lame back, headache and all pains internal and external. Sold everywhere at 25 cents per bottle. Retail and wholesale only by E. MORRIS, Peterborough, C. W. Guaranteed to give satisfaction or the money refunded. Every one should have a bottle.

Peterboro', Jan. 30th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed without assistance from others, in fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who reside in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr. John Archer to try Dr. Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the invigorating Fluid,

GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY

Of the Celebrated Indian, Dr. Lewis Josephus, of the Distinguished Tribe of Shoshonees, British Columbia, is now for sale in Canada.

THIS all-possessing Great Indian Remedy is wanted, and in broad and emphatic language, we can safely say, may be replied upon to make a permanent cure of all Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive Organs, &c., as well as Scrofula, the various Skin Diseases, Humors, and all diseases arising from impurity of the Blood, excepting the third stage of Consumption. In the Western Country where this Great Remedy has been in use for a short time, it has indeed effected some of the most Marvellous Cures ever recorded in the annals of Historical Medicine. Such being the case, in addition to its former renown and celebrity, we defy humanity to dispute the fact, that this, the Great Shoshonees Remedy, in connection with the Shoshonees Vegetable Restorative Pills, is the Remedy of Remedies of the 19th Century, and the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

CANCERS CURED!

By a new, but certain, speedy, and nearly painless process, and

WITHOUT THE USE OF THE KNIFE.

THE cure will be guaranteed, and, as a proof of this, no pay is required, until the cure is complete. The moment a cancer is discovered, it should be cured, as it will soon lose and is more speedily cured than when of longer standing, and there is nothing to gain, and everything to lose by delay. What now seems a harmless lump in the breast, neck, eye-lid or elsewhere, or small wart or sore on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, disgusting, destroying mass of disease. If required, references can be given to parties who have been cured many years since, and who are now sound and healthy. All communications promptly answered. No charge required in advance, and none until the cure is complete.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

And for the speedy cure of the following complaints: Scrofula and Scrofulous Affections, commonly as Tumors, Ulcers, Leprosy, Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Blains, Tetter, Salt-rheum, Scald-head, and all Skin Diseases.

Canaan, Ind., 6th June, 1866.

J. C. AYER & Co. Gents: I feel it my duty to acknowledge what your Sarsaparilla has done for me. Having been troubled a long time with Scrofula, I was induced to take your Sarsaparilla. Two years ago it broke out on my hand and covered my body and face with sores, and I was confined to my house and room for six months. I tried many remedies and several physicians, but without much relief from any thing. In fact, the doctor gave it over. At length I was induced to send to the Good Samaritan (that term had been applied on account of my benevolence), for a bottle of your Sarsaparilla. I had more faith in that than any thing I had used, because it was prepared by a chemist, and I knew that if my disease could be cured by medicine, that was the only way it could be done. I used one bottle, and then another, and another, and so on, until I had taken three bottles. Now my health is as good as ever it was, and the scrofula has entirely left my system. You can well believe that I feel what I am saying when I tell you, that I hold you to be one of the agents of the age, and remain ever gratefully, Yours,

ALFRED B. TALLEY.

St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Sore Eyes, Dropsy.

Dr. Robert M. Preble writes from Salem, N. Y., 18th Sept., 1866, that he has cured an inveterate case of Dropsy, which threatened to terminate fatally, by prescribing one of our Sarsaparilla, and also a dangerous Malignant Erysipelas by large doses of the same; and he knows the common Erysipelas by it constantly.

Bronchocele, Goitre or Swelled Neck.

Reuben Shaw of Prospect, Texas, writes: "Three bottles of your Sarsaparilla cured me from a Goitre—a bad case—swelling on the neck, which I had suffered from over two years."

Leucorrhœa or Whites, Ovarian Tumors, Uterine Ulcerations, Female Weakness.

Dr. J. R. R. Channing, of New York City, writes: "I most cheerfully comply with the request of your agent in saying I have found your Sarsaparilla a most excellent alterative in the numerous complaints for which we employ such a remedy, but especially in Female Diseases of the Scrofulous diathesis. I have cured many inveterate cases of Leucorrhœa by it, and some where the uterus had been much enlarged by ulceration of the neck. The ulceration itself was soon cured. Nothing within my knowledge equals it for these female derangements."

Samuel B. Hanver, of Newberg, Ala., writes, "A dangerous ovarian tumor on one of the females in my family, which had defied all the remedies we could employ, has at length been completely cured by your Extract of Sarsaparilla. Our physician thought nothing but extirpation could relieve relief, but he advised the trial of your Sarsaparilla as the last resort before cutting, and it proved effectual. After taking your remedy eight weeks no symptoms of the disease remained."

Syphilis and Mercurial Disease.

NEW ORLEANS, 25th August, 1866.

Dr. J. C. AYER: Sir, I cheerfully comply with the request of your agent, and report in two cases of the effects I have realized with your Sarsaparilla.

I have cured with it, in my practice, most of the complaints for which it is recommended, and have found its effects truly wonderful in the cure of Venereal and Mercurial Disease. One of my patients had Syphilitic ulcers in his throat, which were consuming his palate and the top of his mouth. Your Sarsaparilla, steadily taken, wrought in two weeks. Another was afflicted with secondary symptoms in his nose, and the ulceration had eaten away a considerable part of it, so that I believe the operator would soon reach his brain and kill him. He is pleased to say subsequently of your Sarsaparilla, that the ulcers healed, and he is well again, not of course without some disfiguration to his face. A woman who had been treated for the same disorder by mercury was suffering with it here not long since. She was very much reduced by the use of mercury, and had taken nothing else for some time. She had become so sensitive to the weather that on a damp day she suffered excruciating pain in her joints and bones. She, too, was cured entirely by your Sarsaparilla in a few weeks. I know from its formula, which your agent gave me, that this Preparation from your laboratory must be a great remedy; consequently, these truly remarkable results with it have not surprised me.

Fraternally yours, C. V. LARIMER, M. D.

Rheumatism, Gout, Liver Complaint.

INGRAMSTON, Prince Co., Va., 4th July, 1866.

Dr. J. C. AYER: Sir, I have been afflicted with a painful chronic Rheumatism for a long time, which baffled the skill of physicians, and stuck to me in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I tried your Sarsaparilla. One bottle cured me in two weeks, and restored my general health so much that I am the better three years I was subjected. I think it a wonderful medicine. J. FRASER.

Jules Y. Getchell, of St. Louis, writes: "I have been afflicted for years with an affection of the Liver, which destroyed my health. I tried every thing, and every thing failed to relieve me; and I have been a broken-down man for some years from no other cause than derangement of the Liver. My beloved pastor, the Rev. Mr. Hoyt, advised me to try your Sarsaparilla, because he said he knew you, and any thing you made was worth trying. By the blessing of God it has cured me, and has so purified my blood as to make a new man of me. I feel young again. The best that can be said of you is not half good enough."

Schirrus, Cancer Tumors, Enlargement, Ulceration, Caries and Exfoliation of the Bones.

A great variety of cases have been reported to us where cures of these formidable complaints have resulted from the use of this remedy, but our space here will not admit them. Some of them may be found in our American Almanac, which the agents below named are pleased to furnish gratis to all who call for them.

Dyspepsia, Heart Disease, Fits, Epilepsy, Melancholy, Neuralgia

Many remarkable cures of these affections have been made by the alterative power of this medicine. It stimulates the vital functions into vigorous action, and thus overcomes disorders which would be supposed beyond its reach. Such a remedy has long been required by the necessities of the people, and we are confident that this will do for them all that medicine can do.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the Relief of Consumptive Patients in advanced Stages of the Disease.

This is a remedy so universally known to surpass any other for the cure of throat and lung complaints, that it is useless here to publish the evidence of its virtues. Its unrivalled excellence for coughs and colds, and its truly wonderful cures of pulmonary disease, have made it known throughout the civilized nations of the earth. Few are the communities, or even families, among them who have not some personal experience of its effects—some living trophy in their midst of its victory over the subtle and dangerous disorders of the throat and lungs. As all know the dreadful fatality of these disorders, and as they know, too, the effects of this remedy, we need not do more than to assure them that it has now all the virtues that it did have when making the cures which have won so strongly upon the confidence of mankind.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by Ormond & Gilmour, A. W. Kemp, and Wm. Coulter. In Keene by A. Campbell, Campbell McNeil & Co., C. Britton, Lindsay, and all Medicine Dealers.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF

CONSUMPTION

BY THE

GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY

IN CANADA.

MESSRS. Y. & C.—GENTLEMEN:—I Wilson Storms, of Brighton, C. W., make oath and say,—I feel anxious to let you know what the Great Shoshonees Remedy has effected for me. My wife was afflicted with consumption and died; I was also afflicted with the same disease, and after her death I continued sinking just as she had done. I had very severe night sweats; coughed nearly all night and every night; could not sleep unless a little towards morning. I raised over a quart of matter every 24 hours; had severe pain in the left lung, &c., &c., and was greatly debilitated. In fact I was going as fast as I could. I was taking medicine from a regular physician, but it did not even relieve my cough. I went to the village one day about a quarter of a mile, which took me to go and come about two hours.—While there I saw Esq., Wellington, and happened to say to him, "I wish you could give me something to relieve my cough." He said "There is the Great Indian Remedy just introduced; Dr. Barker has it for sale, and I believe it will cure you." I took his advice, and brought a bottle home with me; took a tablespoonful at once, which I felt through my whole system; at night I took a table spoonful, and rested well all night, and continued to rest well every night. The Cough, Night Sweats, Raising of matter, Pain in the Lung, &c., gradually left me, and I got hearty and strong. I took only three bottles. I am not taking it now, and I am as hearty and as well as ever I was in my life. My sister-in-law was with me for a while, who was affected with the Liver Complaint. She has taken the remedy, and is well. This certificate you may show to the world if you please.

"ECONOMY IS WEALTH."—FRANKLIN.—Why will people pay $50 or $100 for a Sewing Machine, when $25 will buy a better one for all practical purposes? Notwithstanding reports to the contrary, the subscribers beg to inform their numerous friends that the "FRANKLIN" and "MEDALLION" Machines can be had in any quantity. This machine is a double thread, constructed upon entirely new principles, and does not infringe upon any other in the world. It is emphatically the poor man's Sewing Machine, and is warranted to excell all others, as thousands of patrons will testify.

ODE TO MUSIC.

When sorrow and sadness o'ershadow or vex,
And anguish or the gloom clime chastens and Grows;
Of how sweet 'tis to listen to Music's soft lay—
Our sorrow to gladden, our darkness to cheer.
Chorus.—Then give us the chorus,
Whose soul stirring lays
Shall but echo the strains
Of life's early days.

When a stranger 'mong strangers is far distant clime,
Far, far from the pasture of our childhood we stray;
Fond memory bounds homeward in a moment
of time,
When we hear once again, some fond cherished
lay.
Chorus.

When pain racks the body, and tortures the brain,
And death lays the grasp on the strings of the heart;
Oh! how soothing the measure, the soul to entertain,
Or cause it to linger, ere from earth it shall part.
Chorus.

There's a charm in the song that can open the heart,
The' the strain silky be simple, and artless the lay;
It can soothe all our sorrows, ease pain of its smart,
Chase life's gloomy sadness for ever away.
Chorus.

The songs of our childhood, with its bright sunny hours,
Wake the depths of our hearts, no matter how poor!
Years of sadness and absence can't silence the voice
That whispers their melody, truthful and pure.
Chorus—Then give us the chorus,
Whose soul-stirring lays
Shall but echo the strains
Of life's early days.

Selections.

THE LOST LUGGAGE OFFICE.

At a short distance from the terminus of the up-trains there is a foundling office, termed the Lost Luggage Office, in which are received all articles the passengers have left behind them, and which on the arrival of every train are brought by the company's servants to this office. The superintendent on receiving them enters in a book a description of each article, stating on what date, by what train, in what carriage it arrived, and by whom it was found. All luggage bearing an address is kept about ten hours, and if during that time no one calls for it, it is then forwarded by rail or other conveyance to its owner. In case it bears no address, if not inquired after, it is, after one month, opened; and if any clue to the owner can be found within, a letter is addressed to him. If no clue be found, the property is kept about two years, and has hitherto been then sold by auction in the late coach factory to the company's servants—a portion of the proceeds being handed over to the sick fund for persons who have been hurt in the service, and the remainder to the "Friendly Society" among the men. It having, however, been ascertained that a few of the railway men who had spare cash purchased the greater portion of these articles, it has, we understand, very lately been determined henceforward to sell the whole of thus property by auction exclusively to the public; and as the company's servants are not allowed to be purchasers, they can no longer derive any benefit from lost property, which must often be of inestimable value to its owner, and which they therefore should have no interest, direct or indirect, in concealing from him.

A second ledger, entitled, 'Luggage Inquiry Book,' is kept in this office, and if the articles therein inquired after have not been brought in by the searcher, copies of the description are forwarded to each of the offices where the luggage is kept; for by the company's orders all luggage found between Wolverton and London is without delay forwarded to the latter station, all between Wolverton and Birmingham, to Birmingham, and so on.

It is possible, however, that the above orders may not have been attended to, and, therefore, as a last resource, the superintendent of the lost luggage office at Euston station writes to 310 stations on 42 lines of rails to inquire after the lost article, be it ever so small, and if it be at none of these stations a letter is then addressed to the owner, informing him that his lost property is not on the railway.

In the office in which these ledgers and letter-books are made up are to be seen, on shelves and in compartments, the innumerable articles which have been left in the trains during the last two months, each being ticketed and numbered with a figure corresponding with the entry back in which the article is defined. Without, however, describing in detail this property, we will at once proceed to a large, pitch-dark, subterranean vaulted chamber, warmed by hot-air iron pipes, in which are deposited the flock of lost sheep, or without metaphor, the lost luggage of the last two years.

Suspended from the roof there hang, horizontally in this chamber, a gas pipe about eight feet long, and as soon as the brilliant burners at each end were lighted, the scene was really astounding. It would be infinitely easier to say what there is not than what there is in the forty compartments like great wine-bins, in which all this property is arranged. One is choke-full of men's hats, another of parasols, umbrellas, and sticks of every possible description.—One would think that all the ladies' reticules on earth were deposited in a third. How many little smelling-bottles—how many little embroidered pocket-handkerchiefs—how many little money-satchels and comfortable dishabille—how many little billy-important little notes, and other very small secrets each must have contained, we felt that we would say for the world have remained; but when we gazed at the enormous quantity of red cloaks, red shawls, red tartan-plaids, and red scarfs piled up in one corner, it was, we own, impossible to help reflecting that surely English ladies of all ages, who wear red cloaks, &c., must in some mysterious way or other be powerfully affected by the whine of compressed air, by the peculiar ringing of a bell, by the sight of their friend—in short, by the various conflicting emotions that disturb the human heart on arriving at the intermediate of the Euston station—for else how, we gravely asked ourselves, could we possibly account for the extraordinary red heap before us?

Of course, in this Rolando-looking cave there were plenty of carpet bags, gun-cases, portmanteaus, writing desks, books, bibles, cigar-cases, &c.; but there were a few articles that certainly we were not prepared to meet with, and which let one closely pruned that the extraordinary terminus excitement which had suddenly caused so many virtuous ladies to elope from their red shawls—in short, to be all of a sudden not only to a bustle behind but all over—had equally affected men of all sorts and conditions.

One gentleman had left behind him a pair of leather hunting breeches! Another his boot-jack! A soldier of the 22d regiment had left his knapsack, containing his kit! Another soldier of the 10th, poor fellow, had left his scarlet regimental coat! Some cripple, probably overjoyed at the sight of his family, had left behind him his crutches! But what astonished us above all was, that some honest Scotchman, probably in the ecstasy of suddenly seeing among the crowd the face of his faithful Jessie, had actually left behind him the best portion of his bagpipes!

Some little time ago the superintendent, on breaking open, previous to a general sale, a locked leather hat-box, which had lain in this dungeon two years, found in it, under the hat, £65 in Bank of England notes, with one or two private letters, which enabled him to restore the money to the owner, who, it turned out, had been so positive that he had left his hat-box at an hotel at Birmingham, that he had made no inquiry for it at the railway office.

Story Told by Dickens.

Charles Dickens presided, on the 5th inst., at the annual dinner of the Railway Benevolent Institution, in London. From his speech, we extract the following capitally told story:

Now, gentlemen, on this point of the case there is a story once told me by a friend of mine, which seems to my mind to be to a certain application. Mr. friend was an American sea captain, and therefore it is quite necessary to my his story was quite true. (Laughter.) He was the captain and part owner of a large American merchant liner. On a certain voyage out, in exquisite summer weather he had for cabin passenger one beautiful young lady and ten more or less beautiful young gentlemen. Light winds or dead calms prevailing, the voyage was slow.—They had made half their distance when the ten young gentlemen were all madly in love with the beautiful young lady. They had all proposed to her, and bloodshed amongst the rivals seemed imminent pending the young lady's decision. (Laughter.) In the extremity the beautiful young lady confided in my friend the captain, who gave her discreet advice. He said, "If your affections are disengaged, take that one of the young gentlemen whom you like the best and settle the question!" (Laughter.) To this the beautiful young lady made reply. I cannot do that because I like them all equally well. (Laughter.)

My friend, who was a man of resource hit upon this ingenious expedient. Said he, "To-morrow morning, when lunch is announced, do you plunge bodily overboard, head foremost. I will be alongside in a boat to pick you up; and take the one of the ten who rushed to your rescue." The beautiful young lady highly approved of this, and did accordingly. But after she plunged in, nine out of the ten more or less beautiful young gentlemen plunged in after her. The tenth shed tears—(great Laughter)—and looked over the side of the vessel but remained on deck. They were all picked up. When they mustered dripping on the deck, and stood there in a limp row, the beautiful young lady said to the captain; "What am I to do now see what a state they are in. How can I possibly choose one of the nine when they are all equally wet?" Then said my friend, with a sudden inspiration, "My dear, take the dry one." (Loud laughter.) I am sorry to say she did, and that they lived happy ever after.

Joseph Billings On Lunch Pins.

I want to bet three dollars that no man ever matched himself again the devil but what got beat.

Also bi, if you strike low. The man who undertakes tew jump three hundred and seventy five feet ahead will certainly make a good try.

I never knew a man who was always anxious tew repent of his sins before he had committed them who didn't want the sharpest thing ov watching.

I never bet any stamps on the man who is always telling what he would have did if he had been there. I have noticed that this kind never get there.

Faith don't appear to me tew be exactly the thing more than up top good sense, and the faith there is in the world now won't keep a man from falling to the bottom of a well if he lets go of the curb to spit on his hands.

When I get to not having sassy good luck, it duz seem to me that I kan have more of it than any man I ever knew, and not half try. I suppose it seems just so to you, my friend, don't it.

I kan think of any task tew hard that is apt to descend from father to son untarnished on the grit of exaggeration.

A man may have a perfect right to be born single but I doubt whether he has a right to continue up so.

Decision.

Hesitation is a sign of weakness, for inasmuch as the comparative good and evil of the different modes of action about which we hesitate are seldom equally balanced, a strong mind should perceive the slightest inclination of the beam with, glance of the eagle; particularly as there are cases where the preponderative will be very minute, even though there should be life or rose weal and death or misfortune. It is recorded of the late Lord of Sheffield, that he was suddenly awakened at night in his carriage by a highwayman, who, forcing a pistol through the window and presenting it close to his breast, demanded his money—exclaiming at the same time that he had heard his lordship had boasted he never would be robbed by a single highwayman, but that he should now be taught the contrary. His lordship, putting his hand in his pocket, replied: "Neither would I now be robbed if it were not for that fellow who is now looking over your shoulder." The highwayman turned his head, when his lordship, who had drawn a pistol from his pocket instead of a purse, shot him dead on the spot.—Exam.

"I DON'T CARE IF I DO."—In olden times, before Maine laws were favorited, Wing kept the hotel at Middle Granville, and furnished "accommodation to man and beast." He was a good landlord, but terribly deaf. Fish, the village painter, was afflicted in the way. One day they were sitting by themselves in the bar-room. Wing was behind the counter waiting for the next customer, while Fish was lounging before the fire with a thirsty look, casting sheep's eyes occasionally at Wing's decanters, and wishing most devoutly that some one would come in and treat. A traveller from the South, on his way to Brandon, stepped in to inquire the distance. "Can you tell me, sir, how far it is to Brandon?" "Brandy?" says the ready landlord, jumping up; "yes sir, I have some;" at the same time handing down a decanter of the precious liquid. "You misunderstand me," says the stranger; "I asked how far it was to Brandon?" "They call it pretty good Brandy," says Wing. "Will you take sugar with it?" reaching as he spoke, for the bowl and toddy stick. The disappointed traveller turned to Fish. "The landlord," said he, "appears to be deaf. Will you tell me how far it is to Brandon?" "Thank you," said Fish, "I don't care if I do take a drink with you." The stranger treated and fled.

A GOOD JOKE.—The Hartford Times mentions the following amusing incident, as occurring at the post office in that town. "Louder!"—A colored man lately went to the post office, and putting his nose close up to the delivery box, cried out, "Louder!" The clerk supposing the negro to be deaf, and that he was making a request of him to speak louder, so that he could hear, asked him in a very loud tone the name of the person for whom he wanted the letter.

"Louder!" cried the negro.

"What name?" yelled the clerk.

"Louder!" again bellowed the negro, who now supposed the clerk to be deaf.

The clerk took a long breath, and with all his might again bellowed out in the negro's face the same question—"what name?" This was done in so loud a tone that the echo seemed to return from the far off hills.

The negro started back in alarm, shouting to the very top of his big lungs, "Louder, sir—Louder! I tole you Louder! my name is nothing else!"

"Oh, ah! I o!" said the clerk, "your name is Louder, eh! Didn't think of that—here's your letter, Mr. Louder, here's your letter!"

A HINT TO TOUCHY PEOPLE.—"I learned a good lesson when I was a little girl says a lady. One frosty morning I was looking out of the window into my father's farm yard, where stood many cows, oxen, and horses, waiting to drink. The cattle all stood very still and meek, till one of the cows in attempting to turn around happened to hit her next neighbor, where upon the neighbor kicked and hit another. In five minutes the whole herd were kicking each other with great fury. My mother laughed and said: "See what comes of kicking when you are hit. Just so. I have seen one cross word set a whole family by the ears. If my brothers or myself were a little irritable, she would say;—'Take care, my children; remember how the fight in the farm yard began.—Never return a kick for a bit, and you will save yourselves a great deal of trouble.'

ORIGIN OF THE PRINTER'S DEVIL.—When Aldus Manutius set up in business as a printer at Venice, he came into possession of a little negro boy. This boy was known over the city as "the little black devil," who scented the mysterious babies-foster, and some of the ignorant persons believed him to be none other than the embodiment of Satan, who helped Aldus in the prosecution of his profession. One day, Manutius, desiring to dispel this strange halo station by publicity, displayed the young "imp" to the poorer classes. Upon this occasion he made the short but very characteristic speech—"Be it known to Venice, that I, Aldus Manutius, printer to the Holy Church and Doge, have this day made public exposure of the Printer's devil. All those who think he is not flesh and blood may come and touch him."

A wealthy business man of Lynn, Mass., has lately become insane from excessive attention to business. Anticipating insolvency, he bent all his energies to the settlement of his affair, which he succeeded in properly closing up; then went calmly to the insane asylum at Somerville, presented himself as a patient, told the keeper that he had stayed off insanity as long as he could, and in less than an hour was a raving maniac, vowed on a straight jacket to prevent him from committing the most violent acts of madness.

Intemperance for Electors.

A strong effort is being made in [illegible] stand County as candidates the Hon. [illegible] vote for Mr. Ermatinger. [illegible] the entire political [illegible] hope, this point. If Colborne has the [illegible] among his constituency to [illegible] "Colborne first, and [illegible] first." [illegible] of the [illegible] Examiner [illegible] County [illegible] first position [illegible] their electoral [illegible] gone forth, sure to [illegible] Catholic vote [illegible] is interested in the [illegible] may it soon, by [illegible] for Mr. [illegible]."—This is the first time, we believe, that a sectarian or religious cry has been raised at an election in the Eastern Townships. It is the first time that the people have been told that they must vote up the dictating of "the first pastors of the Church," and we are much mistaken if the intelligent Roman Catholics of Stanstead County do not repudiate this attempt to drive them like a flock of sheep to the polls to vote for a particular candidate.—If Mr. Knight has been seeking to obtain Roman Catholic votes by quoting Papal decisions to the Church, as it is alleged in the Stanstead Journal, and by employing the editors of the Pilot to publish extracts of the character of the one from which the above extract is made, we believe he will find that he has made a very serious mistake. His particular friends will not be likely to be increased by such unwarranted interference. Many of the Conservative papers have accused George Brown and the editor of the Montreal Witness, of trying to stir up religious strife, but these gentlemen however zealous they may have been to maintain the rights of Protestants, have never made an appeal to Protestants, as such, to elect a particular candidate.—We invite the attention of the Montreal Gazette to this subject. The Gazette praised the pastoral letters of the Catholic Bishops. We have here an illustration of the influence those letters are having in the elections.

The Harvest Prospects.

The harvest prospects, judging by the reports we receive from all quarters of the country, were probably never better than they are to day. The hay crop is far beyond an average [illegible] where the cold, chilling rains of May and the comparative lack of sunshine in early June kept back both the setting across and the young plants are universally reported to be healthy, vigorous and rich in promise. Wheat has made amazing progress within the last ten or twelve days, and, unless all the present signs deceive us, the yield in all the Middle States, in Virginia and in the Southwest will be magnificent. In South Jersey and many parts of Pennsylvania, the rye harvesting was in progress more than a week ago. In both States the opening of the present month found thousands of acres of wheat fully ripe. The return of the average crop will be at least a third greater than that of last year. A report from Illinois (which clearly takes the lead among the wheat growing States) says that there the prospect of a beautiful crop of well matured and plump grain was never brighter. From Ohio the statements are equally encouraging. West the Western farmers at this crisis most dread are hailstorms. These, however, seldom spread over a wide area; and the weather—settled as it begins to look, and genially warm, will now so hasten the most backward crops, that there hardly appears to be anything to sustain speculation founded on a failure, or partial failure, in any one of our great agricultural staples. These reports, which are crowding in from widely different latitudes, continue to tell with very good effect on the wholesale price of flour. There is a decline within the week of from fifty cents to one dollar a barrel; and we are every day getting nearer, if only slowly, to the current prices previous to and during the first year of the war.—N. Y. Times.

THE WEEVIL.—We learn that this insect has made its appearance in the south of the county. Fears are entertained that its ravages will equal if not surpass any former season—owing to the lateness of the crops. No wheat has been seen out to hear this year in May—a fact which farmers never remarked before. Midge proof, and Mediterranean are principally exempt from the destroyer. Soule's and other late varieties, will suffer of two-thirds the crop—we were shown a head of "Soule's" wheat, that contained not less than a hundred insects, fifteen of them subsisting upon a single grain.—Chatham Banner.

Haying operations in this neighbourhood are well advanced and will be completed in a few days. Farmers consider the hay crop a magnificent one, and the best they have had for several years. Wheat will be ready for the reaper in less than two weeks, and generally looks well, although there are numerous complaints of the midge. Spring crops have suffered somewhat from the long continued drought, but on Monday night we had a splendid fall of rain, which will greatly revive them.—Norfolk Reformer.

VOLUNTEER BELIEFS.—The Kingston Whig says: "When the Volunteers from Prince Edward and Northumberland were quartered in Kingston in June, 1866, during the Fenian excitement, 50 cents a day was paid in many instances by captains for billets for their men. Others that received 40 cents were dissatisfied. Out of this dissatisfaction a suit arose, and was tried yesterday in the Division Court. Mr. Thos. Makins sued the Captain of a Cobourg Company for the full 50 cents a day for board for some of his men. Judge Draper ruled that the plaintiff could only claim the Government allowance, 40 cents a day, which had been paid."

The Chicago Republican says the above fact was Last Sitting.

The Committee appointed in Keene to wait on Mr. E. Ingram will please meet at Ashburnham, on Saturday next, at two o'clock, p.m., to take into consideration their future course. Already they have a very large requisition, names are being sent in every day, and from every quarter of the Riding. It is now so large that we think he cannot refuse the almost unanimous call thus given. To the electors we say, wait a little longer; do not commit yourselves yet. Mr. Ingram, we feel confident, will be a candidate, and from the immense requisition got up in two or three days, his success will be certain.

His Deeds ye will do.

The last number of the Review contains its usual amount of misrepresentation and abuse. He hardly gives three successive words of truth concerning the Metrocol meeting when it comforts his opponents, but when put in impressed it is nicely dressed to suit the taste of the doctor's mind—he is evidently fond of colors. The doctor, too, can become his own correspondent. This he has done on several occasions, as is well known wherever he has dirty work to do of which he is ashamed he becomes his own instrument. What a clever fellow. Just hear what his friends think of him in another column. It is much to be regretted that any one so void of truth and justice, so completely lost to all that is manly and fair, so ignorant of the amenabilities of journalism, should have power to give vent to the worst traits of human nature which he evidently possesses. Poor fellow we feel for him in his weakness, yet despise his meanness; but it is in perfect accord with all the acts of his life.

Manufactured by the "Review."

In referring to Mr. Anderson's remarks, at the meeting in Keene last week, the very unscrupulous editor of the Review puts words in Mr. Anderson's mouth which he never uttered. Mr. Anderson did not "advocate an independent Republic as the safest and most desirable form of government for the Dominion of Canada;" but he did advocate British connection and its continuance as our best policy; and expressed himself opposed to an independent monarchy.

Mr. Rand expressed himself just as the Conservatives are doing in the west. When asked if he approves of J. A. & Cartier's course, he answered he was better satisfied with J. A. McDonald's course than George Brown's; and this was so satisfactory that the electors immediately determined to bring out an opponent to him on this very account. So much for Review reports.

PETER PEARSE A CANDIDATE FOR THE EAST RIDING FOR THE LEGISLATURE OF ONTARIO.—We have good authority for saying that Mr. Pearse is a candidate for the East Riding of the county, and we do not see how he can avoid being one. Two men pulled the wires at Norwood, and prevented a vote which most assuredly would have been for Mr. Pearse, all but the two; and it remains to be seen whether he will allow, or whether the electors of the East will allow these two to prevent him going before the people.

Found Drowned.

On Monday last, a body was found in the river, near the residence of Mr. Donnelson. An investigation was held, which it proved to be the body of a Mrs. Brownlee, whom it is said had fallen into the water while stooping to apply cold water to her head, in which she was accustomed to have it bathed. The verdict of the jury was "[illegible] Journal."

There has been a very extensive fire in [illegible] Co., on Saturday last. Nine stores were destroyed and $50,000 of property [illegible]. While the engine was present [illegible] a keg of powder, the name of Caffin [illegible] Thompson killing him instantly. The Mines of Canada.

Our readers will remember all about Hope and last about the Bishopdom mine, and the [illegible] of the report of its richness.—Messrs. Lombard, President of the Bank of [illegible] Bank, Chicago, and Both & J. Hall, a prominent banker of the same city, purchased the mine. It is said the mine shows [illegible] of its ends being the center of a volcano, and the rock is said to be of the same formation of the Australian, Colorado, California and Montana, which is credited by miners; yet in Canada this formation is literally full of gold it is said. Some of the clay was taken to New York, about 200 lbs containing all the gold, and was subjected to a boiling and cleansing process for the purpose of testing it. The Brooklyn Union says:—

Prior to placing it in the cylinders several parcels of it were "panned out," just as old Californians and present miners now do—that is, wash out the dirt in iron pans until they get what is called "the color." There was no mistaking the "color" in these dirt; it was full of it—literally so—and a pan of it, washed out in the presence of all, containing about a pound of earth, showed over ten dollars' worth of as pretty specimens of fine gold as ever made the heart of a miner glad. The gold is exceedingly rich, being of 20 to 22d carats in fineness.

Quite a number of specimens of what is known as "pockets," in which never before in the geological history of the world was found any gold deposits, were found actually full of gold! This is deemed extraordinary and most effectually explodes the former teachings of geologists and mineralogists that where the rock is of igneous formation no auriferous metals will be found. The [illegible] looks very much like half-consumed bituminous coal, and in some places there is a very close resemblance to coke. It is filled with scales and small pockets and powder of gold, the precious metal looking all the prettier by its being set in such a black formation. The [illegible] crumbles very easily, in very little of it-self, no light, indeed, that, with the gold extracted, it will float on the surface of water. We crumbled a piece to atoms between his fingers, and the gold particles were easily separated. The quartz or dolomite is also very easily worked, although it has a pretty "hard" look, and yields readily to the stamp battery and other crushers.

While the ore was being put through the [illegible] the party discussed a generous lunch provided by the firm of Wyckoff & Co., who have charge of the working at Greenpoint.—Many of them inspected the stamp machine of Mr. Hughes; others took a look at the well-known "coffee mill" which is in so general use at the mines, and which is admirably suited for the purpose for which it is intended; some [illegible] Some stood munching sandwiches and instantly watching the exhibitions going on in the steadily-rotating crushers; some visited the library up stairs and paid their respects to Professor Miles Barber, who is probably one of the best assayers in America or geology as well as chemistry, that this country can boast of. Professor Wyckoff favored the party with some of his mining experiences in Virginia and North Carolina, while Professors Scott and Taylor, who are about engaging in the erection of a mill at Madoc, with a combination patent of the Wyckoff process and an improved steam, also favored the party with anecdotes illustrative of adventures to be met with in the hazardous life of a mining engineer. Metropolitan journalists were present, and keenly watched every movement, evidently much better pleased with their duties of the day than in attending a session of congress, so frequently talking to their [illegible] in their city across the East River. Young Wyckoff and Manager Barber, of the works, seem [illegible] to the present every where, without regard to the damaging effect the spatters of muddy ore might have upon clothing.

After the ore had boiled nearly two hours the cylinders were cleaned up, the mercury and amalgam taken out; the tailings carefully washed as they gave evidence of holding valuable auriferous; the mercury strained through [illegible] in precisely the same manner in which it is done at the mines, and the result was as follows:

One hundred and sixty pounds of ore yielded by the Wyckoff process eighteen ounces of gold, valued at twenty dollars per ounce. This proves the ore to yield at the rate of four thousand five hundred dollars to the ton.

There are four hundred pounds in addition to the above, which is being submitted to the Wyckoff process to-day, which is of the same nature.

On one three hundred pounds of surface matter, not considered of any great value in Canada, taken from the surface of the Richardson farm, shovelled up, and known as a sort of ochreous matter has been put through the Wyckoff process, and found to contain three hundred dollars to the ton!

Carlisle parties of the best croppings of the Richardson mine have yielded sums almost too fabulous for belief, ranging up to and beyond the sum of one hundred thousand dollars!

The fact are three developed that one of the most productive gold mines on the continent is within two days' travel of New York city and that an American, a citizen of Rochester, has proved his invention to be the greatest in obtaining the largest results from the most refractory as well as the easiest ores mined.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—I beg to enclose herewith two letters addressed to the Editor of the Review, which you will oblige me much by inserting in the next number of your journal.

These letters, as will be observed, were written in reply to attacks made on me through the columns of that journal, and, in accordance with the usages of the press, I, of course, expected to be allowed to defend myself through the same channel.—The Editor of the Review, however, acting, no doubt on the "All is fair in Politics" principle has thought proper to refuse me a privilege which, under the circumstances, many will no doubt consider I had a right to demand as a mere matter of justice.

Yours truly,

JOHN CARROLL.

N.B.—I enclose here with a list of names of friends of mine in the Western part of the province, to whom you will please address copies of the Examiner. Parties interested in the Review have sent copies of that journal containing articles defaming me to a number of my friends West, and they will naturally desire to see the other side of the question.

J. C.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I observe in the Review of last week a letter over the signature of James W. Fitzgerald, who, like yourself and a few others, appears to be suffering at present from a violent attack of "Carroll on the brain."—After repeating and endorsing some of your complimentary remarks towards me, Mr. Fitzgerald goes on to describe a conversation which he says I had with the Hon. Mr. Howland, in front of the Queen's hotel, Toronto, on the 9th instant, and proceeds further to give the substance of a conversation which he had subsequently with that gentleman, in which he, it appears, informed Mr. Howland that I was not friendly towards the Coalition Government, when the latter gentleman, according to Mr. Fitzgerald, said in reply—"Why, Carroll has just told me he was not doing, and would not do, at Peterborough, anything against the present Government, and that he did not come here to oppose it." Now, sir, I deny emphatically that the above extract correctly represents the conversation I had with the Hon. Mr. Howland on the occasion referred to, and I challenge Mr. Fitzgerald to prove the correctness of it over the signature of that Honorable Gentleman. With regard to my conduct in the St. Lawrence Hall, at the Convention, I will just remark that I consider it only a fair compliment to myself to say that it contrasts very favorably with that of Mr. Fitzgerald in the same connection. That gentleman, by his violent and unseemly conduct, was repeatedly threatened with expulsion from the Hall, and was at length informed by the Chairman that unless he behaved himself (the Chairman) would give him in charge of the police. Mr. Fitzgerald then arose and apologized for his conduct, and promised to conduct himself properly for the future. I am sorry to say, however, that Mr. Fitzgerald did not keep his promise, for on the following day, during the proceedings of the Convention, he was again guilty of the most disgraceful conduct, and was only prevented from being expelled from the Hall by the intervention of Mr. Fitzgerald's friends. I will only add that I was prepared, at any time, either through the press or otherwise, to discuss with Mr. Fitzgerald my principles and his, and the motives for his actions and mine, and I further give this gentleman and all others fair warning that I have not the slightest intention to allow myself to be crushed, and put down by the means evidently resorted to for that purpose.

I remain, &c.,

J. CARROLL.

To the Editor of the Peterborough Review.

SIR,—Having been absent from home from the 8th till the 20th inst., I have not therefore had an opportunity, till now, of noticing the attacks—editorials and otherwise—with which it has pleased you to treat me through your columns. Not being a candidate for parliamentary honors in this County, nor the opponent or supporter of any candidate, I could not have anticipated such attentions at your hands. It was not till I reached Peterborough on Saturday last that I saw a copy of your paper of the 18th inst., and it was certainly with no small degree of surprise that I read your article, entitled "An Official Partizan."

Before proceeding to that, I will here state a circumstance which will show how little I could have expected that such an attack would proceed from your pen. On Sunday evening, the 7th inst., you did me the favor of paying me what you were pleased to call "a friendly visit," shortly after sitting down, you introduced the subject of politics, when I declined holding any conversation with you on that subject, giving it as a reason that I did not consider it prudent to do so, as I was aware that whether through inadvertance or design, you were in the habit of taking advantage of words carelessly dropped in private conversation. You endeavored to evidence me that your object in calling was of the most friendly character, but at the same time threatened that unless I acted politically in a manner to please you and your political friends, that the propriety of removing me from office would be immediately urged on the government; and to justify this proceeding on your part, you stated that it was necessary to the success of the party, and, said you, "all is fair in politics." It will thus be observed that it was you, not I, who adopted this course. Before leaving, you reiterated your professions of friendship, and pledged yourself that however much our opinions on public questions might differ, you would eschew, during the approaching contest, all offensive personalities towards me, and expressed the hope that at its close the same friendly feelings would exist between us that has characterized our intercourse heretofore. I, of course, fully reciprocated these sentiments. I left for the West the following morning, and was absent, as stated, for two weeks, and I leave the public to judge how honorably you carried out, to my absence, a compact proposed by yourself.

In the article in the number of the Review referred to, you state that "for a few weeks past, I have been actively engaged in a political crusade against the present union government, and that I am unscrupulous." And further on, your style me an ambitious, unscrupulous demagogue, and in your Norwood speech you are reported to have said that "I was an unprincipled fellow who would stop at nothing to accomplish my ends." Now, sir, I ask on what author ity do you thus presume to slander me. Since becoming a resident of this place, I have been before the public in the capacity of Crown Land agent I have for some time occupied the position of a member of the County Council, and have had financial dealings with a considerable number of people in this town and neighborhood, and I challenge you to point to a single act of mine, in whatever capacity, that will justify you in vilifying my character in the wholesale and cowardly manner in which you have do ne.—And I challenge you further to show that up to this moment I canvassed a single elector of this County, either for or against any m an now before the public as a candidate, or that I ever tendered even the semblance of political advice to a single settler on the Burleigh road. Failing to make good your charges against me, I have no doubt the public will consider you justly entitled to be styled a mean political hack, "an unprincipled fellow who would stop at nothing to accomplish your ends," and an ambitious and unscrupulous demagogue who might be dangerous if possessed of sufficient brains. It is true that I complained of the injustice to myself and to the settlers on the Burleigh road, of the stoppage of the works on that road while operations on other roads were to be resumed. Now, sir, who was the first to inform me that the works on other roads were to be proceeded with? No other than Dr. Poole, a piece of information which was subsequently corroborated by others. So that if the Editor of the Review, in the number of that paper of the 12th inst., tells the truth, then it follows that Dr. Poole, on the occasion above referred to, stated a falsehood. The object had in view by yourself and others who appear to have entered into a conspiracy to slander me, is not difficult to penetrate. You desire to prejudice my co-religionists of this place against me, lest anything might occur to prevent you from carrying out certain arrangements more conducive to your interests than to theirs. I have not interfered with you thus far as you well know, nor would acknowledge, could you afford to tell the truth, but you are afraid I might, and hence your anxiety and haste to blacken me in the eyes of the people. If I hold political views and principles not in accordance with yours, why not attack those principles without dragging my character into question. Oh no, you have no desire to discuss principles, that is not the role you wish to play. Your hope to distinguish yourself is not by your clearness in argument nor by the soundness of your principles, but by the amount of dirt you can fling. "No cause but abuse the plaintiff's attorney" is your motto, and I very much mistake the natural shrewdness and intelligence of the class whom you seek to humbug, if they are your constant backers any other light.

As to the foregoing, I have merely defended myself against the unprovoked attacks which you have made against me. I hope that as a matter of common justice, you will insert this letter in your next issue.

Yours, &c.,

JOHN CARROLL.

Grand Oratorio in the Roman Catholic Church.

The grand Oratorio came off yesterday evening in the Roman Catholic Church here. To judge from the attendance and performances of those who took part in it, it must be considered a success. An attractive feature in the affair was that the choirs from the other churches of the town aided, and there [illegible] somewhat of new interest to this kind of entertainments. The programme was a good one and well sustained.

Dangerous Counterfeit.—In Guelph last week, a well executed counterfeit of a $5 bill on the Bank of Montreal was shown, purporting to be issued from the Hamilton branch. The only way the counterfeit can be detected is by the engraving of the Montreal coat of arms on the left hand end, while the motto "ex cordis libertate" is wanting, these words being on the genuine bills. The forged bill is altered figure of twenty-five, and has [illegible]

To the Electors of the West Riding of the County of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN:

You have now before you two Reform candidates soliciting your support, viz., Mr. Gordon, of your representative in the House of Commons; the other, Mr. Walton, your representative in the Council Legislature. Both these gentlemen are well tried, and consequently known, and on both they confidently appeal to you for support, relying upon their own good motives and upon your wisdom, honesty and patriotism. As members of the great Reform party they rightly feel that in them looking to you they have a claim upon all those who value principle and honor that their votes should be given with a view to the good of our common country. All of you, therefore, will feel the importance of the situation, and honestly determine to discharge the duty confided to you, should really around these gentlemen and give them your encouragement and support. By doing this you will have performed your part and you will have placed before others an example worthy of their approval and imitation.

Mr. Gordon is no stranger to you. Several years ago, doubtless you will know, when he a young man, he resided in Peterboro with his father who carried on business here as a merchant. He then removed with his family to another part of the province, and now, after years of successful business, he comes back to [illegible] of whom, having a real stake in the country, and respectfully asks your confidence and support. He is essentially a useful citizen, and as a proof of his claims to your support, and of his ability to undertake and properly discharge the important duties appertaining to the very responsible office which he seeks to occupy, he shows you that he is able successfully to conduct his own affairs.—He thus gives you the best guarantee of his ability to perform his duty towards you.

Of Mr. Walton I need not say much. His residence here for the last forty years leaves him no strangers to you. As an honest man and a successful farmer he deserves your respect.—Like the most of you, he has had by hard labor to hew his way through the world, and if in consequence of this he has had neither time nor opportunity to obtain those advantages of education which the present generation, aided by his and your labors, have been enabled to secure, it is his misfortune not his fault. Many of you, by actual experience, know what he has had to go through in making a home for himself out of the wilderness, and, surely, it is to his honor or that he has done so successfully. And this, now in the autumn of his days, he can, like you, look back upon the past with pride and, like you, can enjoy the fruits of his patient industry. Is it not even better to reward such a man with your confidence and support than to bestow them upon another who has not earned them by such noble labors.

But, with some, there is an objection to Mr. Gordon on account of his being a non-resident. He resides in Toronto, where he carries on a large wholesale mercantile business. Let us examine, for a moment, this objection. Mr. Gordon is a candidate for your representation in the House of Commons of the Dominion of Canada. As such he will have nothing to do with your local affairs—these belong exclusively to the local legislature. The questions which will come before the federal parliament will be questions of a purely federal character, having reference to the joint interests of the whole dominion. It is plain, therefore, that the objection of locality can have nothing whatever to do with the choice of a representative to the House of Commons; but it is equally plain that in the choice of a representative there you should be guided exclusively by his qualifications properly to discharge the important duties which will necessarily devolve upon him. These duties will in part consist of the regulation and management of the trade and commerce of the dominion, the excise laws, the post office, and all other matters of a purely general character. A great deal, too, will depend upon the proper organization and working of the general government at Ottawa so as to ensure honesty and economy in the management of the general business of the country.—And, in proportion as this is done by the federal legislature, so may we expect it to be done by the local parliament; but if a system of recklessness and extravagance marks the conduct of affairs, as will the pernicious example set upon that of the other. Under these circumstances, then, it will be evident to you that the opposition to Mr. Gordon, by reason of his non-residence, has no real foundation. But it is a fact, which no one can dispute, that from his habits of business and his experience as a successful wholesale merchant, he is in every way fitted to represent you in the House of Commons.

You must not fail to bear in mind that to the general government and Legislature will belong the construction of the Intercolonial Railway, involving the expenditure of some fifteen or twenty millions of dollars. This large sum of money has to be raised upon the credit of the Dominion, and the people of this province will have to pay the largest part of it. You will thus see from this point of view alone the necessity of having a wise, honest and economical administration at Ottawa, for with such a wasteful expenditure in the building of the Intercolonial Railway as marked the construction of the Grand Trunk road, millions of money will be squandered which could otherwise be saved, and you will be taxed to repay it. There is also dry a great deal of jobbing going on in reference to this railway, and speculators and hangers-on of the present government are practising all manner of intrigues to obtain profitable contracts, and thus enrich themselves and friends at your expense. If the electors of this province but do their duty in returning honest capable men to the House of Commons, who will work economically and for the interests of their constituents, much good may be done, and upon these electors will rest the solemn responsibility of selecting the right men for that purpose. The debt of the Dominion is already upwards of eighty millions of dollars, involving a heavy annual outlay of many millions of dollars, all of which goes out of the country and tends to keep it poor. It is quite clear, then, that you have a very large interest in keeping down expenditure and in the practice of economy by the general government and legislature.

The opening up and settlement of the great North-West Territory, and the purchase and dispossession of the extravagant claims of the Hudson's Bay Co'y, will necessarily engage the early attention of the Federal Government and Legislature. It is well known that those claims are nearly altogether, if not altogether, fictitious; but it is equally well known that this Company is straining every nerve and using every means to force our Government to hand them over many millions of dollars for the pretended purchase of their rights. Much will, therefore, depend upon character and conduct of the legislators at Ottawa, whether those illegal and unjust claims of the Hudson Bay Company be acceded to, or whether they are dealt with in a spirit of wise and prudent economy, and according as this is done will depend the fate of much of your money, for the lion's share, as usual, will have to be paid by the people of this province. The interests of this province also largely depends upon the early settlement of the vast country, but this will also depend in a great measure upon the patriotic conduct of the Federal Government and legislature. You thus see how very important it is for the people of Ontario to elect good men to represent them in the House of Commons.

With respect to our Local Legislature, more will depend upon the character of the representatives than there is in the selection of a [illegible] Mr. Walton, who was present, took the chair. On motion of Mr Andrew Daley, Mr. James Ryan was chosen secretary. The object of the meeting having been stated.

Mr. W. Fitzgerald detailed the circumstances under which the so-called convention was called, the one sided character of the invitations distributed, the exclusion of Catholic gentlemen whose views were opposed to those of the originators of the meeting, and the insulting tone and manner assumed towards the clergymen, who were recalled by unseemly interruptions while addressing that meeting from the platform. Mr. Fitzgerald stated that prominent among those who took part in these proceedings was Mr John Carroll, a Catholic, Crown land agent at Peterboro'; and he thought it the duty of Catholics here to express an opinion as to whether a convention called in such a way and conducted in such a manner, met with their approbation or otherwise. After some further explanations as to the formation of the present government and its claims for support upon the Catholic electors; the following resolution was moved by Mr Fitzgerald, seconded by Mr. Thomas Leonard:

"Resolved,—That in the opinion of this meeting there are no political issues before the country at the present time to justify opposition to the union government, and we therefore pledge ourselves, to give consideration, under the present leaders, a fair trial, and to use all legitimate means to return at the approaching election, union candidates to both Houses of Parliament."—Carried.

It was then moved by Dr. Poole, seconded by Mr. Andrew Daley.

"Resolved—That we have witnessed with regret, the attempt, by a small minority of the Catholics of Ontario, to betray into the hands of our arch-enemy, George Brown, the whole Catholic body of the province, and further, that we repudiate and ignore the proceedings of the late so-called Catholic convention held at Toronto, on the 9th inst., and deny to the promoters of that convention the right to call together, in the name of the entire Catholics of Ontario, those who evince the boldness and bad taste of acting in defiance of the advice and counsel of the bishops and priests of the church."—Carried.

It was then moved by the Very Rev. Dean Kelly, seconded by Mr. Andrew Kane,

"Resolved,—That we, the Catholics of Peterboro', have heard with astonishment and indignation of the course pursued by Mr. John Carroll, Crown Land agent of Peterboro', at the recent so-called convention, held at Toronto, and especially at the approbation of the false and offensive imputation that "the Catholics of Peterborough were in the habit of being led by the nose;" and that we therefore caution the Catholic electors against his insidious intermeddling amongst them, in the interests of the Brown Grit faction at the approaching election."—Carried.

Mr. James B. Dunn then moved, seconded by Mr. Thomas Roulihan, of Smith,

"Whereas we have to regret that James W. Fitzgerald, Esq., and several other Catholic gentlemen, deputed by the clergymen of the respective parishes to attend the so-called convention in the interests of the Catholic body, were, although so recommended, refused admission; be it therefore resolved, that the course pursued by the cabal at Toronto in requesting clergymen to recommend lay delegates to the said meeting and afterwards refusing admission to the gentlemen so accredited, was a gross insult to the feelings and intelligence of the said clergymen."—Carried.

The Venerable and Very Rev. Vicar-General McDonald then briefly addressed the meeting, and strongly recommended unity of feeling and sentiment among them, as well as harmony of action with their co-religionists in the lower provinces who were strongly in favor of supporting the present government, as being composed of the men who brought about confederation, and who were consequently most fittingly entrusted with the task of its practical working.

A vote of thanks was then tendered to Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald for the worthy manner in which he had represented the Catholics of Peterboro at the Toronto meeting.

Thanks were also presented to the Very Reverend Chairman, and after cheers for the Queen, for Vicar-General McDonald, and for the Union Government, the meeting separated.

A NEW AND GRAND EPOCH IN MEDICINE!—Dr Maggiel is the founder of a new Medical System! The quantitarians, whose vast internal doses enfeeble the stomach and paralyze the bowels, must give precedence to the man who restores health and appetite with from one to two of his extraordinary Pills, and cures the most virulent sores with a box or so of his wonderful and all-healing Salve.

These two great specifics of the Doctor are fast superseding all the stereotyped nostrums of the day. Extraordinary cures by Maggiel's Pills and Salve have opened the eyes of the public to the inefficiency of the so-called remedies of others, and upon which people have so long blindly depended. Maggiel's Pills are not of the class that are swallowed by the dozen, and of which every bottle taken creates an added necessity for another. One of two of Maggiel's Pills suffices to place the bowels in perfect order, tone the stomach, create an appetite, and render the spirits light and buoyant! There is no griping, and no sensation in the form of sudden loss. If the liver is effected, its functions are restored and the nervous system is fable it is invigorating. The most quality makes the medicine very desirable for the wants of delicate females. Ulcerous and eruptive diseases are literally extinguished by the disinfectant power of Maggiel's Salve. In fact, it is here some said that Maggiel's Salve, Dyspepsia and Diarrhœa Pills cure where all others fail. Whether for burns, scalds, Chilblains, Corns, and all Accretions of the skin, Maggiel's Salve is intallible. Sold by J. HAYDOCK, 13 Pine street, New York, and all Druggists, at 25 cents per box.

"Counterfeits!—Buy no Maggiel Pills or Salve with a little pamphlet inside the box—They are bogus!" The genuine have the name of J. Maggiel on the outside name of J. Maggiel, M.D. "The genuine have the Pills surrounded with white powder." my24d&w1y

Dr. LIVINGSTONE.—The death of Dr. Livingston is confirmed; his servant who accompanied him having given full particulars of the murder and also of his burial by his followers.

BRAGGS vs STRACHAN.—To prevent an improper decision in one of the grandest sells recently ever played on by man; and Bryant's Pulmonic Wafers will as sure cure coughs, colds, clothing in the throat and pulmonary complaints, as sure and positive will destroy. Severe colds, if not attended to, sooner or later lead to incurable consumption, and the strength of the strongest case fails if neglected. The excellent and well known Wafers of the Poet of Song is recommended in "Bryant's Pulmonic Wafers," which have been thoroughly tried for the last twenty years, and have never been known to fail. Coughs and a sudden spasmodic will also derive great benefit from the use of them. Sold by all wholesale dealers, at 25cts. per box.

HOLLOWAY'S WORM LOZENGES

ARE A CERTAIN AND SAFE REMEDY for worms in children and adults. As it is a well-known and melancholy fact that one great cause of death among children is from Worms alone, it cannot be too deeply impressed upon the minds of parents the necessity of closely watching their children. By so doing, and understanding the symptoms and true cause of the disease, thousands of children might be saved from early graves. The following are a few of the many concomitant symptoms and diseases which are caused by Worms: Deranged appetite, occasional extremities, offensive breath, frequent picking at the nose, grinding of the teeth during sleep, hardness of the belly, with frequent slimy stools, and sometimes convulsive fits; pain in the head and stomach, hoquiet stoop, faintings, trembling coughs, indigestion, low spirits, fearful dreams, and a gradual wasting away of body. Holloway's Worm Lozenges are palatable and positive and can be relied on to the child before the [illegible] thereby doing away with the necessity of administering Castor Oil or other unpleasant cathartics. Each box contains the facsimile, U. W., who are the sole proprietors. Sold by S. Riegelhauser and D. Hoel, Bowmanville, and Medicine Dealers everywhere.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE WEST RIDING OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN,—

Having received the unsolicited and unanimous nomination of the Reformers of this important Division, as member of the House of Commons of the Dominion of Canada, I must express the deep sense I entertain of the honor thus conferred on me.

In entering Parliament I have no private ends to serve and no personal objects to attain. Had I consulted my own business interests or the advice of my commercial friends, I certainly would never seek to enter into political life, and have therefore for some time hesitated to accept your nomination. Having, however, been so urgently requested to allow my name to be put in nomination by so large and influential a representation of the county where I have spent so many happy years of my life, and to which I am so much attached by the recollections of my youth, I feel that I would be wanting in courtesy to you, and fail in performing my duty as a citizen, were I any longer to decline according to your wishes.

In coming forward as a candidate for your suffrages, I wish all parties distinctly to understand my position. I am no professed politician, but present myself simply as a Canadian merchant and manufacturer. I have a heavy stake in the welfare of the country, and my own and my family's means being all invested in commercial enterprize in the Dominion, are consequently dependent on its prosperity.

I am a strong supporter of the new Confederation now so happily consummated, and if I shall be honored by being your representative in Parliament, shall by every means in my power strive to promote its further consolidation.

I have always been a Reformer, an advocate of party government, and my sympathies are ever with Liberalism in every country. My sentiments on religious subjects are those usually termed "voluntary," and while advocating the fullest religious toleration, every attempt to grant peculiar privileges to any denomination, will meet with my most determined opposition.

The subject which I believe demands the peculiar and prompt attention of the country at this moment is the Finances, and it will be my aim, perseveringly to oppose the system of reckless expenditure, which hitherto characterized the Administration, and to advocate and support every measure which has for its object the reduction of the taxation and the equalization of the expenditure and the receipts.

It is, I presume, scarcely necessary to say that I would strenuously oppose any further grant of public money to the Grand Trunk Railway Company which has already proved so heavy a drain on the resources of the country.

The recent unwarrantable and dangerous change in the circulating medium of the country, and the interference with its well tried banking institutions, meet with my strongest disapprobation, and every effort in my power will be used to restore the currency to its legitimate condition.

Much has been said and little done on the subject of immigration which is so essential to the welfare of a new country like ours. My plan for securing a large share in the stream of immigration now flowing to America and hitherto passing us, would be to make this country the cheapest place for a man to live in on this continent. This, I believe, can only be done by reducing the taxation to the lowest minimum commensurate with the maintenance of the public credit, and by so developing its agricultural, lumbering, mining and manufacturing resources, as to render it an attractive field for the poorest labourer, and the wealthiest capitalist who must always go hand in hand to make any country prosperous as well as great.

Recognizing the great services of our Volunteers and the alacrity with which they responded to the call of duty in the hour of public danger, it will be my pleasant care to see that any reforms desired by them are carried out, and that all necessary steps be taken to give permanency and efficiency to the patriotic "Volunteer movement" in which I have always felt the warmest interest.

Hoping to have an early opportunity of meeting you personally, in company with my esteemed friend, Mr. Walton, when I shall have an opportunity of renewing many old friendships and of further explaining my views,

I am, Gentlemen,
Your Obi't. Servt.
JOHN GORDON.

TO THE
Free and Independent Electors
OF THE WEST RIDING OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN:

Having been requested by a number of respectable and intelligent electors of this Riding to become your representative, and having been named by a large meeting of the Reform Committee as the Reform Candidate for the Local Legislature of Ontario, in the West Riding of this County, I have consented to stand and now respectfully solicit your suffrages.

Having resided in the County for nearly half a century, I may be supposed to be acquainted with the struggles of early bush life, as well as the requirements of the progressive state of the county; and being a practical farmer, I flatter myself that I know somewhat of the wants and desires of the class to which I belong, and if returned as your Representative, the interest of the farmers will receive a large share of my attention.

My political opinions are what they always have been. I belong to the old-fashioned Reformers, and hold the distinctive features of that party. The following are some of the cardinal articles of my political creed: Equal civil and religious liberty to all classes of Her Majesty's subjects, irrespective of origin, creed or color; equal privileges to all religious denominations; no parliamentary interference in matters of religion; no grants to denominational colleges; responsible government; the settlement of the wild lands of the Crown by free grants to actual settlers; the most rigid economy in the public expenditure, consistent with the due administration of the public departments; no spending of public money without the sanction of parliament.

There being a large tract of arable land in our rear, the immediate settlement of which would materially benefit the Town and County generally, my best attentions will be given to any and every scheme, having for its object the settlement, by actual settlers, of this tract, and to the opening up and improving of roads therein, as well as those leading thereto.

Having all my estate in the County, I feel equally interested with yourselves in its prosperity. My object in seeking to go to Parliament is not to look after office or emolument to myself, but simply to seek the good of the country generally, and of this County in particular.

As you have done me the honor to nominate me as your candidate, I trust that, if elected, you will find that your decision and confidence have not been misplaced.

I shall make it my business at an early day to see as many of you in my or respective neighborhoods as I possibly can before the election takes place, when I shall be happy to give any information in my power, and my views on any questions submitted to me.

Meantime,
I remain, gentlemen,
Your obed't servant,
JOHN WALTON.

Over a Million Dollars Saved!

Gentlemen:—"I had a negro man worth $1,200 who took cold from a bad hurt in the leg, and was useless for over a year. I had used everything I could hear of without benefit, until I tried the Mexican Mustang Liniment—in soon effected a perfect cure."

J. L. DOWNING.

Montgomery, Ala., June 17, 1859.

"I take pleasure in recommending the Mexican Mustang Liniment as a valuable and indispensable article for Sprains, Sores, Scratches or Galls on Horses. Our men all say it acts like magic."

J. W. HEWITT,
Foreman for Ames, Wells, Fargo's and Harnden's Express.

"The Spanish on my daughters ankle, occasioned while skating last winter, was entirely cured in one week, after she commenced using your celebrated Mustang Liniment.

ED. NEALY."

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 1, 1865.

It is an admitted fact that the Mexican Mustang Liniment performs more cures in shorter time, on man and beast, than any article ever discovered. Families, livery-men and farmers should always have it on hand. Quick and sure it certainly is. All genuine is wrapped in steel-plate engravings, bearing the signature of G. W. Westbrook Chemist, and the private U. S. stamp of Dennes Barnes & Co. over the top.

An effort has been made to counterfeit it with a cheap stone plate label. Look sharp!

By-Law No.

A By-law to raise by way of Loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, for the purposes hereinafter mentioned.

WHEREAS the Municipal Council of the County of Peterborough, have resolved to raise the sum of Ten Thousand dollars, for the purpose of erecting and building a Bridge across Chemong Lake, from a point on the shore of said Lake, in the Township of Smith, in said County of Peterborough, to a point on the shore of said Lake in the Township of Harvey aforesaid, in said County, and also another Bridge across Pigeon Creek from a point on the shore or Bank of said Creek in the Township of Ennismore aforesaid, to a point on the shore of said Creek, in the Township of Harvey, in the County of Peterborough.

And whereas, to carry into effect the said recited object it will be necessary for the said Municipal Council to raise by way of loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars in the manner hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas, it will require the sum of $1,000, to be raised annually by specific rate for the payment of said debt or loan and interest as also hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the said Municipality of the said County of Peterborough irrespective of any future increase of the same, and, also irrespective of any income to be derived from the temporary investments of the sinking fund hereinafter mentioned, or any part thereof according to the last revised and equalized Assessment Rolls of the said Municipality, is the sum of Two Million Seven Hundred and Eighty Five Thousand Three Hundred and Sixty One dollars, ($2,785,361).

And whereas the existing debt of the said Municipality of the County of Peterborough is Twenty Nine Thousand Four Hundred dollars, ($29,400) for principal money, and Twelve Thousand and Forty-Six dollars, ($12,046) for interest, and there is nothing in arrear or account of said principal or interest.

And whereas for paying the interest and creating an equal yearly sinking fund for paying the said sum of Ten Thousand dollars, and interest as hereinafter mentioned, it will require an equal annual special rate of one half of 1 mill in the dollar in addition to all rates to be levied in each year.

Be it therefore enacted by the Municipal Council of the County of Peterborough:

1. That it shall be lawful for the Warden of the said County to raise by way of loan from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate, who may be willing to advance the same upon the credit of the Debentures hereinafter mentioned, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and to cause the same to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the said County of Peterborough, for the purposes and with the objects above recited.

2. That it shall be lawful for the said Warden to cause any number of Debentures to be made, for such sums of money as may be required, not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100) each and not to exceed in the whole the said sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and that the said Debentures shall be sealed, with the seal of the said Municipal Council, and be signed by the said Warden and countersigned by the Treasurer of said County.

3. That said Debentures shall be made payable in ten years at the farthest from the day hereinafter mentioned for this By-law to take effect, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality, and shall have attached to them Coupons for the payment of interest.

4. That the said Debentures shall bear interest at and after the rate of six per centum per annum, from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half yearly, on the 15th day of October and the 15th day of April in each year, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality.

5. That for the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said Debentures and the interest at the rate aforesaid to become due thereon, an equal specific rate of one half a mill in the dollar shall be additional to all other rates to be raised, levied and collected in each year upon the rateable property in said Municipality during the continuance of the said Debentures or any of them.

6. That this By-law shall take effect and come into operation upon the Fifteenth day of October, 1867.

The above is a true copy of a proposed By-law to be taken into consideration by the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, at Peterborough, in the said County, on

BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY IN CANADA.

The following testimony from a well known and highly respected Merchant of Prescott, is corroborative of the [illegible] given to Dr. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY:

Prescott, C. W., Dec. 8th, 1859.

Messrs. S. W. Fowle & Co., Boston.

Gentlemen:—

[illegible] to your Travelling Agent, Mr. [illegible] Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. I with pleasure assert that it is, in my belief, the best remedy before the public for coughs and pulmonary complaints.

Having tested the article with good effect in my family, in cases of severe coughs and colds, for years, I can with confidence and unexceptionable success, unhesitatingly recommend it with full confidence to invalids.

Yours truly,

LIFE AND WORKS

OF

ROBERT BURNS,

IN

[illegible] BY R. MACKAY-MAXWELL.

[illegible] of the work now in course of issue by the Canadian Publishing Company, to be finished and in the hands of the Subscribers in the Canadas on or about the 1st day of October next.

This publication will be illustrated with Two Portraits of the Poet; with Facsimile of manuscript of the Sketch entitled Tam O'Shanter; with Facsimile of a Letter in one which Tennyson describes Planets [illegible] Starvings—the whole produced at Sweet Oil Colotype, from Engravings by eminent artists, in the highest style of the art.

The additional Literary characteristics of this edition will be an entirely New Life of the Poet, in the form of a Poetical Biography, by the Rev. Editor; with much valuable additional matter relative to Burns—including letters hitherto unpublished Fragments of the Poet himself, interesting original Reminiscences of his Life, original Notes critical and historical on his Poems, and an Essay on the Progress and Development of the Scottish Language up till his day.

In the department of Western Art, the distinctive features of every Picture will be its Originality in Design, and its absolute fidelity to nature in every detail of Scenery. The critical spirit [illegible] with all its surroundings, wherever locality constitutes a portion of the picture, will be scrupulously [illegible] that reader, even at a distance, natives of Scotland may recognize in these scenes transcripts of the soil [illegible] and strangers [illegible] such evidence on every Illustration as to enable [illegible] to form a correct judgment.

In the same department, the Publisher has the highest satisfaction in being able to announce that he is in a position to reproduce an authentic and most wonderful Likeness of Robert Burns—from the Original Miniature, unquestionably, which was painted the year before his death; and of which Burns affirms that it is "the most remarkable likeness of what I am at this moment, that I think ever was taken of any body"—together with a most interesting and beautiful Miniature of his eldest Son, painted at the same time as a pendant to the Poet's likeness. These Portraits which have been lost to the world for seventy-one years, are now in possession of the Rev. F. Henry Waddell; and cannot fail, when presented to the world, to excite universal attention. No Portrait of the Poet known can compare for a moment, in fidelity or force, with this masterpiece of Burns.

The work will be completed in Seventeen Monthly Parts, Demy 4 to 48 pages, price Half Dollar each. Printed from new type upon the finest printing paper.

The great care and beauty with which the above work is being got up will make it an ornament most suitable for the drawing-rooms alike of the price and of the merchant; while the mode of publishing and the price charged will bring it easily within the reach of every tradesman throughout the world.

"Beyond the sea—beyond the sun:
Till then, and then I love thee!"

A New Discovery better than the MADOO GOLD.

Notice for a Cold—Relief in five Minutes

WHY do you suffer with a bad Cold when one bottle of Morris's Electric Invigorating Fluid will cure the worst cold in three days. It is far superior to any pain-killer or Liniment or Ready-relief. Try it once and you will not keep your house without it, for after all other remedies have failed it has cured hundreds of rheumatism, frost-bites, chilblains, burns, coughs, bruises, sprains, pains in the bowels, fresh cuts, bone aches, headache and all pains internal and external. Sold everywhere at 25 cents per bottle. Retail and wholesale only by R. MORRIS, Peterborough, C. W. Guaranteed to give satisfaction or the money refunded. Every one should have a bottle.

Peterboro', Jan. 30th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed with[out] assistance from others, in fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who resided in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr. John Archer to try Dr. Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid,

Of the Celebrated Indian, Dr. Lewis Josephus, of the Distinguished Tribe of Shoshonees, British Columbia, is now for sale in Canada.

THIS all-possessing Great Indian Remedy is wanted, and in broad and emphatic Language, we can safely say, may be replied upon to make a permanent cure of all Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive Organs, &c., as well as Scrofula, the various [illegible] Diseases, Humors, and all diseases arising from impurity of the Blood, excepting the third stage of Consumption. In the Western Country where this Great Remedy has been in use for a short time, it has indeed afflicted some of the most Marvellous Cures, ever recorded in the annals of Historical Medicine. Such being the case, in addition to its former renown and celebrity, we defy humanity to dispute the fact, that this, the Great Shoshonees Remedy, in connection with the Shoshonees Vegetable Restorative Pills, is the Remedy of Remedies of the 19th Century, and the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

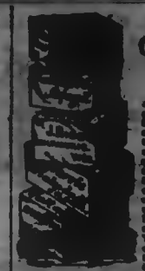
AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS.



A safe and reliable purgative pill, for the cure of all those diseases in which a cathartic medicine is required, whether for the relief of the stomach, liver, bowels, blood, or other internal viscera. Being sugar-coated and purely vegetable, they may be taken with pleasure by children, who, like all others, will find them the mildest and most effectual cathartic that can be used for their complaints. Every year adds to the number of cures they are making of the various diseases of the digestive organs, and to the extent of their usefulness as a safeguard against the inroads of disease. While they expel the foul humors which breed and foster sickness, they also rouse into healthful action the vital energies of the system, and thus overcome the obstructions which cause pain. Minute in their search for disease, powerful in their influence upon it, they are reliable, and safe agents of cure in every case where a purgative is required. Prepared by our new process, they retain all the virtues they ever possessed, and are as efficacious as they have been known to be during the thirty years they have been before the public. Their sugar coating preserves them in any climate, and renders them pleasant to take. They are the cheapest cathartic for use in any family, because their [illegible] and certainty of cure insure the greatest economy of purchase. Those who know the virtues of these Pills, need to be told no more of their excellence. Those who do not know them will find it for their interest to employ them when suffering from the disorders they cure.

Enough from leading physicians in every of the principal cities, and letters [illegible] publish [illegible]

From a Pharmaceutical Merchant of St. Louis, Feb. 4, 1866.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the paragon of all that is great in medicine. They have cured my family of complaints [illegible] and I believe they have saved the life of one child. Our neighbors, learning what they have done for us, are using your Pills, and they have cured her.

Headache, Stick Headache, Worst Stomach.

From Dr. Edward Boyd, Baltimore.

DEAR DR. AYER: I cannot answer you what constitutes [illegible] I have cured with your Pills better than in any all that we gave [illegible] with a positive confidence. I [illegible] them as an effectual cathartic in my daily practice, and [illegible] and believing as I do that your Pills afford us the best we have, I of course value them highly.

PETERSBURG, Va., May 1, 1866.

DR. J. C. AYER. SIR: I have been [illegible] cured of the worst headache any body can have by a dose or two of your Pills. It seems to arise from a foul stomach, with [illegible] causes at once.

Yours with great respect, [illegible] W. FISHER, Chief of Steamer Charles.

Bilious Disorders—Liver Complaints.

From Dr. Theodore Hill, of New York City.

Not only are your Pills admirably adapted to their purpose as a cathartic, but I find their beneficial effects [illegible] the very medical [illegible]. They have in my practice proved more effectual for the cure of bilious complaints than any one remedy I am acquainted with. I [illegible] patient that we have at length a remedy which is worthy the confidence of the profession and the people.

Dyspepsia, Impurity of the Blood.

From Rev. J. V. Himes, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston.

DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I am called to visit in sickness. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood, they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. V. HIMES.

Dysentery, Diarrhœas, Colics, Worms.

From Dr. J. L. Green, of Chicago.

Your Pills have had a long trial in my practice, and I hold them in esteem as one of the best remedies I have ever found. Their alterative effect upon the liver makes them an excellent remedy, when given in small doses for [illegible] dysentery and diarrhœa. Their [illegible] makes them very acceptable and convenient for the use of women and children.

Constipation, Costiveness, Suppression, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Dropsy, Paralysis, Piles, &c.

From Dr. J. P. Pingree, Montreal, Canada.

Too much cannot be said of your Pills for the cure of costiveness. Numbers of our family have found them so effectual as I have, they should [illegible] me be remembered by for the benefit of the multitudes who suffer from that complaint, which, although [illegible] is found by the proprietor of others that are worse. I believe costiveness to originate in the liver, but your Pills affect that organ and cure the disease.

From Mrs. E. Sherr, Physician and Midwife, Berlin.

I find one or two large doses of your Pills, taken at the proper time, are excellent promoters of the natural [illegible] when wholly or partially suppressed, and very useful to effect [illegible] the stomach and equal cures. They are so much the best physic we have that I recommend no other to my patients.

From the Rev. Dr. Hawkes, of the Methodist Epis. Church.

PULASKI HOUSE, Savannah, Ga., Jan. 6, 1866.

HONORED SIR: I should be ungrateful for the relief your skill has brought me if I did not report my case to you. A cold settled in my limbs and brought on excruciating neuralgic pains, which ended in chronic rheumatism. Notwithstanding I had the best of physicians, the disease grew worse and worse, until by the advice of your excellent agent in Baltimore, Dr Mackenzie, I tried your Pills. Their effects were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them, I am now entirely well.

SILVEY CRAWFORD, Baton Rouge, La., 6 Dec. 1865.

DR. AYER: I have been cured, by your Pills, of Rheumatic Gout—a painful disease that had afflicted me for years. VINCENT SLIDELL.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF

CONSUMPTION

BY THE

GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY

IN CANADA.

MESSRS. Y. & C.—GENTLEMEN:—I Wilson Morgan, of Brighton, C. W., make oath and say,—I feel anxious to let you know what the Great Shoshonees Remedy has effected for me. My wife was afflicted with consumption and died; I was also afflicted with the same disease, and after her death I continued sinking just as she had done. I had very severe night sweats; coughed nearly all night and every night; could not sleep unless a little towards morning. I raised over a quart of matter every 24 hours; had severe pain in the left lung, &c., &c., and was greatly debilitated. In fact I was going as fast as I could. I was taking medicine from a regular physician, but it did not even relieve my cough. I went to the village one day about a quarter of a mile, which took me to it and come about two hours.—While there I saw Rev. Wellington, and happened to say to him, "I wish you could give me something to relieve my cough." He said "There is the Great Indian Remedy just introduced; Dr. Barker has it for sale, and I believe it will cure you." I took his advice, and brought a bottle home with me; took a tablespoonful at once which I felt through my whole system; at night I took a tablespoonful, and rested well all night, and continued to rest well every night. The Cough, Night Sweats, Raising of matter, Pain in the Lung, &c., gradually left me, and I got hearty and strong. I took only three bottles. I am not taking it now, and I am as hearty and as well as ever I was in my life. My sister-in-law was with me for a while, who was afflicted with the Liver Complaint. She has taken the remedy, and is well. This certificate you may show to the world if you please.

REAPING MACHINES!

THE NEW YORKER COMBINED

Self-Raking Reaper & Mower.

MANUFACTURED BY

SEYMOUR, MORGAN & ALLEN,

Brockport, N. Y.

PRICE, $150. delivered in Peterboro.

A fair trial given with all Machines before purchase.

MR. GEORGE McKEE, of Smith, purchased one last year, and he is much pleased with it; he says the Self-rake takes off the grain much better than any man can by hand. There is no side draft with the Machine. The Reaper took the first prize gold medal at the National trial held at Auburn, N. Y., for 1866. Any one wanting a Reaper, please address

SAMUEL FOWLIS.
Agent, Peterborough.

"ECONOMY IS WEALTH."—FRANKLIN.—Why will people pay $50 or $100 for a Sewing Machine, when $25 will buy a better one for all practical purposes? Notwithstanding remarks to the contrary, the subscribers beg to inform their numerous friends that the "FRANKLIN" and "MEDALLION" Machines can be had in any quantity. The machine is a double thread, constructed upon entirely new principles, and does not infringe upon any other in the world. It is emphatically the poor man's Sewing Machine, and is warranted to excel all others, as thousands of persons will testify.

DR. McELLY'S PLASTER.

A SURE and certain cure for Fever Sores, Felons, Cancers, Burns, Scalds, and all Eruptions of the Skin.

PETER, C.W., 1867.

This is to certify that my son had a fearful sore leg, so much so that the flesh fell off, and laid the bone bare. Donnelly's Plaster cured it most completely. I strongly recommend it to all suffering from any Eruption of the skin, as I have seen it proved in all cases.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE EAST RIDING OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN,—

To a requisition from a large number of the most respectable and influential electors of this Riding, inviting me to offer myself as a candidate for your suffrages at the ensuing election, I most respectfully submit the following

REPLY.

GENTLEMEN:—

An invitation to offer myself as a candidate for the representation of this Riding in the Commons House of Parliament, from those with whom I have been long associated in the common walks of life, and with many of whom I have struggled in the cause of constitutional freedom for the last three and thirty years, I value highly as a tribute of respect paid to political constancy and consistency.

Although deeply sensible of the responsibility I assume, I accept your invitation and place myself at the disposal of the electors of the Riding; and should they endorse your requisition, and place me in the position to which it points, I will endeavor, according to the best of my judgment and ability, to discharge faithfully the obligations imposed upon me as the representative of the Riding.

Under confederation, with an enlarged sphere of Legislative action, new questions will arise, and conflicting interests present themselves, which will require the exercise of much patience, prudence and moderation to reconcile and adjust; and the attention of the Legislature will be directed to the opening up of new channels of trade and of commerce, and new markets for our industrial products, to which and to kindred question s, I will devote my most earnest attention, and any measure calculated to promote the peace and prosperity, and advance the interests of the New Dominion, will have my cordial support irrespective of the source whence it originates.

The promotion of immigration with its correlative questions of Free Grants of Land to actual settlers, and a Homestead Exemption Bill, should, in my opinion, receive the support of the Legislatures empowered to deal with them, and in so far as opportunity will allow, shall have my best efforts for their promotion.

We have now entered on a new phase of our political existence, whether for good of for evil, will depend much on the action ro our Government; but with wise legislation and a judicious and economical administration of our affairs, coupled with the enterprise and industry of our population, and the blessings of Providence, a bright future may yet be in store for us.

Trusting to be able to meet the electors in their several localities, and explain my views more fully on public matters,

I remain,
Gentlemen,
Your Ob'd't. Serv't.
JAMES ANDERSON

Otonabee, July 11th, 1867.

Public Notice!!

THE Municipal Council of the Township of Otonabee intend on MONDAY the 16th day of SEPTEMBER next, to pass a By-law to establish and open up a Road laid out across portions of Lots Number Fourteen and Fifteen in the Twelfth Concession of the Township of Otonabee as follows, viz:—

Commencing in the centre of the allowance for Road between the Twelfth and Thirteenth Concessions of the said Township of Otonabee, at a distance southerly of five hundred and forty feet from the line between Lots Fourteen and Fifteen in the said Concession, then north twenty eight and three quarter degrees, east four hundred and seventy feet, then north twenty-one and a quarter degrees, east four hundred feet, then north thirteen degrees, east four hundred feet, then north eight and one half degrees, west three hundred and three feet, then north seventy and one quarter degrees, west eight hundred and seventy-eight feet, more or less, to the centre of the allowance for road between said concessions so laid down to be thirty feet wide, and the above described line the centre.

GEORGE BRAD,
Township Clerk.

Otonabee, 16th July, 1867. 30.

TO THE Free and Independent Electors OF THE WEST RIDING OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN:

Having been requested by a number of respectable and intelligent electors of the Riding to become your representative, and having been named by a large meeting of the Reform Committee as the Reform Candidate for the Local Legislature of Ontario, in the West Riding of this County, I have consented to stand and now respectfully solicit your suffrages.

Having resided in the County for nearly half a century, I may be supposed to be acquainted with the struggles of early bush life, as well as the requirements of the progressive state of the county; and being a practical farmer, I flatter myself that I know somewhat of the wants and desires of the class to which I belong, and if returned as your Representative, the interest of the farmers will receive a large share of my attention.

My political opinions are what they always have been. I belong to the old-fashioned Reformers, and hold the distinctive features of that party. The following are some of the cardinal articles of my political creed: Equal civil and religious liberty to all classes of Her Majesty's subjects, irrespective of origin, creed or color; equal privileges to all religious denominations; no parliamentary interference in matters of religion; no grants to denominational colleges; responsible government; the settlement of the wild lands of the Crown by free grants to actual settlers; the most rigid economy in the public expenditure, consistent with the due administration of the public departments; no spending of public money without the sanction of parliament.

There being a large tract of arable land in our rear, the immediate settlement of which would materially benefit the Town and County generally, my best attentions will be given to any and every scheme, having for its object the settlement, by actual settlers, of this tract, and to the opening up and improving of roads therein, as well as those leading thereto.

Having all my estate in the County, I feel equally interested with yourselves in its prosperity. My object in seeking to go to Parliament is not to look after office or emolument to myself, but simply to seek the good of the country generally, and of this County in particular.

As you have done me the honor to nominate me as your candidate, I trust that, if elected, you will find that your decision and confidence have not been misplaced.

I shall make it my business at an early day to see as many of you in your respective neighborhoods as I possibly can before the election takes place, when I shall be happy to give any information in my power, and my views on any questions submitted to me.

Meantime,
I remain, gentlemen,
Your obed't servant,
JOHN WALTON.

AGUA DE MAGNOLIA.

A toilet delight. Superior to any Cologne, used to bathe the face and person, to render the skin soft and fresh, to allay inflammation, to perfume clothing, for headache, &c. It is manufactured from the rich southern Magnolia, and has obtained a patronage quite unprecedented. It is a favorite with actresses and opera singers. It is sold by all dealers, at $1.00 in large bottles, and by Dunas Barnes & Co., New York, Wholesale Agents.

Saratoga Spring Water, sold by 11 Druggists.

By-Law No.

A By-law to raise by way of loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, for the purposes hereinafter mentioned.

WHEREAS the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, have resolved to raise the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, for the purpose of erecting and building a bridge across Chemong Lake, from a point on the shore of said Lake, in the Township of Smith, in said County of Peterborough, to a point on the shore of said Lake in the Township of Ennismore, in said County, and also another Bridge across Pigeon Creek from a point on the shore or Bank of said Creek in the Township of Ennismore aforesaid, to a point on the shore of said Creek, in the Township of Harvey, in the County of Peterborough.

And whereas, to carry into effect the said recited object it will be necessary for the said Municipal Council to raise by way of loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars in the manner hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas, it will require the sum of $1,460, to be raised annually by special rate for the payment of said debt or loan and interest as also hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the said Municipality of the said County of Peterborough irrespective of any future increase of the same, and, also irrespective of any income to be derived from the temporary investments of the sinking fund hereinafter mentioned, or any part thereof according to the last revised and equalized Assessment Rolls of the said Municipality, is the sum of Two Million Seven Hundred and Eighty Five Thousand Three Hundred and Sixty One dollars, ($2,785,361).

And whereas the existing debt of the said Municipality of the County of Peterboro' is Twenty Nine Thousand Four Hundred dollars, ($29,400) for principal money, and Twelve Thousand and Forty-Six dollars, ($12,046) for interest, and there is nothing in arrear or account of said principal or interest,

And whereas for paying the interest and creating an equal yearly sinking fund for paying the said sum of Ten Thousand dollars, and interest as hereinafter mentioned, it will require an equal annual special rate of one half of a mill in the dollar in addition to all rates to be levied in each year.

Be it therefore enacted by the Municipal Council of the County of Peterborough:

1. That it shall be lawful for the Warden of the said County to raise by way of loan from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate, who may be willing to advance the same upon the credit of the Debentures hereinafter mentioned, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and to cause the same to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the said County of Peterborough, for the purposes and with the objects above recited.

2. That it shall be lawful for the said Warden to cause any number of Debentures to be made, for such sums of money as may be required, not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100) each and not to exceed in the whole the said sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and that the said Debentures shall be sealed, with the seal of the said Municipal Council, and be signed by the said Warden and countersigned by the Treasurer of said County.

3. That said Debentures shall be made payable in ten years at the furthest from the day hereinafter mentioned for this by-law to take effect, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality, and shall have attached to them Coupons for the payment of interest.

4. That the said Debentures shall bear interest at and after the rate of six per centum per annum, from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half yearly, on the 15th day of October and the 15th day of April in each year, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality.

5. That for the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said Debentures and the interest at the rate aforesaid to become due thereon, an equal special rate of one half a mill in the dollar shall in addition to all other rates be raised, levied and collected in each year upon the rateable property in said Municipality during the continuance of the said Debentures or any of them.

6. That this By-law shall take effect and come into operation upon the Fifteenth day of October, 1867.

The above is a true copy of a proposed By-law to be taken into consideration by the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, at Peterborough, in the said County, on

The Tenth Day of October, 1867

at the hour of TWO o'clock in the afternoon, at which time and place the members of the Council are hereby required to attend for the purpose aforesaid.

Dated, this 26th day of June, A. D. 1867.

The following testimony from a well known and highly respected Merchant of Prescott, is corroborative of the general approval given to Dr. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY:

Prescott, C. W., Dec. 8th, 1859.

Messrs. S. W. Fowle & Co., Boston.

Gentlemen:—

Being solicited by your Travelling Agent, for an expression of opinion of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. I with pleasure assert that it is, in my belief, the best remedy before the public for coughs and pulmonary complaints.

Having tested the article with myself and family, in case of severe coughs and colds, for years, with uniform and unexceptionable success, I unhesitatingly recommend it with full confidence in its merits.

Yours truly,

LIFE AND WORKS OF ROBERT BURNS,

BY THE

REV. P. HATELY WADDELL,

(Author of the well-known Eulogy on his Genius, and Chairman at the "Cottage" on the Centenary of his Birth).

This addition will be illustrated with Two Portraits of the Poet; with Frontispiece composed of five Scenes selected from the Works or Land of Burns; and with Twenty-five Pictures from Original Drawings—the whole produced in Great Oil Colours, from Engravin s by eminent artists, in the highest style of the art.

The prominent Literary characteristic of this edition will be an entirely New Life of the Poet, in the form of a Spiritual Biography, by the Rev. Editor; with much valuable additional matter relating to Burns—including some hitherto unpublished Fragments of the Poet himself, interesting original Reminiscences of his Life, original Notes critical and historical on his Poems, and an Essay on the Progress and Development of the Scottish Language up till his day.

In the department of Illustration, the distinctive feature of every Picture will be its Originality in Design, and its absolute fidelity to nature in every detail of Scenery. The actual spot referred to with all its surroundings, wherever locality constitutes a portion of the picture, will be scrupulously adhered to—so that readers at a distance, natives of Scotland, may recognise in these some transcript of the soil; and strangers may look with confidence on every illustration as a reality. In the same department, the Publisher has the highest satisfaction in being able to announce that he is in a position to reproduce an authentic and most wonderful Likeness of Robert Burns—from the Original Miniature or Sepiotint by which was painted the year before his death; and of which Burns affirms that it is "the most remarkable likeness of what I am at this moment, that I think ever was taken of any body"—together with a most interesting and beautiful Miniature of his eldest Son, painted at the same time as a pendant to the Poet's likeness. These Portraits which have been lost to the world for seventy-one years, are now in possession of the Rev. P. Hately Waddell; and cannot fail, when presented to the world, to excite universal attention. No Portrait of the Poet known can compare for a moment, in fidelity or force, with this miniature of Burns.

The work will be completed in Seventeen Monthly Parts, Demy 4 to 48 pages, price Half Dollar each. Printed from new type upon the finest printing paper.

The great care and beauty with which the above work is being got up will make it an ornament most suitable for the drawing-rooms alike of the price and of the merchant; whilst the mode of publishing and the price charged will bring it early within the reach of every tradesman throughout the world.

"Beyond the sea—beyond the sun:
Till then, and then I love thee!"

A New Discovery better than the MADOC GOLD.

Notice for a Cold—Relief in five Minutes

WHY do you suffer with a bad Cold when one bottle of Morris's Electric Invigorating Fluid will cure the worst cold in three days. It is far superior to any pain-killer or Liniment or Ready-relief. Try it once and you will not keep your house without it, for after all other remedies have failed it has cured hundreds of rheumatism, frost-bites, chilblains, burns, scalds, bruises, sprains, pains in the bowels, fresh cuts, lame back, headache and all pains internal and external. Sold everywhere at 25 cents per bottle. Retail and wholesale only by E. MORRIS, Peterborough, C. W. Guaranteed to give satisfaction or the money refunded. Every one should have a bottle.

Peterboro', Jan. 30th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed without assistance from others, in fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who reside in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr. John Archer to try Dr Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid,

GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY

Of the Celebrated Indian, Dr. Lewis Josephus, of the Distinguished Tribe of Shoshonees, British Columbia, is now for sale in Canada.

THIS all-possessing Great Indian Remedy is wanted, and in broad and emphatic language, we can safely say may be replied upon to make a permanent cure of all Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive Organs, &c., as well as Scrofula, the various Skin Diseases, Humors, and all diseases arising from impurity of the Blood, excepting the third stage of Consumption. In the Western Country where this Great Remedy has been in use for a short time, it has indeed effected some of the most Marvellous Cures, ever recorded in the annels of Historical Medicine. Such being the case, in addition to its former renown and celebrity, we defy humanity to dispute the fact, that this, the Great Shoshonees Remedy, in connection with the Shoshonees Vegetable Restorative Pills, is the Remedy of Remedies of the 19th Century, and the great cat boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

CANCERS CURED!

By a new, but certain, speedy, and nearly painless process, and

WITHOUT THE USE OF THE KNIFE.

THE cure will be guaranteed, and, as a proof of this, no pay is required, until the cure is complete. The moment a cancer is discovered, it should be cured, as it will cost less and is more speedily cured then, when of longer standing, and there is nothing to gain, and everything to lose by delay. What now seems a harmless lump in the breast, neck, eye-lid or elsewhere, or small wart or mole on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, disgusting, destroying mass of disease. If required, references can be given to parties who have been cured many years since, and who are now sound and healthy. All communications promptly answered. AYER'S Sarsaparilla

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

And for the speedy cure of the following complaints, invariably and thoroughly expelling them from the system: Scrofula, Scrofulous Affections, Tumors, Ulcers, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Rose or St. Anthony's Fire, Blood Poisoning, Mercurial Diseases, Syphilis, Gout, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Female Complaints, Debility, and all Complaints that arise from Impure Blood.

Quincy, Ill., 4th June, 1866.

J. C. Ayer & Co.—DEAR SIR: I take pleasure in informing you of the wonderful cures your Sarsaparilla has made in this community. Many of our best citizens have been restored to health from the use of it, after all other remedies had failed. Two years ago it broke out on my hand and spread over my face, and I was for a time entirely blind. My eyes were inflamed, and I suffered great pain. I was under the care of two physicians, but grew no better. I was induced to try your Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken one bottle I could see a change for the better. I continued its use for a few weeks, and was entirely cured. My sight is perfect, and my face is as fair as ever. My wife has been afflicted for years with a humor in her eyes, which grew worse in spite of all we could do for her. She was induced to try your Sarsaparilla, and before she had taken one bottle the humor was entirely gone. Her eyes are perfectly well, and her health is much improved. Our daughter, who was troubled with a humor in her eyes, has been entirely cured by the use of your Sarsaparilla. Our son, who was afflicted with a bad sore leg, has been cured by the same means. Our neighbors have been using your Sarsaparilla with the most astonishing results. Many remarkable cures have been effected by it in this city, and the demand for it is unprecedented. Yours, ALFRED B. TARBET.

St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Sore Eyes, Dropsy.

Dr. Robert M. Preble writes from Salem, N. Y., 19th Sept., 1866, that he has cured an inveterate case of Dropsy, which threatened the immediate dissolution of our correspondent, after the failure of the most eminent physicians by large doses of Sarsaparilla; and numerous other cures of Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Ringworm, Sore Eyes, Dropsy.

Bronchocele, Goiters or Swelled Neck.

Sebastian Shaw of Prospect, Texas, writes: "Three bottles of your Sarsaparilla cured my boy's Goiter—a disease very swelling on the neck, which I had suffered from over two years."

Leucorrhœa or Whites, Ovarian Tumors, Uterine Ulcerations, Female Diseases.

Dr. J. B. S. Chandler, of New York City, writes: "I most cheerfully comply with the request of your agent in saying I have found your Sarsaparilla a most valuable alterative in the numerous cases in which we employ such a remedy, but especially in Female Diseases of the Feeble and Debilitating. I have cured many leucorrhœas or Whites, by it, and some where the disease existed from abuse of the mercury. The effect of Sarsaparilla in such cases is truly wonderful. Nothing within my knowledge equals it for those female derangements."

Edward S. Marrow, of Amherst, Ala., writes: "A dangerous ovarian tumor on one of the females in my family, which had defied all the powers we could muster, has at length been completely cured by your Extract of Sarsaparilla. Our physicians thought nothing but extirpation could relieve her, but by advice of your agent we commenced using it, and the result has been a perfect cure."

Syphilis and Mercurial Disease.

NEW ORLEANS, 25th August, 1866.

DR. J. C. AYER: Sir, I should truly comply with the request of your agent, and report to you cases of the class I have realized with your Sarsaparilla.

I have cured with it, in my practice, most of the complaints for which it is recommended, and have found its effects truly wonderful in the cure of Tetter and Salt Rheum. One of the patients had Syphilitic ulcers in his throat, which were spreading his palate and the top of his mouth. Your Sarsaparilla, steadily taken, cured him in five weeks. Another was entirely cured of secondary symptoms in his nose, and the ulcerations had eaten away a considerable part of it, so that I believe the disorder would soon reach his brain and kill him. But it yielded to my administration of your Sarsaparilla, and the ulcers healed, and he is well again, and of course grateful for the relief afforded to his nose. A woman who had been treated for the same disorder by mercury was relieved from this palace in her house. They had become so sensitive to the weather that on a damp day she suffered excruciating pain in her joints and bones. Also, two, who were cured entirely by your sarsaparilla in a few weeks. I know from its effects, which your agent gave me, that this Preparation from your laboratory must be a great remedy; consequently, these truly remarkable results with it have not surprised me.

Yours truly, G. V. LARTIGUE, M. D.

Rheumatism, Gout, Liver Complaint.

INDEPENDENCE, Prairie Co., Ark., 4th July, 1866.

DR. J. C. AYER: Sir, I have been afflicted with a painful chronic Rheumatism for a long time, which baffled the skill of physicians, and much to me in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I tried your Sarsaparilla. One bottle cured me in two weeks, and restored my general health so much that I am far better than before I was attacked. I think it a wonderful medicine. J. FRAZAR.

Jules V. Guichard, of St. Louis, writes: "I have been afflicted for years with an affection of the Liver, which destroyed my health. I tried every thing, and every thing failed to relieve me; and I have been a broken-down man for some years. Seeing no other cure than derangement of the Liver. My beloved pastor, the Rev. Mr. Hogan, advised me to try your Sarsaparilla, because he said he knew you, and any thing you undertook was worth trying. By the blessing of God it has cured me, and has perfectly purified my blood so to make a new man of me. I feel young again. The best thing I can do is to make this statement, that you may use it as you please."

Scirrhus, Cancer, Tumors, Enlargement, Ulceration, Caries and Exfoliation of the Bones.

A great variety of cases have been reported to us where cures of these formidable complaints have resulted from the use of this remedy, but our space here will not admit of them. Some of them may be found in our American Almanac, which the agents below named are pleased to furnish gratis to all who call for them.

Dyspepsia, Heart Disease, Fits, Epilepsy, Melancholy, Neuralgia

Many remarkable cures of these affections have been made by the alterative power of this medicine. It subdues the vital function into vigorous action, and thus overcomes disorders which would be supposed beyond its reach. Such a remedy has long been required by the necessities of the people, and we are confident that this will do for them all that medicine can do.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the Relief of Consumptive Patients in advanced Stages of the Disease.

This is a remedy so universally known as to surpass any other for the cure of recent and long complaints, that it is useless here to publish the evidence of its virtues. Its unrivalled excellence for coughs and colds, and its truly wonderful cures of pulmonary disease, have made it known throughout the civilized nations of the earth. Few are the communities, or even families, among them who have not some personal experience of its effects—some living trophy in their midst of its victory over the subtle and dangerous disorders of the throat and lungs. As all know the dreadful fatality of these disorders, and as they know, too, the efficacy of this remedy, we need not do more than to assure them that it has in all the virtues that it did have when making the cures which have won so strongly upon the confidence of mankind.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

And for sale in Peterboro by Ormond & Gilmour, A. W. Kempt, and Wm. Coulter. In Keene by A. Campbell, Campbell McNeil Co., C. Britton, Cloadsy, and all Medicine Dealers.

BUT TRUE.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF

CONSUMPTION

BY THE

GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY

IN CANADA.

MESSRS. Y. & C.—GENTLEMEN:—I Wilson Storms, of Brighton, C. W., make oath and say,—I feel anxious to let you know what the Great Shoshonees Remedy has effected for me. My wife was afflicted with consumption and died; I was also afflicted with the same disease, and after her death I continued sinking just as she had done. I had very severe night sweats; coughed nearly all night and every night; could not sleep unless a little towards morning. I raised over a quart of matter every 24 hours; had severe pain in the left lung, &c., &c., and was greatly debilitated. In fact I was going as fast as I could. I was taking medicine from a regular physician, but it did not even relieve my cough. I went to the village one day about a quarter of a mile, which took me to go and come about two hours.—While there I saw Esq., Wellington, and happened to say to him. "I wish you could give me something to relieve my cough." He said "There is the Great Indian Remedy just introduced; Dr. Barker has it for sale, and I believe it will cure you." I took his advice, and brought a bottle home with me; took a tablespoonful at once, which I felt through my whole system; at night I took a table spoonful, and rested well all night, and continued to rest well every night. The Cough, Night Sweats, Raising of matter, Pain in the Lung, &c., gradually left me, and I got hearty and strong. I took only three bottles. I am not taking it now, and I am as hearty and as well as ever I was in my life. My sister

LINES

Written by Mrs. J. Miller, on the death of her youngest son.

He was a fair and cherished flower,
One little bright eyed boy;
His loss my ground our family bower,
And filled our hearts with joy.

But sickness came, he drooped his head,
His beams were filled with pain;
But when we felt, save God alone,
Could raise him up again.

Our tender call and earnest prayer,
Could not his health restore,
Death death's resistless reign he slept
To wake on earth no more.

Faith whispered mourn him not as dead,
Though low his body lies;
His spirit sweetly blooms above
Secure in Paradise.

O, then submissive be our hearts,
And to the end endure;
Then in our Fathers house above,
We'll meet to part no more.

Selections.

Bachelor Brown's Courtship.

Richard Brown had lived a Bachelor for forty years, and declared his intention of continuing in the state of single blessedness for the remainder of his life—greatly to the satisfaction of his relatives, the Hinkleys, with whom he resided, for be it known Uncle Richard was worth a good half a million, and the Hinkleys were his only living relations, and unless, as Mrs. Hinkley said, some "nasty chivalry" came in for his property, who should he leave it to but to his own cousins or their children?

Hopeful as poor human nature is of longevity, Mr. and Mrs. Hinkle scarcely expected to survive their cousin, who was their junior by ten years, but Adelia, and Rose, and Charles, and William, might in all probability be heirs, and to this end the point to labored. Uncle Richard had the best room in the house, the best chair, the most particular consideration. His wishes were deferred to and his advice taken on every occasion, and he actually came to be loved; for, with all his quiet, old fashioned ways, and his habit of sitting as utterly silent as though he had been deaf and dumb, he was a loveable man. Matters progressed smoothly enough until it was hinted and not hypocrisy which made Cousin Richard actually master of the house.

He was very obliging—wonderfully so in most respects. He would attend to any thing for anybody—match ribbons when nobody else could—escort the girls to places of amusement—go dutifully to church with their mamma attend to marketing and the posting of letters, and the gas metre, and the turning off the water in frosty weather. He was always ready to search the house with a poker at the dead of night, when any one heard a noise."

He went to the dentist with people who wanted their teeth drawn, and always seemed to have sugar-plums in his pocket. But one thing Cousin Richard would not do, and that was to exhibit the least politeness to lady visitors.

He never saw one home. He never even spent the evening in their company. He invariably shut himself up in his own room and had his tea there when one of these nuisances was reported to be in the house, or when travelling, had been known in a train to shut his eyes tight when a young lady entered and remain with them closed until she left the carriage. As a general thing, indeed, he always chose a carriage where he need not be intruded upon.

It was just as well after all, said Mrs. Hinkle, but it was a peculiarity not quite as agreeable to Mr. H. when he found the pleasant task of "seeing Miss Smith or Miss Jones home" imposed upon himself. He argued that such duties were cousin Dick's, though he never told him so. It would not have been pleasant to provoke him, and if anything could have offended Bachelor Brown mortally, it would have been to insist upon his offering any gallant attentions to the softer sex.

However a day came at last which set the whole household in commotion.

Miss Amanda Dove had been invited to spend a week with the Hinkles, and Miss Dove, being a stranger, was to wait at the station until some one came for her in a carriage.

The Hinkles resided some miles out of town, and had not occupied their residence for many months, so that people were not always properly directed by the neighbors.

It was decided that Mr. Hinkle should escort Miss Dove, but before the day of her arrival dawned business had called that gentleman to Sheffield. Moreover, Mrs. Hinkle had the influenza, and the two boys were at boarding school. No one was to be found to drive, and neither Rose nor Adelaide could handle the reins. Miss Dove was to come at nine, and what would she think of them if no one came for her?

Indeed said Mrs. Hinkle, it would be shocking treatment for the dear girl. I must ask your cousin Richard.

You never dare, ma, said Rose aghast.

In such a case, you know——said Mrs. Hinkle

He'll not do it, said Adelaide.

Of course not, said Rose.

Mrs. Hinkle shook her head.

I fear he will not, she said, and assuming an expression which would have done credit to Joan of Arc, mounted the stairs to Cousin Richard's study.

Are you busy, Richard? she asked as she entered.

Not at all—sit down, said Bachelor Brown.

You see how ill I am, said Mrs. Hinkle. I can hardly hold up my head, much less drive, and Mr. Hinkle is away, and the boys too, and no one can handle the reins, and——

Well, said Bachelor Brown.

And there is poor Miss Dove at the station with her trunk by this time, said Mrs. Hinkle's voice gasped.

Ah! said Bachelor Brown; what a pity.

Mrs. Hinkle felt that she had not begun yet. Bachelor Brown could not understand what she wanted.

It's a favor—a great favor to ask, I know, she said, but couldn't you just for once do it?

Do what, Maria? asked Bachelor Brown.

Go for her, said Mrs. Hinkle.

For Miss Dove?

Yes.

Oh, dear no, said Uncle Richard.

But——, began Mrs Hinkle.

Maria, said the old bachelor, young ladies, my little cousins excepted, are my abomination. An affected, conceited, absurd set of creatures, I never will. No doubt she is capable of finding her way here. They all appear to be. I shant go for her.

Mrs. Hinkle retreated.

What will she think of us? she said sobbing.

Don't cry, said Bachelor Brown. I'll see if any of the hands over at Gate's place can drive over for her.

And out he went; but all the hands on Gate's place were busy with the hay, which stood in danger from the coming shower.—Richard returned without the least success.

A shower, too, said Rose. Poor dear Amanda, I'll try what I can do with my cousin.

And in the study she spent an hour, pleasing and worrying without effect.

Let her get lost, said Bachelor Brown. No doubt she'd like it. And as for her trunk, why can't girls travel with a portmanteau as we do?

And Rose departed, pouting. She found Adelaide in an extremely merry mood.

Don't laugh, she said. Think of poor Amanda.

I am thinking of her, said Adelaide, and cousin Dick shall go. I'll tell a fib.

For shame, said Rose.

One ought to make some sacrifice for a friend, said Adelaide. I'll tell him she's a child. He's always good to children.

It will never do, said Mrs. Hinkle; he'll never forgive you.

But Adelaide ran up to her cousin's study and burst in with an exceedingly theatrical laugh.

What a mistake! she said, and so stupid of them all. You think Amanda is a grown young lady, don't you?

Isn't she? asked the bachelor.

As if a child nine years could be! said Adelaide! Poor little thing!

Poor little thing, indeed, said the old bachelor, hurrying on his coat and hat.—Bless me, why didn't you mention it? Poor little soul!

And in a few minutes the light wagonette was driven down the road, and the Hinkles stood to sing after it.

I'm half frightened, said Rose.

So am I, said Adelaide. But it's done, and cannot be helped now. I'll manage to coax him to forgive me, and it wouldn't do to leave a friend in such a position, you know; and I didn't say she was a child.

Meanwhile Bachelor Brown drove to the station. It was a long drive over a bad road, but he kept on his way cheerfully. He was extremely fond of children.

When on reaching the station, he saw no sign of her presence, he grew alarmed. If she had been lost through his neglect, he could never forgive himself. He ran his fingers through unusually hair, and peeped into the ladies' waiting room. Only a very fine, full grown young woman sat there, and he retreated. The woman who waited in the apartment came out of her work with a courtesy, as she saw him, and he addressed her:

Have you seen a little girl waiting for some one?

No sir, said the woman. There were two come down, but they are gone.

Oh, dear! Oh, dear! said Bachelor Brown; I hope there's no mistake. It's a little Miss Dove, and if the dear little soul has gone astray I am entirely to blame. Please make enquiries—there's a good woman!

As he uttered these words the full grown young woman in the waiting room was seen to blush vividly and to raise.

I'm Amada Dove she said, and I expected some one from Mr. Hinkle's.

Bachelor Brown stood aghast. He had spoken of this lady as a "dear little thing." His face also turned scarlet.

I—I beg your pardon, ma'am, he began. I expected to find a little girl—I would'nt have used such expressions for the world. I—I—

I comprehend, said the young lady don't mind in the least. I—

Is this your trunk, ma'am? said Bachelor Brown, in a hurry.

Yes, sir, said the lady, looking down.

And in a few minutes the two were driving towards the Hinkles' country seat. Never had Bachelor Brown found himself so close to any young lady save his cousins, before. He was acutely conscious that somehow he liked it. How pretty, she was, he thought. How pink and white; how golden her hair was. How the blue ribbons of her bonnet set it off. Then he began to wonder what she thought of him. Wondering thus, he forgot the road and suddenly found that he had lost himself—To add to the dilemma, the storm which had been threatening for hours, burst at the very moment when Bachelor Brown found it impossible to tell whether the left road, or the right, led homeward; and the horse was afraid of lightning, and grew restive. Miss Amanda Dove was afraid of lightning, also. She gave a little scream, and clung to Bachelor Brown's great sleeve.

Bachelor Brown looked down at her. It was such a soft, plump hand. Her eyes were so round and so blue in her terror, that he forgot she was a young lady.

I'll take care of you, he said; a flash of lightning, a roar of thunder, and we are tempest in the part of the horse to run away, interrupted him.

Miss Dove forgot pale. Bachelor Brown looked terrified—he cast a glance about him. Near the road was a parsonage, connected with its church by a garden.

I'll tell you what we'll do, he said. We'll ask for shelter until the storm is over. A clergyman ought to be Christian enough to take us in.

And, driving to the gate, he assisted Miss Dove to alight. And as she did so, two bored men rushed out and began to attend to the horse and vehicle, and an old lady and gentleman appeared upon the steps.

So glad your party enough to escape the worst of the storm, said the gentleman.

Do come in, said the old lady. We were expecting you—for as such as necessities people always keep their appointments rain or sunshine, I believe.

What on earth does she mean? said Bachelor Brown. But it is very kind of them, and so, while the old lady carried Miss Dove away to dry her things, he sat with the old clergyman in the parlor.

Do you feel at all nervous, sir? said the old clergyman, after a pause.

No, sir, thank you, said Bachelor Brown. Most men do, sir, said the clergyman.

Yes, lightning is a sort of nervous thing, said Bachelor Brown.

I did not allude to the storm.

Indeed, sir.

But to the approaching ceremony.

Eh! said Bachelor Brown.

In your note, you know, you told me that you were two persons to stand before the whole congregation in church, and preferred a quiet wedding at my house, said the old man.

Bachelor Brown stared at him in astonishment. The truth dawned upon him.

You expected a—a young couple? he said—

Oh, you are quite young enough, said the innocent clergyman. And I must say the young lady appears a very charming person.

Bachelor Brown felt himself blush.

Should you think she'd make a good wife? he asked.

Undoubtedly, said the clergyman.

And you think a man is—happier—for—for—entering the nuptial state? he inquired.

No man can be happy without so doing, and it's every man's duty, said the old gentleman believing every word he said.

She's a dear little thing, thought Mr. Brown to himself. I never liked a girl so much. It's very awkward to explain. I wonder whether.—

And just then Miss Dove entered the room looking angelic without her bonnet, to Mr. Brown. Bachelor Brown drew her aside.

I have something to say to you, Miss Dove, he said.

Dear me, said Miss Dove.

They've made a mistake, said Bachelor Brown. They think we—we—we are—are people they expect—a—a young couple, you know, about to—

Oh, dear, do they? whispered Miss Dove.

Yes, said Bachelor Brown. Now it would be very awkward to explain. And I like you so much. Couldn't you like me, too, and let him do it—eh?

Do what, Mr. Brown? said Amanda.

Marry us, sir! Bachelor B.

Of course not, said Amanda. What would the Hinkles say?

They'd be delighted, said Richard, growing bolder. Then he put his arm around her waist.

I don't know much about this sort of thing, but you are the only nice girl I ever saw. Please do. I'm not such a bad fellow. I'll be good to you.

I know you are good, said Amanda, but—

But then I'm ugly, eh? asked Richard.

Ah, no, not at!

Well?

It would be so odd.

Well, said Bachelor Brown, that's my fault, and they know I'm odd, my dear.

Four hours after, the Hinkles heard the light wagonette drive to the door, and rushed out to greet Amanda.

We've been so alarmed, said Mrs. Hinkle.

Such a storm, said Rose.

Were you frightened? asked Adelaide. Uncle Richard, too, shrank back, as though he were afraid of something.

Tell 'em Amanda, he said.

No; you tell them, Richard, said Amanda.

The Hinkles listened in amazement.

What is there to tell? asked Mrs. Hinkle. What is all the mystery about?

And cousin Richard answered sheepishly, nothing—only we've been getting married. This is my wife, Mrs. Brown.

It was the only explanation ever offered. The Hinkles never comprehended it. It was always a mystery to them; and though they were profuse in their congratulations, and always continued the best of friends, the fortune which might have been Rose's or Adelaide's rather troubled Mrs. Hinkle; and she always declared in secret family councils that she was perfectly sure Uncle Richard married out of spite to punish Adelaide for the trick she played upon him.

Unwrapping a Mummy at the Paris Exhibition.

The process of unbinding the body commenced. The outside bandages of strong linen were first removed with the aid of scissors, and then a faint odor of balm, incense, and aromatic drugs, filled the room like the perfume of a drug shop. Having found an end among these many wrappers, the mummy was placed in an upright position, in order that the long, yellow strip of linen might be more easily unwound. A stranger scene cannot be imagined than the huge rag doll awkwardly tossing its arms in the air, while its despoilers increased at every turn the heap of yellow flax at their feet, as one does the parings of a fruit before reaching the core. From time to time, the bandages enclosed pieces of stone resembling lumps of rock, enough to fill in the spaces or to restore the form. The head was passed through holes cut in pieces of cloth, which were adjusted at the shoulder and fell over the breast. A kind of veil of coarse linen, the delicate, rose-tint of which charmed an artist, was discovered after the removal of all these obstacles. It seems to us that the viscera must have been dried in the drying of this muslin, unless the original red had become discolored from contact with the aromatic drugs added by the action of time. Under the veil, huge tufts of fine linen enveloped, carefully in this many entanglement. Curiosity became greatly excited, the workmen redoubled to revolve more rapidly. Presently an Edgar Poe would have made the rumps the hairs of one of their terrible stories.—Suddenly, at the moment, a ragged cloth met great drops of rain, like hail, against the window-panes; pale streaks of lightning illustrated the old yellow skin, and the grimacing contortions of the hundred dead bodies in the Egyptian museum, and the low rumblings of thunder served as accompaniments to the wailing of Nes Khons, daughter of Horus and of Mosen, whirling in the labyrinth side of dark Jabrahero. The mummy disappeared entirely in size, and her back figure became more and more evident in the receding grey bandages. At the end of the fifty of linen wrappings encumbered the ground, and it was difficult to believe they had not been contained within this body, which did not surpass the size of an ordinary doll. The neck was the first portion of the body which appeared disencumbered of bandages; but it was glued up with such a mass of naphtha that it required the aid of scissors to remove it. An unexpected and touching detail was a flower found under each arm, so well preserved that a botanist would no doubt have been able to name it. Was it a lotus blossom or a rose? No one could tell us, as our company was usually composed of savans. This incident made us all pensive. Whose hand had placed there these poor flowers, as a last adieu, at the moment when this deeply regretted body was about to disappear forever from mortal eyes? Flowers four thousand years old! What a subject for meditation! A little berry of fruit, whose species it would be difficult to name, was also found from time to time in the bandages.

The face still remained concealed beneath its masks of linen and bitumen, which it was difficult to remove, owing to its fabulous age. The scissors finally removed the last obstacle, and two large black eyes shone with a resplendent life from between two blackened eyelids. These eyes were of enamel, such as the mummies always put in a carefully prepared manner. The effect of those two fixed staring eyes in that dead face was something startling. The corpse seemed to contemplate the living beings before it with disdainful surprise. The eyebrows were left clearly defined by the falling away of flesh. The nose, we are obliged to avow it, was flattened at the end to conceal the incision which had been made in the removal of the brains of Nes-Khons, and a piece of gold leaf was plastered over her mouth like a seal of eternal silence. Her fine, well-preserved hair fell in light ringlets about her arms, and was of that peculiar reddish tint so recherche among the Venetian ladies, and which, the caprice of some of our elegantes has brought into favor at the present day. We hardly believe that this peculiar shade (which brought Nes-Khons into the latest fashion) could have been natural, as without doubt she was a brunette, like her fellow-Egyptians, and this auburn tint is probably produced by the perfumes and drugs used in the embalmment. This same golden tint is found on the heads of two women exposed in the glass case, and what is strange, one of them has the same coiffure as the Venus of Milo, and the other a profusion of braids forming a sort of casque, as the hair is worn at this time. Little by little the body was exposed to view, in all its pitiful nudity. The skin on the body was red, and covered with little blue spots like the mould on pictures, caused by the contact with the air. From the incision made to take out the entrails, aromatic saw-dust mixed with grains of resin, was dropping like bran from an unsewed doll. The long emaciated arms, with their bony hands and decorated finger-nails were extended, with a sepulchral modesty, in the attitude of the Venus of Medicis. The feet, which were slightly contracted from the drying of the flesh and nerves seemed to have been originally small; the toe-nails like those of the fingers, being covered with bits of gold-leaf. Was she old or young, pretty or ugly, this Nes-Khons, daughter of Horus and of Rosne, a used lady by her epitaph? It would be difficult to judge. Nothing remains but dry bones enveloped in a yellow skin in which it would be impossible to recognize the graceful form of the Egyptian women as painted by the brush of Alma-Tadema. One might well believe himself dreaming when he thus sees before him in a palpable form a thing—we cannot call it a being—that lived and loved five hundred years before the time of Moses, and two thousand before that of Christ; for such is the age of the mummy spared at the universal exhibition in the midst of all the machinery of modern times. What curious events are concealed in the future? In the face of such an arrest as this, the imagination would be justified in indulging in almost any extravagant flight of fancy. Like Hamlet talking with the grave-digger, one comes to the philosophical conclusion that the dust of Alexander perhaps serves as a stopper to a beer barrel. We reflected that at the universal exhibition of future centuries, when the present civilization should be replaced by another, a professor of anthropology, in speaking of extinct races, might perhaps make a dissertation with somewhat upon the editorial species of the family of the men of letters; and we cast a friendly and melancholy parting glance on the pope anway.—Translated from the Moniteur.

ARE THERE PARTIES?

This question arises out of the fact that we are daily met by the Tories with the cry, "There are no parties." Now we assert that the same parties that have existed for years are actuated by the very same feelings that they have ever been. When the Tories sought a coalition here, it was by seeking to get one Tory for one Reformer. Here was party in embryo at any rate. When Mr. Anderson, of Otonabee, was brought out, the wire pullers at Keene acknowledged he was a good man, an honest man, a true man; but Mr. Grover was better, and Mr. Grover boasts that he was born a Tory and will die one. Here was party matured. They wanted good men, but in their estimation of goodness there must be something Tory. In the West, J. Walton was brought out, and against him they can say nothing but that he is a Reformer; but because of that he must be opposed and Mr. Carnegie is brought out for that purpose. Here is party to perfection. Will they in the face of this tell electors that there is no party? Unless they have fears of brass they will not.

TO REFORMERS.

Do any of the old Tories leave their ranks at the hollow cry? We have looked round and made enquiry and we cannot find one who has done so.

In a clerical discussion lately reported to us, the principals are reported to have said: "Well, Mr. P. is not the right stamp of a man, but then, 'our party you know.'" Party even in the church, and these were members of the "no party school." Nothing before the country, of course not. Yet "our party." Why do they (party men) use such deception. Can they not, dare they say, honestly say there are important issues before the country, and we wish as a party to have the management of them, or honestly say we are fighting for office.

EAST RIDING.

We can now announce the fact that Mr. Evans Ingram is a candidate for the suffrages of the electors of the East Riding. He does not come out as some of the other candidates have done, on his own hook. He has been requested by over 200 most influential and wealthy electors from every part of the Riding. He has entered on the work in earnest and from the feelings expressed every where, there is no doubt of his election. Mr. Ingram is a reliable man, truly a Reformer, but not extreme in his views; yet he will give no uncertain vote in the Legislative Halls of Ontario. Having been long engaged in Municipal matters, he is perfectly conversant with every phase of our Municipal institutions, and will thus be able to afford important aid in revising the hurried legislation of the past. He is also a farmer, and hence can ask for the support of farmers; and from his general intelligence and ability will be no mean representative.

P. Pearce, Esq., is also in the field for the same house, that of Ontario. Thus there are now three candidates in the field for that position. The race will no doubt be between Mr. P. Pearce and Mr. Ingram, if these remain steadfast. It is already rumoured that there is a likelihood of one of the Coalition candidates resigning, which one we are not yet able to say, nor are we willing to admit that either will give up.—Mr. Reid has been canvassing for some weeks, and will in consequence hesitate to lose his labor. Mr. Pearce's honor is at stake, and this will do much to keep him in the field. Mr. Ingram now is in and will remain in.

At their chances—we believe Mr. Pearce will get a large vote of the Eastern part of the Riding, and no mean vote either. Mr. Reid's strength lies around Keene, but Mr. Ingram will divide that strength, and in addition will receive a strong vote in Dummer, Dummer, Asphodel, Burleigh and the back country; Pearce will be divided, but will go strongest for Pearce.

This much we can say, they are, each, respectable men, but our sympathies are with the Reform candidate, Mr. Ingram, and we trust that his friends will work that his election may be by a large majority.

Mr. Anderson is pursuing his canvass surely and steadily. He is a candidate of Reform, notwithstanding all that may be said to the contrary. The East Riding will yet return two Reform candidates.

Just as we go to press Mr. P. gave his opponent to understand that he will allow Messrs. Reid and Ingram to accept the Riding.

Mud Lake Bridge.

A Peterborough man (Mr. Nicholl) Grocer, last week visited a floating bridge on Sturgeon Lake. These gentlemen express themselves highly pleased with it, and consider it a success. It has existed 16 years, it is better half a mile long and is in every way well calculated for the end intended. In all probability, the Mud Lake bridge will now obtain general support.

Entertaining.

St. Andrew's Church.

The repairs being now nearly completed, Divine Service will be resumed in this Church on Sunday, the 11th inst., at 11 a. m. and at 6.30 p. m.

MR. MCGEE NOT AT HOME AMONGS HIS CONSTITUENTS IN MONTREAL.—Mr. McGee had called a meeting on Friday last, but when the people assembled they refused to hear him and called loudly for Mr. Devlin who opposes him. Mr. McGee and his colleague, Mr. Ogilvie, were forced to leave the place, and on his way to the hotel were pelted with rotten eggs. Such conduct does not speak well for the order of the Montrealers in Mr. McGee's division. The trouble, it is said, was caused principally by French Canadians.

THE CROPS.—Already the hay harvest is settled or nearly so, and farmers tell us that it is the largest crop that has been realized for many years. The fall wheat harvest is also in, and much of it is cut down. An abundant return is expected; never did this crop look more promising. The spring crops, too, look very well indeed; the late sheepers have done much for this kind of crop. To all appearance there will be abundant returns for the labors of the husband man this year.

FIRE AT KEENE.—We learn that on Monday morning a fire broke out in the buildings adjoining Gall's Hotel, in the Village of Keene. It consumed the house and four stores and buildings east of it. There was a trifling insurance on some of the property, but we did not learn full particulars. The whole is believed to have been the work of an incendiary.

We have received a communication from Dr. Bell, of Lakefield, in reference to the death of the unfortunate Biddaro, who died at Scott's Mills from injuries received by the machinery. Now as Dr. Bell mistakes our informant, and when we assert that there was no intention to call in question the acts in the matter, we have thought it was to withhold the remarks until again requested to insert them. In the meantime we believe that there is no use in referring to men whom we know to be innocent, nor will it do any good to create a useless discussion. From information received no blame is or has been attached to Dr. Bell's treatment or conduct.

THE MEETING AT BLOOMFIELD.

On Thursday last the friends of Messrs. Gordon and Walton held a meeting of the electors at Bloomfield, and, although the notice given was very short, yet there was a full meeting, and it proved in every way successful. Messrs. Gordon and Walton, and others addressed the meeting. A vote of confidence in the Reform candidates was proposed and carried unanimously. South Monaghan is safe.

Having learned that Messrs. Perry and Carnegie intended holding a meeting in the same place on the next evening, and that unwilling to trust themselves alone to the tender mercies of the people, they had sent for the Hon. Mr. Cockburn, to come and defend them. Messrs. Gordon and Walton and several of their friends waited for this meeting, and were present. The House was well filled.

Mr. Perry first addressed the meeting, asserting that he had no political principles except that he would support the present coalition. He next referred to his private affairs, and to the reports circulated of his daughters being in the Nunnery, which he positively denied, remarking that if they were in a Nunnery they could not get out, and in proof said he expected them home in a few days. He admitted that they were at an institution in which all the teachers were Catholics, and that he sent them there to get a perfect knowledge of the French language.

Mr. Carnegie followed, and after propounding his views, which were like Mr. Perry's, —coalition, coalition, coalition. He also in turn repelled certain reports alleged to have been made against his Protestantism, which he begins to feel is doubtful. No one believed such charges were ever made by any one but his friends, who raised the cry to hide appearances. They could do such things as easily as they told certain other lies, which they manufactured and circulated.

Mr. Gordon was then called on and very freely dealt with those questions that were agitating the country, but which Mr. Perry feared to touch upon because he did not understand them or found they were not in the J. A. platform. Mr. Gordon was well received, and the meeting was evidently in his favour.

Mr. Walton was next called on, and in turn referred to what he considered the wise and safe policy for the future. Here Mr. D. G. Hatton put the question to Mr. Walton: would he vote to take away the present grants from Colleges that are managed by the Methodist body? This was evidently to try to raise a sectarian feeling against Mr. Walton. Mr. Walton spurned from him the accusation, and boldly declared that it was not colleges or academies, but religion, for which he would vote nothing; as he believed that every religion should stand or fall on its own merits.

Mr. Cockburn, who was brought there as the champion of coalition, was the next speaker, and he made a weak attempt, indeed, to defend the anomalous position in which he found himself. He endeavored, however, to do a little for the promised Judasship, but perhaps the will will be taken for the deed. He did say, however, that John A. Macdonald would govern, should he do it by the votes of Lower Canada. He would try and buy week kneed Reformers if he could find them. If not, he could buy enough Lower Canada votes to keep him in power. Vain and futile were Mr. Cockburn's efforts to gull the audience, for, after all, a vote of confidence in Messrs. Perry and Carnegie was supported by a large majority. South Monaghan is therefore safe. The people there will not allow their votes to continue those men that have so abused their position in the past to prove Masonic Gordon and Walton Meeting.

On Tuesday evening the above gentlemen addressed a large number of electors and others in the Victoria Hall. Reid's Kingston, Esq., acted as chairman, and in a few opening remarks very clearly expressed his reasons for being a Reformer, although brought up in a tory family. He espoused reform principles because [illegible] freedom of freedom to all, and equal rights and privileges to every class of citizen, while Tories encouraged class legislation, and always leaned towards the rich and powerful. He found Reformers [illegible] the people, while Tory leaders helped all on a par. Reformers always shared their pay and no favor, Tories always aided oppression, on these grounds he was a Reformer, and it was because he had implicit confidence in Messrs. Gordon and Walton, that he supported them, but because Messrs Perry and Carnegie had not his confidence he opposed them. He knew that the first named gentlemen would vote on the right side when called upon, but he well knew how the latter gentlemen would vote. He then referred personally to Mr. Perry's qualifications, but this was afterwards answered by that gentleman. The nomination Day, however, will decide matters of qualification. Mr. Gordon then addressed the meeting in a masterly and telling speech, in which he dealt with the leading questions of the day. He expressed his admiration of confederation, and the strong desire he felt that it should be properly worked, but looking at the past, he feared for the future if the present men should be sustained at the approaching election. The Tories feared to look back, there was a black catalogue there that they feared to look at; but he asked how could we judge of men but by the past. After retrospection of the last fifteen or twenty years, he trembled for the future unless good men in future be sent to Parliament. After referring to the debt that now hangs so heavily on us, and the reckless spendthrift way this debt was incurred by buying votes in Upper Canada and coaxing Lower Canada, so that our debt now equalled the debt of the United States before the war, and has increased during ten of the best years our country has seen; our opponents tell us there are no issues before the country, and they wish also to throw a veil over the past; and now they ask us to open new books, but if we did open new books, must we not bring forward old balances, these balances were there; and certainly required to be brought forward. Confederation had been obtained, and Reformers were determined to keep it intact, but the Tory coalition was determined to destroy; and as to the clap trap of John A. Macdonald putting John Sanfield Macdonald at London, and asking him did I ever direct you what to do, and then getting the answer, no, indeed; I will do as I please, it is not worth listening to. There should be a policy, but of course there was none. Here Mr. G. referred to what would be a wise policy in reference to emmigration, but this we have referred to before. Mr. Gall's vacillating policy also was dealt with, and the fact referred to that the Globe was ashamed to publish certain correspondence in which Mr. Gall had been snubbed for his policy. Mr. Gordon was also in favour of party government, as it was the only legitimate way of carrying on the business of any country. The government of England was a party one; and when Reformers went out the Tories went in and vice versa; but they never thought of a coalition, indeed when there was not party to watch party, we might well tremble for our country.

Mr. Walton then addressed the meeting, setting forth his views. He was always a Liberal, advocate of equal rights to all of every class and creed. He was also for party government; his opponents were for no party, but that simply meant lie down and let their party into power. But if a Reformer is brought out, then they bring out a Tory. In Lower Canada the Tories are strong, there they have a party government; in Upper Canada Reformers are strongest and John A. dreads party. Here he referred to Mr. Carnegie's policy, merely coalition. Mr. C. would vote for the address without ever seeing it. He Mr. Walton would do no such thing.

Mr. Perry was then called on but as usual had no speech. He merely referred to the remarks of the chairman as regards his qualifications, asserting that it was in the hands of Mr. Dennistoun, and was as good as any man's qualification, of course he had no speech, and no policy.

Mr. Carnegie, followed and did much to gain votes for his opponents by entering into little personalities that ill became a man seeking to represent this or any Riding in Canada. The burden of his speech was abuse, and what will Mr. Walton do? what will Mr. Walton say? what will Mr. Walton's policy be? In fact, like his colleague, he had no policy, unless personal abuse of Mr. Walton, and repeating the old cry of the colleges in danger.

Mr. Walton in a very few remarks informed Mr. Carnegie that he (Mr. C.) appeared to have been lately at the collegiate, for he had learned to catechise, it nothing else; but thought it would be better if he would explain his own policy, before he catechised others about those things of which he knew so little.

Mr. Dumble next addressed the meeting, making an able and effective speech, a few ideas of which we are only able to give. In reference to Mr. Carnegie's statements that he was a better man than Mr. Walton because Mr. Walton could hardly read or write, Mr. Dumble said that he himself was only a boy of the same age of Mr. Carnegie, and he had yet to learn that the old man who asked for our support was less entitled to that support because coming into the country when educational advantages were not so easily obtained as now, he had with but limited learning battled his way through life, and successfully coping with the world, had at last obtained an honorable and an eminent position amongst the agriculturists of the country. The insinuation into the mouth of Mr. Carnegie since he came here better than he did his statements every night. Mr. Walton for many years had been in the County Council and for several years had sat there with Mr. Carnegie. During that time Mr. Walton's superior position had caused him to be chairman of many committees, the reports of which he, Mr. Walton, had always prepared and written, and these were amongst the ablest that were presented to the Council. That Mr. Carnegie knew right well. Again, that report it was himself aware of the fact, that Mr. Walton's address which prepared and written by him and for which he received a remuneration of that address with Mr. Carnegie's, and would ask which was the most talented and able. Mr. Walton was one of the old pioneer fathers of this country, and he Mr. Dumble, hoped the day would never come when such men should be [illegible] they deserved. Mr. Perry and Mr. Carnegie had appeared at every meeting but one and they had never yet, especially Mr. Perry, given vent to the [illegible] or expression which would show that they had formed a clear idea as to the requirements, wants of policy of the country; matters of trade commerce and finance were treated by them. He (Mr. D.) knew not for what reason Mr. Cockburn's efforts to gull the audience, for, after all, a vote of confidence in Messrs. Perry and Carnegie was supported by a large majority. South Monaghan is therefore safe. The people there will not allow their votes to continue those men that have so abused their position in the past to prove

A CLERICAL PARTISAN.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—It is a pleasing fact that the Protestants are happily few in this Province in which ministers of religion borrow for figure in the moral character of their calling as to become political partizans, and treat as equal, or paramount to the religious interests committed to their care, the party politics of the section in which they reside, or the fortunes of some political trickster who may have obtained sway over them for the time being. This last must be gratifying to all right minded men; for, were it otherwise, the people of this country would soon cease to bear the impress of religion and to entertain for it that veneration and respect as characteristic of them. There are not a few who go so far as to argue that clergymen should mould politics in toto, and even refrain from exercising the franchise, and that any other course will sooner or later end in the degradation of religion, by making it an instrument in the hands of unprincipled men for the promotion of one political faction or another.

We are led to the foregoing reflections by an occurrence which took place here recently. Your readers will, no doubt, recollect the meeting held in the Roman Catholic School House here, on Sunday, the 14th ult., an account of which was published in a recent issue. It appears that during the religious services in the Catholic Church, on the day named, the Priest, Mr. Kelly, notified the congregation that he required their presence in the School House immediately after Church. Accordingly, about forty men and boys assembled in the place designated. The Priest hurriedly divested himself of his clerical robes and hastened to the scene of action, and at once proceeded to complete his holy (?) Sabbath day labour. Resolutions, which were prepared before hand for the occasion, were produced by the priest and passed—assuming to his discussions tinging his people to bow submissively to his idol, the great political Juggernaut, John A. McDougall. A resolution was also passed denouncing, with a degree of bitterness and venom but little in keeping with the spirit of religion, a gentleman then absent but of whose political leanings there were some doubts. There can be no doubt that the object of the attack on Mr. Carroll was, at least, in part for the purpose of making an example and thus intimating to others what they might expect should they choose to be guided by their own judgments in their political actions.

The question will naturally occur to the reader, why is this Rev. Gentleman so intensely eagerly, nay madly anxious for the success of the Tory candidates? What great interest is there at stake that thus impels him? It cannot be one of a public nature otherwise we would hear of it. The questions which divide Protestants politically are invariable of a public character, and are discussed in public and are equally important to Protestants and Catholics. But this Rev. Gentleman has evidently some secret scheme to carry out, of the nature of which he desires to keep the public in ignorance, and as his eager anxious zeal to drive his people into supporting the party with which he has bargained, he not only violates the holy Sabbath, but in a manner the most ungracious and uncharitable, aims the shafts of his contempt at one of his own people for daring to think for himself in matters of politics. What has this Rev. Gentleman in view? What great object does he expect to accomplish in regard to which he desires to keep not only the Protestant public but his own people, for aught we know, in the dark. It is well known that his brothers and other friends in the employment of the government are in the enjoyment of large salaries—fattening at the public crib. This, however, is the price of former political services. But what are the advantages expected for his services on this occasion to his political god? What is he to receive now as the price of the votes of his people? Will he allow them to share in the advantages of the speculation, or will he as usual keep all to himself and his friend, Mr. Fitzgerald. Nothing can be plainer than that this Rev. Gentleman is playing a selfish game, and one that bodes no good in the long run to his people. If Catholics are to be drilled by their spiritual leaders and massed in support of a certain political party for reasons that will not bear the light of public scrutiny, Protestants may find it necessary to drop minor differences for a season and unite for the purpose of checkmating clerical and other wire-pullers. A union of the Protestants of Ontario would leave Catholics without much influence or power in the affairs of the country, as must be apparent to every intelligent member of that body who will reflect on the subject.—We sincerely hope that partizan clergymen will pause in the dangerous course they are pursuing, and will so regulate their actions as to render such a proceeding on the part of Protestants unnecessary. There have been enough of heartburnings and annoyance in this County arising from religious causes and we fondly hoped that in the new order of things on which we have entered, all good men would join hand in hand and frown down all causes of aggravation in the future. We are the subjects of one sovereign and the citizens of one common country whose interests are often all identical. We have our political differences, let us have them, but let us differ as becomes intelligent men who enjoy the proud privilege of thinking and acting as we please in political matters. Let us be known at the polls by the names of the political parties we may individually choose to ally ourselves with. But is intolerable that we should go the polls in a body, as a religious clique. We say unhesitatingly it is not, and that those who labor to bring about such a result are not true friends of our country. If Protestants now unite to carry the Election it is only the result of priestly interference, and if forced to unite against greed, the lesson was first taught by a catholic priest. Protestants therefore cannot be blamed for what may follow.

Yours,

A PROTESTANT,

Otonabee, August 5th, 1867.

The Protestant Home Committee thank their friends for the unprecedented donations during the month of July:—Mr. McKeavey, cabbage plants; Sheriff Ball, flitch; Mr Wilson, shank of beef; Mrs. Hamilton, piece of beef; Mrs. Upton, box of soap; A Friend, 2 small quilts, 1 pillow slips, table cloth, 2 yds print, 1 bleached shirting; Mrs McSorley, ribbon; Mrs. McKellaney one dollar; Mr. Worden, [illegible]; Mr. Hatton, corned beef; Sheriff Ball, pail with fish; From the school pienics [illegible] Presbyterian, [illegible] Methodist, [illegible] Wesleyan [illegible] Mr. Hamilton, [illegible] Mr. Upton, [illegible] Mr. Perry, at the Bloomfield meeting, made a poor attempt to explain away the fact that his late means of his daughters in a convent for the purpose of being educated. His assertion that they are not and never were in a nunnery as such, needed no refutation, as it as we was asserted. But he did not deny that they were being educated by nuns. In fact, he publicly declared that all their teachers were Roman Catholics. Is not this enough? No one ever asserted more than this. But is there no Protestant institution where Mr. Perry, could get his daughters educated? Or was Mr. Perry so long forward to this view of the matter when he sent his daughters to Quebec to this convent school. Indeed this is the most favorable view we can take of it, and I ask the Protestant electors of the West Riding of Peterborough what they think of the would-be Protestant, who would thus trifle with the interests of his children for the sake of a seat in any Parliament? Will you endorse his principles? Will you encourage his acts? Will you not rather vote for the man who boldly and nobly take the position of freemen? and vote for Messrs Gordon and Walton.

SOUTH MONAGHAN.

August 19th 1867.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—I would be much obliged to Mr. Carnegie, the Local Tory Candidate for West Peterboro, if he can find the dictionary in which he finds such phrases as the following:—"Factitious opposition," "He corrals politicians," &c. And also to name the authority on Etiquette which will justify his unseemly attack on Mr. J. Walton, last night, in the Victoria Hall.

Yours,

PETER PAN.

Peterboro', August 7th, 1867.

(From the Montreal Gazette.)

I am passing in my Western travels at Thorold, on the Welland Canal, ten miles from Niagara Falls, three miles from the flourishing town of St Catherines. The canal is the 11th of June 1867. By theme is, miles in mason, miles in process of erection.

But the principal manufactory, deriving its water power from the Welland Canal, at Thorold, is that for spinning and weaving cotton called Lyster Mills owned by the dry goods firm of Messrs. Gordon, MacKay & Co., of Toronto. Mr. Joseph Barkley, of Redhill street, Montreal, one of your prominent citizens is brother of the gentleman whose name stands second in the Toronto and Thorold Company. They are natives of a seaside village in the north of Scotland named Lybster. Now that they have acquired an eminent trade name and affluent fortune by their discreet business tact and bold enterprise in promising at least in assisting to promote, the industrial progress of Canada, they are not forgetful of the little fishing village in the old land. In memory of childhood and its tender associations they have named this cotton manufactory Lybster Mills. The designation is plural, for there are two mills; one which has been going several years, and another recently built, the carpenters not yet finished within, for which machinery will soon arrive from England, and which will be complete and in full working order in the Fall of the present year 1867. I write at present only of the mill now working.

The walls are of limestone similar to the stones of Montreal. The structure, old and new, is two hundred and twenty feet long, forty-five feet wide, four stories high. Two turbin wheels, each hundred and twenty horse-power each, with a water head of twenty-five feet, give or will give motion to the carding, spinning, and weaving machinery. One hundred and fifty persons are employed now.—When the new mill is working the number will be fully one hundred more. In winter, new motion is brought by the Great Western Railway from Detroit, at which city it arrives from the Mississippi. When navigation is open, propellers take it on board at Toledo, State of Ohio, as a bring it to the mill door at Thorold. For wages and for cotton, twelve thousand dollars are paid monthly. The building is heated by steam and lighted by gas. The first process of putting the cotton through its machine, which, in Lancashire, is sometimes called the "willow," but more commonly "the devil," is present d in a separate building. The material is then lifted by mechanical power to an upper floor, where it is carded by revolving cylinders working with their myriads of minute teeth of steel wire on one another, laying the fibres evenly together, and delivering them as "sliver" into receptacles made of block tin. These are carried to "roving" machines, where the "slivers" pass through two pairs of rollers, receiving a gentle twist, and, becoming attenuated by the first pair of rollers, revolving more slowly than the second pair. The second pair, by swifter revolution, draw out the "sliver," converting it to a "roving." This is winded on bobbins by self-action. The bobbins are carried to the spinning frames. The stationary frames, having vertical spindles in swift revolution, giving out a singing sound, are called "throstles," from a fancied affinity of melody to the song of the thrush which, in the Scotch vernacular of Lancashire, is called the throstle. The yarn produced from the travelling mule frames is used for weft, that is the transverse threads which the flying shuttle weaves into the warp, or longitudinal threads of a web. The yarn for warps is spun by the stationary throstle. Four self-acting mules, reeding and advancing five feet, are in motion. Each "mule" has six hundred spindles. The four "mules" and "throstles" produce twelve thousand yards of thread per minute. Some of the yarn is sold for country purposes; also cotton batting which is made here. This batting is used for quilting coverlets of beds, to keep families cosy in the cold nights of winter. But most of the yarn is woven in the factory. One hundred looms are in operation on the ground floor, loudly clattering, and weaving weft and warps into "domestics," for sheetings, shirtings, towellings, and like qualities, to be sold bleached. Females attend the looms, one person to two, or three, or four looms, according to age and expert ability. "Pieces," mostly boys, wheel and spin lag frames. Yes overlook spinners and weavers who are called "tenters," an abbreviation for "attenders." Men also dress the warps with paste of best wheaten flour; inferior flour does not give the effect desired. The process of putting the warp through the reeds, thread by thread, preparatory for the looms, requires men with a ready hands and sharp eyes. The unwinding of the bobbins by which the warp yarn is loomed, a large metal rods previously to being "dressed" for the loom, is done by women; the examination, lapping, weighing, stamping, and packing of the cloth is done by men.

When the new mill is completed, next October, there will be two hundred looms in operation. Three distinct lines of transport pass near the mill doors, namely: The Great Western Railway, Welland Railway, and Welland Canal. A fourth line is the Grand Trunk, which is reached at a distance of eighteen miles, at Port Colborne on Lake Erie, by Welland Railway and Canal; and both of these connect with the navigation of Lake Ontario, about twelve miles away.

The resident manager is Mr. William Malcom, a gentleman of fine intelligence on all topics which come up in the intellectual colloquies of well informed men, and I may add further, for his wife is a lady, with genial endowments and gentle manners, who diffuses benign influences over the source of rude social elements around the Welland Canal, and on at least a portion of the form to and juvenile mill workers. Mr. Malcolm is a native of Lanbart, Mid-Lothian, Scotland. His large, practical experience of cotton mills was acquired in the city of Glasgow.

The machinery now in action and that about to arrive for the new mill, carding, spinning and weaving, is of the newest pattern, and with latest improvements. Looms throw the shuttles out of gear, constructed by human hand, and cease to weave if a thread breaks; spindles, by self-action, arrest their swift revolutions if a roving comes smaller, and await the coming of the piecer. Messrs. Platt, Brothers, of Oldham, Lancashire, England, are the machine makers. Their flame and fame reach through Europe. But, so far as I know, this is the only cotton mill furnished with their own machinery in Canada. Yes as many as a hundred rivers roads through Manitoba are pouring into the St. Lawrence, and the St. Lawrence is rolling into the ocean, all offering to many of your fellow minds and to employers of both, our fists of water into figure, boundless in energy, illimitable in volume, no persons in it that move, and yet, and still more restless, motion and fair cities will be built; and men have entrusted the superintendency excellent spinning and weaving machinery of "Platt Brothers & Co., Oldham, [illegible] of these, perhaps many.

Anticipated Fruits of Coalition.

The Montreal "Witness" says:—The Montreal "Herald" points out the absurdity of having a Foreign Secretary in our Canadian Administration. So long as we are connected with Britain our Foreign policy could not be different from that of the other country; and therefore it must necessarily be left to her ministers. The same paper thinks it absurd to have four Finance ministers in Canada, when two are sufficient for the British Government. The "Herald" remarks on the declaration of the Reserve—viz., that Lower Canada will, by her solid majority, govern the Confederation as she governed the Union,—that this can only be done by the submission to the Lower Canada majority of a portion of the representatives of Upper Canada and the Lower Provinces, as the present ministry is now.

There is little doubt that Mons. Cartier, backed by his followers, will make a bold push to hold the balance of power in the House of Commons, and govern the Confederation as he governed the Union. If unfortunately Mr. Cartier should succeed, which we think is very unlikely, who will the people of Ontario have to blame? Unquestionably Messrs. Howland, McDougall and Blair, who have, so far as is in their power, handed us over to the tender mercies of John A. & Co.

"If they don't do what I want them to do, I'll put them out"!

(Hon. Mr. Sandfield McDonald at the Brougham meeting, South Ontario.)

In his speech at the Brougham meeting Hon. John Sandfield said—"Yes, I have taken two Tories into the government. But I'm Premier—I have the power, and if those two Tories don't do just what I want them to do—I'll put them out"!

Mr. Brown replied that he did not know the man, if Mr. M. C. Cameron would consent to accept such a humiliating position under John Sandfield.

What a position for the Premier (even provisional) of Ontario to take, and what a spectacle before the country does such a make-shift government present! How will the Conservatives of North Ontario now look upon their cherished candidate?—Hamilton Times.

RUNS SOUND HORSES.

A horse is said to be kick-kneed when his shin will not ring under the pressure of the hand, but stands as if it were glued, which condition is always dependent on a downward bend of the shin-bone and ligaments attached—by contracting which, and giving to them a healthy tone and condition, the disease or complaint will disappear. Experience has proved that the means best adapted to this end is "Dunlop's Arabian Horse Remedy and Condition Medicine." It has been used in numerous cases with complete success, generally relieving a cure in a few days. It is the best condition medicine known, and may be given with perfect safety at all times, and does not require that the horse be kept from work.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE EAST RIDING OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN,—

Having been most urgently solicited by a large number of the most respectable and influential electors of this Riding,—by requisition and otherwise—to allow myself to be put in nomination, as the coming election of a member, to represent this Riding in the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, I have felt it to be a duty incumbent on me, altho' at a considerable personal sacrifice in consequence of having to leave my farming operations at this hurried season of the year, to comply with their solicitations.

My antecedents, both politically and municipally, are too well known to the most of you to require any comment, nevertheless, I deem it necessary to just say, that, if elected, it would afford me pleasure to give effect to any measure for the encouragement of capitalists to come in amongst us to develope the mineral and other resources of our country, and to utilize to the best advantage those most admirable water privileges of which we are possessed.

I would also consider it to be my duty to support any measure that would have for its object the settlement of the wild lands in the Province, and to open up highways to afford ingress and egress to and from those lands, for the benefit of the actual settler, consistent with the means at our disposal for such purpose.

A well considered Homestead law should also have my careful consideration; one that would have for its object the protection of the poor man's family against the unscrupulous creditor, and at the same time place such safeguards around the honest trader as would afford him protection from being imposed upon by the dishonest debtor.

It is also my intention to give the present government, of which John Sandfield Macdonald is Premier, a fair trial.

The above is but a brief synopsis of my views; earlier it to say, that if returned, my very best attention shall be given to any measure that, in my opinion, would advance your interests and that of the province generally, and as it is also my intention, if elected, to represent ALL, I ask your confidence and support to place me in a position to do so.

Hoping to be able to see as many of you as possible, previous to the election, in your respective municipalities, when a more full exposition of my views can be given. In the meantime

I have the honor to be,
Gentlemen,
Your obdient servant,

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE EAST RIDING OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN,—

To a requisition from a large number of the most respectable and influential electors of this Riding, inviting me to offer myself as a candidate for your suffrages at the coming election, I most respectfully submit the following

REPLY.

GENTLEMEN:—

An invitation to offer myself as a candidate for the representation of this Riding in the Commons House of Parliament, from those with whom I have been long associated in the common walks of life, and with many of whom I have struggled in the cause of constitutional freedom for the last three-and-thirty years, I value highly as a tribute of respect paid to political constancy and consistency.

Although deeply sensible of the responsibility I assume, I accept your invitation and place myself at the disposal of the electors of the Riding; and should they endorse your requisition, and place me in the position to which it points, I will endeavor, according to the best of my judgment and ability, to discharge faithfully the obligations imposed upon me as the representative of the Riding.

Under confederation, with an enlarged sphere of Legislative action, new questions will arise, and conflicting interests present themselves, which will require the exercise of much patience, prudence and moderation to reconcile and adjust; and the attention of the Legislature will be directed to the opening up of new channels of trade and of commerce, and new markets for our agricultural produce, to which and to kindred questions I will devote my most earnest attention, and any measure calculated to promote the peace and prosperity, and advance the interests of the New Dominion, will have my cordial support irrespective of the source whence it originates.

The promotion of immigration with its correlative questions of Free Grants of Land to actual settlers, and a Homestead Exemption Bill, should, in my opinion, receive the support of the Legislature empowered to deal with them, and in as far as opportunity will allow, shall have my best efforts for their promotion.

We have now entered on a new phase of our political existence, whether for good or for evil, will depend much on the action of our Government; but with wise legislation and a judicious and economical administration of our affairs, coupled with the enterprise and industry of our population, and the blessings of Providence, a bright future may yet be in store for us.

Trusting to be able to meet the electors in their several localities, and explain my views more fully on public matters,

I remain,
Gentlemen,
Your Obd't. Serv't.
JAMES ANDERSON

Otonabee, July 11th, 1867.

TO THE

Free and Independent Electors OF THE WEST RIDING OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN:

Having been requested by a number of respectable and intelligent electors of the Riding to become your representative, and having been named by a large meeting of the Reform Committee as the Reform Candidate for the Local Legislature of Ontario, in the West Riding of this County, I have consented to stand and now respectfully solicit your suffrages.

Having resided in the County for nearly half a century, I may be supposed to be acquainted with the struggles of early bush life, as well as the requirements of the progressive state of the county; and being a practical farmer, I flatter myself that I know somewhat of the wants and desires of the class to which I belong, and if returned as your Representative, the interest of the farmers will receive a large share of my attention.

My political opinions are what they always have been. I belong to the old-fashioned Reformers, and hold the distinctive features of that party. The following are some of the cardinal articles of my political creed: Equal civil and religious liberty to all classes of Her Majesty's subjects, irrespective of origin, creed or color; equal privileges to all religious denominations; no parliamentary interference in matters of religion; no grants to denominational colleges; responsible government; the settlement of the wild lands of the Crown by free grants to actual settlers; the most rigid economy in the public expenditure, consistent with the due administration of the public departments; no spending of public money without the sanction of parliament.

There being a large tract of arable land in our rear, the immediate settlement of which would materially benefit the Town and County generally, my best attentions will be given to any and every scheme, having for its object the settlement, by actual settlers, of this tract, and to the opening up and improving of roads therein, as well as those leading thereto.

Having all my estate in the County, I feel equally interested with yourselves in its prosperity. My object in seeking to go to Parliament is not to look after office or emolument to myself, but simply to seek the good of the country generally, and of this County in particular.

As you have done me the honor to nominate me as your candidate, I trust that, if elected, you will find that your decision and confidence have not been misplaced.

I shall make it my business at an early day to see as many of you in your respective neighborhoods as I possibly can before the election takes place, when I shall be happy to give any information in my power, and my views on any questions submitted to me.

Meantime,

I remain, gentlemen,

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE WEST RIDING OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN,—

Having received the numerous and unanimous nomination of the Reformers of this important Division, as member of the House of Commons of the Dominion of Canada, I must express the deep sense I entertain of the honor thus conferred on me.

In entering Parliament I have no private ends to serve and no personal objects to attain. Had I consulted my own business interests or the advice of my commercial friends, I certainly would never seek to enter into political life, and have therefore for some time hesitated to accept your nomination. Having, however, been so urgently requested to allow my name to be put in nomination by so large and influential a representation of the county where I have spent so many happy years of my life, and to which I am so much attached by the recollections of my youth, I feel that I would be wanting in courtesy to you, and fail in performing my duty as a citizen, were I any longer to decline according to your wishes.

In coming forward as a candidate for your suffrages, I wish all parties distinctly to understand my position. I am no professional politician, but present myself simply as a Canadian merchant and manufacturer. I have a heavy stake in the welfare of the country, and my own and my family's means being all invested in commercial enterprise in the Dominion, are consequently dependent on its prosperity.

I am a strong supporter of the new Confederation now so happily consummated, and if I shall be honored by being your representative in Parliament, shall by every means in my power strive to promote its further consolidation.

I have always been a Reformer, an advocate of party government, and my sympathies are ever with Liberalism in every country. My sentiments on religious subjects are those usually termed "voluntary," and while advocating the fullest religious toleration, every attempt to grant peculiar privileges to any denomination, will meet with my most determined opposition.

The subject which I believe demands the peculiar and prompt attention of the country at this moment is the Finances, and it will be my aim, perseveringly to oppose the system of reckless expenditure, which has latterly characterised the Administration, and to advocate and support every measure which has for its object the reduction of the taxation and the equalization of the expenditure and the receipts.

It is, I presume, scarcely necessary to say that I would strenuously oppose any further grant of public money to the Grand Trunk Railway Company which has already proved so heavy a drain on the resources of the country.

The recent unaccountable and dangerous change in the circulating medium of the country, and the interference with its well tried banking institutions, meet with my strongest disapprobation, and every effort in my power will be used to restore the currency to its legitimate condition.

Much has been said and little done on the subject of immigration which is so essential to the welfare of a new country like ours. My plan for securing a large share in the stream of immigration now flowing to America and hitherto passing us, would be to make this country the cheapest place for a man to live in on this continent. This, I believe, can only be done by reducing the taxation to the lowest minimum commensurate with the maintenance of the public credit, and by so developing its agricultural, lumbering, mining and manufacturing resources, as to render it an attractive field for the poorest labourer, and the wealthiest capitalist who must always go hand in hand to make any country prosperous as well as great.

Recognizing the great services of our Volunteers and the alacrity with which they responded to the call of duty in the hour of public danger, it will be my pleasant care to see that any reforms desired by them are carried out, and that all necessary steps be taken to give permanency and efficiency to the patriotic "Volunteer movement" in which I have always felt the warmest interest.

Hoping to have an early opportunity of meeting you personally, in company with my esteemed friend, Mr. Walton, when I shall have an opportunity of renewing many old friendships and of further explaining my views,

I am, Gentlemen,
Your Obd't. Servt.
JOHN GORDON.

WHEREAS the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, have resolved to raise the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, for the purpose of erecting and building a bridge over Chemong Lake, from a point on the allowance for road between the Township of Smith, in said County of Peterborough, to a point on the shore of said Lake, in the Township of Ennismore, in said County, and also another bridge across Pigeon Creek from a point on the shore or bank of said Creek in the Township of Ennismore aforesaid, to a point on the shore of said Creek, in the Township of Harvey, in the County of Peterborough.

And whereas, to carry into effect the said resolved object it will be necessary for the said Municipal Council to raise by way of loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars in the manner hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the said Municipality of the said County of Peterborough irrespective of any future increase of the same, and also irrespective of any income to be derived from the temporary investments of the Sinking Fund hereinafter mentioned, or any part thereof according to the last revised and equalized Assessment Rolls of the said Municipality, is the sum of Two Millions Seven Hundred and Eighty Five Thousand Three Hundred and Sixty One dollars, ($2,785,361).

And whereas the existing debts of the said Municipality of the County of Peterborough, Twenty Nine Thousand Seven Hundred dollars, ($29,700) for principal money, and Twelve Thousand and Forty-Six dollars, ($12,046) for interest, and there is nothing in arrear or account of said principal or interest.

And whereas for paying the interest and creating an equal yearly sinking fund for paying the said sum of Ten Thousand dollars, and interest as hereinafter mentioned, it will require an equal annual special rate of one half of a mill in the dollar in addition to all rates to be levied in each year.

Be it therefore enacted by the Municipal Council of the County of Peterborough:

1. That it shall be lawful for the Warden of the said County to raise by way of loan from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate, who may be willing to advance the same upon the credit of the Debentures hereinafter mentioned, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and to cause the same to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the said County of Peterborough, for the purposes and with the objects above recited.

2. That it shall be lawful for the said Warden to cause any number of Debentures to be made, for such sums of money as may be required, not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100) each and not to exceed in the whole the said sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and that the said Debentures shall be sealed with the seal of the said Municipal Council, and be signed by the said Warden and countersigned by the Treasurer of said County.

3. That said Debentures shall be made payable in ten years at the farthest from the day hereinafter mentioned for this By-law to take effect, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality, and shall have attached to them Coupons for the payment of interest.

4. That the said Debentures shall bear interest at and after the rate of six per centum per annum, from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half yearly, on the 15th day of October and the 15th day of April in each year, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality.

5. That for the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said Debentures and the interest at the rate aforesaid to become due thereon, an equal special rate of one half a mill in the dollar shall in addition to all other rates be raised, levied and collected in each year upon the rateable property in said Municipality during the continuance of the said Debentures or any of them.

6. That this By-law shall take effect and come into operation upon the Fifteenth day of October, 1867.

The above is a true copy of a proposed By-law to be taken into consideration by the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, at Peterborough, in the said County, on

The Tenth Day of October, 1867

at the hour of TWO o'clock in the afternoon, at which time and place the members of the Council are hereby required to attend for the purpose above said.

Dated, this 26th day of June, A. D. 1867.

BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY
IN CANADA.

The following testimony from a well known and highly respected Merchant of Prescott, is corroborative of the general approval given to Dr. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY:

Prescott, C. W., Dec. 8th, 1859.

Messrs. S. W. Fowle & Co., Boston.

Gentlemen:—

Being solicited by your Travelling Agent, to an expression of opinion of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. I with pleasure assert that it is, in my belief, the best remedy before the public for coughs and pulmonary complaints.

Having tested the article with myself and family, in cases of severe coughs and colds, for years, with uniform and unexceptionable success, I unhesitatingly recommend it with full confidence in its merits.

Yours truly,
ALFRED HOOKER.

GROVESTEEN & Co.,
Piano Forte Manufacturers,
499 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

THESE PIANOS received the Highest AWARD of MERIT at the World's Fair, over the best offered from London, Paris, Germany, the cities of New-York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Boston; also, the first Gold Medal ever awarded in America, for FIVE SUCCESSIVE YEARS! One Piano contains the French Grand Action Harp Pedal, Overstrung Bass, Full Iron Frame, and all Modern Improvements. Every instrument warranted FIVE years. Made under the direction of Mr. J. H. GROVESTEEN, who has had practical experience of over thirty years, and is the maker of every piano thereon placed. Our facilities for manufacturing enable us to sell these Instruments from $100 to $200 cheaper than any first class piano forte.

ACCORDING to statistics laid before Parliament last year, the Agricultural Mutual had within 1,000 of having as many policies in force as all the other Farmers' Mutuals combined. The number of policies at present in force is 26,500, covering property to the amount of $19,-200,000. It still retains the lead of all other Insurance offices as regards its moderate rates and general advantages to insurers of Farm property.

POLITICAL RETROSPECT.

FACTS FOR THE ELECTORS.

From the Globe.

The members of the Macdonald-Cartier Government were so mixed up with the Grand Trunk individually and collectively, that it was hard to tell which exercised most control over the public affairs of the Province—the Executive Council or the Railway board? From the day of the opening of the first Grand Trunk Bill, in 1853, up to the completion of the road, the prominent members of the Cabinet were directly in the pay of the railway contractors. The Premier of the Government, who the first Grand Trunk Bill was forced through Parliament, had presented to him by Sir Morton Peto, the chief contractor, stock to the enormous amount of $250,000, with $60,000 paid upon it in hard cash! Zealously did he repay their liberality.

MR JOHN A. MACDONALD was the bitterest opponent of the Grand Trunk Railway Company up to the moment he was taken into secret partnership with the Grand Trunk contractors, as their specials show at Port Sarnia. By the exercise of his official influence, special Orders in Council, &c., Mr. John A. Macdonald and his partners contrived to secure some six hundred acres of public land for $1.200—a portion of which Mr. John A. Macdonald and two of his partners sold not long after, and when real estate had sunk greatly in value, to the Grand Trunk Company for the enormous sum of $120.000!! Mr. John A. Macdonald confessed in public that he "did well" by this operation.

The Premier who succeeded Mr. John A. Macdonald, MR. CARTIER, was employed to purchase the right of way for the railway through Lower Canada; he was the paid Solicitor of the contractors in Lower Canada, and for a number of years, while at the same time a member, and even the Premier of the Government, was the paid servant of the company—their Solicitor in Lower Canada. Mr. Cartier is stated to have pocketed, from first to last, nearly one hundred thousand dollars for his services on behalf of the Grand Trunk!

A prominent member of the Coalition of 1854, Mr. JOHN ROSS, and his late partner in Belleville, received, it is said, over $50.000 as Solicitors of the contractors and company in Upper Canada, for purchasing the right of way through this section. He and his late partners in Toronto, Mr. John Crawford and Mr. Thomas Galt, have received immense sums as Counsel and Solicitors for the Grand Trunk and its contractors; and these same gentlemen were the parties who secretly smuggled through the judgment of Messrs. Baring Bros. and Glyn, Mills & Co., against the Grand Trunk, for the small sum of five millions of dollars, with the avowed intention of preventing the Canadian creditors of the company from getting payment of their debts!

The Finance Minister of the Cartier-Macdonald Government, and the Finance Minister of the Coalition of 1867, Mr. A. T. GALT, has been, and is to this moment, the bond slave of the Grand Trunk Company. He it was who went to England in 1853 in the triple capacity of Director of the Grand Trunk, contractor for one of the sections of the Grand Trunk, and secret holder of Montreal and Portland Railway stock to the extent of $800,000—the said railway line having never paid a shilling of dividend though several years in operation and whose stock had been long unsaleable at fifty cents in the dollar! He it was who connected the Grand Trunk amalgamation scheme, bringing his Montreal and Portland Railway Companies into the scheme at par with bank dividends on the Canadian section, payable in cash on the completion of the amalgamation of six per cent, for each of the years during which it had never earned a penny!! He it was who concocted and wrote the prospectus, promising 11½ per cent. dividends, by which the English capitalists were induced to invest their money!! He it was who, on the day the Grand Trunk amalgamation was completed, drew $106.980 in hard cash, as back dividend on his bankrupt Montreal and Portland stock, and had the use of the said stock raised to par—by which he and those secret partners who shared the plunder with him pocketed the enormous sum of nearly three hundred thousand dollars! He it was who demanded fifty thousand dollars from the stockholders from the American section of the Montreal and Portland road for his services, as a Director of the Grand Trunk Company, in selling to the unfortunate stockholders of the Grand Trunk their bankrupt road at 100 cents per dollar, when it was not worth fifty cents—fifteen thousand dollars of which he certainly received for his treachery, and probably the whole! He it was who demanded and obtained in hard cash from the Canadian section of the Montreal and Portland line, $10,312 for the same treacherous service rendered to that company!! He it was who, as Finance Minister of the Province, sought to propitiate Baring and Glyns, the chief English Directors, and avert prosecution by ruinous financial schemes in Canadian Debentures, through which Barings and Glyns pocketed three hundred thousand dollars, and the Province lost it! And yet he it was who, in dread of the vengeance of the Grand Trunk stockholders, thrust his hand as Finance Minister of the Province into the public chest, and without authority of Parliament handed over to this bankrupt Grand Trunk Company one million one hundred and seventy-four thousand dollars of the public money!

Electors of Canada! Is it any cause of wonder, while such men controlled the Government of the country, that we are now taxed as a people to the extent of one million of dollars a year for the benefit of the Grand Trunk Road? Is it any wonder that the public chest was robbed by such men in open defiance of the constitution during the recess of Parliament, of $1,176,000 or any other sum? The Grand Trunk urgently in new places out. But these same and, if they are allowed to remain in office, will have in their hands the construction of the Intercolonial Rail road, and the manipulation of the fifteen millions to be expended in connection therewith. A member of the existing Administration—an unprincipled parvenu from the Bethune ranks—has unblushingly declared that he and his colleagues will use this $15mm millions to "strengthen their position." And is there any doubt at all that if John A. Macdonald, George E. Cartier, A. T. Galt, Wm. McDougall, and their supporters succeed at the coming elections that in the construction of the Intercolonial, there will be a repetition of the corruptions and the infamies which mark the history of the Grand Trunk!

Origin of the Grand Trunk.

When the original Grand Trunk scheme was adopted, it consisted merely of a road from Toronto to Montreal, and from Quebec to Trois Pistoles. Towards the construction of these lines the Legislature agreed to lend Provincial Debentures to the amount of £1,811,500 sterling, or in round numbers, $9,057,500—if the company should raise this assistance. Mr. Hincks and others loudly protested that in all probability these debentures would never be required, but that even if required they would be met punctually by the Company, and the Province would never be called upon to pay one cent! As security for repayment, should the debentures be demanded by the Company, a first mortgage was taken by the Province on the whole road, buildings and running stock; and, as additional security, the debentures were only to be given as the work progressed; $200 000 for every $500 000 expended by the Company.—The Grand Trunk speculators were not content, however, with these roads.—They bought up the Toronto and Sarnia, the Belleville and Peterboro', the St. Lawrence and Atlantic, the Richmond and Quebec, and the Victoria Bridge at Montreal, and amalgamated them all into one monster scheme! Be it observed, that all these additional lines were private companies, and not entitled to any Government assistance.

John A. Macdonald & Co. at Work.

Such was the state of matters when the Coalition came into power in September 1854. The Company had drawn all the Provincial debentures they were entitled to under their agreement—but the debt was perfectly safe, for the province had a the repayment of the money! John A. Macdonald and his supporters are entirely responsible for the loss the country has sustained—as we will presently show.

The Guarantee "diffused!"

On the 22nd October, 1855, the Macdonald Cartier Government made its first move towards throwing on the shoulders of the people of Canada the enormous Grand Trunk debt. A Bill was brought in to change the conditions on which the public aid was given. Instead of confining the aid to the two roads of the original plan, it is now proposed to diffuse the public money over the whole thousand miles of the amalgamated scheme! The then Opposition attacked the proposition with all energy.—They showed that to do this would be to give up all security for the final completion of the work; that it was simply a plan to lay a foundation for future applications for more money. The Company had their work and materials scattered over many hundreds of miles, and if the Government money, instead of being retained to secure the completion of the special works originally agreed on, were to be diffused over the whole works of the Company, the entire sum would be drawn out forthwith, the only security would be unfinished works and raw material, and very soon down would come the Company with a new demand, "give us more money or you will lose all you have advanced!" The paid employees of the Grand Trunk—the Macdonalds, Cartiers, Morrisons, Crawfords, Galts, Rowes, and their supporters—denied all this. They declared there was no fear of any further applications; only give the company this boon, and it was all that would ever be demanded! The Opposition asked what security they had for that? Give security for the completion of the road, and they cared not how the money was diffused; but give what was now asked without security, and before many months elapsed, there must be a fresh demand for money.

It was all of no use—the Grand Trunk conspirators were too powerful—the Bill was carried on the 23rd November, 1854—and from that measure resulted all the heavy loss to the province that has since come upon us!

Among those who voted for this measure were Messrs. Burton, J. A. Macdonald, Angus Morrison, and Henry Smith.

$4,500,000 more Money Wanted!

Within five months from the passage of that shameless measure—all the evils predicted from it by the Opposition were fully realized! The Company, in April, 1855, came before Parliament, and declared that unless the Province advanced them $4,500,000 further, the works would be immediately stopped, and the entire concern go to smash!

A Bill was accordingly brought in to advance four millions and a half of dollars further to the Grand Trunk! The opposition resisted this monstrous proposition with all their strength; but the Macdonalds, Morrisons, and Hinckses, with their Lower Canada allies, were determined to push it through! The cry now was, "if we don't give this additional sum all we have already lent will be lost! Give this, and the whole will be saved!" How do we know that? demanded the Opposition. Give us a committee of enquiry and we will be better able to judge. Don't let us throw away any more money till we see where we are going! It was accordingly moved by Mr. J. S. McDonald, seconded by Mr. Brown:—

"That before this House be called upon to pledge the further aid of nine hundred thousand pounds sterling, or any sum out of the public revenue to the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada, the most searching and ample enquiry by a Special Committee should be instituted into the conditions and affairs of the said Company generally, and especially in respect to the £1,776 268 sterling of the Provincial guarantee advanced to that Company up to the 20th January last, and to any additional sums that may have since been paid; also into the general management and conduct pursued by the said Company in relation to the carrying on of the works on the several branches of the said railway, and to obtain more correct evidence than at present exists, that the character of the works is in accordance with the terms of the contract with Messieurs Peto, Brassey, Betts, and Jackson; further to ascertain how far the preferred security of the amalgamated grand trunk railway company can warrant a further advance."

Will it be believed that this most reasonable demand was bitterly refused, and the motion voted down—65 to 23!—Among those who voted against all enquiry were ☞ Messrs. Burton, John Hillyard Cameron, Daly, J. A. Macdonald, and Angus Morrison. These gentry would permit no enquiry; the four millions and a-half must be voted away without any knowledge of the facts!

The opposition warned the Ministry that their loan would be of no avail, that it could not relieve the Company of its embarrassments, and that it would be just so much public money thrown away. But all was of no avail, the Grand Trunk influence was too powerful, and the Bill was carried on the 9th May, 1855.

$5,000.000 More Wanted.

But all this was a trifle to what was yet to come. As the Opposition had foretold, at the very next session of Parliament, the Grand Trunk was knocking at the door of the Legislature for further aid! Twelve months had hardly passed since four millions and-a-half of the public money were thrown away in bolstering up the tottering scheme, when down came a demand for more money. Mr. Thomas Brassey was the spokesman this time. He wrote "confidentially but frankly" to his precious friend, Mr. John Ross, that the credit of the Company was gone, their money spent, and the works must stop unless the Province came to the rescue.

And the Government did come to the rescue! On the 6th June, 1856, Mr. Cayley brought in a Bill to grant further relief to the Grand Trunk! And such a Bill! It provided in the first place that the private Grand Trunk debt for five years—or the enormous sum of five millions of dollars—and take Grand Trunk stock for it at par, though then worth little more than fifty cents in the dollar. It provided that the Province should give up entirely its first mortgage in the road, and take precedence after the whole bonded debt of the Company! It authorized the Grand Trunk Company to borrow $10.000 000 secured by a first mortgage on the road.

The opposition resisted this new piece of jobbery with all their strength; they moved that before such a measure was proceeded with, an appeal to the people upon it should be made at a general election. Lost 59 to 33. ☞ Among those who voted it down were Messrs. Daly, J. A. Macdonald, Angus Morrison, Henry Smith and Supple. They would not permit an appeal to the people when sixteen millions of the public money was at stake!! Let us hope their constituents will remember it.

Again it was moved by Mr. Gamble, seconded by Mr. Christie, that before this Bill be proceeded with "a special committee be appointed to enquire into the present state and position of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, to report thereon with all convenient speed, with power to send for persons, papers and records." Lost 48 to 39. ☞ Messrs. Daly, J. A. Macdonald, Angus Morrison, Henry Smith, and Supple voting against it.

Again it was moved by Mr. Brown, seconded by Mr. Aikins, "that it be a condition of the proposed aid being extended to the Grand Trunk Railway Company, that no interest or dividend shall be paid to the Shareholders of the said Company, except from realized profits." Lost 55 to 37. Messrs. Burton, J. A. Macdonald, Morrison and Henry Smith, voting to permit the Grand Trunk to pay dividends out of the last money of the people of Canada! The Company was avowedly bankrupt—unable to pay its debts—unable to go on—had never yet earned a sixpence of profit—and yet it was paying all the while on per cent. dividends out of the pockets of the people of Canada!!

Again it was moved by Mr. A. A. Dorion, seconded by Mr. J. S. Macdonald that, "hereafter no member of the Provincial Administration shall be a Director or Officer of the Grand Trunk Railway Company." This motion struck at the very root of the whole evil—but it also struck at the power and emoluments of all the leading members of the Government. Need we say that it was summarily thrown out—53 to 36. Among those who voted it down were ☞ Messrs. Burton, J. A. Macdonald, Chisholm, Angus Morrison and Henry Smith.

Need we add that the Bill passed with all its iniquities, a sufficient number of "independent members" having been purchased for the occasion! Among those who went "the whole hog" for the Bill were Messrs. Burton J. A. Macdonald, Angus Morrison, and Henry Smith.

The people pay the penalty!

This infamous measure was no sooner carried, than what was to be expected followed. Mr. Cayley brought down the estimates a few days after, and among them was this:— ☞ "Required to pay one year's interest on the Grand Trunk Railway Debentures, $908,558!" At length the people of Canada were about to feel directly the effects of the Grand Trunk swindle!

But where was this enormous sum to come from? The extravagance and corruption of the Government had exhausted the large surplus they found in the chest on obtaining office—where was the cash to be got? Why, of course, said the Ministry, "tax the people!" And they were taxed. "Increase the customs' duties," said they were increased! ☞ The tax on manufactured goods was increased twenty per cent., and on various articles from one sixteen to fifty per cent!! The addition made to the burdens of the people was estimated at from $900,000 to $1,200,000 per annum! No man now puts a cent on his book, or buys a pound of sugar without paying from his pocket for the Grand Trunk swindle!

The whole debt surrendered!

But the country had not done yet with the Grand Trunk. The session of 1856 closed in June—the recess passed away—and at the opening of Parliament in the session of 1857, the Grand Trunk leeches were once more at work. The loss of two millions of dollars had failed to be got—the Company was utterly out of credit—the works were stopped—the whole thing would go to smash unless the Canadians—who were never to be called on for a sixpence—came again to the rescue! Need we say that men so entirely subject to Grand Trunk influence at once responded to the demand, and that a new Bill was brought forward, abandoning the mortgage held by the Province on the road, and giving up the principal and interest of the debt until the bond-holders of the concern were in the receipt of six per cent. annual dividends from the profits of the road!!—a day which no man in Canada expects to live to see! The proposal was in other words to give up the whole debt, and make the farmers and mechanics of Canada pay it from their own pockets!

The House of Assembly was not a little disgusted with this new scheme—a general election was near at hand, and the subservient tools of the Ministry began to quake for the indignation of their constituents.—A large section of Lower Canadians, too, from the North Shore of the St. Lawrence, declared against the Bill, and it appeared that unless something were done at once, the Bill would be rejected, and the Government out of office! Something was done. The restive North Shore men were treated with—purchased to a lot, like a flock of sheep. A Bill was introduced to give them a million-and-a-half of acres to construct a trumpery little side-road of some twenty miles long! The North Shore men got their land—the Grand up—the Ministry kept their seats, and the people of Canada were plundered!

Among those who voted for this scandalous measure were ☞ Messrs. Daly, J. A. Macdonald, Angus Morrison, Henry Smith, and Supple.

The Final Thunderbolt.

All these measures of relief to the Grand Trunk were of no avail to save the concern from utter bankruptcy. It was loaded with too many incumbrances at the commencement, by the harpies who fed upon it, for any amount of assistance to render it a profitable enterprise; and even had it been possible to give it vitality, the politicians who had controlled its affairs, by their mismanagement and corruption, would have speedily destroyed all hope of such a result.

Hopelessly bankrupt as this concern is, however, and indebted to the people of Canada twenty millions of dollars, of which not a penny will ever be recovered—there was still one more Grand Trunk atrocity to be perpetrated! Messrs. Macdonald, Galt & Co., dare not ask from Parliament any more money for the Grand Trunk—defeat stared them in the face should they venture on such a step. But the public chest was in their hands—debentures could be sold; what was to prevent them setting Parliament and the Constitution at defiance, and robbing the people of Canada for the benefit of the bankrupt Company! There was but one thing to fear from such a course—a vote of condemnation by the House of Assembly; but what saved the Ministry for that? They knew that they had their supporters in Parliament under their feet, and that a ready endorsal of any atrocity they could commit would be instantaneously granted. All hesitation was soon gone—the public chest, during the recess between the sessions of '60 and '61, was and the amount handed over to the Grand Trunk Railway Company!! What chance t ere is of getting back the money every one may estimate for himself.

An attempt was made in the Session of 1861 to have this outrage condemned by the representatives of the people, and accordingly it was moved on the third of May by Hon. Mr. Dorion, "That it is the undoubted privilege of the House, and the highest security for the rights and privileges of the subject, that no appropriation of the public money shall be made by the Executive without the express sanction of Parliament being first obtained; that in defiance on this undoubted constitutional safeguard, this House learns with alarm that since the 1st of January, 1851, advance have been made to the Grand Trunk Railway under the sole sanction of the Executive, amounting to $688. 166 67, and that another advance of $486 267 68 was made in 1860 by the Executive by a Bill of Exchange on the Bank of Upper Canada, which has not been borrowed; That the appropriation of the public moneys without consent of Parliament is unconstitutional, and in violation of the rights of the people."

This motion was moved down, 59 to 43 The following were among the upper Canadians who sanct to spend fifteen millions of dollars in such a way as will best strengthen their position and then come down to us, as the people with one thundering shout after another—begging more money to save the concern from bankruptcy and ruin! If you desire this, go to the polls and vote for John A. Macdonald and his nominees!

THE EAST RIDING.

Since our last, Mr. Ingram, the Local Candidate, has made a personal tour of the East Riding, and has received the best assurances of undoubted success. At Keene, at Hastings, at Norwood, Westwood and Warsaw, and from Lakefield he has received promises of warm support from every class of the electors. There is no doubt but the electors at Keene on Friday evening, and Lakefield on Saturday evening, at Warsaw on Monday evening, at Dummer Town Hall, on Tuesday evening. These, we believe, are correct, but notice will be given in each locality. His opponents will, no doubt, be at work misrepresenting him, and saying, as they generally do, more than the truth. Let the electors wait and hear himself, before they listen to any one. At Ashburnham, the electors were perfectly satisfied with the independent course he has taken, and having confidence in him are willing to send him untrammeled; and he unwilling to re-enact the "double shuffle," wishes to see J. Sanfield's policy before he will agree to condemn it. Mr. Ingram is well known in the County, was Warden last year, is respected by every class of citizens, is an effective and forcible speaker, and will make a reliable representative. At the Norwood meeting the Editor of the Review, who now reviles him, gave him an excellent character. What has brought about the change? John A. can make the Review unsay anything. In fact, if J. A. say so, he will declare green to be orange and orange green.

WEST RIDING.

MESSRS. GORDON AND WALTON EVERYWHERE RECEIVED WITH APPLAUSE.

The above gentlemen held a series of meetings since our last, through Smith, Ennismore and North Monaghan, and were everywhere well received. Messrs. Perry and Carnegie attended a few of those meetings, but got discouraged and gave up.

At Hall's School House, all present but one or two were for Gordon and Walton.

At Madill's School House, on a motion for a show of hands for Messrs. Perry and Carnegie, not a hand was raised, while there was the greatest enthusiasm for Gordon and Walton and excellent working Committees were formed at both places.

On the 4th line, the County Attorney, Mr. W. H. Scott, made an attempt to speak but gave up because once contradicted by Mr. Jack.

In Ennismore, on Friday evening, every thing was orderly and quiet, but dull hopes for Messrs. Gordon and Walton. The Gore goes for Mr. Perry.

Saturday evening Messrs. Perry and Carnegie did not come up to time in Mr. Walton's own neighborhood (2nd line Smith). Mr. Walton will receive the almost unanimous support of the West he has represented for 14 or 15 years in Council.

On Monday evening, in North Monaghan, Mr. Dennistoun brought up the forlorn hope, but to no avail. Mr. Gordon left him without a word.

Messrs. Gordon and Walton are making friends at every meeting. The electors begin to see through the schemes of the paid minions of the government. This last meeting was held in Mr. Perry's bosom strong hold. The majority present were supporters of Gordon and Walton.

Tuesday evening, the meeting was at Springville. The coalition candidates were also present. and Mr. Dennistoun. The meeting was orderly, few lawyers being present. The meeting was unanimous for Gordon and Walton. Not a show could be got for the coalitionists. They now quake for fear. North Monaghan will do as well as ever it did.

Then as the canvass proceeds, the certainty of Messrs. Gordon and Walton's election increases. They are now sure of being returned, with a handsome majority.

PARTY.

The world is morally of the Review, in the most fallacious manner, would induce the readers of that paper to imagine that he and his party, yes, his party are the only moral politicians of the present century; but like a certain clerical political whipper in, Dr Ryerson, his own arguments refute his protestations, and prove him a more dissimulator, a hypocrite.

Our readers will at once see that as soon as any man allies himself with one side against another side, that man becomes one of a party; hence, he who advocates coalition is one of a party, and he who advocates a Reform government is one of a party, therefore, the whole of the coalitionists are party men. Mr. Dennistoun and the Review don't agree.

Mr. Dennistoun was asked on Saturday evening why he now admitted and adored Washington McDougall whom at last election he sought so much to defeat, and he answered honestly: Mr. McDougall is now one of my party. But then Mr. Dennistoun is an honest man, though on the wrong side of politics, but he seems to tell a lie for party. Would that all his party were like him.

The merest novice in politics knows that the old Tory party are now the party who cry give the government a trial—of course, they mean a trial of 5 years. Reformers unanimously say, we have had too long a trial of such men, and the Editor of the Review is one of the party who cry give them a trial; yet, forsooth, he quotes sentences he never understood to prove the folly of party; but it is.

LUST OF POWER.

Of the lust of power, one of our best writers remarks it has many names, tyranny, oppression, despotism, and every tongue was weary cursing it, and added:

These are a part but only names it had,
Innumerous as the shapes and robes it wore,
But under every name in nature still
Invariably the same, always bad.
We own, indeed that sin against itself
It fought, and sceptre both and people gave
An equal aid: as long exemplified
In Albions isle. Albion, queen of the seas;

(CONCERNS PARTY.)

And in the struggle something like a kind
Of civil liberty grew up, the best
Of earthly root, but sickly too,
And living only, strange to tell, in strife
Of factions equally contending; dead,
That very moment dead, that one prevailed.

Which will the electors believe on "party" politics? J. A., Dr. Poole, or the almost divine Pollock, with whose views Mr. Dumble's exactly coincide?

Another writer says:—"Out of the strife of parties have arisen our dearest liberties." And even Paley says:—"That at one time it is as much a duty to resist as it is at another time to obey," &c. Rev. J. Dymond on political morality says:—"The system of forming parties in governments is perfectly congruous with the general character of political affairs."

Conservative Motives.

The Review tries to make a case against the Reform candidate because he is not a resident. And what does he (the Review) tell us? Why that the Leader on this account "encourages the pretentions of the Toronto candidates" hoping to get their support. Is there anything in the Journal that would thus pretend to support J. A. and then support Mr. Gordon, who, if elected, will oppose J. A. Does not this give you a clue to Coalition politics? What do you think of the motives of the editor of the Review when he accuses his big brother, the Leader, of corruption, selling his party, for that is what it means? The Globe supports Mr. Gordon because he is a Reformer. The Leader supports him, or "encourages him," because he hopes for gain to Toronto. Oh, Conservative politics! Review politics are just like them—all grab. What will the Leader think of the character given him by his traducing bantling.

If the Conservative organs, like the Leader, so sell themselves, what think you, electors, of the possible venality of the Review?—Take the advice of your friends and watch both.

GRAND TRUNK.

The coalitionists of the pre-ent day would have us believe that the Hincks government is responsible for a part of the Grand Trunk debt. The truth is that the Hincks government advanced about $75,000,000 but took ample security on the road for the amount. In 1854 the Morin-McDonald government gave up the security, and also in addition advanced other large sums, thus giving out of the public chest nearly $20,000,000 for which we might have held security. Now we do not own a sleeper in the road, nor have we any control of it whatever.

MISREPRESENTATION.

If you wish to keep men honest, deal with them as if rogues, is an old saying. Mr. Walton must deal so with the Review. After Mr. Walton's flat denial and explanation in the Victoria Hall last week we thought we would hear no more about colleges or grants to colleges. "Mr. Walton then declared that he would not interfere with existing institutions that were not sectarian." But the Review has lately learned all denominational and sectarian quibbles and he again misrepresents Mr. Walton. He (Mr. W.) only refers to colleges that teach particular doctrines, but where a secular education is imparted, for Mr. Walton they may continue to do so unmolested. Does the editor really mean that those colleges he names are FREE to all? If he plays on Mr. Walton's words should he not attend to his own.

New Steamboat on the Otonabee River

On Monday last the "Maggie Hales," a new steam tug built this summer by the Messrs. Hales, of Otonabee, made her trial trip up the river. Owing, however, to one pump failing to work, and the bearing of a shaft of the machinery, the whole being new, she was unable to proceed to the locks as intended. She is a neat little craft of 30 horse power, with screw propellers, and Messrs. Hales are satisfied that she is in every way suited for the river. She is intended to ply between the Locks and Hayward with lumber. They deserve praise for their enterprise.

A COALITIONIST CORNERED AT OMEMEE.—At a meeting lately held at Omemee, Mr J. F. Dennistoun asserted that twenty-five lawyers from Toronto were now seeking constituencies; but although he quoted (the Review, no doubt) he could only name five. Well, well, such is life.

Mr. Read's Meeting at Ashburnham.

On Saturday evening Mr. Read called a meeting of the electors of the village; very many from the town attended. Mr Robert Dennistoun, J. A. Macdougall's collector here, was Mr. Read's right-hand man. Mr. Thomas Bank, of Otonabee, occupied the chair.

Mr. Read in few words explained his policy, in which he blamed the policy of the past government in reference to the Crown Lands, and remarked that some change was required. And yet he will go to support the men who mismanaged our Crown Lands. A Homestead Law he said was also likely to be discussed, but Mr. Reid did not tell the audience what side he would take on the matter. He then sat down declaring himself ready to answer any question from any of the electors, but they considered the past effort enough for him, and put no questions.

Mr. Ingram, who was present, was next called on, and in a very explicit manner detailed those questions that were likely to occupy the attention of the Local Legislatures. He referred to the Crown Lands and the best method of disposing of them, by encouraging settlers, and aiding in making roads for easy access, and that in such a way as to make those lands meet all the outlays for surveys and new roads, but not to try to make a revenue out of them. A Homestead Law, he remarked, would in all probability be brought before the Legislature, and if so, he would be in favour of it; I aimed so as to protect the honest trader and at the same time prevent the unscrupulous creditor from taking everything from his debtor. This, he considered, would cause no injustice, as every merchant could acquaint himself with the position any creditor held, and thus would enable him to judge then as well as at present the propriety of granting credit to any one requiring it. Mr. Ingram sat down amidst bursts of applause.

A great many from town having entered the hall it was thought wise to confine the speaking to the candidates and thus enable the citizens to return home at an early hour, it being Saturday night. But Mr. Dennistoun, who was Mr. Reid's right hand man, being called on was determined to be heard. There was no opposition other than the foregoing remark.

Mr. Dennistoun began by saying that he had hoped that there would be no opposition in the Riding for the Local Legislature, but since there was to be opposition he hoped it would be conducted in a good spirit. He spoke in high terms of both Messrs. Read and Ingram, remarking that there was very little difference between them, still he (Mr. D.) would support Mr. Read.

Now may we not reasonably ask why? since he sees so little difference between them. And may we not answer, too, that he does so because he believes Mr. Read, if elected, will go body and bones for his political party. We wonder, too, that Mr. Dennistoun cannot see that it is with bad grace that he comes forward to advocate the Coalition. Does not every one know that he is the paid advocate and attorney of John A. McDonald. We always gave Mr. Dennistoun credit for political consistency, but when we find the dimes at the bottom of his politics we wonder that he does not do his master's work more quietly. Will the electors just remember that Mr. Dennistoun is the attorney of J. A. McDonald. Now, electors, when [illegible] anything to do in the matter.

Here Mr. Ingram explained the difference between himself and Mr. Reid. Mr. Reid had said he was a Conservative, but he (Mr. Ingram) was a Reformer. Mr. Reid, if elected, would support no doubt for the whole 5 years, as all they would do would be right in his sight; but if he (Mr. Ingram) should be elected, he would only go with them while they brought forward reform and useful measures.

Mr. Sutherland was next called on, but refused to take up the time of the audience in a long speech. He refuted many of the assertions of Mr. Dennistoun, remarked that Mr. Read was a Conservative and as such would, if elected, vote for them through thick and thin; but Mr. Ingram, being a Reformer, would be better able to judge of the conduct of the Ministry, hence he would support Mr. Ingram, and so would the majority of the electors of Ashburnham.—(Cheers.)

A few from the town called on Mr. Hatton, and many electors called on Mr. Stratton, Mr. Hatton was allowed to proceed with his speech in which he remarked more than once that he was able to take his own part in any way (with words or hands, we suppose). Mr. Ingram was a decent respectable citizen, highly esteemed by every one who knew him, and was well qualified for the position; but then Mr. Read was first in the field and would therefore receive his support. (He forgot that he has no vote in the East Riding.) He then went on with the tirade of Catholic against Protestant, for which Mr. Ingram gave him a well-merited and stinging rebuke.

What a spectacle to see a man who is called County Master of the Loyal Orange Institution of Peterboro making such a desperate bid for Catholic votes. What a spectacle to find a gentleman inflaming creed against creed and party against party—What a spectacle to find the County Master following in the tracks of a Priest and endeavoring to unite those two colors which he would not do on the 12th of July. We hope such men will be consistent in future, and since they will walk with Catholics to the polls at election times, that they will not deign to do so on St. Patrick's Day or the 12th of July. To be consistent they should do so.

Mr. Hatton, at the close of his palaver, made a desperate effort to break up the meeting; but in this he failed, until Mr. Stratton was heard, who was being loudly called for at the time. It is despicable in a government employee, as Mr. Hatton is, to go from meeting to meeting with the intention of breaking them up, when he fears a vote adverse to his superiors. What right has Mr. Hatton, for his share of the County Attorney's salary, so hound round at every meeting, assuming the peaceable and peace-loving community of these Ridings? Does not every one know that he is in the pay of J. A.?

The Sun says the writs for Northumberland have been issued. The nomination for the West Riding will take place on the 21st. There will be no contest. Mr. Cockburn will be elected by acclamation for the Commons, and Mr. Fraser for the Locals.

Midge Proof Wheat.

We invite attention to Mr. Sutherland's advertisement in another column, he has 1000 bushels of the above wheat for sale.

THOSE QUIBBLES ANSWERED.

It is true that the public debt of the late province of Canada is as Mr. Gordon stated between 75 and 80 millions. In '63, it was declared by Mr. Galt to be only $67,000,000, and there have been yearly deficits ever since, amounting to more than $8,000,000 thus swelling the debt over $75,000,000 as Mr. Gordon asserted.

It is true that Mr. Galt is banking up Portland with money earned and levied from Canada; several of our citizens have seen Mr. Galt's buildings at Portland.

It is true that the Province has advanced enough money to build the Grand Trunk Railway, if, as Mr. Gordon said, it had been properly expended. Directly and indirectly about $25,000,000 has been granted to it.—

That the Grand Trunk does neglect the interests of the country is very evident, as it does carry flour from Chicago to Boston at cheaper rates than it will from Toronto or even Port Hope. To this Mr. Wm. Hall have testimony, and we have all doubt of its correctness, as the published tariff of the Road and private contracts fully prove, and through freight is preferred to our detriment.

Mr. Gordon never said that the Grand Trunk only received aid from the public funds, but he did say that the Great Western Railway had paid not rent on the sum lent them, and was able to pay being perfectly solvent, and paying dividends to its stockholders.

Mr. Gordon never asserted that the Legislature has no right to regulate the Banking or monetary affairs of the province, but he did assert that Mr. Galt was not the right man to interfere with our moneyed institutions.

It is true that Mr. Galt's Financial scheme did compel the banks to curtail their circulation, thereby producing almost a panic in the money market. And it is also true that his scheme is inimical to the best interests of the Upper Canada banks, and also to the interest of the Western provinces, and dangerous in placing the moneyed institutions of the country in the hands of the Ministry to be used by any unscrupulous designing fellow who may chance to get a hold of the provincial purse strings.

Mr. Gordon never asserted that the salaries of the members of Executive Council were to be $8,000 per year; but Mr. Gordon did object to having 13 ministers for the Dominion with 4,000,000 of a population, while Great Britain had only 12 ministers, with a territory on which the sun never sets; and the United States has only 7 ministers for 30,000,000. Mr. Gordon also remarked that three Finance ministers for Canada were totally unnecessary, as Great Britain had only one Finance Minister. Mr. Galt always shoved yearly deficits, while the Finance Minister of Great Britain is yearly paying off a portion of the debt.

It is true that Mr. Galt can rule the country through the representatives, being at the head of the Finance Department. He can put in his hand as usual by the votes of his colleagues, and having two to help him can do it more efficiently.

It is true that Mr. Gordon never said that the government had bought the Northwest Territory for any sum, and the writer who could insinuate that Mr. Gordon said so, could do anything that requires fabrication.

It is the opinion of the Reform Party, despite trickstera, that an independent and enlightened, will oppose mal-administration, and will return Messrs. Gordon and Walton, not to do as John A. bids them, but as reason does.

It is true that a man of principle, intelligence, wealth and character is worthy of our confidence, even though he is from a distance, and it is much better to have a gentleman that has some stake in the country, than one who has none.

It is well known that emigrants do pass along the Grand Trunk to the Western States, merely passing through, and that because they find that Canada is as dear to live in as the old country; and also because the policy pursued in affording cheap and fertile farms, and hence the prospect of comfortable homesteads does draw them away from Canada, and thus they do choose the United States in preference to Canada.

Mr. Gordon never asserted that Canada was going to ruin and decay; but he did assert that if the policy of the past, should be pursued for fifteen years to come, if Messrs. Galt & Co. should continue their vacillating policy of alternate change of tariffs to suit the whim of a man who might truly be said to have no fixed policy, that he trembled for his country.

It is true that Mr. Gordon did receive the unanimous and unsolicited nomination of the Reformers of this important division, and the names have been given, and the vote at the polls will declare it.

It is true that whenever candidates endorse the policy of the past government, men will hold them as aiders and abettors of that past government, and if Messrs. Perry and Carnegie should be elected the electors believe that they would assist J. A., Galt & Co. in their extravagance and misgovernment, and believing this they intend to elect them to stay at home.

—And now we assert that the list of misstatements are pure concoctions of the editor of the Review, that Mr. Gordon never uttered one half of those things which the Review parades unblushingly; electors know that Mr. Gordon did deny the fallacious assertions of Dr. Poole, and proved to the contrary; and when it will be known that same editor has the hardihood to re-assert his fabrications, then will the people open their eyes to the untruthfulness of the reports given in the Review.

The increase of the Provincial debt from 1856 to 1862 was $20,000,000, an average annual increase of $2,914,756. Making certain allowances for permanent works, the annual increased indebtedness was $2,060,-345 48.

The Funded debt in '62 was $67,367,497. These are the official figures.

In the year 1862, Mr. Galt's budget showed a deficit of $3,152,000, and to meet this Mr. Galt proposed to borrow $4,000,000. This is the way deficits have been provided for.

RICHARD HALL, Esq.,
Lobby Protection Fire Company, No. 1.

DEAR SIR,—The Commercial Union and Lancashire Insurance Companies instruct me to convey their thanks to Protection Fire Company, No. 1 for the prompt and valuable services rendered at the late fire, and, at the same time, to hand you a cheque for $50 as a slight token of the high appreciation in which their services are held.

I am, &c.,

Fire and Life Insurance Agent.

FALSEHOOD REFUTED.

Very manly indeed, if ever, have we in any way made an attack on our very polite an learned (?) Editor of the Review. His powers of information we have understood for some time; we learned long since that he would stick at nothing, and the greater the lie the sweeter the morsel to his taste. Lately we had made up our mind to allow the vile slanderer to wallow in the mire of his own base heart prefers," but some of his lies may be taken for truth if not refuted. He says, in answer to our remarks of consistency in opposing Mr. Perry, as Mayor, and now advocating him for M.P.P., "that we advocated Mr. Perry's retention of the Mayoralty at that time." What will our readers say when we tell them that the above is entirely false. But we did ask why the Review abused Mr. Perry then more than before that time, as we saw no moral difference in Mr. P's. position from the time of his election, and we further reminded the Editor of the Review that it was the Town printing that made all the difference in Mr. Perry's position in his (the Editor's) eyes. We never wrote a word or uttered a word in favor of his retaining the office. So much for one falsehood of the Review. On the contrary, we never could see nor do we now see any difference in Mr. Perry's fitness intellectually or morally. We never advocated his fitness for being Mayor or anything else, but we scouted the Review of spleen because he did not get the Town printing, that was the cause then. What the cause of his present course is we leave the electors and Mr. Perry to decide, but they cannot reconcile the two positions.

UNPARALELLED MEANNESS.

The editor of the Review is one of those men who has brass enough and meanness enough to do anything and write anything that will injure any one opposed to him.—Instance his conduct towards his bosom friend, Mr. J. Carroll, Reeve of Burleigh, whom he persecutes with relentless hate.—He has also, at various times, vilely slandered us and that with the intention of causing personal and pecuniary injury. He has published lies with his knowledge. We do not mean holding back the truth, which he too often does, if such truth does not suit his vile ends, but we do mean his publishing a known falsehood, and that with intent to damage us. He does not attack us as a journalist fairly and openly, nor yet as Superintendent; but in a deceitful and ungenerous manner he darts his venom, the venom of his serpent like nature, and while he holds out the hand of friend-hip tries to stab us to the heart; but his fiendish thrust turns on himself.

When we received the Superintendency the entire members of the County Council knew we were engaged in publishing and editing a political journal. Every member knew our political leanings, and knew well the part we would take in an election contest. So did the editor of the Review. And that part we will take without fear, favour, or affection, notwithstanding the abuse of the contemptible scribbler of the Review, who never did, or could, write a dozen sentences correctly. Witness his "ships having fever and ague."

We have attended, and will attend, if spared, political meetings when our business [illegible] Dr. Poole shall prevent us. When we step aside to do wrong, either as journalist or public servant, we are responsible to the public, and to the County Council as Superintendent, and let us receive our reward; but let not a factious unprincipled demagogue, in the pay of an unscrupulous government dare to meddle with our privileges and duties. The contemptible grin which he fancies is a laugh, betrays the inherent vileness of a heart polluted and defiled by worse than human weakness.

We have now a letter that convicts the same political hack of one of the most base attempts to do us a personal and pecuniary injury, and all through spite and malice, and we most unhesitatingly assert that any journalist who will allow his prejudices, political animosities or personal feelings to so get the better of his judgment as to publish a known lie to injure any person, friend or foe, deserves only that his name should go to the world branded with infamy and contempt, and for the future we shall hold the poor soulless wretch in derision, shall treat him as a calumniator, and despise him as a mean contemptible traducer of one he cannot otherwise equal.

LINES

Written by Mrs. J. Miller, on the death of her youngest son.

He was a fair and cherished flower,
Our little bright eyed boy;
His loss my grieved our family bower,
And filled our hearts with joy.

But sickness came, he drooped his head,
Our hearts were filled with pain;
For none we felt, save God alone,
Could raise him up again.

Our tender call and earnest prayer,
Could not his death restore,
'Neath death's resistless reign he slept
To wake on earth no more.

Faith whispered sweet him not as dead,
Though low his body lies;
His spirit sweetly blooms above
Bears in Paradise.

O, then submissive be our hearts,
Unt our Father's will,
Who rules supreme in heaven and earth,
And doeth all things well.

O, may we always faithful prove,
And to the end endure;
Then in our Father's home above,
We all meet to part no more.

Owing to an error that crept into the above lines, last week, we have given them this week correctly.

"FALSE PRETENCES."

MR. EDITOR,—

I have seen an article in the last issue of the Review under the above heading, denouncing Mr. Read for what? because forsooth he had the manliness—being the liberal nominee of a liberal party—to lay in his address that "he intended to give the Hon. J. S. McDonald's Government a fair trial," and goes on to say that he is "attempting to sail into parliament under false colours," from the fact that he dare not risk his election by avowing a direct hostility to the Government. Now, Sir, if the Editor of the Review had one penny-weight of common sense, and brains enough to use it, he would do Mr Ingram the same justice he had done him a few issues ago: when he said that he, the said Ingram, had too much good sense and patriotism to become the forlorn hope of his party. How is it, Sir, that Mr. Ingram was in the estimation of the Review, possessed of good common sense and patriotism then, and in about three weeks after he had become deceitful and unpatriotic? Just, Sir, from the fact that in the first instance Mr. Ingram was not a candidate, and in the latter he is. Now, Mr. Editor, I think the Editor of the Review has acted with duplicity towards Mr. Ingram, but then we know that that gentleman can "blow high or low" as his most unscrupulous supporters prompt him.

But, Mr. Editor, let us take a glance at the policy and pretentions of Mr. Ingram's opponent, who this would be great man of an editor is supporting. What, sir, does Mr. Read say in his address? Why, sir, he says that if elected he will "judge all matters brought before him on their merits without respect to person or party." Who believes that Mr Read will do this? Not one. Does any one for one moment suppose that Mr. Read would allow a Reform Government to be formed if he could prevent it? Does the unscrupulous party with which he has acted for years believe it? Not a bit of it. If they did they would not support him.—Do the Reformers believe that he will do as he says he will? Not they; they know that those promises are false. Mr. Read and his party know that they are made to catch a few stray Reformers, for without the Reformers, help to return him both he and his party know that he has not the ghost of a chance to be elected. I trust Mr Ingram's supporters will not listen to the base assertions that are made by those unscrupulous demagogues and their satellites, as it is only to draw wool over their eyes and suit their purpose for the time being, they knowing that Mr Ingram is well known over the Riding and so universally respected that it will require them to play a desperate game to defeat him.

I am, Mr Editor,
Yours, &c.,
AN ELECTOR.

Otonabee, August 11th, 1867.

For the Examiner.

WHO IS A. G. GILBERT?

MR. EDITOR,—As you Editors are supposed to know every body and every thing, I have thought it to put the above querry to you, hoping to find answers: if you cannot tell us anything of the animal, perhaps some of your readers could throw a little light on the animalcular.

Is he the creature that was dismissed from the Toronto Bank, because of a certain course of conduct that few required to talk about? Is he the little cur who was such a pest round the corners of our streets before he got a place on som of the Montreal papers as a rag-tag gossip hunter? Is he the poor monkey-faced noodle that always acted the part of that species of beast at the "nigger concerts" in Peterborough and other towns? In fine, Mr Editor, can you tell us, is he the little addle-pated mountebank who left some of our merchants here to meet certain responsibilities that should have been met by another? If he be the same Gilbert, we pity the poor brainless, truthless, dishonorable, despicable soul, and we pity the readers of the Review who have to read the vile bosh of such a vile scribbler. Let the readers of the Review correspondence remember that G. means Gilbert.

Yours truly,
PETERBOROUGH.

August 11th, 1867.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—In a letter which appeared in your issue of 25th ult., over the signature "John Carroll," I am challenged to prove the truth of my version of a part of a conversation referring to the above gentleman, which took place between Hon. Mr. Howland and myself, on the 9th July, in front of the Queen's Hotel, Toronto.

My report of what Mr. Howland said to me on that occasion, was as follows:—"Why Carroll has just told me he was not doing, and would not do, at Peterborough, any thing against the present government, and that he did not come to oppose it."

In proof of this interpretation, I beg to enclose a letter from the Hon. Mr. Howland, which, I request you to publish, along with this note, in the next issue of the Examiner.

I am, sir,
Very truly yours,
JAMES W. FITZGERALD.

Peterborough, 13th Aug., 1867.

Toronto, 10th Aug., 1867.

DEAR SIR,

I am in receipt of your favor of the 3rd inst. Not having deemed the conversation to which you refer as of much importance at the time, it was not sufficiently impressed on my memory, to enable me now to state the words which were used; although I believe the general effect of it to have been what you state.

I remain,
Yours respectfully,
(Signed) W. P. HOWLAND.
J. W. FITZGERALD, Peterboro'.

To the Editor of the Peterborough Examiner.

SIR,—As you newspaper gentlemen are supposed to be familiar with all matters connected with our present political affairs, perhaps you could inform me—and through me the whole Riding—who requested Mr. George Read to come forward to represent this division in our Provincial Parliament? Report has it here that the requisitionists consisted of two individuals, viz., a "Limb of the Law" from Peterboro and a certain Medico from Otonabee. I would also be further obliged if you could inform me or give any direct information relative to Mr. Read's politics, as in his tours round and thro' this township soliciting votes, he represents himself to one party as an out and out Reformer, while to another he is an equally out and out Conservative of the John A. McDonald stamp. To a third he professes to be a "no party" man. A number of us in my immediate locality confess to being totally in the dark.—Please define, if possible, Mr. Read's political position, for the satisfaction of myself and neighbours, and oblige

AN OTONABEE FARMER.

Otonabee, August 13, 1867.

To an "Otonabee Farmer," and all others throughout the East Riding of Peterboro'. We confess to be unable to answer your queries in full. We may state, however, that our querries is correct in his conclusions as to the parties who solicited Mr. Read to come forward as a candidate for parliamentary honors, as from all we can learn requisitionists consisted only of two, and one of these not as elector. Relative to the last query of an "Otonabee Farmer," requesting us to define Mr. Read's "political position," we confess our ignorance on this point, that is from Mr. R's. present standpoint. Judging, however, from his previous predictions in political matters, we have no hesitation in saying that Mr. Read is at heart a thorough conservative or ultra-Tory. If Mr. Read is returned to Parliament the policy of John A. Macdonald will have in him an able supporter. We hope the Otonabee Farmers will be guided accordingly.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—In the issue of the 9th instant, I observe a communication dubbed "Veritas," in which the writer purports to give an account of Mr. Grover's success in his present canvass through a part of the East Riding. I should no have noticed this production but for the charge made against myself, that I voted against the re-election of the assessor of Dummer, at the last session of the County Council. Speaking of Mr. Grover's meeting in the Town Hall Dummer, "Veritas" says:—

"On account of the rain, the meeting was not very numerously attended. A good deal of opposition was expected at this meeting, the great Mr. Choate, having promised to present to administer a tremendous flagellation to Mr. Grover. He, and a few of his lungers on cave been trying to manufacture capital against Mr. Grover in Dummer, circulating the report, that he, Grover, was instrumental in preventing the reduction of the assessment of that township in the County Council. The truth of the story may be ascertained from the minutes of the Council, where it will be seen that Choate himself, was the man who voted against reducing assessment of the Township of Dummer, from $4 50 to $4 06. So much for Mr. Choate, who has evidently learned the old adage, that "Discretion is the better part of valour," as he carefully refrained from meeting Mr. Grover as the Town hall, or anywhere else."

The first thought that occurs to any intelligent mind is, why did not "Veritas" supply himself with the minutes of Council of which he speaks and publish them to the world? By doing so a two fold object might be obtained. Mr. Grover might be shown to be the man of all others to be stood by the interests of the hard working farmers of Dummer, while on the contrary, the "great" Mr. Choate might be proved to be their enemy, and thereby sufficient "capital" manufactured as would secure his future political annihilation. But no, Mr. Editor, well "Veritas" knew when he penned the above, that the minutes would neither prove the "great" Mr. Choate to have legislated contrary to the interests of Dummer, nor neglected his duties while in session, nor would they prove Mr. Grover to have voted at any time for a reduction of the assessment of Dummer, and what is especially noticeable in this connection, is the fact, that "Veritas" has not denied the statement that Mr. Grover was instrumental in preventing the reduction of the miserable, deep sed and stoney township of Dummer. As "Veritas" has carefully withheld my amendment to the report of the Committee on equalization, I deem it proper to publish it. I should, however, before moving it state, 1st, that the lands in Asphodel were assessed at an average of 94 cents per acre more than Dummer. 2nd, that the addition of 94 cents to the average of the Dummer lands gave the figure $2.84 to place Dummer equal to Asphodel. 3rd, that the County equalises Asphodel at only 84 per cent over its assessment 4th, that 84 per cent of $2 84 added to itself would give the true figure at which to equalize Dummer, viz., $3.07. The following is my amendment which was published with its preamble in full in the Review of the 8th June last and which only asked a further reduction of 30 cents per acre instead of 93 as above.

"That the report be not adopted, but that it be referred back with instruction to amend in such a manner that Dummer be equal not of a sum not exceeding $3 07 per acre Messrs. Choate, Carrol and Whalen NAY—Messrs Pearce, S. S. Peck, F. Peck, Young, Coughlin, (Deputy Reeve. Asphodel) Probert, Clark, Melville, Carss, Miller, Lang, Garbutt, Walton and Dunlop."

You see above Mr. Editor, that I did not see that that amendment been carried my township would be assessed for County purposes at $3.50 per acre, and that in the event of its non-adoption it was safe at the figure brought in by the Committee, viz: $4. Why then attempt to mislead the people of Dummer into believing that I voted and acted against their interest? I can assure "Veritas" that I take it as a compliment when he is obliged to misrepresent my proceedings, before he feels safe, in holding them up to reprobation."

But will "Mr. Grover now, over his signature, say that had he not been in the chair he would have voted for my amendment. I think not; and if he does, all I have to say is that he must have got new light on the subject, as he actually did vote in Committee of the Whole against the reduction of Dummer from $5 to $4 in the year 1865, on the recommendation of the report on Equalization.

I had not the remotest idea, Mr Editor, that I was a "great" man before I read the letter of "Veritas," I imagined in my simplicity that I was a person of very humble exterior, that by a close application to my own business, leaving other people's alone, properly husbanding my means, and directing my energies, so much so that I failed sometimes to attend political meetings, especially when obliged to travel four or five miles to do so in the rain, I could in course of time become washtub-like, to stand on my own bottom. If, however, my greatness consists in having been obliged, for several years, to pay nearly double the county tax, in proportion to our assessed property, that Mr. Grover does, then I am "great" indeed, and we are "great" people, and we live in a "great" Township. In the year 1864, 347 ratepayers paid a county tax, in Dummer, of $1067, while 600 ratepayers in Asphodel, paid $964. In other words, the 347 men in Dummer paid $83 more than the 600 in Asphodel. If this is the reason we are "great," I say it is it not time to think we are greatly chiseled?

At the Waraw meeting, on Saturday night last, Mr. Grover stated that he had travelled as many of the concession lines in Dummer as most of folks, and instead of denying that he was one of the parties who kept Dummer in its present unfavorable position, went on to say that Dummer at $4 was equal with Asphodel at $7, and in general terms that the people of Dummer ought to be satisfied. Yet, when asked by myself did he believe in the correctness of Mr. Drain's affidavit, which shows only some 4,000 acres of first class farming lands in Dummer, with 41,000 acres totally unfit for cultivation, replied he had no doubt of its correctness but thought there was a deficiency between it and the one he appended to his roll. Now, will Mr. Grover show me where this discrepancy is, and at the same time—if he believe in the correctness of Mr Drain's affidavit—will he tell the people of Dummer that he will in future, should he have an opportunity, vote and give his influence in favor of reducing Dummer to at least $3 per acre, which would then be 50 per cent over our assessment. Or will he prefer to stick his head in the sand, Ostrich fashion, and imagine that because he went see the injustice done us, no one else can?

But why does "Veritas" withhold his name; is he ashamed of his candidate, or is his communication so utterly devoid of truth that he dare not let the world know who he is? Honest people would not really [illegible] as the case. The Yankee way of fighting, I have heard is to get behind a tree and pop away but really I was unprepared to believe that this method would be adopted by any one of a party whose whole stock in trade appears to be in shouting 12th practice.

One word more and I have done. I fail to see that a vote favorable to Mr. Grover was carried at any of his meetings so far, except in his stronghold, Hastings. Certainly it was not attempted here, as "Discretion," &c.

Truly, Mr. Editor, yours, &c.,
THOS. GEO. CHOATE.

TO THE ELECTORS
OF THE
EAST RIDING
OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN,—

Having been most urgently solicited by a large number of the most respectable and influential electors of this Riding,—by requisition and otherwise—to allow myself to be put in nomination, at the ensuing election of a member, to represent this Riding in the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, I have felt it to be a duty incumbent on me, although at a considerable personal sacrifice in consequence of having to leave my farming operations at this hurried season of the year, to comply with their solicitations.

My antecedents, both politically and municipally, are too well known to the most of you to require any comment, nevertheless, I deem it necessary to just say, that, if elected, it would afford me pleasure to give effect to any measure for the encouragement of capitalists to come in amongst us to develope the mineral and other resources of our country, and to utilize to the best advantage those most admirable water privileges of which we are possessed.

I would also consider it to be my duty to support any measure that would have for its object the settlement of the wild lands in the Province, and to open up highways to afford ingress and egress to and from those lands, for the benefit of the actual settler, consistent with the means at our disposal for such purpose.

A well considered Homestead law should also have my careful consideration; one that would have for its object the protection of the poor man's family against the unscrupulous creditor, and at the same time place such safeguards around the honest trader as would afford him protection from being imposed upon by the dishonest debtor.

It is also my intention to give the present government, of which John Saudfield McDonald is Premier, a fair trial.

The above is but a brief synopsis of my views; suffice it to say, that if returned, my very best attention shall be given to any measure that, in my opinion, would advance your interests and that of the province generally, and as it is also my intention, if elected, to represent ALL, I ask your confidence and support to place me in a position to do so.

Hoping to be able to see as many of you as possible, previous to the election, in your respective municipalities, when a more full exposition of my views can be given. In the meantime

I have the honor to be,
Gentlemen,
Your obdient servant,
E. INGRAM.

TO THE ELECTORS
OF THE
EAST RIDING
OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN,—

To a requisition from a large number of the most respectable and influential electors of this Riding, inviting me to offer myself as a candidate for your suffrages at the coming election, I must respectfully submit the following

REPLY.

GENTLEMEN:—

An invitation to offer myself as a candidate for the representation of this Riding in the Commons House of Parliament, from those with whom I have been long associated in the common walks of life, and with many of whom I have struggled in the cause of constitutional freedom for the last three and thirty years, I value highly as a tribute of respect paid to political constancy and consistency.

Although deeply sensible of the responsibility I assume, I accept your invitation and place myself at the disposal of the electors of the Riding; and should they endorse your requisition, and place me in the position to which it points, I will endeavor, according to the best of my judgment and ability, to discharge faithfully the obligations imposed upon me as the representative of the Riding.

Under confederation, with an enlarged sphere of Legislative action, new questions will arise, and conflicting interests present themselves, which will require the exercise of much patience, prudence and moderation to reconcile and adjust; and the attention of the Legislature will be directed to the opening up of new channels of trade and of commerce, and new markets for our industrial products, to which and to kindred questions, I will devote my most earnest attention, and any measure calculated to promote the peace and prosperity, and advance the interests of the New Dominion, will have my cordial support irrespective of the source whence it originates.

The promotion of immigration with its correlative questions of Free Grants of Land to actual settlers, and a Homestead Exemption Bill, should, in my opinion, receive the support of the Legislature empowered to deal with them, and in as far as opportunity will allow, shall have my best efforts for their promotion.

We have now entered on a new phase of our political existence, whether for good or for evil, will depend much on the action to our Government; but with wise legislation and a judicious and economical administration of our affairs, coupled with the enterprize and industry of our population, and the blessings of Providence, a bright future may yet be in store for us.

Trusting to be able to meet the electors in their several localities, and explain my views more fully on public matters,

I remain,
Gentlemen,
Your Ob'dt. Serv't.
JAMES ANDERSON

Otonalee, July 11th, 1867.

TO THE
Free and Independent Electors
OF THE WEST RIDING
OF THE
COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN:

Having been requested by a number of respectable and intelligent electors of the Riding to become your representative, and having been named by a large meeting of the Reform Committee as the Reform Candidate for the Local Legislature of Ontario, in the West Riding of this County, I have consented to stand and now respectfully solicit your suffrages.

Having resided in the County for nearly half a century, I may be supposed to be acquainted with the struggles of early bush life, as well as the requirements of the progressive state of the county; and being a practical farmer, I flatter myself that I know somewhat of the wants and desires of the class to which I belong, and if returned as your Representative, the interest of the farmers will receive a large share of my attention.

My political opinions are what they always have been. I belong to the old-fashioned Reformers, and hold the distinctive features of that party. The following are some of the cardinal articles of my political creed: Equal civil and religious liberty to all classes of Her Majesty's subjects, irrespective of origin, creed or color; equal privileges to all religious denominations; no parliamentary interference in matters of religion; no grants to denominational colleges; responsible government; the settlement of the wild lands of the Crown by free grants to actual settlers; the most rigid economy in the public expenditure, consistent with the due administration of the public departments; no spending of public money without the sanction of parliament.

There being a large tract of arable land in our rear, the immediate settlement of which would materially benefit the Town and County generally, my best attentions will be given to any and every scheme, having for its object the settlement, by actual settlers, of this tract, and to the opening up and improving of roads therein, as well as those leading thereto.

Having all my estate in the County, I feel equally interested with yourselves in its prosperity. My object is seeking to go to Parliament is not to look after office or emolument to myself, but simply to seek the good of the country generally, and of this County in particular.

As you have done me the honor to nominate me as your candidate, I trust that, if elected, you will find that your decision and confidence have not been misplaced.

I shall make it my business at an early day to see as many of you in your respective neighborhoods as I possibly can before the election takes place, when I shall be happy to give any information in my power, and my views on any questions submitted to me.

Meantime,

I remain, gentlemen,
Your obed't servant,
JOHN WALTON.

TO THE ELECTORS
OF THE
OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN,—

Having received the unsolicited and unanimous nomination of the Reformers of this important Division, as member of the House of Commons of the Dominion of Canada, I must express the deep sense I entertain of the honor thus conferred on me.

In entering Parliament I have no private ends to serve and no personal objects to attain. Had I consulted my own business interests or the advice of my commercial friends, I certainly would never seek to enter into political life, and have therefore for some time hesitated to accept your nomination. Having, however, been so urgently requested to allow my name to be put in nomination by so large and influential a representation of the county where I have spent so many happy years of my life, and to which I am so much attached by the recollections of my youth, I feel that I would be wanting in courtesy to you, and fail in performing my duty as a citizen, were I any longer to decline according to your wishes.

In coming forward as a candidate for your suffrages, I wish all parties distinctly to understand my position. I am no professed politician, but present myself simply as a Canadian merchant and manufacturer. I have a heavy stake in the welfare of the country, and my own and my family's means being all invested in commercial enterprize in the Dominion, are consequently dependent on its prosperity.

I am a strong supporter of the new Confederation now so happily consummated, and if I shall be honored by being your representative in Parliament, shall by every means in my power strive to promote its further consolidation.

I have always been a Reformer, an advocate of party government, and my sympathies are ever with Liberalism in every country. My sentiments on religious subjects are those usually termed "voluntary," and while advocating the fullest religious toleration, every attempt to grant peculiar privileges to any denomination, will meet with my most determined opposition.

The subject which I believe demands the peculiar and prompt attention of the country at this moment is the Finances, and it will be my aim, perseveringly to oppose the system of reckless expenditure, which has latterly characterized the Administration, and to advocate and support every measure which has for its object the reduction of the taxation and the equalization of the expenditure and the receipts.

It is, I presume, scarcely necessary to say that I would strenuously oppose any further grant of public money to the Grand Trunk Railway Company which has already proved so heavy a drain on the resources of the country.

The recent unwarrantable and dangerous change in the circulating medium of the country, and the interference with its well tried banking institutions, meet with my strongest disapprobation, and every effort in my power will be used to restore the currency to its legitimate condition.

Much has been said and little done on the subject of immigration which is so essential to the welfare of a new country like ours. My plan for securing a large share in the stream of immigration now flowing to America and hitherto passing us, would be to make this country the cheapest place for a man to live in on this continent. This, I believe, can only be done by reducing the taxation to the lowest minimum commensurate with the maintenance of the public credit, and by so developing its agricultural, lumbering, mining and manufacturing resources, as to render it an attractive field for the poorest labourer, and the wealthiest capitalist who must always go hand in hand to make any country prosperous as well as great.

Recognizing the great services of our Volunteers and the alacrity with which they responded to the call of duty in the hour of public danger, it will be my pleasant care to see that any reforms desired by them are carried out, and that all necessary steps be taken to give permanency and efficiency to the patriotic "Volunteer movement" in which I have always felt the warmest interest.

Hoping to have an early opportunity of meeting you personally, in company with my esteemed friend, Mr. Walton, when I shall have an opportunity of renewing many old friendships and of further explaining my views,

I am, Gentlemen,
Your Obl't. Servt.
JOHN GORDON.

By-Law No.

A By-law to raise by way of loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, for the purposes hereinafter mentioned.

WHEREAS the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, have resolved to raise the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, for the purpose of erecting and building a Bridge across Otonabee Lake, from a point on the shore of said Lake, in the Township of Smith, in said County of Peterborough, to a point on the shore of said Lake in the Township of Enniskmore, in said County, and also another Bridge across Pigeon Creek from a point on the shore or Bank of said Creek in the Township of Ennismore aforesaid, to a point on the shore of said Creek, in the Township of Harvey, in the County of Peterborough.

And whereas, to carry into effect the said contemplated object it will be necessary for the said Municipal Council to raise by way of loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars in the manner hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas, it will require the sum of $1,000 to be raised annually by special rate for the payment of said debt or loan and interest as also hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the said Municipality of the County of Peterborough irrespective of any future increase of the same, and, also irrespective of any income to be derived from the temporary investments of the sinking fund hereinafter mentioned, or any part thereof according to the last revised and equalized Assessment Rolls of the said Municipality, is the sum of Two Million Seven Hundred and Eighty Five Thousand Three Hundred and Sixty One dollars, ($2,785,361).

And whereas the existing debt of the said Municipality of the County of Peterboro' is Twenty Nine Thousand Four Hundred dollars, ($29,400) for principal money, and Twelve Thousand and Forty-Six dollars, ($12,046) for interest, and there is nothing in arrear or account of said principal or interest.

And whereas for paying the interest and creating an equal yearly sinking fund for paying the said sum of Ten Thousand dollars, and interest as hereinafter mentioned, it will require an equal annual special rate of one half of a mill in the dollar in addition to all rates to be levied in each year.

Be it therefore enacted by the Municipal Council of the County of Peterborough:

1. That it shall be lawful for the Warden of the said County to raise by way of loan from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate who may be willing to advance the same upon the credit of the Debentures hereinafter mentioned, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and to cause the same to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the said County of Peterborough, for the purpose and with the objects above recited.

2. That it shall be lawful for the said Warden to cause any number of Debentures to be made, for such sums of money as may be required, not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100) each and not to exceed in the whole the said sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and that the said Debentures shall be sealed, with the seal of the said Municipal Council, and be signed by the said Warden and countersigned by the Treasurer of said County.

3. That said Debentures shall be made payable in ten years at the farthest, from the day hereinafter mentioned for this By-law to take effect, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality, and shall have attached to them Coupons for the payment of interest.

4. That the said Debentures shall bear interest at and after the rate of six per centum per annum, from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half yearly, on the 15th day of October and the 15th day of April in each year, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality.

5. That for the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said Debentures and the interest at the rate aforesaid to become due thereon, an equal special rate of one half a mill in the dollar shall in addition to all other rates be raised, levied and collected in each year upon the rateable property in said Municipality during the continuance of the said Debentures or any of them.

6. That this By-law shall take effect and come into operation upon the Fifteenth day of October, 1867.

The above is a true copy of a proposed By-law to be taken into consideration by the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, at Peterborough, in the said County, on

The Tenth Day of October, 1867

at the hour of TWO o'clock in the afternoon, at which time and place the members of the Council are hereby required to attend for the purpose aforesaid.

LIFE AND WORKS
OF
ROBERT BURNS,
BY THE
REV. P. HATELY WADDELL,

(Author of the well-known Eulogy on his Genius, and Chairman at the "Cottage" on the Centenary of his Birth).

This addition will be illustrated with Two Portraits of the Poet; with Frontispiece composed of five Scenes selected from the Works or Land of Burns; and with Twenty-five Pictures from Original Drawings—the whole, produced in finest Oil Colours, from Engravings by eminent artists, in the highest style of the art.

The prominent Literary characteristic of this edition will be an entirely New Life of the Poet, in the form of a Spiritual Biography, by the Rev. Editor; with much valuable additional matter relating to Burns—including some hitherto unpublished Fragments of the Poet himself, interesting original Reminiscences of his Life, original Notes critical and historical on his Poems, and an Essay on the Progress and Development of the Scottish Language up till his day.

In the department of Illustration, the distinctive feature of every Picture will be its Originality in Design, and its absolute fidelity to nature in every detail of Scene by. The actual spot referred to, with all its surroundings, wherever locality constitute a portion of the picture, will be scrupulously adhered to—so that readers at a distance, natives of Scotland, may recognise in these some transcript of the soil; and strangers may look with confidence on every illustration as a reality. In the same department, the Publisher has the highest satisfaction in being able to announce that he is in a position to reproduce an authentic and most wonderful Likeness of Robert Burns—from the Original Miniature unquestionably, which was painted the year before his death; and of which Burns affirms that it is "the most remarkable likeness of what I am at this moment, that I think ever was taken of any body"—together with a most interesting and beautiful Miniature of his eldest Son, painted at the same time as a pendant to the Poet's likeness. These Portraits which have been lost to the world for seventy-one years, are now in possession of the Rev. P. Hately Waddell; and cannot fail, when presented to the world, to excite universal attention. No Portrait of the Poet known can compare for a moment, in fidelity or force, with this miniature of Burns.

The work will be completed in Seventeen Monthly Parts, Demy 4 to 48 pages, price Half Dollar each. Printed from new type upon the finest printing paper.

The great care and beauty with which the above work is being got up will make it an ornament most suitable for the drawing-room alike of the price and of the merchant; whilst the mode of publishing and the price charged will bring it early within the reach of every tradesman throughout the world.

All these, and then I love thee!"

CANCERS CURED!

By a new, but certain, speedy, and nearly painless process, and

WITHOUT THE USE OF THE KNIFE.

THE cure will be guaranteed, and, as a proof of this, no pay is required, until the cure is complete. The moment a cancer is discovered, it should be cured, as it will eat into and is much speedily cured then when of longer standing, and there is nothing to gain, and everything to lose by delay. What now seems a harmless lump in the breast, neck, eye-lid or elsewhere, or small pearly sore on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, disgusting, destroying mass of disease. If required, references can be given to parties who have been cured many years since, and who are now sound and healthy. All communications promptly answered. No money required in advance, and none until the cure is complete.

AYER'S
Sarsaparilla
FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

And for the speedy cure of the following complaints: Scrofula and Scrofulous Affections, Mercurial Diseases, Blotches, Blains, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfiness, Humors in the Blood, Female Complaints, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Liver Complaint, and all kinds of Blood Disorders.

Lowell, Mass., June, 1866.

J. C. AYER & Co., Gentlemen: I find by my daily avocation that your Sarsaparilla has taken the lead of all blood medicines. I have used it in my family as a blood purifier for many years, and have found it to relieve my children of Scrofula and eruptive complaints. Some ages it has been out on my face in blotches, which would ulcerate and come out in succession for months, and no remedy or physician gave me relief. At length I was induced to try your Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken one bottle of it the blotches began to heal, and in a few weeks were entirely gone. My daughter was afflicted with a scrofulous humor, which appeared in her eyes, and for a time seemed to threaten the loss of sight. She was also much reduced in flesh and strength. Your Sarsaparilla has cured her, and she is now in the enjoyment of excellent health. Other members of my family have used your Sarsaparilla with the same happy results. I have no hesitation in saying your Sarsaparilla is the best blood purifier we can use, and we will not be induced to change. Yours, truly,

ALFRED B. ELLIS.

Mr. Ellis is one of the Firm known as Messrs. Ellis, Bancroft & Co., Wholesale Grocers, Lowell.

Dr. Robert M. Preble writes from Salem, N. Y., 1866 Sept. 1866, that he has cured an inveterate case of Scrofula, which had destroyed the sight of one eye, and covered the body with sores, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and also a dangerous case of Mercurial Rheumatism by large doses of the same; says he owes the existence of his patient to it constantly.

Brownsboro, Gentlemen: Your Sarsaparilla Health.

Robert Sloan of Prospect, Texas, writes: "Some habit of your Sarsaparilla cured me from a Goitre—a blister was swelling on the neck, which I had endured from over two years."

Leucorrhœa or Whites, Ovarian Tumors, Uterine Ulcerations, Female Diseases.

Dr. J. R. C. Channing, of New York City, writes: "I most cheerfully comply with the request of your agent in saying I have found your Sarsaparilla a most excellent remedy for the numerous complaints for which we employ such a remedy, but especially in Female Diseases of the Scrofulous Diathesis. I have cured many incipient cases of Leucorrhœa by it, and some where the complaint was caused by ulceration of the uterus. The latter result was soon arrested. Bathing with my instrument, aided by the internal use of your Sarsaparilla, rapidly expels it for the time.

Edward S. Morrow, of Newbury, Ct., writes, "A dangerous ovarian tumor on one of my females in my family, which had defied all the resources we could employ, has been entirely removed by your Sarsaparilla, and a perfect cure effected by your liberal use of it. Our physician thought nothing but extirpation could afford relief, but he advised the trial of your Sarsaparilla as the last resort before using the knife, and proved effectual. After taking your remedy eight months no symptoms of the disease remained."

Syphilitic and Mercurial Diseases.

New Orleans, 26th August, 1866.

Dr. J. C. AYER: Sir, I cheerfully comply with the request of your agent, and respect to your cures of the chronic I have realized with your Sarsaparilla.

I have cured with it, in my practice, most of the complaints for which it is recommended, and have found its effects truly wonderful in the cure of Mercurial and Syphilitic Diseases. One of my patients had Syphilitic ulcers in his throat, which were consuming his palate and the bony of his mouth. Your Sarsaparilla, steadily administered him in five weeks. Another was attended by secondary symptoms in his nose and his throat, which were eating away a considerable part of it, so that I believe the disorder would soon reach his brain and kill him. But it yielded to my administration of your remedy; this disagreeable symptom was removed, and the patient has since handled, and he is well again, and of sound constitution. Some disfiguration to his face. A woman who had been treated for the same disorder by mercury was entirely cured from the same by your Sarsaparilla, and was restored to the comforts of her home. They had been rendered miserable by the ulcers that ate a channel through the roof of the mouth, and destroyed their voices. Your Sarsaparilla, by its purifying power, healed the ulcers, and restored the voice. I have also used your Sarsaparilla in my own family, and have found it to be the best blood purifier we can use, and we will not be induced to change. Yours, truly,

C. V. LARTIGUE, M. D.

Rheumatism, Gout, Liver Complaint.

Independence, Preston Co., Va., 4th July, 1866.

Dr. J. C. AYER: Sir, I have been afflicted with a painful chronic Rheumatism for a long time, which baffled the skill of physicians, and much to me in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I tried your Sarsaparilla. One bottle cured me in two weeks, and restored my general health so much that I am far better than before I was attacked. I think it a wonderful medicine. J. FRASH.

John T. Goforth, of St. Louis, writes: "I have been afflicted for years with an affection of the Liver, which destroyed my health. I tried every thing, and every thing failed to relieve me; and I have been a broken-down man for some years from no other cause than derangement of the Liver. My beloved pastor, the Rev. Mr. Lacy, advised me to try your Sarsaparilla. I cannot be said to know you, and say thing you made was worth trying. By the blessing of God it has cured me, and has so purified my blood as to make a new man of me. I feel young again. The best that can be said of you is not half good enough."

Schirrus, Cancer, Tumors, Enlargement, Ulceration, Caries and Exfoliation of the Bones.

A great variety of cases have been reported to us where cures of these formidable complaints have resulted from the use of this remedy, but our space here will not admit them. Some of these may be found in our American Almanac, which the agents below named are pleased to furnish gratis to all who call for them.

Dyspepsia, Heart Disease, Fits, Hypochondria, Melancholy, Neuralgia

Many remarkable cures of these affections have been made by the alterative power of this medicine. It relieves the vital functions into vigorous action, and these overcome disorders which would be supposed beyond its reach. Such a remedy has long been required by the physicians of the people, and we are confident that this will do for them all that medicine can do.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the Relief of Consumptive Patients in advanced Stages of the Disease.

This is a remedy so universally known to surpass any other for the cure of throat and lung complaints, that it is useless here to publish the evidences of its virtues. Its unrivalled excellence for coughs and colds, and its truly wonderful cures of pulmonary disease, have made it known throughout the civilized nations of the earth. Few are the communities, or even families, among them who have not some personal experience of its efficacy or some living trophy to their relief or its victory over the subtle and dangerous disorders of the throat and lungs. As all know the dreadful fatality of these disorders, and as they know, too, the effects of this remedy, we need not do more than to assure them that it has now all the virtues that it did have when making the cures which have won so strongly upon the confidence of mankind.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by Ormond & Gilmour, A. W. Kempt, and Wm. Coulter. In Keene by A. Campbell, Campbell McNeil & Co., C. Britton, Lindsay, and all Medicine Dealers.

Poetry.

MY MORNING NAP.

Let others talk of early walk,
And ramble o'er the heath;
Of dewy flower, in fragrant bower,
And morning's balmy breath;
Enough for me in scented sheet
My mortal frame to wrap—
To dream that life is all complete
In balmy morning nap.

What though at dawn, the wild bird's song
Makes musical the air,
And merry maidens trip along
With blossoms in their hair?
My quiet bed's a lotus shore—
No snares my feet entrap—
And those that greet me now no more,
Flit round my morning nap.

What though bright rays of ruddy cloud
Illume the eastern sky,
And little children laughing loud,
Across the meadows fly?
Must I return from Dreamland sweet,
Prepared for direful hap,
Because the day I would not greet
Without my morning nap?

Is life so short that we must needs
Turn darkness into day,
And leave no time 'mid cares and deeds,
To muse of friends away?
Let misery toil for wealth untold,
And fools in wonder gape,
I'll be content to dream of gold
And take my morning nap.

Since "Life is woe"—as some agree—
Which each his share must take,
It seems but poor philosophy,
To spend it all awake;
Then will I, as my cares may range,
Put on my priceless cap,
And 'mid the bustle of life's change,
Ponder my morning nap.

THE DEAD RESUSICATED.

A STORY OF GALVANISM.

BY J. D. WILLIAMS.

Some years ago the medical world was agitated on the subject of galvanism. The most extraordinary results were anticipated from it, some persons even maintaining that by its influence the vital spark could be restored to the dead body. Almost every physician who had any pretensions to science made numerous experiments with various surprising results. These experiments were commenced on frogs, but eventually they were almost wholly confined to persons who had met their death by violence, such as hanging or drowning; of course no experiments were made with those who had died of wounds or organic diseases.

In 1830, there lived on Blackfriar's Road, London, a surgeon by the name of Stewart. He was a very strange man, passionately devoted to his profession, and although he had only settled there a few years, had already gathered together a large practice.

He was extremely taciturn, and rarely entered into conversation on any subjects excepting those immediately connected with his profession. Mr. Stewart was an experimentalist. He might almost be called heterodox in his views of the science of medicine, for he condemned no innovations until he had tested them himself, and then if he found them worthless he made a business of exposing their pretensions in the medical journals of the day.

Among other things that claimed his attention was the subject of galvanism. To this strange principal in nature he devoted more than common attention, and at last he became so enthralled by its researches that he devoted all his spare time to investigations in a room at the top of his house, which he had fitted up especially for that purpose, having erected a very powerful galvanic battery there.

One day Mr. Stewart was called to attend a young lady living in Prince's Street, not a very long distance from his residence. His patient was not very sick, and under his care she soon recovered. Strange to say, however, the surgeon did not cease his visits to Miss Alston, for such was the young lady's name, but every evening, after he had finished his professional calls, would find him at Mr. Alston's residence.

It soon became evident that this saturnine man was in love; even his investigations in galvanism were suspended, and he now devoted the time he had before spent in his attic to the young lady's society.

Emma Alston was a charming girl, twenty years of age, exceedingly handsome and possessed of a highly cultivated mind.—She was attracted to the moody surgeon by his intellectual abilities, and took great pleasure in his society. In her presence Mr. Stewart's natural character appeared to give way to gentler influences; with all his unpromising exterior, he was susceptible to poetry, and Miss Alston was surprised to find that her admirer had a profound knowledge of the old and modern poets, and would entertain her for hours together by repeating all the best passages from their works.

Mr. Stewart's visits continued for some months. At last he thought he had received sufficient encouragement from Emma to propose to her. In a plain, blunt, manly way he made known his passion, and to his extreme joy he was accepted. The young lady's mother offered no objection, for although Mr. Stewart was much older than her daughter Emma, he possessed considerable property, and was in every way what is called by anxious parents a "good match."

The wedding day was fixed, the surgeon's house was newly furnished, and in one short week Mr. Stewart was to convey to his home the beautiful young bride.

Three days before the period appointed for the ceremony, when the surgeon rose in the morning, fearful news was whispered in his ear. Emma Alston had been murdered the previous night! At first he did not believe, but immediate investigation only proved that it was too true. Burglars had broken into the house, and the young girl, making some resistance, had been barbarously assassinated, a dagger having been plunged into her heart. The murderer had, however, been taken, a policeman having seen him leave the premises. He proved to be a villain, who has known by the name of Harry Lincoln, and against whom several indictments for burglary were already issued. When he was arrested he was covered with blood, and the poignard with which he had inflicted the fatal wound was found on his person.—The evidence against him was most clear, and he was committed to take his trial at the next sessions for wilful murder.

The fearful news of the death of his promised bride produced an effect on the surgeon's mind that bid fair to end in a raging brain fever, and for two weeks it was not known whether he would live or die. His strong mind was shaken to its very foundation, and in his delirium he did nothing but rave of his murdered Emma. At last his naturally strong constitution prevailed and he slowly regained his senses. By the most active antiphlogistic measures the inflammation was subdued, and in three weeks time he rose from his bed convalescent.—But with his recovery a strange thing occurred; he lost all recollection of the events that had transpired previous to illness. He spoke of Emma as having died of consumption, and his friends thought it much better that the real truth should be kept from him: so it was decided among them that the subject should never be referred to in any manner, but that his supposition should be encouraged by a tacit acknowledgment of its truth.

He soon renewed his investigations in galvanism with increased ardor, and with the exception of his professional visits, shut himself out entirely from the world. He now passed every minute of his spare time in his dreary attic, and a light might be seen there to a late hour in the night.

About this time he became acquainted with a Mr. Evans, who held some situation in Newgate prison. This gentleman, like himself, was an ardent student in all that is strange and bizarre in nature, and Mr. Stewart found him a man after his own heart. Mr. Evans was almost always at the surgeon's, excepting when his duties called him away. They pursued their experiments in silence, and often in that secret chamber grew pale at the wonderful discoveries they made.

One day Evans called upon Mr. Stewart earlier than usual, and evidently had something important to say to him.

"Stewart," said Evans, when he entered the surgery where he was waiting for him, "I have got good news for you.—Three scamps are to be hanged to-morrow. I have the promise of the body of one of them, and have given orders to have it conveyed here."

"That is good news, indeed," replied the surgeon; "we shall now be able to set at rest the problem whether it be possible to restore life."

"I have but little doubt we shall be successful. Our previous experiments have almost demonstrated that fact. What after all, is death by hanging? Merely the suspense of the heart's action by cutting off the supply of oxygen required by the blood. Now, if we can only bring the galvanic battery to bear on the nervous centers, it seems very evident that this subtile fluid has the power of so exciting the nervous system that the phenomenon which we call life will be re-established."

"You are right, Evans. These are my views, and to-morrow we shall be able to prove whether they are correct or not."

"Get your professional visits over early, I shall be here at half-past nine at the furthest. The men are to be hanged at eight. They will hang an hour. Then one of the bodies will be delivered over to me. It will scarcely take me half an hour to bring it from Newgate here."

"Have no fear. I will be at home.—By the by, you must be careful to see that the criminal has not his neck broken.—Such an accident would of course render our experiments entirely nugatory."

"I'll see to that. Good by for the present. I shall not be with you this evening. You will have everything in readiness. The experiments ought to be made as soon as possible after death."

I will devote this evening to the necessary preparations."

The two friends shook hands and parted.

Mr. Stewart did not even wait till evening, but at once retired to his attic and soon got everything in readiness. He was in a state of great nervous excitement, for he was about to prove the truth or falsity of the great dream of his life. It is true, he had experimented many times on the dead body, but the persons to whom he had applied his galvanic battery had either died by violence or some disease, and all that he had been able to effect was merely muscular movements in the bodies. Now, however, an opportunity was offered which might never occur again. A man who lost his life from no organic disease, from no violence in which blood was spilled, he regarded as the most favorable condition to test the truth of his theory.

The surgeon retired to bed that night anxious and excited. It was in vain he closed his eyes to sleep. He could think of nothing but his coming experiments.—At last, towards morning, he fell into an easy sort of slumber, in which he dreamed all he was about to do. In his imagination he saw the body before him, and saw the criminal rise from the table a hale and hearty man. In the midst of this vision, he awoke. It was broad day-light, and the clock of a neighboring church had struck seven.

He hurried on his clothes, glanced at a hearty breakfast, and made some indispensable professional calls. When he reached home again it was nine o'clock. He at once proceeded to the attic, and gave the finishing touch to the preparations. He fixed a long wide board within a convenient distance of his battery, laid out two or three scalpels, and saw that there was a sufficient supply of acid. As the time approached for his grand experiment he became more calm and collected, and by the time the cab drove up to the door not a single nerve of his body trembled.

He now threw from the window like a large heavy box out of the cab, and conveyed it into the hall. He then heard them slowly and laboriously carry it up stairs, and in a few minutes it was brought into the attic. The men who had assisted to bring the box up stairs and who had no knowledge of what it contained, were paid for their trouble, and Evans and Stewart were left alone with the body.

The moment they were gone, Evans took a screw driver from his pocket and unfastened the lid of the box. It was the work of a few moments only, and the lid fell off. Stewart and his companion then, with considerable exertion, pulled the corpse from the box and laid it on the table.

It was the body of a strong, stalwart man; his black congested features, even in death, revealed the hardened, desperate villain he had been when living. When the surgeon gazed on him he involuntarily shuddered; but ashamed of his emotion, by a strong effort of mind he overcame it.

"The man's limbs are not yet cold," said Evans, moving the arms and legs of the corpse, "and the body is even yet warm."

"So much the better for our experiments," said Stewart in a hollow voice.—"You are sure his neck was not broken?"

"I am certain of that—the men died the hardest of the three. Here, you can see for yourself," said Evans, raising the man's head, while stewart examined the cervical vertebræ with his fingers.

"It is all right," said the surgeon.

Stewart now took up one of the scalpels, and began carefully to dissect the back of the neck; laying back the nerves which had their origin from that portion of the spinal cord. The battery was charged, and the wire was brought to bear on the exposed nerves. Stewart had a profound knowledge of anatomy, and he had been very careful in making his dissection to avoid wounding even the slightest filament of nerve.

The surgeon took the wire in his hand and applied the end of it to the part he had prepared. His hand was now as firm and steady as a rock. Evans stood by with the utmost excitement depicted on his features.

For a minute or two the body made no response to the action of the galvanic battery.

"More acid," whispered the surgeon.

Evans went to the trough and poured in a large quantity of acid. At that moment the legs of the corpse were violently drawn up, and the arms beat the air. Then commenced a twitching of the muscles of the face, and in a minute or two the eyelids of the deceased opened, and his eyes rolled about in the most fearful manner. Evans made a rush for the door, but Stewart did not move a muscle, but with a calm hand continued to direct the wire. His companion, ashamed of his fears, came back again, and muttered some excuses, to which the surgeon made no reply.

The chest of the corpse now began to heave, and it was evident that respiration had been re-established. The blood now being supplied with oxygen, the blackness in the face slowly vanished, and his features assumed a natural expression.

"He lives! he lives!" cried the surgeon in delight.

"Great God of Heavens!" exclaimed the surgeon, withdrawing his wire. A sudden thought entered his mind. "When we have restored him to life, what are we to do with him?"

"I never thought of that," said Evans, turning pale; "let us cease our experiments."

But it was too late; the vital spark was already rekindled. The man so lately dead sat upright, and gazed with a bewildered air around him.

"Where am I?" he muttered. "Am I in the other world?"

He shook himself as a dog does when he comes out of the water, and deliberately got off the board and stood upright in the chamber. His muscles by this time had regained all their power, and he appeared as strong as he was before he was executed.

Evans trembled with fear, but Stewart stood gazing on the resuscitated with a steady eye and unblenched cheek.

"What is your name?" asked Stewart.

"Harry Lincomb!" replied the man.

"What!" shrieked Stewart, the name restoring to his recollection all the past, "for what crime were you executed?"

"You know I suppose, as well as I do; it was for murdering Miss Emma Alston."

"Murderer! demon! devil!" cried the surgeon, "and I have restored you to life—you who shed my Emma's blood. By heavens, I will avenge her yet."

So saying, he rushed on the murderer, and seized him with an iron grasp. Evans fled in dismay from the room. A fearful struggle ensued; the trampling of feet to and fro in the chamber was heard for some minutes, then all was still.

Evans returned to the room and found the murderer dead on the floor, with a scalpel through his heart. Stewart was gazing stupidly on his work, and it was soon evident that his reason had fled.

That night he was removed to Bedlam. The murderer's body was buried secretly by Evans, and the real facts of the case did not transpire until the latter was on his death bed, when he made the confession embodied in the foregoing.

ARCHBISHOP CONNOLLY AGAIN.—Mr. Anglin, a prominent Irish Roman Catholic, of New Brunswick, and editor of the Freeman, gets a pretty severe correction from Archbishop Connolly, of Halifax, who appears to take pastoral charge of the elections, not only in Nova Scotia, but in the other Confederate Provinces. This primate, in a letter to the Hon. P. Mitchell, speaks as follows (we translate from a French version in the Minerve):—

"I sympathize deeply with you in what you say respecting Confederation in New Brunswick. I regret much that the Bishop should be absent on the polling day, for I know that, like his predecessor, Dr. Dollard, he regards Mr. Anglin as one of the bitterest enemies of the priesthood, and as an insulter of the Catholic clergy whenever an opportunity occurs. He has done more to vilify the Catholic religion in the person of its priests and ministers, and to bring Catholicism and Catholics, particularly the Irish, into odium, than all the Orangemen of the earth."

The Turn of Life.

Between the ages of forty and sixty, a man who has properly regulated himself may be considered in the prime of life. His matured strength and consideration (rather than almost impotence to the attacks of disease, and [illegible] seem to his judgment. His mind is resolute, firm and equal; all his [illegible] in the highest order; his [illegible] and passes through a period [illegible] by many gratifications.—He [illegible] a year or two past sixty, he arrives [illegible] stood still. But stewart this is a wicked, called the turn of life which, if crossed in safety, leads to the valley of old age, around which the river winds, and then be good without a boat or causeway to effect its passage. The bridge is, however, constructed of fragile materials, and it depends upon how it is trodden whether it bend or break. Gout and apoplexy are also in the vicinity to waylay the traveller, and thrust him from the pass; but let him gird up his loins and provide himself with a fitter staff, and he may trudge in safety with perfect composure. To quit metaphor, "The turn of life" is a turn either into a prolonged walk or into the grave. The system and powers having reached their utmost expansion, now begin either to shoot like flowers at noon or break down at once. One injudicious stimulant, a single fatal excitement, may force it beyond its strength, whilst a careful supply of the props, and a withdrawal of all that tends to force a plant will sustain it in beauty and vigor until night has entirely set in.

A SWEEPING ROBBERY.—The robbery of a fashionable Presbyterian church in Philadelphia, on Tuesday last, was committed in such an open manner that no suspicion of the illicit transaction going on "was ever dreamed of." A man, we say, of course, opened the church door at the usual hour of meeting—though there was to be none that evening—lit the church in its usual brilliant style, and [illegible]-like, commenced to sweep about the doors and to cause a dust—which those indispensable functionaries know so well how to create. After going through this preliminary operation, he commenced to take up the carpets in the aisles, shake them out, roll them up, and stow them into a truck; one by one were in succession handled, until this unknown genius had rolled about one hundred yards of the carpeting up, and stowed it nicely away in his vehicle. Then putting out the lights and closing the doors in a cool and deliberate manner, left and has not since been heard of. All the time while he was tugging at the carpets, policemen and citizens were passing and repassing the door; but knowing as it had been publicly announced, that the church was to be renovated, they concluded that this was the initiatory process and they took no further notice of it.

The Indian and the Worm.

A missionary was once talking with a poor Indian, who had been speaking of his love for the Lord Jesus Christ. The missionary said,—

"You think you love him?"

"Oh, yes! I know I do."

"Why do you love him? What did he ever do for you?"

"I'll show you," said the Indian, and at once commenced digging a hole in the ground. After a while, he found a worm. The missionary watched him without speaking. The Indian took the worm, and laid it on the smooth ground; after which he built a circular fence of chips around it, and then set it on fire. The worm, feeling the heart, moved from one part of the fire to the other, making ineffectual efforts to find a way out. At length, it curled itself up in the centre, as far from the fire as could be, apparently motionless. The Indian stooped and lifted the worm from the ground, and carried it back unharmed to the place from which he had taken it; then turning to the missionary, who had been silently watching him, he said, "Poor Indian was like that worm,—all covered with sin, and surrounded by the dreadful fire of God's displeasure, and trembling under the verge of everlasting destruction, without hope, and perfect despair. Then came the Lord Jesus Christ, and took me with his strong arm, and placed my feet upon a rock. He saved poor Indian when he was lost; and now do you ask what I love him for? what he has done for me?"

The missionary knelt with him, and together they prayed to Him "who loved us and gave himself for us."

Serious dissensions have arisen in the Peace Congress at Geneva, owing to an attack having been made in the Congress upon the "Socialists of the United States." It is to be regretted that the harmony of the Congress should be disturbed through the introduction of questions having no connection with the avowed objects of the gathering.

The doctrine of "finality," preached by Earl Russell some years ago, finds no favor, it would seem, with the Reform League. Household suffrage having been gained, the fight is now to be for manhood suffrage, and vote by ballot. And in view of the victory which has been won by the people of England during the last twelve months, who will say that the day is distant which will see the aristocracy yielding these points too? The revolution which has commenced cannot be stopped. England marches steadily onward to Democracy. The proceedings at the Council of the League, held in London on the 29th ult., are significant.—Tribune.

Fires in the woods are doing great damage in Newfoundland. One village in Green Bay has been completely destroyed. Three persons have been convicted of raising fires and are undergoing punishment.

THE RESULT.

The result of the elections we do not pretend to be able to give yet. The Leader claims the whole, but will yet find out the mistake. The small fry of the coalition press of course take their cue from their big brother.

The fact is neither the Globe nor the Leader can give the party lines of the members elect, with certainty. Many staunch reformers have promised the government a fair trial, and they will try to keep their word, as most assuredly they should, on all matters of right and justice. But there can be no doubt but that many who have promised a fair trial will demand reform measures, and insist on economical government. The reform element is strong enough to be felt, and in the government of Ontario, at least, will be able to offer wholesome supervision. At least one-half of those returned for this House are Reformers without doubt, and we are inclined to think that we will find a little more than one-half of them. The late elections were almost all carried by Reformers, with the exception of Peel.

In the Commons there will also be an opposition, and one of some numerical power too. The number will also be increased from the Lower Provinces. The Coalitionists were afraid, for a time, that they would be too strong, and that corruption would stride rampant in consequence, and this they knew would ensure their defeat ere long. For the sake of the Dominion, and the continuation of British connection, it is well that their fears have not been realised. There will be a healthy opposition. The remarks of the Montreal Witness are, perhaps, to the point on this subject. On the result of the elections in Ontario, it says:—

"A letter from a reliable correspondent in Canada West, informs us that the classification of members for Ontario, which appeared in the Witness was more absurd,—a fact that the most stupid and disinterested lamenting it. We copied it from the Witness, simply because it was the first paper that attempted to give a classified list. He adds that the Globe's classification is, as near as he can judge, scrupulously correct, according to the antecedents and professions of the parties elected. We shall therefore copy it when complete. He complains—though not a partizan of Mr. Brown—of the unfair statements concerning him and his party transmitted from Toronto, by telegraph, to the Witness. This we have several times noticed and protested against, just like the unfair telegraphic statements sent from Stanstead, by whom we know not. But the fact is, we have either to give the press despatches we get or none.

"Our correspondent adds:—

"I am persuaded that the Reformers of Ontario are thoroughly aroused now, and that if the elections were to be done over again, a very different result would be obtained."

NOVA SCOTIA.

Here has carried all the constituencies of this province but one, we believe. The only member of the Quebec delegation elected in Nova Scotia, is Dr. Tupper. This shows to some extent the feelings of that Province towards union with Canada. Much is being said about Howe and his followers being anti-unionists, as if unionizing that as a consequence they are disloyal. We do not know the motives that induce them to oppose confederation other than as expressed, and these as expressed, are the great unwillingness the people feel to form a union with such a reckless extravagant set as Canadians have proved themselves to be. We do not wonder at their desire to remain the custodians of their own fortunes for weal or woe, and that too, when they find themselves united to a set of men who have scrupled at nothing that would return to themselves the emoluments of Office, and the glory of high sounding titles. It will be urged that they are without excuse in their present opposition to the Imperial statute, and this the more, inasmuch as they have still the control of their own local affairs. We do not wish to offer any excuse for their opposition, still we do not think that because the statute exists, it must or should be passively acquiesced in. A statute may impose a grievance, real or imaginary it may be, and there is nothing wrong in the colonists seeking by their representatives to be able to demand a redress of the grievance. This is all the people of Nova Scotia yet seek, and it is wrong; it is infamous to cast the slander of disloyalty against Howe or his party until they show signs of disloyalty. It has long been the tactics of a certain party to seek to attach the stigma of disloyalty to those who honestly oppose them.—This we thought would never have been resorted to again, but we were deceived.—Yet it could be cast against the foul progenitors of the slander with tenfold force. They are not satisfied with maligning the people of Canada: they carry the work into Nova Scotia, and without even a passing knowledge of the people or their motives, they condemn them too. We have no doubt of the loyalty of Howe and his party, nor will we change our views until we hear of some not or word other than these reports that come to us through the mouths of mail-igers. The Nova Scotians will come to the first Parliament of the new Dominion strong, to which ever side of politics they attach themselves, they will add united strength, which if wisely directed, will tend to good, but if foolishly, may tend to evil. Let us hope the best of them, however, and wait results. Mr. Howe is progressive and liberal in his views, is a very clever and enlightened politician, and we have confidence that having gained his true position, the leadership of the Nova Scotia party, he will use it for his country's good, and in moderation.

Religious Services in the Jail.

Some one last, our union has been called to the fact that there are regular stated services to the jail, by a layman who has taken great interest in those committed there from time to time. The Sheriff informs us that the gentleman referred to attends very regularly, and also that the prisoners receive him kindly and attentively, the only exception being the man who has seen fit to make the complaint of "no minister" attending the jail.

For our own part we are grave obstacles in the way of appointing any one minister to conduct religious services with and for the prisoners, these objections do not in any way arise out of the prisoners, but out of the evil that might arise out of unwise intermeddling on the part of the minister who might be appointed to officiate, or perhaps out of the bigotry of some one outside who cares less about souls than sectarianism. The County Council, therefore, wisely left the matter open to the ministers of every denomination to see after the moral well-being of those prisoners who might claim particular religious connection or who might listen to a word of instruction as it might be given. It may be true that some ministers have neglected to go regularly to the jail, and it may be true that some have neglected to go because they have not been paid for so doing; however, off we can say is, that we may regret that they do not go. But we have no sympathy with the pastor whose love for souls goes no further than he is paid, and we have little hope of the prisoner who cannot receive instructions out of the Divine Revelation because it is not read by a particular clergyman. The promises of the Gospel are not limited to a particular instrument; the faithful labors of a faithful lay man will not be rejected at the great day. We have no doubts, however, but that the various ministers will aid the worthy layman in his generous work of love. The hint of the Grand Jury was well intended, and we feel assured will be kindly received by all for whom it was intended.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

We have waited for some time to see some move by the Teachers of this county towards forming Township Teachers' Associations, but we have waited in vain. There does not appear to be that desire for improvement and mutual edification among Teachers that should exist. In almost every other county around us there are Township Associations, and even County Associations, and we have often sought to find out the reason for the apparent indifference on the part of the Teachers of this county. They all admit the necessity for means of comparing notes and receiving hints from one another, but each one casts the burden of commencing, and as a consequence, the weight of the trouble of carrying on such associations. Perhaps it will not be out of place to remind Teachers that there are reasons of uneasiness to them, when complaints of difficulties are made, and when those only apparent difficulties cause no small amount of perturbation.—Then they seek to lay the blame to every thing and everyone but to the right cause. We have no desire now to enter into the real cause of those anxious thoughts and sometimes groundless fears that so annoy; we only wish to call the attention of Teachers to the fact that they do exist, and very often manifest themselves, and we ask those who have felt their annoyance to join together in order to their removal.

The best and cheapest way is to form Associations for mutual instruction, and as the annoyance and bustle of the season are now about over, there should be no delay. Let two or three Teachers in the neighborhood of central positions, Norwood and Peterborough for instance, hold preliminary meetings, and issue a general invitation to all the teachers of the surrounding district. Officers can then be chosen; subjects for explanation at future meetings arranged, and the times and places of those meetings published. This would begin the work, and a little effort would carry it on. These meetings would afford means for improvement that can scarcely be fully estimated, and they would also tend to remove the diffidence that too often casts a baneful influence over even the good Teacher at examination seasons.

In the meantime we call upon the teachers of Hastings and Norwood to make some move in the matter. They can call together the teachers of the eastern section of the county, including Asphodel, Belmont and the east of Dummer; and in the west we would name Messrs. John and Wm. Wood, and Mr. Smyth, of Lakefield, to organize in the western section, and we hope to hear from them as soon as possible.

We trust that the above hints will be taken in good part. We have always been advocates for such associations, feeling assured that they, when properly conducted, are of incalculable advantage to those engaged in the profession of teaching. Hitherto there have been circumstances untoward to their formation and advantageous working, but these are to a great degree removed, so that now we may look forward with better hopes of success. Will the teachers try what can be done?

Trouble is again brewing between Russia and Turkey, arising, we suppose, in some degree out of the troubles in Crete. The Russian ultimatum is said to be the cession of Crete to Greece, and a sweeping reform in Turkey, by which Christians shall be admitted to the civil and military service on terms of equality with Mahomedans, and in the proportion of the respective populations. This rule is to apply to Turkey in Europe and Turkey in Asia, not jointly, but severally; and the Asiatic army is not to come to Europe nor the European army to go to Asia. If Turkey consents to this dictation, she abdicates her sovereign power, and her European possessions will be governed by the Christians, who are in a great majority. If she does not consent, the Czar informs her that he will not be responsible for the consequences. The Russian ambassador and his interpreter were not only admitted to direct conference with the Sultan himself, but were invited to sit, a thing never known in his presence before.

The defeat of Mr. McKellar for the Commons was attributed in part, to the taking away of two townships from the county of Kent, to form part of the new county of Bothwell. Mr. Mills, elected for Bothwell, is also a Reformer. Mr. McMurrich is elected for North York.

MASONIC PIC-NIC.

One of those pleasant events that transpire occasionally, and has for its object the re-union of friends, took place on Thursday last. The members of the myrtle tie from Peterborough and Millbrook gave a Pic-Nic at the Summit near the latter place. A special train left Peterborough about eight o'clock, a. m., with the members of the craft and their lady and gentlemen relatives and friends, numbering about one hundred; at Millbrook they were joined by the brethren from that place and friends, numbering between eighty and a hundred. The train arrived at its destination about 10 o'clock, and arrangements were at once made for the day's enjoyment. Swings were erected, tents pitched, musicians uncovered their instruments, tables were covered for dinner, and in a short time the "the tripping of the light fantastic" commenced. Every person present was sufficiently invigorated by the splendor of the day and beauty of the scene, to lend a helping hand in the preparation. At 12 o'clock the greater portion of those present, perhaps two hundred, sat down to sumptuous and delicious repast, furnished by our amiable lady friends. The chairs were occupied as follows:—V. W. Bro. Dr. Burnham, W.M. Peterborough Lodge in the East, W. Bro. Howell, W.M. of J. B. Hall Lodge, Millbrook, in the West, while the South was occupied by W. Bro. Sutherland, P.M. of Corinthian Lodge, Peterborough.—Ample justice having been done to the good things provided, the "Queen and Craft." was given from the East with Masonic honors. The West gave the "M.W. the Grand Master of Canada," and from the South came the good old toast, "Happy to meet, sorry to part, and happy to meet again." This over the process of packing up what was left, was done, and all repaired to the scene of enjoyment; some to brief flirtations through the beautiful grove, others to "threading the mazy," while the more sedate took a quiet seat and watched the proceedings. We took a short stroll and found a number of groups quietly discussing their respective delicacies in their peculiarly modest and retired manner. At 5 o'clock, tea was prepared which all partook of vigorously. Dancing was kept up uninterruptedly and with the most apparent vigor from the time of arrival until the whistle sounded the alarm to prepare for home. Many even then left with reluctance.

To close the proceedings, W. Bro. Lawson was ordered to take the chair. On motion of Bro. O'Donnell, seconded by Bro. Graham, Bros. Ewing, of Peterborough, and Ogilvy of Millbrook, were called upon, who made speeches suitable to the occasion. Cheers were given for the Queen, the Ladies, the different Lodges, the chairman, and in a few moments all were packed (to say comfortably would be a mistake) in the cars.

On arrival at Millbrook, we parted with our Cavan friends with the most profound regret, and wishing the day had been double the length. As the train moved from the station, the band struck up "The Girl I left behind me," and the whole party mustered on the platform car and gave three rousing cheers for Millbrook. About half past seven, the Peterboro' portion arrived here, after spending, as was universally acknowledged, one of the pleasantest days imaginable. Harmony, concord, good fellowship, and enjoyment, were the prevailing features; nothing transpired to mar any portion of the proceedings. It could not well be otherwise, whenever Millbrook and Peterborough draw lances it will only be in the friendship and enjoyment that has characterized their undertakings, on every occasion where they have met. May we spend many such pleasant days, and may the Masons be the chief architects in the structure. On behalf of the Fraternity we beg leave to thank the Ladies for the interest taken by them in assisting to make the day the great success it was.

SCHOOL PIC-NIC.

The children of the Allandale School, under the management of Mr. Traill, and those of School Section No. 5, Otonabee, conducted by Miss Forsyth, held a Union Pic-Nic on Friday last at Allandale. There were about 70 children present, and a large number of parents and friends of education, especially from the village and surrounding country. The ladies connected with the School provided excellent and abundant provisions for the occasion, so that as much was left as need, and hence after the speaking, etc., was over, a great many enjoyed a second banquet. The tables were spread in the Union Hall; a very neat little building erected by the people of the village for general accommodation in the way of public meetings, both religious and otherwise.

During the speaking, Thos. Short, Esq., occupied the chair, and also made some very appropriate remarks on the duties of parents, guardians, and children, and on the privileges now enjoyed in relation to education.

The Rev. Mr. Wilson, of Keene, also addressed the children on the necessity of piety and the wisdom of possessing early piety, as being of advantage for the present, and of incalculable advantage for the future.

The Local Superintendent of schools then followed with a word to the children on obedience, attention to studies while engaged in them, and to play while engaged in it; to parents in regard to their duties in ensuring regular attendance by sending their children instead of detaining them for every trifle; also on the folly of talking against the teacher in the presence of their children, and a few words on various topics connected with religious and secular education, contending that the former should be chiefly attended to by parents, Sabbath School Teachers and Ministers of the Gospel, and the common school teacher, owing to the mixed state of our schools, should direct his attention to secular education.

The children then betook themselves to the woods near by, where several swings had been erected, and there enjoyed themselves till the decline of the day in swinging and other amusements. We may safely say that this was a pleasant evening for the children; they seemed to enjoy it too. Such occasions tend very much to encourage both teacher and pupils, and a pic-nic once a year would, by the prospects of fun and a good time generally, tend very much to encourage both teacher and pupil during the arduous labors of the season.

PUBLIC MEETING.—There is a public meeting this day at Keene, to consider whether the rate payers will direct the Council to subscribe $15,000 as a bonus to the Cobourg and Peterboro' Railway Co., towards bridging Rice Lake and re-opening communication, by rail, with Peterboro.

The Concert on Tuesday evening last was a complete success.

A LIVE HORSE THIEF.

On last fair day Mr. John Archer, of Smith, had a horse and buggy stolen from Mr. Chamber's yard. He made every search, and finally a stranger calling at his house left word that if he would go out to see Corrigan's, in Douro, he would find his horse and buggy. Accordingly, early next morning—before day—Mr. Archer started for Corrigan's taking with him Mr. Staples, ton, and arrived at Corrigan's shortly after daylight. Corrigan was very civil and showed them all around and gave them liberty to search for the stolen property. They found a horse, buggy and harness, but none of these belonged to Archer. There was a buffalo robe also in the buggy when stolen and Mr. Staples[ton], anxious to find something that could be identified, searched all over for the missing robe, but in vain.

Mr. Archer went to Lindsay, and from the description given by a hostler in a hotel there of a man being there a few days before with a horse and buggy, he was satisfied that Corrigan was the thief. Hearing of a horse being for sale in Bobcaygeon next day, he went there but found it was not his. He came to Peterborough, laid information against Corrigan, and next day (Saturday) Corrigan was arrested and brought before the Police Court, but there not being sufficient evidence he was remanded till Monday, while Archer with a constable started off to bring witness from Lindsay and also to look after his stolen property. On Monday morning a telegram was received by Mr. Hatton from the constable telling him to keep the prisoner till witness arrived. Prisoner was accordingly remanded till Tuesday at ten o'clock. In the meantime a Mr. McCracken and a young man arrived from Newmarket, who stated that on the 7th inst., at Newmarket, a man had hired a horse and buggy to go about 7 miles from there, but had not returned. They had seen Archer and were confident that the horse and buggy seen at Corrigan's by Archer was McCracken's property. When Corrigan was brought down on Tuesday, the young man identified him as the person he had given the horse and buggy to at Newmarket. Corrigan's wife and brother-in-law had come in on Monday and Tuesday when Corrigan was brought from the jail. They brought in on Monday the horse and buggy, but hearing something of witnesses arriving from Newmarket, on Tuesday they brought in another horse but the same buggy and harness.—McCracken and his young man at once identified them as the farmer's property, and hearing that the horse was at the brother-in-law's, Mr. McCracken went out with a constable and found the horse and brought him in.

Yesterday, Corrigan was brought before the magistrate again. Wm. Cummings testified to have found the horse claimed by McCracken, at Mr. Morrow's in Douro, where Corrigan had left him, saying that he had bought him in Toronto, Mr. McCracken swore to the horse, and his man, Martin Scully, identified Corrigan as the man who got the horse to go as far as Queensville on the 7th instant.

Corrigan was committed to be sent to Toronto jail to await his trial there, and Mr. Cracken was bound to prosecute. Corrigan will leave for Toronto to-day unless Mr. Archer returns in time to have him brought up on the charge of stealing his horse and buggy. Mr. Archer heard that his horse and buggy had been disposed of at Belle Ewart and he has gone there. Corrigan is believed guilty of both acts. While in court he appeared somewhat repentant, as the tears fell profusely, his wife was also in court and was much affected. Corrigan appears to be a healthy, robust man that could have earned an honest living by honest labor; what a pity that he did not try it. He finds now that the way of transgressors is hard.

TOWN COUNCIL.

The Council met on Monday evening. Present—His Worship the Mayor, and Messrs. Dixon, Burnham, Chamberlain, Toole, Stevenson, Leonard and Wrighton.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

A communication from Patrick Haffey, asking leave to deposit earth at the foot of the hill, north of the school house fence.—The matter was referred to the Street Inspector, with power to act if he saw fit.

Several accounts were referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. Burnham introduced a By-law to authorise the Town Treasurer to pay to the Treasurer of the County of Peterborough the sum of five thousand dollars, towards the construction of bridges over Chemong Lake and Pigeon Lake. It was read a first and second time.

A communication was received from Geo. A. Cox, asking leave to allow him to build a partition wall in a building he is erecting, one brick thick instead of 1½ bricks. The matter was referred to the Inspector of Buildings.

Moved by Mr. Toole, seconded by Mr. Dixon,—That Mr. Carlile be instructed to have a plank crossing erected on Reid street at the intersection of Brock street; also a crossing over London street at the intersection of Bethune street, and also a crossing to the Old Kirk.—Carried.

YEAS—Messrs. Toole, Wrighton, Stevenson, J. Dixon.

NAYS—Chamberlain, Leonard, Burnham.

The Mayor mentioned that four children belonging to one Mooney have been deserted by their parents, and are wandering about the streets. It was agreed that the Council see that their wants are supplied.

The Council adjourned.

AGRICULTURAL SHOWS.

Smith, Harvey, Douro and North Monaghan, on Thursday, the 3rd day of October, at Bridgenorth.

County of Peterborough, in the Town of Peterborough, on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 15th and 16th October.

Asphodel, Belmont and Dummer, at New wood, on Tuesday, the 8th day of October.

Dysart, at Haliburton, on Wednesday October 9th.

County of Victoria show, at Lindsay, on the 16th and 11th of October.

Township of Ops, at Lindsay, October 3rd.

Cavan Fall Show, at Millbrook, Thursday and Friday the 3rd and 4th of October.

We learn from the British Columbian Examiner, that a man named Barry has been sentenced to be hanged for a very cold-blooded murder.

The same paper does not speak in complimentary terms of some Canadians who are at Carriboo. They have clubbed together and are said to pay no respect to right of property. We hope for the sake of our country that the report is not true. Mining in the Carriboo district is paying well; on the Big Bend, also, mining is prosperous.

How things were washed in the County of Perth.

We clip the following from the Stratford Beacon. The people of the township of Wallace entirely prohibited votes being polled for the Reform candidates during the last half of the first day and the whole of the second day:—

"Although every manner of abuse was heaped upon Redford and Hay's voters, they came in well, and kept their candidates at the head of the poll till about noon, when owing to the increased violence of the "lambs" it was impossible to get another voter to come up. A German named Richard Bender was struck and otherwise abused by Wm. McDermott, after polling his vote, which caused voters on their way to the poll to turn back home, as the rowdies met them with sticks and gave them their choice—to come on and get beaten, or go home unmolested. All this took place under the eyes of the Reeve, whose cousin and brother led the van. Mr. Meredith, the conservative candidate for the Local Legislature, was appealed to by Mr. Redford's committee to use his influence in restoring peace, and affording safety to Redford's voters, and he went out among them; but when he came in and looked the door, they were more violent than ever.—Bricks and sticks were thrown at the door, and other demonstrations engaged in. Then Mr. Redford went out to welcome his friends on their arrival, he was insulted in the grossest manner, by being jostled about, and attempts being made to knock the hat from under him, in much so, that he had to return and remain inside and hear his voters pay at the poll that they came to vote for him but "had to vote for Daly although they knew he (Mr. Daly) did not deserve it." After remaining two hours without a chance of polling a vote, one of Mr. Redford's friends, who was bringing voters to the poll, came at the risk of his life and informed the committee through the window that it was no use trying any more, as they would not allow another voter to come in, and advising Mr. Redford and Mr. Scott to make good their escape, the best way they could. Determined not to run, they waited till the close of the poll, when the "Lambs" rushed into the school house like infuriated savages, threatening to tear Mr. Redford and Mr. Scott to pieces.—Some one suggested that Mr. Monteith should harangue them, and he mounted a waggon a short distance from the school house, and succeeded in attracting their attention for a few minutes, during which time, by the advice of Mr. Greer, Mr. Redford and Mr. Scott collected up their books and papers and went over to his house. As soon as the blood-thirsty villians saw they had left, they gave a fiendish yell and rushed like demons after them. Mr. Greer, much to his honour, gave them every protection in his power, standing in the door with a revolver, and telling them at the risk of his own life that they would have to murder him before his friends were molested. His hired man who had more courage than discretion, pitched into one of them, but received a blow across the forehead with a heavy whip handle, which bled him at once, and laid him bleeding like an ox on the floor of Mr. Greer's kitchen. Thinking they had killed him, the most of them then took to their heels, Dr. Sills, who, fortunately was present, was applied in dressing the poor fellow to bed, and Messrs. Redford and Scott went out to get their buggy to leave for Listowel, when they discovered by accident that the rascals had cut the harness on each side. By the assistance of Mr. Greer, they got it repaired, and when about to start, the villians were observed skulking in a bush to the west of the house, on the road by which they were expected to pass. Mr. Malvey, county constable, who was present, volunteered to go along the road and see if all were clear, but soon forgot to return and give the desired information. Instead of going to Listowel, Messrs. Redford and Scott drove away from it, thereby disappointing the cowardly assassins, and making good their escape from certain danger, if not death. The whole of the following day, the poll was left in the hands of the rowdies, and but three votes were polled for Mr. Redford—those who polled them receiving such brutal treatment, by being knocked down kicked, and jumped upon, that no others ventured to make their appearance, although at least 130 of Mr. Redford's promised votes, and 150 of Mr Hay's, remained unpolled. Mr Redford and Mr. Scott, on being driven from the Wallace poll, went to Mornington. Mr. Monteith was left in Wallace alone, and the way in which he is reported to have acted may be judged of by the following extract from a letter received from Mr. James Lockie, of Listowel,—"Mr. Monteith received at the Wallace poll some time on Friday a letter brought by the son of R. Jones, Reeve of Logan, stating that the Catholics in Ellice had closed the poll there; and after reading the vile fabrication to the heathens, remarked, "Now, what will the Orangemen of Wallace do?" The result is known in the manner in which two decent men were maltreated." In justice to the shamefully deposed freeholders of Wallace, it is but fair to say that the ringleaders were the two McDermotts, brother and cousin of the Reeve, McConnell, and McKnight, who were primed with bad whiskey, provided for them in the swamp close to the polling place, and were armed with sticks. The whole of the disgraceful proceedings took place under the eye of the Reeve, who knowing their excitability, took no steps to prevent it. The doings in Wallace at elections are a disgrace to the civilization of the age."

MR. PERRY AND PHYSIC.

The Editor of the Review and Mr. Perry combined in the last Review to make a desperate effort; they are good matches, and ran well together; they will have to try their hands singly next time, lying is a sweet morsel to them both. They thought they had made out a great case but we value their slander just as we do their word—worthless. There is not a word of truth in their report that any one from this office ever ordered an open house or anything of the kind, either in Burleigh or anywhere else. Mr. Graham paid his own bill, as much, perhaps, as Mr. Perry or Dr. Poole could say. As to the denial of either of the "lying twain," they are so well known in the Town and country, that what they do or say gives us very little trouble. The one is capable of anything and the other capable of nothing noble or truthful. They pull well in a false yoke. Some one will say, what authority have we for blaming the "lying twain?" The work bears the impress of the "beast." As to getting rubber tires for our paper, we can tell the Review that we have not yet sent it to any one until first subscribed for, whereas the proprietor of the Review has sent his to many individuals who sent it back and then came and subscribed for the Examiner.

The Peterborough "Review" and the Burleigh Road Settlers.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

DEAR SIR,—The lying penny-a-liner who does the scribbling for the Review is not satisfied with having insulted the settlers on the Burleigh Road, before the election, but in addition must now slander them. He has the unblushing impudence to try, in his paper of last week, to make it appear that it was owing to bribery that a majority was got for the Reform candidates on the Burleigh Road. This fellow, Poole, has earned for himself a reputation for lying and meanness that would be galling to any man having a spark of manly feeling in him; but this petty creature who has not a soul above filthy drivel does not appear to realise the contempt to which he has fallen, even in the eyes of those who have used him as a tool. No one would question his readiness to turn his hand in politics if he could make anything by doing so, but in saying that the people of the Burleigh Road settlement have done so, he lies knowingly and wilfully. The only attempt at bribery which was made here was by Mr. Read and Mr. Perry, and this stands entirely alone. No men can be named than Mr. Read gave money to when he came up the road, and Mr. Perry hardly attempts to deny that he practised the same game, and this, no doubt, the lying quack knows very well. Those who voted for the Reform candidates did so from a conviction that they were doing right; they were not bought, and if purchasable, the Tory candidates and their friends would have readily invested in them. If they hold power at a discount as the quack of the Review does, like him, too, they might have made a little money as the emprise of prigcraft.

ESCULAPIUS.

Apetrother, Sept. 23, 1867.

MID LAKE RAILWAY EXTENSION.—We understand that the Railroad Committee appointed at the last public meeting are disposed to accept the proposal of the Cobourg and Peterboro' Railway Company, and that they will recommend the offer of $40,000 to that company to extend their railway to Mud Lake via Lakefield. We understand that as soon as the legal formalities are arranged, the works will be put under contract, and that by July next the whole line to Mud Lake will be completed.

Another View of the Position.

A Roman-Catholic French-Canadian, on the liberal side of politics, suggests some considerations that put rather a different face on the result of the recent elections.

He says, in all former elections the Rouges experienced no open hostility from the priesthood, and therefore, in some of sources, might be supposed to be returned with their consent; but, in the late election, say of them that were returned were so against the express prohibition of the bishops and clergy. This shows an amount of independence that cannot be too highly appreciated.

Again: notwithstanding mandemens and pastoral letters from bishops and electioneering on the part of some, the minorities in many counties which returned priest-party candidates were large,—a fact which demonstrates that nearly the half of the people were wholly independent of priestly dictation.

Again: he avers that the priests have overdrawn their credit with the people, and greatly weakened their influence, by taking a decided stand in politics during a recent election. A striking proof of this is said to have occurred at St. Hyacinth, where the candidate opposed by the priests was elected, and where his supporters, nearly all French Canadians, turned out in triumphal procession to celebrate this victory, and groaned in passing the Bishop's palace.—Nay, it is added that the wealthy citizens of St. Hyacinth, who had subscribed considerable sums of money, payably annually, towards the support of their Bishop, have sent him a letter, numerously signed, stating that they consider themselves exonerated from their obligation to pay any more, by his partizan course in politics; inasmuch as they subscribed to support a minister of religion and not a politician.

There is no doubt that an opportunity presents itself now, such as has, perhaps, never occurred before, for organizing and building up an independent party among the French Canadians. Let them only eschew foolish and unprincipled leaders and false issues, and they are, we think, certain to attain a grand and distinct day. The platform of this party will doubtless comprehend entire separation between Church and State, and the abrogation of all compulsory support of the church, such as tythes, assessments for building and repairing churches and parsonages, and grants of public money to religious corporations.—Witness.

DOWN ON HIM ALREADY.—Joseph Maynard, of the "Farmer's Exchange," was the only hotel keeper in Bowmanville who voted for Blake and McLeod. This aroused the ire of a number of his old associates, and starvation almost is threatened him.—His political opponents are withdrawing their patronage; and yesterday Mayor Cubit fined him $29 for selling liquor after seven o'clock on Saturday night last. If he broke the law it is quite right that he should be fined; but why is it that he only has been prosecuted, and all the others, who voted the other way allowed to go scot free?—Every one of them are equally guilty, and all should suffer alike. However, as regards the patronage of farmers Mr. Maynard need have no fears. If tories wish to act so let them do it; but let it be remembered that there are 400 more reformers in the riding than belong to the other party, and reform farmers when they come to town will drive their teams to Maynard's. This spirit of retaliation is a mean one; but if the beaten party wish to show their teeth, they must just take change of their own kind in return. We shall see if even justice be meted out.—Statesman.

QUEBEC, 20th.—The troopship "Himalaya," which was to have sailed on the 4th instant with the 60th Rifles on board, is said to have been detained at the Island from the prevalence of Asiatic cholera. A man named Hathuell dropped dead suddenly, last Saturday, on his road home from Drummondville, where he attended the nomination of the candidates for Drummond and Arthabaska. The Mercury (a Ministerial organ) of this evening says it is expected that at the meeting of the Privy Council which will be held at Ottawa on Tuesday, when Lord Monck and all the members will be in attendance, the Departmental arrangements of the Dominion will be completed and the time fixed for the convocation of the Parliament of Canada. It is thought the session will commence on the 24th October, the anniversary of the first British Parliament, and last about a month, when, after the organization of Committees and the passage of the Supplies, an adjournment will take place till after the Christmas holidays.—During the recess the Local Legislatures will meet, probably in November.

DEATH OF SIR FREDERICK BRUCE, K. C. B.—The demise of Sir Frederick W. A. Bruce will excite much regret in England, since Sir Frederick was one of the very few able men of whom the diplomatic service can boast. He was a younger brother of the late Lord Elgin, our Governor-General, and possessed a large share of the talents of the family. He entered the diplomatic service more than twenty-five years ago but it was not till 1853, when he accompanied Lord Elgin to China, and afterwards became Minister to Pekin, that he came prominently before the public. He took an active part in bringing about the existing treaty with the Chinese, and was afterwards for a short time Minister to Japan. He has been for only two years in Washington, and has probably fallen a victim to its noxious climate. He died in Boston, of diphtheria; but was seriously ill before he left the capital.—Globe.

GOLD DISCOVERY.—The Kingston Whig says:—Fresh gold discoveries continue to be made with such rapidity as to hope that ours is destined to be one of the foremost gold countries in the world. The editor of the Ottawa Times has been shown specimens of quartz taken from Murphy's mine, in North Crosby, county of Leeds. The shaft has been sunk about thirty feet, and the quartz having been examined by parties in Kingston, has been pronounced to be worth about one hundred dollars to the ton. The mine is four miles from the village of Westport, on the Rideau Canal.

INTEMPERANCE.—It well becomes the Leader to lecture his brethren on the amenities of the press, in the face of his own sweet record—Every newspaper in the Province is down on him at this very moment for his vile fraud, which he expected would escape detection, in attributing to Mr. Brown one of the most insulting speeches to the Catholics we ever read, but which is found to have been delivered by his own friend the Grand Orange Secretary! The Leader preaching on newspaper morality is like Satan reproving sin.—Stratford Beacon.

The London Canadian News of the 20th Aug., says:—"It is certainly time that measures were adopted to develop the mineral resources of the Dominion. Ontario, with its oil wells and gold fields; Quebec, with its gold, copper, iron and lead deposits; New Brunswick, with its cannelite, albertite and shale fields; and Nova Scotia, with its gold and coal fields—all stand in need of capital for the further development of their mineral treasures, and we have reason to believe that these steps are now about to be taken jointly by English and Canadian capitalists."

From the number of distilleries and breweries throughout Canada seeking parliamentary honours, there is reason to fear a raid on the present liquor law, imperfect as it is; and certainly the people cannot complain of the most unlimited traffic in strong drink, if they return the makers and sellers of intoxicating drinks to represent them.—Montreal Witness.

SIR FREDERICK BRUCE, G. C. B.

Sir Frederick Bruce, G. C. B., Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary from the Court of St. James to the United States, died in Boston at nine o'clock Thursday morning, the 19th inst. He had been stopping at Narragansett, R. I., for a few days, the hemorrhage from the wound a diseased throat, left that place on Wednesday last and arrived at Boston at nine o'clock the same evening, in a very feeble condition. He was conveyed to the Tremont House and physicians promptly called in; but human skill was unavailing, and he expired at two o'clock yesterday morning. The Hon. Mr. Sumner, United States Senator from Massachusetts was with him up to the moment of his death.

Sir Frederick William Adolphus Bruce, G. C. B., was born in England on the 14th of April, 1814. His father was Thomas, seventh Earl of Elgin and eleventh of Kincardine, and his mother (the second wife of the Earl) was Elizabeth, youngest daughter of James Townshend Oswald, of Dunnikier, county Fife, Scotland.—The deceased was the seventh child and fourth son of his father, and the third son and child of his mother. His lineage to one of the most illustrious in Great Britain, the house of Elgin being directly descended from the royal house of Bruce of Scotland, and holding at the present day a foremost position in the peerage. The early days of Sir Frederick (then known simply as the Hon. Mr. Bruce), were barren of incident. At the age of twenty-eight (1842) he was attached to the special mission of the late Lord Ashburton to the United States; but his position being necessarily a subordinate one, no opportunity was afforded him of displaying those diplomatic abilities which subsequently distinguished his career in China. In 1844 he was appointed Colonial Secretary in Hong Kong, which position he held until 1847, when he was promoted to the more important one of Consul-General in China. During the following year he was sent to Bolivia as Charge d'Affaires, remaining there three years, when in 1851 he was sent to Obbi in the same capacity. In 1853 Mr Bruce was appointed Consul-General in Egypt, and he subsequently became Lieut.-Governor of Newfoundland for a short time.—Upon the British Government deciding to send an embassy to China in 1857 Lord Elgin, the brother of the deceased, was appointed the head of the legation. Mr. Bruce accompanied him in the capacity of secretary, and it is said that the success of the mission was greatly due to his diplomatic skill. The treaty of Tientsin, which was the result of the negotiations, was carried home by Mr. Bruce, and as a reward for his service he was knighted a Commander of the Bath, and received the appointment of first Ambassador to China under the treaty.—While holding this important position, Sir Frederick recommended himself to the British Government by his skill in diplomacy and the general success which attended his efforts in behalf of the interests of Great Britain. That his services were highly appreciated, was made evident by his appointment in 1865 to succeed Lord Lyons as Minister to Washington, one of the most important missions from the Court of St. James. Before leaving England for the United States, he was promoted to the rank of Grand Commander in the Order of the Bath.—The delicate diplomatic relations between Great Britain and the United States, on his arrival and which owing to the Alabama claims, still remain so, were conducted by the deceased with much tact and ability. With the exceptions of the fisheries and the Fenian questions, both of which were settled to the satisfaction of both countries, no other difficulties have occurred except those arising from our late war. That they have been so far conducted on the part of Great Britain in a spirit of friendliness is doubtless due to the representations of the late Minister. Indeed, from all we can learn, he was on most friendly terms, personally, with Secretary Seward, as also with quite a number of our Senators and statesmen.

Sir Frederick Bruce never married. He was a perfect specimen of an Englishman, all of his manners and habits and the routine of his life being essentially British. He lived in excellent style in Washington, was very hospitable to his acquaintances and friends, whom he frequently entertained at his well-spread table, and noted for that love of horses which has almost become a passion with Englishmen. To the public in general the deceased wore that stiff and formal appearance which characterises the class of his country men to which he belonged; but in private life he is said to have been very social, conversational, and entertaining. He always expressed great admiration and friendship for the United States, and it was principally the knowledge of this feeling which occasioned his appointment as Minister to Washington.

Some weeks ago, Sir Frederick accompanied Mr. Seward and other gentlemen to Auburn, where they passed several days in fishing and other pastimes. At that time he was apparently in good health, and the disease which carried him off must have attacked him in a very sudden and unexpected manner. He was a comparatively young man, being but a few months over fifty-three years of age. His death will be sincerely regretted by the Governments of Great Britain and the United States, by the Diplomatic Corps in Washington, and by his acquaintances generally.

Upon being informed of the death of the distinguished Minister, Mayor Norcross, of Boston, directed that the flags of the city be displayed at half-mast from the City Hall, Faneuil Hall, and the Common, and that the bells of the several churches be tolled during the removal of the body from the city.—N. Y. Herald.

HORRIBLE SCAFFOLD SCENE.—A horrible scaffold scene occurred the other day in the prison yard of Jasper, Illinois. A young woman, not of the lowest class of the populace, was to be beheaded for gratifying her jealousy of her former lover, by an act that led to ÆTNA LIFE INSURANCE COMPY.

WE understand Mr. Dumble has been appointed agent for this popular Insurance Company. It is doing an immense business in Montreal and other cities of Canada. We understand its rates are lower than those of any other Company in the Dominion—this is owing to the vast number of policies issued—equal to the business done by sixteen of the largest English Companies, and the higher rate of interest obtained for its investments.

IMPORTANT FACTS AND FIGURES.

The following statement of the business of the "ÆTNA LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY" for the past six months, compared with the corresponding period of 1866, shows substantial progress:—

HOLLOWAY'S WORM LOZENGES

ARE A CERTAIN AND SAFE REMEDY for worms in children and adults. As it is a well-known and melancholy fact that one great cause of death among children is from Worms alone, it cannot be too deeply impressed upon the minds of parents the necessity of closely watching their children. By so doing, and understanding the symptoms and true cause of the disease, thousands of children might be saved from early graves. The following are a few of the very numerous symptoms and diseases which are caused by Worms: Deranged appetite, emaciated extremities, offensive breath, frequent picking at the nose, grinding of the teeth during sleep, hardness of the belly, with frequent slimy stools, and sometimes convulsive fits; pain in the head and stomach, unquiet sleep, flushings, trembling coughs, indigestion, low spirits, frightful dreams, and a gradual wasting away of flesh. Holloway's Worm Lozenges are palatable and self-administered to the child drive out the worms thoroughly without pain and completely cleanse the stomach thereby doing away with the necessity of administering Castor Oil or other unpleasant cathartics. Each box contain the facsimile. O. W., who are the sole proprietors. Sold by J. Biggisbothem and D. Stott, Bowmanville, and Medicine Dealers everywhere.

Glenville, Mass., Aug. 1, 1866.

It is an admitted fact that the Mexican Mustang Liniment performs more cures in shorter time, on man and beast, than any article ever discovered. Families, livery-men and planters should always have it on hand. Q lok and cure it certainly is. All genuine is wrapped in steel-plate engravings, bearing the signature of G. W. Westbrook Chemist, and the private U. S. stamp of Demas Barnes & Co. over the top.

All others have been made to counterfeit it with a cheap stone plate label. Look closely!

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned having been restored to health in a few weeks by a very simple remedy after having suffered several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease Consumption—is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge,) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, &c. The only object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable; and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy, as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

Parties wishing the prescription will please address

A BEAUTIFUL HORSE.

There is nothing that can contribute so much to render the horse beautiful and elegant to improve his condition and make him all that is desirable as "Dorley's Arabian Heave Remedy and Condition Medicine;" it has been used by many persons who own valuable carriage and other horses with decided success, and so well pleased are they with it that they always keep it on hand in case of emergency; it may be given at all times with perfect safety.

Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hyatt & Co. is on each package.

A HOME AND GOOD HOUSE IN MONTREAL!—Dr Maggiel is the founder of a new Medical System! The extraordinary cures made by Maggiel's Pills embolden the stomach and paralyze the bowels, must give precedence to the man who restores health and appetite with these elegant little pills, and cures the most virulent sores with a box or so of his wonderful and life-healing Salve.

These two great remedies of the Doctor are fast superseding all the stereotyped nostrums of the day. Extraordinary cures by Maggiel's Pills and Salve have opened the eyes of the public to the inefficiency of the (so-called) remedies of others, and upon which people have so long blindly depended. Maggiel's Pills are not of the class that are reinforced by the debris, and of which every box full taken tends to an absolute necessity for another. One or two of Maggiel's Pills suffices to place the bowels in perfect order, tone the stomach, create an appetite, and render the spirits light and buoyant! There is no griping, and no reaction in the wants of delicate females. Ulcerous and eruptive diseases are literally extinguished by the disinfectant power of Maggiel's Salve. In fact, it is here announced that Maggiel's Pills, Dyspeptic and Diarrhœa Pills cure where all others fail. While for Burns, Scalds, Chilblains, Cuts, and all Acrotisms of the skin, Maggiel's Salve is infallible. Sold by J. HAYDOCK, 11 Pine street, New York, and all Druggists, at 25 cents per box.

"CONVENIENCE!—Buy no Maggiel Pills or Salve with a little pamphlet inside the box—They are bogus. The genuine have the name of J. Haydock on the box with name of J. Maggiel, M. D. The genuine have the Pills surrounded with white powder."

Mr. BRIGGS,
DEAR SIR,
Mrs. Grinnell brought home with her one bottle of your "Velpeau's Hair Restorative," on her return from New York. I have tried the compound on my hair which had become prematurely gray, and upon the effect it produced I judge it possesses merits equal to its claim.

DARLEY'S

Arabian Heave Remedy and Condition Medicine

IS positively superior to any or all other preparations for the cure of Heaves, Coughs, Thick and Broken Wind, and all diseases which affect the Wind of Horses; also, as a Condition Medicine, surpassing everything of the kind; is easy to give, sure to cure, and safe in all cases and at all times, and does not prevent the horse from being worked while using it.

It cleanses the breathing apparatus, by removing from the air-cells the coagulable lymph or that secretion which in Heaves clogs them, causing a difficulty in breathing, and by its action on the diseased part causing the mucous membrane to resume its natural dimensions, thus equalising the circulation of the blood, and restoring the distended vessels to their natural size; by its use the horse's appetite is improved, all derangements of the digestive organs corrected, softening the skin, and giving to the coat a sleek and shining appearance.

ACCORDING to statistics laid before Parliament last year, the Agricultural Mutual had within 1,000 of having as many policies in force as all the other Farmers' Mutuals combined. The number of policies at present in force is 28,500, covering property to the amount of $12,000,000. It still retains the lead of all other Insurance offices as regards its moderate rates and general advantages to insurers of Farm property.

Poetry.

WHAT'S THAT TO YOU.

I.

Is it not queer in the soft days of summer,
Drawn by some bond of a river immense,
Sudden to count a dalliance new comer,
Loitering alone where the lily-cups float?
Ah, only yesterday, in no engrossed a pleas,
I must loiter, lonely to view;
But when I said to her, "Where were you wandering?"
Archly she answered me, "What's that to you?"

II.

Joyously bright was the shine of the river,
Brighter were Isabel's eyes on that day;
Summer delight cast a magical shiver
Through our two hearts as we wandered away.
Ah the slim walks of her! All the sweet tone of her
Lips like ripe cherries just fresh from the dew!
In the Arrilight I kissed little Isabel,
By the lone river-side—what's that to you?

Odds and Ends.

An obedient wife commands her husband.

No grief is so acute but time can ameliorate it.

Things past may be repented, but not recalled.

Flattery is like friendship in show, but not in fruit.

There is no hair so little that it casts no shade.

We should do everything to let good people have their will.

Ladies can draw a beau into a knot at the hymenal altar.

All women are good; good for something or good for nothing.

A woman like a greyhound must be small in the waist.

Work does not wear men so much as worry.

If you would be nothing, just wait to be somebody.

A virtuous woman, though homely, is the ornament of the house.

The only bluetarer from whom a brave man will take a blow is the wind.

Nothing is more precious than time, yet nothing less valued.

As the good men saith, so say we, but as the good saith, so it must be.

The more we help others to bear their burdens the lighter our own will be.

Vanity is a refined selfishness, which is ever exacting homage, but never paying any.

Men will mourn for evil which sin brings, but not for sin which brings the evil.

Why is a cruel man like a peach? He has a heart of stone.

Why are girls like boats? Because the younger the greater.

There is a saying of Goethe's—Talent forces itself into solitude; character in the storms of life.

There is a school in Germany to teach how to make lager. How to drink it requires no study.

The humble man is one not satisfied with himself, but content to be lowly because not worthy to be exalted.

By-Law No.

A By-law to raise by way of loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, for the purposes hereinafter mentioned.

WHEREAS the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, have resolved to raise the sum of Ten Thousand dollars, for the purpose of erecting and building a Bridge across Chemong Lake, from a point on the shore of said Lake, in the Township of Smith, in said County of Peterborough, to a point on the shore of said Lake in the Township of Ennismore, in said County, and also another Bridge across Pigeon Creek from a point on the shore on Bank of said Creek in the Township of Ennismore aforesaid, to a point on the shore of said Creek, in the Township of Harvey, in the County of Peterborough.

And whereas, it is expedient to effect the said creation object it will be necessary for the said Municipal Council to raise by way of loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars in the manner hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas, it will require the sum of $1,400, to be raised annually by special rate for the payment of said debt or loan and interest as also hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the said Municipality of the said County of Peterborough irrespective of any future increase of the same, and, also irrespective of any income to be derived from the temporary investments of the existing fund hereinafter mentioned, or any part thereof according to the last revised and equalized Assessment Rolls of the said Municipality, is the sum of Two Million Seven Hundred and Eighty Five Thousand Three Hundred and Sixty One dollars, ($2,785,361).

And whereas the existing debt of the said Municipality of the County of Peterboro' is Twenty Nine Thousand Four Hundred dollars, ($29,408) for principal money, and Twelve Thousand and Forty-Six dollars, ($12,046) for interest, and there is nothing in arrear or account of said principal or interest.

And whereas for paying the interest and creating an equal yearly sinking fund for paying the said sum of Ten Thousand dollars, and interest as hereinafter mentioned, it will require an equal annual special rate of one half of a mill in the dollar in addition to all rates to be levied in each year.

Be it therefore enacted by the Municipal Council of the County of Peterborough:

1. That it shall be lawful for the Warden of he said County to raise by way of loan from any person or persons, body or bodies cor orate, who may be willing to advance the same upon the credit of the Debentures hereinafter mentioned, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and to cause the same to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the said County of Peterborough, for the purposes and with the objects above recited.

2. That it shall be lawful for the said Warden to issue any number of Debentures to be made, for such sums of money as may be required, not less than One Hundred Dollars, ($100) each and not to exceed in the whole the said sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and that the said Debentures shall be sealed, with the seal of the said Municipal Council, and be signed by the said Warden and countersigned by the Treasurer of said County.

3. That said Debentures shall be made payable in ten years at the furthest from the day hereinafter mentioned for this By-law to take effect, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality, and shall have attached to them Coupons for the payment of interest.

5. That the said Debentures shall bear interest at and after the rate of six per centum per annum, from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half yearly, on the 15th day of October and the 15th day of April in each year, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality.

6. That for the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said Debentures and the interest at the rate aforesaid to become due thereon, an equal special rate of one half a mill in the dollar shall in addition to all other rates be raised, levied and collected in each year upon the rateable property in said Municipality during the continuance of the said Debentures or any of them.

6. That this By-law shall take effect and come into operation upon the Fifteenth day of October, 1867.

The above is a true copy of a proposed By-law to be taken into consideration by the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, at Peterborough, in the said County, on

The Tenth Day of October, 1867,

at the hour of TWO o'clock in the afternoon, at which time and place the members of the Council are hereby required to attend for the purpose aforesaid.

Dated, this 26th day of June, A. D. 1867.

LIFE AND WORKS OF ROBERT BURNS,

BY THE

REV. P. HATELY WADDELL,

(Author of the well-known Eulogy on his Genius, and Chairman at the "Cottage" on the Centenary of his Birth).

This addition will be Illustrated with Two Portraits of the Poet; with Frontispiece composed of five Scenes selected from the Works or Land of Burns; and with Twenty-five Pictures from Original Drawings—the whole produced in finest Oil Colours, from Engravings by eminent artists, in the highest style of the art.

The prominent Literary characteristic of this edition will be an entirely New Life of the Poet, in the form of a Spiritual Biography, by the Rev. Editor; with much valuable additional matter relating to Burns—including some hitherto unpublished Fragments of the Poet himself, interesting original Reminiscences of his Life, original Notes critical and historical on his Poems, and an Essay on the Progress and Development of the Scottish Language up till his day.

In the department of Illustration, the distinctive feature of every Picture will be its Originality in Design, and its absolute fidelity to nature in every detail of Scenery. The actual spot referred to, with all its surroundings, wherever locality constitutes a portion of the picture, will be scrupulously adhered to—so that readers at a distance, natives of Scotland, may recognise in these some transcript of the soil; and strangers may look with confidence on every illustration as a reality. In the same department, the Publisher has the highest satisfaction in being able to announce that he is in a position to reproduce an authentic and most wonderful Likeness of Robert Burns—from the Original Miniature, unquestionably, which was painted the year before his death; and of which Burns affirms that it is "the most remarkable likeness of what I am at this moment, that I think ever was taken of any body"—together with a most interesting and beautiful Miniature of his eldest Son, painted at the same time as a pendant to the Poet's likeness. These Portraits which have been lost to the world for seventy-one years, are now in possession of the Rev. P. Hately Waddell; and cannot fail, when presented to the world, to excite universal attention. No Portrait of the Poet known can compare for a moment, in fidelity or force, with this miniature of Burns.

The work will be completed in Seventeen Monthly Parts, Demy 4 to 48 pages, price Half Dollar each. Printed from new type upon the finest printing paper.

The great care and beauty with which the above work is being got up will make it an ornament most suitable for the drawing-rooms alike of the prince and of the merchant; whilst the mode of publishing and the price charged will bring it early within the reach of every nobleman throughout the world.

WITHOUT THE USE OF THE KNIFE.

THE cure will be guaranteed, and, as a proof of this, no pay is required, until the cure is complete. The moment a cancer is discovered, it should be cured, as it will eat less and is more speedily cured than when of longer standing, and there is nothing to gain, and everything to lose by delay. What now seems a blemish or pimp in the breast, neck, eye-lid or elsewhere, or small wart or sore on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, disgusting, destroying mass of disease. If required, references can be given to parties who have been cured many years since, and who are now sound and healthy. All communications promptly answered. AYER'S Sarsaparilla

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

And for the speedy cure of the following complaints: Scrofula and every variety of Scrofulous disease, such as Tumors, Ulcers, Sores, Eruptions, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Blains, Tetter, and all Skin Diseases.

GALLIPOLIS, Ind., 6th June, 1866.

J. C. AYER & Co. GENTS: I feel it my duty to inform you what your Sarsaparilla has done for me. Having labored a long time in this section, I have contracted a disease which I have reason to believe was brought upon me by working over, for years, in the mineral fumes and miasma of the Ohio river. Two years ago it broke out on my head and covered my body and face with sores, which were painful and loathsome in the extreme. I tried many remedies and consulted several physicians, but without relief. I was at last induced to try your Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken one bottle I found that it was helping me. I have now taken five bottles, and my head and face are entirely free from sores, and my health is as good as it ever was. I feel like a new man, and cheerfully recommend your Sarsaparilla to all who are afflicted with scrofula. I would have written you before, but I was in hopes that I would be entirely cured, and could say so from personal observation. I shall always speak in the highest terms of your Sarsaparilla, and shall recommend it to all who are afflicted with scrofula, as I believe it will do all that is claimed for it.

Robert Stace of Prospect, Penna, writes: "Three bottles of your Sarsaparilla cured me from a decline—a blotchy swelling on the neck, which I had suffered from over two years."

Lung Complaint, Whites, Ovarian Tumors, Uterine Disease, Female Diseases.

Dr. S. S. Channing, of New York City, writes: "I most cheerfully comply with the request of your agent in saying I have found your Sarsaparilla a most excellent alterative in the treatment of my patients for all the complaints which require such a remedy, but especially in all those of the forebodings sickness. I have cured many in consequence of Leucorrhœa by it, and some where the menstrual flux ceased by obstruction of the uterus. The obstruction itself was soon cured. Nothing within my knowledge equals it for these female derangements."

Edward S. Harvey, of Roxbury, Mass., writes, "A dangerous ovarian tumor on one of the females in my family, which had defied all the remedies we could employ, has at length been completely cured by your Extract of Sarsaparilla. Our physician thought nothing but an operation could afford relief, but he advised the trial of your Sarsaparilla as the last resort before resorting to the terrible ordeal. After taking your remedy eight weeks no symptom of the disease remained."

Syphilis and Mercurial Disease.

FORT GIBSON, 28th August, 1866.

DR. J. C. AYER: SIR, I cheerfully comply with the request of your agent, and report to you cases of the effects I have realized with your Sarsaparilla.

I have cured with it, in my practice, most of the complaints for which it is recommended, and have found its virtues truly wonderful in the cure of Venereal and Mercurial Disease. One of my patients had Syphilitic ulcers in his throat, which were accompanied by pains and the loss of his mouth. Your Sarsaparilla, steadily taken, cured him in five weeks. Another was assailed by secondary symptoms in his nose, and the alterative had eaten away a considerable part of it, so that I believe the disorder would soon reach his brain and kill him. But it yielded to my administration of your Sarsaparilla; the ulcers healed, and he is well again, not of course without some disfiguration to his face. A woman who had been treated for the same disorder by mercury was suffering from this poison in her bones. They had become so sensitive to the touches that on a damp day she pulled excruciating pain in her joints and bones. She, too, was cured entirely by your Sarsaparilla in a few weeks. I know from its formula, which your agent gave me, that this Preparation from your laboratory must be a great remedy; consequently, these truly remarkable results with it have not surprised me.

Fraternally yours, G. V. LARIMER, M. D.

Rheumatism, Gout, Liver Complaint.

INSURANCE, Preston Co., Va., 6th July, 1866.

DR. J. C. AYER: SIR, I have been afflicted with a painful chronic Rheumatism for a long time, which baffled the skill of physicians, and stuck to me in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I tried your Sarsaparilla. One bottle cured me in two weeks, and restored my general health so much that I am far better than before I was attacked. I think it a wonderful medicine. J. FRALEY.

John T. Gotshell, of St. Louis, writes: "I have been afflicted for years with an affection of the Liver, which destroyed my health. I tried every thing, and every thing failed to relieve me; and I have been a bed-ridden man for some years from no other cause than derangement of the Liver. My beloved pastor, the Rev. Mr. Hopy, advised me to try your Sarsaparilla, because he said he knew you, and say things you made was worth trying. By the blessing of God it has cured me, and has so purified my blood as to make a new man of me. I feel young again. The best that can be said of you is not half good enough."

Schirrus, Cancer Tumors, Enlargement, Ulceration, Caries and Exfoliation of the Bones.

A great variety of cases have been reported to us where cures of these formidable complaints have resulted from the use of this remedy, but our space here will not admit them. Some of them may be found in our American Almanac, which the agents below named are pleased to furnish gratis to all who call for them.

Dyspepsia, Heart Disease, Fits, Epilepsy, Melancholy, Neuralgia

Many remarkable cures of these affections have been made by the stimulative power of this medicine. It restores to the vital functions their vigorous action, and thus overcomes disorders which would be supposed beyond its reach. Such a remedy has long been required by the necessities of the people, and we are confident that this will do for them all that medicine can do.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the Relief of Consumptive Patients in advanced Stages of the Disease.

This is a remedy so universally known to surpass any other for the cure of throat and lung complaints, that it is useless here to publish the evidence of its virtues. Its unrivalled excellence for coughs and colds, and its truly wonderful cures of pulmonary disease, have made it known throughout the civilized nations of the earth. For are the communities, or even families, among them who have not some personal experience of its effects—some living trophy in their midst of its victory over the subtle and dangerous disorders of the throat and lungs. As all know the dreadful fatality of these disorders, and as they know, too, the effects of this remedy, we need not do more than to assure them that it has now all the virtue that it did have when making the cures which have won so strongly upon the confidence of mankind.

Poetry.

HEARER HOME.

One sweetly solemn thought,
Comes to me o'er and o'er;
I'm nearer home to-day,
Than I have ever been before.

Nearer my Father's home,
Where the many mansions be;
Nearer the great white throne,
Nearer the jasper sea.

Nearer the bonds of life,
Where we lay our burdens down;
Nearer leaving the cross,
Nearer wearing the crown.

But lying darkly between,
Winding down through the night;
Is the dim and unknown stream,
That leads me at last to light.

Closer, closer, my stars,
Come to the dark abyss;
Closer death to my lips,
Presses the awful chrism.

Father, perfect thy trust,
Strengthen the night of my faith;
Let me feel as I would when I stand
On the rock of the shore of death.

Feel as I would when my feet,
Are slipping on the brink;
For it may be I'm nearer home,
Nearer now than I think!

Selections.

THE FATAL CARD.

A traveller describes a scene he witnessed upon a Mississippi steamboat as follows:—One night we had started out from Vicksburg and were heading merrily down the river, when a well-known river gambler, named Sturdivant, came up to the group which had gathered around the stove. 'Well, gentlemen,' he said, 'you seem to be terribly dull. Who wants to play for twenty dollars antee?' He glanced around the crowd as if to select his victim. For the first time I noticed the gaze of one of the group fixed upon him. He was a stranger to me, and was dressed in a plain suit of home-spun, and his face was partially concealed by a wide-brimmed sombrero which was drawn down over it. He was a small but powerful built man, and in the decided expression of his well-shaped head, I read an unusual firmness and intensity of purpose. 'Are you Daniel Sturdivant, the gambler?' he asked, in a calm tone, without rising. 'Some persons call me so, behind my back,' he said insolently; 'but no one dares to apply that term before my face.' 'Nevertheless,' said the stranger, quietly, 'I want you to answer—yes or no.' 'Well then,' said the gambler, angrily. 'I am. What of it?' 'Simply this,' replied the stranger; 'I have heard it said that you claim to be the best player in the Southwest. I have come two hundred miles to prove you a liar.' Sturdivant strode forward a step or two, and thrust his hand into his breast as if to grasp a weapon. 'Stop,' said the stranger.—'Take your seat at the table, and I will make my words good.' With an oath Sturdivant placed himself at the table, and bade his challenger do likewise. It did not take long to show us that the stranger was an unusually good player. For an hour or more the playing went on in silence. The stakes were high and the contest marked with high skill. Sturdivant exerted himself as he had never done before, but in spite of his efforts he lost steadily. By the time mentioned above, he had lost over two thousand dollars. I noticed the flush upon his face deepen, and a strange light came into his eye. At least, with an exclamation of triumph, he drew toward him the heap of notes. 'That was well done,' said the stranger. 'You are an expert at cheating. But go on. I can beat you whether you play openly or dishonestly.' Sturdivant said nothing, but dealt the cards again. The hand was played, and Sturdivant was about to seize the stakes again, when the stranger laid down a card and checked him. The gambler uttered a cry, and sat motionless with his eyes fixed on the card—a faded ace of hearts with a dark red stain across the face. Sturdivant's face worked convulsively as he gazed at it, and the spectators gathered more closer around the two, wondering at the strange scene. 'In God's name who are you?' gasped Sturdivant, with eyes still fixed on the card. 'Look at me,' said the stranger, quietly. As if powerless to resist, Sturdivant raised his eyes to the speaker. The stranger had raised his hat and sat looking at the trembling man with eyes which fairly blazed with fury. Sturdivant uttered a groan, and sank back in his chair with his face white and rigid. The stranger with one sweep gathered up the money from the table, and thrust it into his breast. 'That ace of hearts is an unlucky card for you, Daniel Sturdivant,' he said, coldly; 'you played it once when you thought it to your advantage. Now, God help you, for that play is returned.' As he spoke he raised a pistol which we had not seen, and before we could stop him, aimed it deliberately at the trembling man, and fired.—The gambler fell heavily upon the table a corpse, and the bright blood streamed over it, hiding the fatal card from sight. 'Gentlemen,' said the stranger, rising to his feet as we stood paralyzed with horror at the dreadful scene, 'that man ruined my wife, and tried to murder me. I have been hunting him for ten years.' He walked slowly by us, down the stairway to the lower deck. Just then the steamer touched at a landing, when he sprang ashore, and vanished in the dark woods. I never learned the history of the mysterious affair, for the dead gambler was beyond human questioning, and I never saw the stranger again; but I shall not soon forget the impression it made upon me at the time.

A newly married lady who was very fond of her husband, notwithstanding his uglyness of person, once said to a witty friend, "What do you think? My husband has laid out ten guineas for a large baboon as a present to please me." "The dear little man," cried the other. "Well, it is just like him."

The New York Herald on the Fenians.

"STRIKE BUT DON'T LAUGH AT ME."

The Herald says:—Why should we sigh for a Punch or Judy, or a professedly comic paper with any name whatever, when in the regular routine of our daily reports we can find such funny reading as the account of the sayings and doings of those humorous lads the Fenians, in the Congress of the Irish republic, now solely making laws, not on the hill of Tipperary, or even in Toomey's wood, but in Cleveland, Ohio? It may not be a joke at all this Fenian Congress at Cleveland, with a green coated sentry at its doors, and discussing a regular annual message from President Roberts; but if not, then we must admit that Pat, who laughs so happily at all that is serious, is the only man on earth who can be preposterously serious over the exquisitely laughable. There was not only a message from the "Secretary of war," proposing to organize an Irish army on the temperance basis; said army to pay its own expenses of the war. "The soldier of the army of the Irish republic are to be sober and discreet men"—as if the Congress did not know that when all the Fenians get sober the game will be up? This secretary will be evidently a greater blunderer than Stanton was, and Irish President ought to turn him out at once, unless there is an Irish republican tenure of office bill, in which case we cannot see that the republic is within the saving power of saltpetre.—All his friends of freedom, however, must rejoice that the recent action of the Troy chambermaids has not crushed the infant republic. It will be remembered that these chambermaids, insensible to the sufferings of their native country, declared that they would contribute no more money till they were told what had been done with the money seriously given—a ridiculous requirement, that would expose to the world all the great plans of the leaders. Notwithstanding this secession of the financial magnates of the republic, the war against Great Britain will go on just the same.—Money will be raised, and we are even told how—every soldier will be assessed ten cents. None of this money will be spent in "trapping" or "flags," but in arms and ammunition—the whole of each soldier's ten cents being strictly devoted to furnishing said soldier with one musket, one bayonet, cartridge box and forty rounds of ammunition; and not a cent of it for green cloth or gold braid. With such a practical disposition—such an eye to reality in the Fenian Councils—it is clear that the days of the British power may be numbered—by all persons conversant with the integral calculus. We are glad to chronicle a noble piece of self-sacrifice on the part of the Fenian President. He was re-elected President, but declined to accept the position unless Congress would raise half a million dollars for the cause. Congress could not do it. It pledged itself for a quarter of a million, however, upon learning which the patriot nobly consented to come down in his price and serve his country till the last cent was gone. With such a spirit among the leaders, who can despair of the Irish republic?

How Republican Congressmen Devote the Treasury.

The corruption of the Radical rabal, calling itself a Congress, at Washington, surpasses all human understanding and experience. Not satisfied with creating new offices and increasing salaries all over the country, that body raised the pay of its own members to $5,000 a year, which is at the rate of $14 a day for every day in the year, and probably more than $30 a day for the time employed. This is exclusive of the plunder which every Congressman expects to secure during the session. The character and amount of this plunder may be judged by the following items taken from the Senate Miscellaneous Document No. 53, Thirty-ninth Congress, second session, which is a detailed statement of the payments made from the fund of the Senate, for the year ending December, 1866, published in accordance with an act passed in 1842, and certified by J. W. Forney, secretary of the Senate:

For pocket-knives, 504 in number	$1,118 50
For pen-knives, 406 in number	1,304 60
Making 910 knives for these 52 gentlemen in one year about 18 each; average cost $2.52, amounting to	2,322 90
703 pair of shoes, about 14 pair each, cost	325 00
Sponges	364 76
7,137 pair of scissors, about 22 pair each, at a little over $1 a pair	1,189 10
210 pairs of kid gloves, about 4 pair each, at $2 50 a pair	526 00
114 diaries	206 75
294 port-folios, nearly 6 each at about $4	1,104 00
446 pocket-books, 8 each, at about $2 50	1,019 50
309 brushes	326 85
556 pin cushions	60 90
1,980 boxes of pens	1,895 04
2,908 lead pencils	725 33
Newspapers and magazines	3,766 00
4,87[illegible] ream paper	4,092 20
1,807,354 envelopes	10,084 97

Other items, such as paper weights, corkscrews, cords, erasers, leather dusters, chamois skins, folders, pen-wipers, blank-books, ink-stands, eyelet machines, pamphlet cases, copy books, paper files, pen racks, stationery cases, gold pens, dies, key rings, match cases, fluid, silk tape, card cases, memorandum books, combs, cologne, soap, pomade, toilet powder, lemons, are scattered through the book, in quantities sufficient to supply all their friends or set up variety stores in the country. In the House the rule shows each member so much for stationery, to be paid in stationery or for money, as he chooses, but stationery is furnished in addition for all committees, and the practice is for members to supply themselves from that furnished to committees and then take the allowance. This is a fair specimen of the manner in which the people are robbed by a Radical Congress. Every Congressmen who has twelve children of course wants twelve pen-knives, and pens and pencils in like proportion. The items enumerated would excite a lively sense of ludicrous did they not provoke a feling of disgust and indignation.—N. Y. World.

'Persevere, persevere, said an old lady to her maid; it's the only way you can accomplish great things.

One day eight apple dumplings were sent down stairs and they disappeared.

'Sally, where are those dumplings?'

'I managed to get through them, ma'am,' replied Sally.

'Why, how on earth did you manage to eat so many dumplings?'

'I persevered, ma'am.'

'Is Mr. Jones in?' asked an Irishman of the porter in a hotel.

'No,' was the reply.

'Will you leave your name?'

'Och, now, do you think I'd be after going home without a name.

ANECDOTES OF QUEEN VICTORIA.

Grace Greenwood contributes to the first number of the Weekly Advance the following among other anecdotes of Queen Victoria:—

"Another little anecdote which shows her simplicity of character and shrewdness of perception, was told me by a gentleman who once enjoyed the pleasure of a very informal interview with her under rather peculiar circumstances. My friend, Mr. W———, is a person of very artistic taste—a passionate picture lover. He had seen all the great paintings in the public galleries of London, and had a strong desire to see those of Buckingham palace, which, not being a "show house," were inaccessible to an ordinary connoisseur. Fortune favored him at last. He was the brother of a London carpet merchant, who had an order to put down new carpets in the state apartments of the palace—and so it chanced that temptation came to my friend to put on a workman's blouse and then enter the royal precincts, while the flag indicating the presence of the family floated defiantly over the roof. So he effected an entrance, and, when once within the royal walls, dropped his assumed character, and devoted himself to the pictures. It happened that he remained in one of the apartments of or the workmen had left, and when quite alone the Queen came tripping in, wearing a plain white morning dress, and followed by two or three of her younger children, dressed with like simplicity. She approached the supposed workmen and said:—

"Pray, can you tell me when the new carpets will be put down in the Privy Council chamber?"—and he, thinking he had no right to recognize the Queen under the circumstances, replied, "Really madam, I cannot tell, but I will enquire." "Stay," she said abruptly, but not unkindly, "who are you? I perceive you are not one of the workmen."

"Mr. W———, blushing and stammering somewhat, yet made a clean breast of it and told the simple truth. The Queen seemed much amused with his ruse, and for the sake of his love for art, forgave it—then added smiling—'I knew for all your dress that you were a gentleman, because you did not 'your majesty' me. Pray look at the pictures as long as you will. Good morning! Come chicks we must go."

"Another anecdote, illustrating Victoria's admirable good sense and strict domestic discipline, came to me directly from one who witnessed the occurrence. One day, when the Queen was present in her carriage at a military review, the Princess Royal, then rather a wilful girl of about 13, sitting on the front seat, seemed rather coquettish with some young officers of the escort. Her Majesty gave several reproving looks without avail—winked at her, but she wouldn't stay winked. At length, in flirting her handkerchief over the side of the carriage, she dropped it—too evidently not accidently. Instantly two or three young heroes sprang from their saddles to return it to her fair hand—but the awful voice of loyalty stayed them. 'Stop, gentlemen' exclaimed the Queen, 'leave it just where it lies. Now, my daughter get down from the carriage and pick up your handkerchief.' There was no help for it. The royal footman let down the steps for the little royal lady, who proceeded to lift from the dust the pretty piece of cambric and lace. She blushed a good deal, though she towed her head saucy, and she was doubtless angry enough; but the mortifying lesson may have nipped in the bud her first impulse towards coquetry. It was hard, but it was wholesome. How many American mothers would be equal to such a piece of Spartan discipline?"

ARTEMUS WARD.

Many literary aspirants in the land of Yankeedom, are now trying their hands in copying after the style of this celebrated writer,—but no more resemble the original than chalk does cheese. The manner in which he lampooned that interesting class of society who go about with an eye glass cocked, and bob attendance on such of the fair sex as give them countenance, is worth preserving. He says:

"I was fixin' myself to attend the grate war meetin', when my daughter entered with a young man who was evidently from the city, and who wore long hair, and had a wild expression in his eye. In one hand he carried a portifolio, and his other paw clasped a bunch of small brushes. My daughter introduced him as Mr. Swibier, the distinguished landscape painter from Philadelphy.

"He is an artist, paps. Here is one of his master pieces—a young mother gazin' admirin'ly upon her first born," and my daughter shewed me a really pretty picter, done in fle. "Is it not beautiful, paps? He throws so much soul into his work."

"Does he? does he?" said I, "well, I reckon I'd better hire him to whitewash our fence. It needs it. What will you charge, sir, I continued, "to throw some soul into my fence."

My daughter went out of the room in very short meeter, takin' the artist with her, and from the emphatic manner in which the door slam'd, I concluded she was summut disgusted at my remarks. She closed the door, I may say, in italics."

AN AMERICAN TESTIMONY TO ENGLAND.—Which is the strongest throne on the globe to-day?" inquired the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher in New York—"Why, the English unquestionably; partly because a noble, virtuous and illustrious woman sits on it. She dignifies womanhood, and she is fit to sit in empire. This is one reason why the English throne is strongest. It is the strongest, because it is so many legged. It rests on 30,000 of people. It represents the interests of the masses of its subjects. Another reason why England is the strongest nation is, because it is the most christian nation; because it has the most moral power. It has more than we have. We love to talk about ourselves on the 4th of July; we love to fat ourselves with eulogies; but we are not to be compared to-day with Old England."

A fond parent heard his daughter and her fellow plan an elopement. The next day the old man waited upon the young one and addressed him thus:—"You are a fine hearty youth, and I don't object to you for a son-in-law. Here's a hundred to aid you in an elopement. May you live happily in the same house, and may no accidents occur to throw the least shade on the sunshine of your life. All I request is that you elope with my daughter—she's a mighty fine girl, you know, but somehow her mother and I could never travel smoothly with her; we don't know her good points; elope with her to such a distance that she won't return to her loving father and mother any more. Good bye, sonny, and may you be happy." There was an elopement that evening by one. The young man went unaccompanied. He thought everything could not be entirely right when the old man was so anxious to get rid of the girl. The father looks upon his act as a very neat bit of strategy.

To spin and weave, to knit and sew, was our grandmas employment; but how to draw and catch a bass, our girls they call enjoyment.

MEMBERS ELECT FOR ONTARIO.

The members elect, as classified by the Coalition press, following in the wake of the Leader, are all Coalitionists but one or two. The terms Union and Anti-Union are meaningless; there are no such classes of either members or people in the Province, the whole is thoroughly Union.

The most reliable division yet given is given by the Globe and shows for the Commons, 32 Reformers and 50 Coalitionists.—But we feel certain that there are not a few classed among the Coalitionists who are Reformers and will be found, in due time voting with Reformers. The division of members for the Assembly of Ontario is also given as follows: Reformers, 42; Coalitionists, 40; and the same remark may be made in reference to many of the Coalitionists in the Assembly, in regard to their Reform principles. It will, therefore, be seen that Reformers will have a majority in the Assembly. J. S. McDonald, too, is a Reformer, although he has gone astray is forming a coalition government, and he will, no doubt, continue to advocate reform principles. His government is not likely to be long lived; one of its first members has failed to obtain a constituency and there is little prospects of his getting one now, whereas, had he kept clear of Coalition he would in all probability now be elected.

The Commons will meet in November it is thought, and after a short session prorogue to allow the Assembly to meet in January, in order to fulfil the terms of the Confederation Act, which provides that the Parliaments of the Dominion shall meet within six months from the passing of the act.

The principle of dual representation will in some degree be on its trial this parliament, and will, in all probability, not be so anxiously contended for in the future. The two assemblies cannot meet at the same time owing to its present existence, and this will afford an undue opportunity of interference, if sought for, in local matters. During the the election contests we found every exertion put forth to control Local candidates as well as candidates for the Commons, and we have no guarantee that these same men will refrain from interfering with legislation when they did interfere in the elections. It would, therefore, be better to have no dual representation, and then each House could meet when most convenient, and could also pursue that course believed most for the interest of those whom it represented without any intermeddling from the Commons, other than is necessary to maintain legislation without antagonism to that of the Commons, Dual representation is, however, only on its trial and if it does not work well it is an easy matter to prohibit it in future.

Railway Meeting in Otonabee.

At the meeting in Otonabee on Thursday last we understand that there was a majority in favor of the Council passing a By-law, and submiting it to the people, to grant $13,000 to the Cobourg, Peterboro & Marmora Railway Company towards bridging Rice Lake and re-opening communication with Keene and Peterboro.

The Council of Ashburnham have agreed to pass a By-law to grant $5,000 for the same purpose,

RAILWAY MOVEMENTS.

For some time there has been a little agitation here on railway matters, one party being desirous of the re-opening of the Cobourg Railroad and also its extension to Mud Lake via Lakefield, and another party advocate the extension of the Port Hope Branch to Lakefield and thence to Mud Lake, and as in other matters there two parties cannot agree. Our readers are aware that either of these projects meeting was held to discuss the claims of the rival roads and the interests of the town and surrounding country. At that meeting a committee was appointed to consider the matter and open communication with the rival railway companies and thus learn which company would grant the town what it demands at the cheapest rate. all parties being agreed that extension to Mud Lake was necessary to secure to Peterboro its just and natural share of the business of the back country, which was now going to Lindsay. We understand that Messrs. Covert & Co offered to extend their Branch to Mud Lake and to fix a tariff on the new road from Mud Lake to Port Hope at a rate not to exceed that which should be charged from Lindsay to Port Hope. But in order to enable them to do so they ask the town to give them a bonus of $60,000, and the aid of the Town Council in getting an act passed giving them entire control of what is known as the Chemong Road, the Cobourg company having the right to pass over the road, if it existed, and if they desired to do so. Some of our public men appear to favor this scheme. The Cobourg, Peterboro & Marmora Company offer to re-open their road, fill in the Rice Lake Bridge so as to make it substantial and to extend the road to Mud Lake, if the town will give them $40,000; and the advocates of this scheme, assert that this is the best scheme of the two, as it will give the town two lines of road to the front, and secure also the extension to Mud Lake, while it will also cause competition that would keep down the freight charges on both roads.

There are petitions now being signed in town to request the Council to pass the necessary By-laws and submit this latter scheme to the people for their approval or disapproval, so that some of these schemes will be submitted and approved or rejected ere long. The people of the town, therefore, have now before them the rival claims and the extension of the railroad to Mud Lake. They have what are said to be the offers of the rival companies, and it is for the citizens to consider which will be for the best interest. Which will benefit the companies or any one of them is a small matter to us. The great question is which will be the greatest benefit to the town. Perhaps a better offer will yet be made and it is our interest to try and get the best and most advantageous terms possible. We must also secure ourselves against collusion in the matter by binding the company that we assist, if we do so, to complete the whole before our money is given, and also bind them to ensure a train over the road regularly. If two roads should be constructed our aid should be on conditions that these roads should never fall into the hands of one company, as has been the case, and that the managers of the roads should not at anytime enter into any agreement to carry at common rates. At present we do not commit ourselves to advocate either of the above mentioned schemes, for we do not yet understand the definite offers of either of the companies. When these are fully made known we will be able to weigh the matter and come to some conclusion. The extension we cannot get without cost, we will have to give something for it, and the matter now is to which of the companies will we afford the aid we propose to afford to the extension. If we inconsiderately take sides we may have cause to regret it. We should not allow the interests of either companies to influence us against our own interests, nor should we allow the reasoning of some interested parties to lead us astray. The extension on the best terms and soonest should be our motto

POLITICAL PERSECUTION.

We learn that one or two of the petty clique who have been persecuting Mr. John Carroll, Land Agent of Burleigh, have gone so far as to make application to a few partizans in Toronto to get Mr. Carroll removed. We could hardly have imagined that they would show such littleness of sentiment as to injure a man because he happens to differ from them in his political views. During the whole contest here it cannot be shown that Mr. Carroll in any way interfered in the elections, we certainly understood from his attending the reform convention in Toronto, that he held reform views. We also understood he had always been a reformer in principle, and furthermore that it was for this that a few demagogues here sought and still do seek to injure him. What poor narrow-minded bigots they must be who cannot rest satisfied with the victory of returning their men, but must needs persecute a man who is too independent to be dragged by the nose by Mr. Provincial Land Surveyor Fitzgerald and one or so more who wish to fetter thought and action because they wish to be the custodians of both. We feel assured, however, that the people of this county—both conservatives and reformers—will not silently permit any act of political persecution, nor can we for a moment imagine that the government of which J. S. Mcdonald is a member would listen to such foul representations or designs. Mr. Carroll is highly esteemed by both parties on the Burleigh Road, and by both Catholics and Protestants in the county; is a useful member of the County Council, his only crime for which Fitzgerald, Moylan & Co detest him, being, he is too enlightened to be led by the nose, and too independent to allow any man to trample on his right to think and act for himself. Along the Burleigh road the whole people are attached to Mr. Carroll, and we feel assured that any effort to remove him would meet the disapproval of the entire county. Surely the day is gone by when the Sidney Smith principle of turning out post masters and other officers will be re-enacted. It is a dangerous precedent to establish. Next election the cards may be turned and the rule work the other way.

A MURDER AT KINGSTON.—Last week a most cold-blooded and cruel murder was perpetrated at Kingston, while attempting to rob the safe of the Morton Distillery. Four men named Saxie Allen, Alexander Gemmel, Edward Jones and William Howard entered the Distillery with intent to take a sum of money ($2,700) which was deposited in the safe. Having made an entrance, and also having succeeded in breaking the safe and getting its contents, the watchman who was employed to keep a look out, having come upon them was cruelly murdered by a stroke of a sledge-hammer. It is believed the men made their way out of the building and made for the United States. They were drowned to disappointment, however, and were taken and brought back to Kingston. The young man Gemmel, hoping to escape punishment, revealed the whole matter. The Coroner's jury found a verdict of "guilty" against the whole four, and they have been committed to await their trial, the end of which they may easily imagine.

JUVENILE PUNISHMENT.

Several boys attending the Union School, were summoned before Mr. Henthorn, J. P., this week, for striking Mr. Larmour's dog, and breaking his nose badly. It appears that the boys had been playing ball and the ball was knocked over into Mr. Larmour's yard, or garden; while over for it they gave some offensive language, when the dog was let loose, which made the boys leave very hurriedly. The dog stuck his head through the fence and while in that position a lad struck him a heavy blow on the head and nose, injuring him severely. Mr. Henthorn fined the boys $1 each and cost, which in all amounted, we are told, to about $4, and on default of payment they were committed to jail till Monday next. Mr. Mitchell, the parent of one of the boys, paid the fine and took his boy home. But one of the other boys not being prepared to pay, had to go to jail. The third boy, named Walsh, was about to be freed, but he refused to allow the money to be paid, choosing rather to go to jail than allow the convicting magistrate to get any of his money,—quite plucky indeed. But the worst is, through some mistake, the boy that committed the deed is still free, while the innocent, we are confidently assured, are suffering a penalty they, in this case, do not deserve. The boys in jail are about 10 to 12 years of age. Crime should be punished, but always with a view to reformation; we doubt the wisdom of the punishment in this case. We hope the boys now suffering innocently will learn to keep out of bad company in future, lest a worse case befall them. Since writing the above we learn that the boys were liberated yesterday evening, Mr. McWilliams having used them kindly.

CORRIGAN RETAINED HERE.

The celebrated individual, R. S. Corrigan, to whom we referred in our last issue as about to be sent to Toronto for trial on charge of stealing a horse, harness and buggy from one Mr. McCracken, of Newmarket, is detained for trial here on a charge of stealing a horse, harness and buggy from John Archer, of Smith. He took the whole out of Mr. Chambers' yard on the fair night, it appears; took them to Bell Ewart and sold them there. They had been re-sold before Mr. Archer found them out. He, however, now has them again, and Corrigan lies in jail awaiting his trial at the next Court of Quarter Sessions on the charge of stealing. Should he not be convicted here he will be taken to Toronto and be tried on the other charge. To stealing is added the charge of forgery, for which he will also be tried. We will say no more but await the evidence. He must be considered innocent until the guilt is fully proved.

UNION SCHOOL.

The Board met on Tuesday evening. Present—the Chairman, Col. Haultain, Messrs. Coulter, Lundy, Dunlop, Dumble and Stevenson.

The committee on appointments reported that out of the numerous applications for the place of Principal, they had chosen two, but had been unable to make a difinite choice until they should receive some information, for which they had written. They therefore asked the Board to extend the time for appointing a Principal to Friday evening, and then to give the committee power to make the appointment without calling the Board together again. The report was received and adopted.

A resolution was passed, fixing the salary of Principal at $900.

The Secretary gave in some recommendations, purporting to come from the Chief Superintendent of Education, in reference to making arrangement for drill in the Grammar School, the time for such drill to be about three hours in the week, and not to interfere with school hours.

On motion of Col. Haultain, Messrs. Dunlop, Dumble and Stevenson were appointed a committee to make arrangements to have the recommendations carried out, the cost, if any, not to exceed fifty dollars.

On motion of Col. Haultain, seconded by Mr. Dumble, the hours for opening the school in the afternoon was fixed at half past one o'clock.

Departure of Messrs. Huffman, of the Huffman House.

The travelling community who visit our town will learn with regret that the Messrs. Huffman are no longer here to administer to their wants in the capacity of "Mine Hosts" of the Huffman House. For over seven years Messrs. Huffman have conducted their establishment in this town as a first class hotel, giving general satisfaction to all who visited their House, either as private friends, or in their public capacity as Hotel keepers. To their new home in the village of Madoc, they carry with them the best wishes of the inhabitants of this town.

On Tuesday evening last, a number of gentlemen, private friends of the Messrs. Huffman, gave the junior partner of the firm a parting token of their esteem by inviting him to partake of a sumptuously got up dinner provided by the new host of the establishment, Mr. D. R. Castiday.

PERSONAL.—Dr. Benson, son of J. R. Benson, Esq., of this town, has, we learn, gone to Lindsay with the intention of taking up his residence there. For some time he has been engaged in the practise of Medicine in this place, and only determined to go to Lindsay after the death of his friend, the late Dr. Benson who died at Lindsay a short time ago. Dr. Benson is a graduate of Bellevue Medical college, New York, and also of Victoria University college, Ontario, he having attended both these institutions, and passed very creditable examination at both. He was also a pupil of Dr. Burnham of this town, who enjoys the largest practices of a sing'e Physician in the country, and under whose care Dr. Benson was enabled to see the successful treatment of the various diseases that prevail in this section of country at least. He is also a young man of very studious habits which combined with his sound Medical Education must tend to make him well grounded in the nature and treatment of diseases, and will yet ensure him a large Patronage. He has our best wishes for his success.

School Pic-Nic.

On Saturday, 27th September, the united school section, No. 9 in Cavan and 4 in North Monaghan, held their pic-nic on the banks of the Otonabee river. Mr. Robt. Goodfellow, on whose grounds the party met, had a large pant capable of accommodating about 40 children trimmed for the occasion and furnished with a square sail. As there was a moderate breeze blowing up the river, this added greatly to the pleasure of both young and old, a large number of whom had come over from the township of Otonabee. While different groups were having their turn on the water games were being played by the others on shore. Towards sunset the children of the school gathered together and sung a few pieces—"Ye banks and brnes," "The children are gathering," "Happy greeting to all"—and finally the whole party joined in singing the National Anthem. After a short, but appropriate prayer by the Rev. Mr. Blain, of Springville, the party dispersed, having spent a most pleasant day, without anything disagreeable whatever transpiring.—Com.

TOWN COUNCIL.

The Council met on Monday evening.—Present—His Worship the Mayor, and Messrs Cluxton, Burnham, Steverson, Dixon, Kennedy, Toole, Dickson and Leonard.

The minutes of the last meeting were read over and confirmed.

A communication was read from William Arnott, Chief Constable, on the subject of the proposed reduction of his salary. It was referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. Cluxton, Chairman of the Committee on Finance and Assessment, read and submitted a report which was received and adopted. The report was as follows:—

The Finance Committee beg leave respectfully to report that they have examined the following accounts and recommend payment therof, viz:—S. J. Carver, $2.21; John Whyte, $71 99; M. Millar, $25.22; B. Hamilton, $18.72; W. Argott, $1.50; George Mitchell, whisky, $2.50; A. McDonald, old rye, $4.90; McFadden, disbursements, $1.25.

With regard to Mitchell's and McDonald's accounts for whisky, your committee reluctantly pass the items, but they beg to say that hereafter if similar accounts are submitted they will be rejected.

With regard to the accounts furnished by Mr. Dunlop, on behalf of the County Council for improving the Court House grounds, your committee suggest that the sidewalks around the square be formed with earth or gravel, and that the channels be opened at the proper distance from the fence so that the water may run off and not dam against the young trees, by lodging about them. This work to be done either by the County Council or the Town, and the cost thereof to be added to the original account of $246; the total amount to be divided, a moiety of which they would recommend the Council to assume.

Your committee cannot consider this work complete until these improvements are made.

All of which is respectfully, committed.

(Signed,) W. CLUXTON,
Chairman.

Moved by Mr. Cluxton, seconded by Mr. Stevenson,—That this Council disapproves of and disallows the publication of a notice in reference to an application by this Council for authority to issue debentures for the purpose of taking stock in the Cobourg and Peterboro' Railway. That such notice was published without the knowledge or consent of this Council, and that this Council is opposed to the taking of any such stock. And that the clerk do forthwith furnish a copy of this resolution to the papers publishing such notice. Carried on the following division:—Yeas—Messrs. Toole, Stevenson, Kennedy, Cluxton, Leonard, Burnham. Nays—J. H. Dixon, S. Dixon and the Mayor.

The Council adjourned for one week.

To the Editor of the Peterborough Examiner.

DEAR SIR,—Permit me to bring before the public an act of one of our magistrates—J. T. Henthorn, J. P., that in my opinion merits public disapproval. The boys at the school, it appears have been guilty of giving abusive language to Mrs. Larmour and also of beating her dog. For this they were brought before Mr. Henthorn and among them was a boy of mine. This far I find no fault. But during the trial Mrs. Larmour gave testimony to some of the boys having thrown stones, &c., but when questioned in reference to my boy she said she did not see him throwing any stones or having any in his hands, nor did she hear him saying any thing. Of course, then, you will say he got clear; but so, he did not get free. Mr. Henthorn fined all the boys, 3 in number, $1 each and costs, in all amounting to $4 each, or in default go to jail one week. But what will the public think of that Justice of the Peace who did so, when I tell you that Mr. Henthorn refused to hear any evidence on the boys' behalf, although it was again and again tendered. No, he would hear nothing on their behalf. I do not find fault with Mrs. Larmour, she has been annoyed by the boys and they should not be allowed to annoy her, but I do find fault with Mr. Henthorn for the judgment he gave. Two of the boys are now in jail, and it is well known that at least one of them is innocent. Mrs. Larmour herself freed him. I think that steps should be taken to break Mr. Henthorn or prevent him acting, as he evidently is an unjust judge and not fit to act on any case.

I am, yours truly.

JAMES HODGSON.

COLBORNE GRAMMAR SCHOOL.—We take pleasure in announcing the fact that Wilmot Gordon, (son of G. N. Gordon, of this village) passed not only a creditably but a remarkably good matriculation examination at Albert College, Belleville, on the 12th and 13th of this month. The boy is, we are informed, entitled to a certificate of honor which is to be forwarded to his father by the Registrar of the University. Master Gordon was prepared for College at our Grammar School (by Ralph J. B. Dixon, Esq., M. A., the Head Master) and his examination reflects credit alike on himself and the Institution at which he was trained. His papers on Greek and Latin were such as to entitle him to 81 per cent on the former and 75 on the latter. His honors are in Mathematics. Success to our school and its students!—Colborne Express.

What the Old Ministry were Guilty of.

Mr. McGee in a letter which he wrote to a Mr. Macarow of Kingston, when in opposition, arraigned the Government collectively and individually, as a violation of the Constitution, and of reducing the principles of Responsible Government to ruin and reproach. Mr. McGee did not attempt to discuss provincial politics from a religious point of view, as he believed that all religions stand equal before the law. He said:—

It seems to me incredible that any unpurchaseable constituency, knowing even the tenth part of the evils inflicted on the country by the present ministers, can return one of their accomplices, still less one of themselves to their hands, representative institutions have been employed mainly to enrich political dependants, and favored corporations; under their guidance "responsible government" has become a mock, a rag, a reproach. Responsible government! Responsible government!—Does not Mr. Cartier conduct public affairs like a responsible being? To whom is your Mr. McDonald responsible, in Upper Canada? To No, my dear sir; ministerial responsibility, which with a generation of virtuous public men might be a reality—might be made to fulfil the expectations raised by Mr. Baldwin's resolutions of 1841—is for us, with a complaisant Governor-General and jobbing majority, an empty sound signifying nothing.

Elected, the colleague of the new opposition leader from Lower Canada, in 1857, I was more and more confirmed in opposition as each went on, and as the results of personal observation accumulated. I will, with your permission, set down a few of the principal reasons why I believe the country should shake itself free of the Macdonald-Cartier or Cartier-Macdonald constitution.

First—Because they collectively violated the Constitution, and "outraged the moral sense of the country" by the double shuffle and double swearing of 1858.

Second—Because they violated the Constitution by allowing payments, and granting gratuities; and giving or procuring lucrative contracts for members of parliament, their supporters,—as witness the payments, grants, and contracts made or given to Mr. Turcotte, Mr. McLeod, Mr. Benjamin, Mr. A. P. Macdonald, and Mr. McMicken.

Third—Because they violated the Constitution by keeping for three sessions Messrs Aleyn Dubord, and Simard, in their seats for Quebec on the pretended majority of 15,000.

Fourth.—Because they violated the Constitution by justifying the sale of offices, in Sheriff Werner's case, and in rejoining the Hon. Col. Prince in the Upper House, as their active partizan, after his office had been created and his Commission made out as judge of the district of Algoma.

Fifth—Because they violated the Constitution, by keeping Joseph Morrison in the Cabinet as a Minister of the Crown, after he had been three times rejected by the people.

Sixth—Because they violated the Constitution, in abandoning to the directice or Sir Edmund Head personally the sole representation of the people of Canada, during the memorable visit of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales.

Seventh—Because they contimuously and systematically violated the Constitution, in expending vast sums of money, amounting in the aggregate to seven millions of dollars, without the authority of the Parliament.

TAXES.

The Intercolonial railway will cost £5,000,000 at the lowest estimate—competent engineers say £6,000,000. In a few years principal and interest must all be paid up, while it is stated in the British Parliament, on good authority, that the earnings of the railway will not pay the cost of grease for the engines.

The Governor General is to be paid $50,000 annually. We are to be saddled with seventy-two senators to manage the affairs of 4,000,000 of people, while neighboring Republic requires only sixty eight senators to conduct the affairs of 34,000,000 of population. There the appointment is for six years, here it is for life. There senators are the people's choice; here they are the choice of the Gov-General, and in their selection we have no voice. The Commons will consist of 181 members. All these additions to our former local governments are attended with a corresponding increase of taxes. We shall henceforth know something of what it is to be taxed Yet our revenues are removed from our control. Are we not in a position to realise the feelings of the Egyptian Slaves, who were compelled to make their stated quantity of bricks, without being furnished with the necessary material.—Halifax Citizen.

VOTE BY BALLOT.—The Belleville Chronicle appears to look upon vote by ballot as anti-British. It is not so. New Brunswick enjoys the privilege and would part with it on no account. If it works well there, why not in Ontario? Both Provinces belong to the great Dominion of Canada, and what is good for the one should be good for the other.—Ex.

Who Increased the Public Debt!

Mr McDougall answers this question—The present Commissioner of Public Works said in 1861, in the house of Assembly, that "The pressure of public debt on the people of Canada was now almost as heavy as the National debt on the people of Great Britain, taking into consideration their gross resources and the small interest their debt bore. One of the great causes of the debt having increased to its present amount was the violation of principle asserted in Mr. Dorion's resolution," viz: Positive advances without the authority of Parliament. In Mr. McDougall's present position he is powerless to prevent the recurrence of a greater national calamity in the further increase of the public debt, should Sir John, through his influence and that of other quasi Reformers in the cabinet bring to the Federal Premier that accession of strength which he anticipates to carry his administration through the next five years. Add another seventy millions to our public liabilities, and at the expiration of another electoral term, John A. will have proved to the satisfaction of every fogy, at least, the correctness of the Tory dogma, that a national debt is a great blessing, and ergo the larger the debt the greater the blessing.—Brockville Recorder.

An Appalling History.

The Post says it is preparing a history of the elections of 1867, and asks for accurate statements from every parish on the following points:

1. The fraudulent acts of returning officers or their deputies.
2. Violence or corruption on behalf of candidates.
3. Heedless details of the intervention of the clergy, of the Grand Trunk, and other large societies or corporations.
4. The conduct of various officers of Government.
5. And generally, all causes that hindered the free and honest expression of the opinion of electors at the polls.

The Observer seems to regard this exposure with a good deal of trepidation, seeing in it the gathering of evidences for future commissions of enquiry to turn out office-holders.

THE RISING RACE IN VICTORIA.

The Registrar-General of this colony has recently published and interesting account of the gradual change that is taking place in the national type of the population of Victoria. He states, that the consequence of the diversity of nationality, there is a very important change continually going on by the process of marriage, and although this change has hitherto been little heeded by those effecting it, yet it is one that will influence every social and political development of the future life of the colony. The distinctive characteristics of English, Irish, and Scotch emigrants are rapidly breaking down, and another national type is being developed in the shape of an Australian people In order to determine the extent to which existing national types are being fused, Mr Anchor refers to the nationality of the married population. Out of 25,064 males who married in Victoria during six years, 12,464 were Englishmen, of whom 7,152, or 56 per cent., married English women. On the other hand, out of 25,998 women who married in the same period, 8,719, or 37 per cent., were English, and of these 7,152, or nearly 74 percent., married Englishmen. Again, as many as 3,945, or nearly 10 per cent., of the Englishmen, married Irish women; a striking contrast to which, only 573, or less than 6 per cent., of the English women married Irishmen. During the same period 4,422 Irishmen married the same number of Irish women, the former being 80 per cent. of the Irishmen, and the latter, 48 per cent of the Irish women who married. Of 59 Chinese (males) who married, 26, or 47 per cent., married Irish women: half that number, or 24 per cent., married English women; 7, or 19 per cent., married Australian born women; 2, 3 per cent., married Scotch women; and the number and percentage married Welsh women and german women Out of every 100 marriages, 28 were between English females; 17 were between Irish males and Scotch females; seeing that the distinction of race was preserved among little more than half of the total marriages. Equality in the number of the sexes, is one of the first conditions necessary for the full development of national growth; but there has always hitherto obtained a great disproportion in this respect in Victoria. In 1866, it was estimated that there were 75 females to every 100 males, which is a smaller disproportion than has ever before existed. Among the Victorian-born there were 99 females to every 100 males The English-born were in the proportion of 57 females to 100 males; the Scotch in that of 65 females to 100 males; and the Irish in that of 86 females to 100 males. Among foreigners the Germans showed the highest proportion of females,—namely, 28 females to 100 males; and the Chinese the least—namely one female only to every 3,000 males. It may be stated that the marriages of the Australian-born are gradually assuming a great numerical importance, so that it will soon become very difficult to distinguish the national origin of any given portion of the Victorian people. The English-born have, at every Census-taking ben foremost in the list of nationalities, the Irish-born have as invariably been second, and the Scotch-born third. The latest returns of the central Board show the aborigines in the colony amounted to 1,908. It is satisfactory to learn that, though their numbers decreased rapidly in the early years of the colony they are not now diminishing to any serious extent. The improvement is no doubt owing in a great measure to the efforts of the central Board, who receive and expend an annual sum voted by Parliament expressly for the aborigines.

Jefferson Davis is soon to get his trial, it is supposed in about a month.

BRYAN'S WAFERS.—The great public remedy have now been in use over twenty years, hence it cannot be said that they are on trial. They have been thoroughly tried, and pronounced (on the authority of those whose lives and health they have preserved) to be a pure, harmless, and eminently salutary preparation, and if taken in season will invariably cure colds coughs, sore throat, and all Bronchial affections. One fair trial will convince the most skeptical. Sold by all medicine dealers, at 25 cts per box.

HEENAN AND ENGLAND'S CHAMPION.—We hear that Heenan has again challenged England's Champion for a very heavy sum, but whether the challenge will be accepted or not we cannot say, negotiations are still pending, and should it come to a battle, our advice to all parties concerned is to be well supplied with the "Canadian Pain Destroyer," the finest thing for bruises out, it soon cures sprains, and flesh wounds, and relieves pain almost immediately. Price 25 cents per Bottle. Sold by all Medicine Dealers

DIED.

At the residence of Rev. John Gilmour on Saturday, 28 ultimo, Joseph Wenham Esq., at the ripe age of 76. Mr. Wenham was born in England and came to Canada more than 40 years ago. He was long connected with the Bank of Upper Canada and Bank of the People, and was noted for his business tact, and unflinching honesty and uprightness of action. His end was peace, and he died in the assurance of a blessed immortality beyond the grave. He leaves a sorrowing widow and many warm friends.

Over a Billion Dollars Saved!

Gentlemen:—"I paid a negro man worth $1,200 who took cold from a bad hurt in the head, and became deaf over a year. I had used everything I could hear of without benefit, until I tried the Mexican Mustang Liniment—it soon effected a permanent cure."

J. L. DOWNIE.

Montgomery, Ala., June 11, 1866.

"I take pleasure in recommending the Mexican Mustang Liniment as a valuable and indispensable article for Sprains, Sores, Scratches or Galls on Horses. (Our men all say it acts like magic.)

J. W. HEWITT,
Foreman for Adams, Wells, Fargo's and Butterfield's Express.

"The Sprain of my daughters ankle, occasioned while skating last winter, was entirely cured in one week, after she commenced using your cele rated Mustang Liniment.

ED. SELLY."

Glen cater, Mass., Aug. 1, 1865.

It is an admitted fact that the Mexican Mustang Liniment performs more cures in shorter time, on man and beast, than any article ever discovered. Families, livery-men and planters should always have it on hand. Q ick and sure it certainly is. All genuine is wrapped in steel-plate engravings, bearing the signature of G. W. Westbrook Chemist, and the private U. S. stamp of Demas Barnes & Co. over the top.

An effort has been made to counterfeit it with a cheap stone plate label. Look closely!

"Jest so!"—"Exactly I"—Solon Shingle said they were there "every time." If he felt "owly" in the morning, he took Plantation Bitters; if he felt weary at night, he took Plantation Bitters; if he lacked appetite, was weak, languid or mentally oppressed, he took Plantation Bitters; and they never failed to set him on his pins square and firm.

Few persons want any better authority; but as some may, just read the following:

"• • • I owe much to you, for I verily believe the Plantation Bitters have saved my life.

REV. W. H. WAGONER, Madrid, N. Y."

"• • • I have been a great sufferer from Dyspepsia, and had to abandon preaching. • • The Plantation Bitters have cured me.

REV. C. A. MILLWOOD, New York City.

"• • • I had lost all appetite—was so weak and enervated I could hardly walk, and had a perfect dread of society. • • The Plantation Bitters have set me all right.

JAMES HUNTSWAY, St. Louis, Mo."

"• • • The Plantation Bitters have cured me of a derangement of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, that distressed me for years. They act like a charm.

C. C. MOORE, 254 Broadway, N. Y."

Mrs. O. M. DEVOR, manager of the Union Home School for Soldiers' Children, says she "has given it to the weak and invalid children under her charge, with the most happy and gratifying results." We have received over a hundred reams of such certificates, but no advertisement is so effective as what people themselves say of a good article. Our fortune and our reputation is at stake. The original quality and high character of these goods will be sustained under every and all circumstances. They have already obtained a sale in every town, village, parish and hamlet among civilized nations. Base imitators try to come as near our name and style as they can, and because a good article cannot be sold as low as a poor one, they find some au port from parties who do not care what they sell. Be on your guard. See our private stamp over the cork.

It is a most delightful Hair Dressing.
It eradicates scurf and dandruff
It keeps the hair rich, soft and glossy.
It prevents hair turning gray and falling off.
It restores hair upon prematurely bald heads

This is just what Lyon's Kathairon will do. It is pretty it is cheap durable. It is literally sold by the car-load, and yet its sales are increasing, until there is hardly a country store that does not keep it, as a family item does not use it.

A NEW AND GRAND EPOCH IN MEDICINE!—Dr Maggiel is the founder of a new Medical System! The quantitarians, whose vast internal doses enfeeble the stomach and paralyze the bowels, must give precedure to the man who restores health and appetite with from one to two of his extraordinary Pills, and cures the most virulent sores with a box or so of his wonderful and all-healing Salve.

These two great specifics of the Doctor are fast superceding all the stereotyped nostrums of the day. Extraordinary cures by Maggiel's Pills and Salve have opened the eyes of the public to the inefficiency of the (so-called) remedies of others, and upon which people have so long blindly depended. Maggiel's Pills are not of the class that are swallowed by the dozen, and of which every box fail taken creates an absolute necessity for another. One or two of Maggiel's Pills suffices to place the bowels in perfect order, tone the stomach, create an appetite, and render the spirits light and buoyant! There is no griping, and no reaction in the wants of delicate females. Ulcerous and eruptive diseases are literally extinguished by the disinfectant power of Maggiel's Salve. In fact, it is here announced that Maggiel's Bilious, Dyspeptic and Diarrhœa Pills cure where all others fail. While for Burns, Scalds, Chilblains, Cuts, and all Aerotions of the skin, Maggiel's Salve is infallible. Sold by J. HAYDOCK, 11 Pine street, New York, and all Druggists, at 25 cents per box.

"CAUTION!!—Buy no Maggiel Pills or Salve with a little pamphlet inside the box—They are bogus. The genuine have the name of J. Haydock on the box with name of J. Maggiel, M. D. The genuine have the Pills surrounded with white powder."

DARLEY'S
Arabian Heave Remedy and Condition Medicine

IS positively superior to any or all other preparations for the cure of Heaves, Coughs, Thick and Broken Wind, and all diseases which affect the Wind of Horses; also, as a Condition Medicine, surpassing everything of the kind; is easy to give, sure to cure, and safe in all cases and at all times, and does not prevent the horse from being worked while using it.

It cleanses the breathing apparatus, by removing from the air-cells the coagulable lymph or that secretion which in Heaves clogs them, causing a difficulty in breathing, and by its action on the diseased part, causing the mucous membrane to resume its natural dimensions, thus equalizing the circulation of the blood, and restoring the distended vessels to their natural size; by its use the horse's appetite is improved, all derangements of the digestive organs corrected, nothing the skin, and giving to the coat a sleek and shining appearance.

Odds and Ends.

A FATHER IN LAW.—What is the legal relation in which a tenant stands to his land-lord?—In love payment is.

Punch asks if any man can receive a more aggravating reminder than to see his creditor driving a pair of dun ponies.

An Iowa paper is printed entirely on red ink. An exchange says the editor is determined to have his articles red.

Jones is a strong believer in guardian angels. "If it were not for them," he asks "what would keep people from rolling out of bed when they are fast asleep?"

A STRANGE FACT.—Diamonds and other precious stone are of peaceable nature, yet when placed in the carrying they may be put by the ears.

SMART.—A man boasting of the smartness of his children, said that the youngest was so smart that it would take its hands off a hot stove without being told.

The botanists tell us there is no such thing in nature as a black flower. We suppose they never heard of "the" coal black Rose."

An old maid is more liberal than a young one. The latter may always be willing to lend you a hand; the former will give you one, and even thank you too.

Why is a thief your only true philosopher? Because he regards everything from an abstract point of view is opposed to all notions of protection, and is open to conviction.

EXPENSIVE.—What more natural than that sentimental young ladies, when they change their condition of single-blessedness, ceasing to be pensive, should be expensive?

A man having hurt his forehead, was advised to rub it with brandy. Some days after being asked if he had done so, he answered, "I have tried several times, but can never get the glass higher than my mouth!"

The following curious epitaph may now be seen in Dunmore churchyard, Ireland:—"Here lie the remains of John Hall, grocer. The world is worth a fig, I have good raisins in saying so."

Of all the specimens of German English orthography that ever saw the light, that of a country tavern keeper with the most excruciating. He has "painted him a sign," and it reads, "Deskdevele Nodrashel"—"Positively no trust."

The following are among the notices put up at a petroleum town in Western Pennsylvania: "No talking with the chamberman!"—"Fare as high as at any other house."—"Not responsible for boots left in the hall."—"No sardines admitted."

A lady passing along the street, one rainy last winter, noticed a little boy scattering salt upon the sidewalk for the purpose of clearing the ice. "Well, I'm sure," said the lady, "that's real benevolent." "No, it ain't, ma'am," replied the boy, "it's salt."

A small boy, while loitering on an errand in his neighborhood of a pillar-box, observed an old gentleman, of seemingly humane appearance, deliberately despatching a letter. The infamous murder was reported to the authorities, and the police are on the track.

The following advertisement appears under the head of "A Wife Wanted," in a Yankee paper: "Any gal what's got a bed, a coffee pot, skillet, knows how to cut out her clothes, can make a hoein' shirt, and knows how to take care of children, can hear my service till death parts both on us."

The celebrated actor Quin had the faculty of sleeping soundly. "What sort of a morning is it, John?" "Very wet, sir." "Any mullet in the market?" "No, sir." "Then you may call me this time to-morrow sir." So saying, he composed himself to sleep, and got rid of the ennui of a day.

A certain Scotch friend of ours, who is not a member of the temperance society, being asked by a dealer to purchase some fine old whisky, drily answered: "To tell you the truth, sir, I canna say I'm very fond of whisky; for if I take muir than ane tumblerfu' it's very apt to give a body the headache."

A philosophical cabman thus speaks of the section over which his wheels made their track: "If you run over a youngster down here," said he, "the folks don't say nothin', kase they have got more children and no wishes for 'em—but you just run over a goat or a kid, or a sow or a pig, and blest if a mob ain't arter you in two infinits."

A soldier having retired from service thought to raise a few pounds by writing his adventures. Having completed the manuscript he offered it to a bookseller for ten pounds. It was a very small volume, and the bookseller was surprised at his demand. "My good sir," replied the author, "as a soldier I have always resolved to sell my life as dearly as possible."

"Down in front! down in front!" shouted an excited individual, whose view of the stage was interrupted by a man who persistently kept his feet while a popular dancer was delighting the audience. "Down! down!"—"What!" said an Irishman near, "don't be splittin' your throat that way.—Be gorra! it's likely the man's a cripple an' can't get down."

A writer in the Medical Gazette gives the following lucid explanation of the phenomenon of a lady's blush:—"The mind communicates with the central ganglion; the latter by influx action through the brain and facial nerve, with the organic nerves in the face, with which its branches incasculate." The explanation beats Dr. Johnson's celebrated definition of "net-work," "anything reticulated or decussated at equal distances, with interstices between the intersections."

Why is a pretty lady like a locomotive engine? Don't give it up—there are plenty of reasons. She sends off the sparks, transports the mails (mails), has a train following her, and passes over the plain.

An old fellow, who is always perpetrating bad jokes, persists in describing gamesters as birds of par excellence; and he accounts for the presence of black legs in a group fold by citing the fact, that jambs are always passionately fond of gambling.

Truth, which is eternally the same, has nothing to fear from the operation of conflicting opinions. She lies upon her quiet bed at the bottom of the sea, while the surface of the element that forms her gentle covering has been agitated by many a great gale.

A girl who was making a dress put the sleeves in wrong. She was unable to change them, as she could not determine whether she had got the right sleeve in the wrong place, or the wrong sleeve in the right place.

"Which, my dear lady, do you think the warmest place in the world?"—"That immediately above the atmosphere that surrounds the earth, I should think."—"And why so?"—"Because I am told that there is no warmer door than gravity."

ROBERTSON & MARTIN.

Peterborough, August 28th, 1867. 35-tfc

By-Law No.

A By-law to raise by way of loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, for the purposes hereinafter mentioned.

WHEREAS the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, have required to raise the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, for the purpose of erecting and building a Bridge across Otonabee Lake, from a point on the shore of said Lake, in the Township of Smith, in the County of Peterborough, to a point on the shore of said Lake in the Township of Ennismore, in said County, and also another Bridge across Pigeon Creek from a point on the shore or Bank of said Creek in the Township of Ennismore aforesaid, to a point on the shore of said Creek, in the Township of Selwyn, in the County of Peterborough.

And whereas, to carry into effect the said recited object it will be necessary for the said Municipal Council to raise by way of loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars in the manner hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas, it will require the sum of $1,400, to be raised annually by special rate for the payment of said debt or loan and interest as also hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the said Municipality of the said County of Peterborough irrespective of any future increase of the same, and, also irrespective of any income to be derived from the temporary investments of the sinking fund hereinafter mentioned, or any part thereof according to the last revised and equalized Assessment Rolls of the said Municipality, is the sum of Two Million Seven Hundred and Eighty Five Thousand Three Hundred and Sixty One dollars, ($2,785,361).

And whereas the existing debt of the said Municipality of the County of Peterboro' is Twenty Nine Thousand Four Hundred dollars, ($29,400) for principal money, and Twelve Thousand and Forty-Six dollars, ($12,046) for interest, and there is nothing in arrear or account of said principal or interest.

And whereas for paying the interest and creating an equal yearly sinking fund for paying the said sum of Ten Thousand dollars, and interest as hereinafter mentioned, it will require an equal annual special rate of one half of a mill in the dollar in addition to all rates to be levied in each year.

Be it therefore enacted by the Municipal Council of the County of Peterborough:

1. That it shall be lawful for the Warden of the said County to raise by way of loan from any person or persons, body or bodies cor orate, who may be willing to advance the same upon the credit of the Debentures hereinafter mentioned, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and to cause the same to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the said County of Peterborough, for the purposes and with the objects above recited.

2. That it shall be lawful for the said Warden to cause any number of Debentures to be made, for such sums of money as may be required, not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100) each and not to exceed in the whole the said sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and that the said Debentures shall be sealed, with the seal of the said Municipal Council, and be signed by the said Warden and countersigned by the Treasurer of said County.

3. That said Debentures shall be made payable in ten years at the farthest from the day hereinafter mentioned for this By-law to take effect, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality, and shall have attached to them Coupons for the payment of interest.

5. That the said Debentures shall bear interest at and after the rate of six per centum per annum, from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half yearly, on the 15th day of October and the 15th day of April in each year, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality.

5. That for the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said Debentures and the interest at the rate aforesaid to become due thereon, an equal special rate of one half a mill in the dollar shall in addition to all other rates be raised, levied and collected in each year upon the rateable property in said Municipality during the continuance of the said Debentures or any of them.

6. That this By-law shall take effect and come into operation upon the Fifteenth day of October, 1867.

The above is a true copy of a proposed By-law to be taken into consideration by the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, at Peterborough, in the said County, on

LIFE AND WORKS OF ROBERT BURNS,

BY THE

REV. P. HATELY WADDELL,

(Author of the well-known Eulogy on his Genius, and Chairman at the "Cottage" on the Centenary of his Birth).

This addition will be illustrated with Two Portraits of the Poet; with Frontispiece composed of five Scenes selected from the Works or Land of Burns; and with Twenty-five Pictures from Original Drawings—the whole produced in finest Oil Colours, from Engravings by eminent artists, in the highest style of the art.

The prominent Literary characteristic of this edition will be an entirely New Life of the Poet, in the form of a Spiritual Biography, by the Rev. Editor; with much valuable additional matter relating to Burns—including some hitherto unpublished Fragments of the Poet himself, interesting original Reminiscences of his Life, original Notes critical and historical on his Poems, and an Essay on the Progress and Development of the Scottish Language up till his day.

In the department of Illustration, the distinctive feature of every Picture will be its Originality in Design, and its absolute fidelity to nature in every detail of Scenery. The actual spot referred to with all its surroundings, wherever locality constitutes a portion of the picture, will be scrupulously adhered to—so that readers at a distance, natives of Scotland, may recognise in these some transcript of the soil; and strangers may look with confidence on every illustration as a reality. In the same department, the Publisher has the highest satisfaction in being able to announce that he is in a position to reproduce an authentic and most wonderful Likeness of Robert Burns—from the Original Miniature unquestionably, which was painted the year before his death; and of which Burns affirms that it is "the most remarkable likeness of what I am at this moment, that I think ever was taken of any body"—together with a most interesting and beautiful Miniature of his eldest Son, painted at the same time as a pendant to the Poet's likeness. These Portraits which have been lost to the world for seventy-one years, are now in possession of the Rev. P. Hately Waddell; and cannot fail, when presented to the world, to excite universal attention. No Portrait of the Poet known can compare for a moment, in fidelity or force, with this miniature of Burns.

The work will be completed in Seventeen Monthly Parts, Demy 4 to 48 pages, price Half Dollar each. Printed from new type upon the finest printing paper.

The great care and beauty with which the above work is being got up will make it an ornament most suitable for the drawing-rooms alike of the price and of the merchant; whilst the mode of publishing and the price charged will bring it nearly within the reach of every tradesman throughout the world.

"Beyond the sea—beyond the sun:
Till then, and then I love thee!"

CANCERS CURED!

By a new, but certain, speedy, and nearly painless process, and

WITHOUT THE USE OF THE KNIFE.

THE cure will be guaranteed, and, as a proof of this, no pay is required, until the cure is complete. The moment a cancer is discovered, it should be cured, as it will cost less and is more speedily cured than when of longer standing, and there is nothing to gain, and everything to lose by delay. What now seems a harmless lump in the breast, neck, eye-lid or elsewhere, or small wart or mole on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, tormenting, destroying mass of disease. If required, references can be given to parties who have been cured many years since, and who are now sound and healthy. All communications promptly answered. No money required in advance, and none until the cure is complete.

AYER'S

CATHARTIC PILLS.

Are you sick, feeble, and ailing? Have you taken all the usual remedies, and tried all the usual modes of relief, without finding health? Then you should know that the Cathartic Pills of Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co. are designed to meet just such cases as yours. They are compounded on the principle that the blood is the life, and that all diseases arise from impurity of the blood, excepting the third stage of Consumption. In the whole Materia Medica, perhaps there is no other remedy that will be found so efficacious, or a short time, to have produced as great a number of thorough and permanent cures, over restored in health to the former recovers and notoriety, we defy humanity to dispute the fact, that this, the Great Shoshonees Remedy, in connection with the Shoshonees Vegetable Restorative Pills, is the Remedy of Remedies of the 19th Century, and the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS.

THEIR all-pervading Great Indian Remedy is wanted, and in broad and emphatic language, we can safely say may be applied more to make a permanent cure of all Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive Organs, &c., as well as Scrofula, the various Skin Diseases, Humors, and all diseases arising from impurity of the Blood, excepting the third stage of Consumption. In the whole Materia Medica, there Anti-Great Remedy has been in use for a short time, it has produced effected cures of the most Marvellous Curse, ever recorded in annals of Historical Medicine. Such being the case, in addition to the former recovers and notoriety, we defy humanity to dispute the fact, that this, the Great Shoshonees Remedy, in connection with the Shoshonees Vegetable Restorative Pills, is the Remedy of Remedies of the 19th Century, and the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

ASTONISHING! ASTOUNDING!! CONFOUNDING!!! BUT TRUE.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF

CONSUMPTION

BY THE

GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY IN CANADA.

MESSRS. Y. & C.—GENTLEMEN:—I Wilson Storms, of Brighton, C. W., make oath and say,—I feel anxious to let you know what the Great Shoshonees Remedy has effected for me. My wife was afflicted with consumption and died; I was also afflicted with the same disease, and after her death I continued sinking just as she had done. I had very severe night sweats; coughed nearly all night and every night; could not sleep unless a little towards morning. I raised over a quart of matter every 24 hours; had severe pain in the left lung, &c., &c., and was greatly debilitated. In fact I was going as fast as I could. I was taking medicine from a regular physician, but it did not even relieve my cough. I went to the village one day about a quarter of a mile, which took me to go and come about two hours.—While there I saw Esq., Wellington, and happened to say to him, "I wish you could give me something to relieve my cough." He said "There is the Great Indian Remedy just introduced; Dr. Barker has it for sale, and I believe it will cure you." I took his advice, and brought a bottle home with me; took a tablespoonful at once, which I felt through my whole system; at night I took a tablespoonful, and rested well all night, and continued to rest well every night. The Cough, Night Sweats, Raising of matter, Pain in the Lung, &c., gradually left me, and I got hearty and strong. I took only three bottles. I am not taking it now, and I am as hearty and as well as ever I was in my life. My sister-in-law was with me for a while, who was effected with the Liver Complaint. She has taken the remedy, and is well. This certificate you may show to the world if you please.

Poetry.

THE MYSTERY OF NATURE.

The works of God are fair for nought,
Unless our eyes, in musing,
Can hidden in the thing the thought
That animates its being.

The outward part is not the whole,
But every part is moulded
To unfold its inward part
Wholly or unfolded.

The shadow, pictured in the lake
By cagey bats, flags trembles,
Is cast for more than just the sake
Of that which it resembles.

The dew falls nightly, not alone
Because the meadows need it,
But on an errand of its own
To human souls that need it.

The stars are lighted in the skies,
Not merely for their shining,
But, like the looks of loving eyes,
Have meaning worth divining.

The waves that moan along the shore,
The winds that sigh in blowing,
Are sent to teach a mystic love
Which men are wise in knowing.

The clouds around the mountain peak,
The rivers in their winding,
Have secrets which, to all who seek,
Are precious in the finding.

Thus nature dwells within our reach,
But, though we stand so near her,
We still interpret half her speech
With ears too dull to hear her.

Whoever, at the coarsest sound,
Still listens for the finest,
Shall hear the noisy world go round
To music the divinest.

Whoever yearneth one sight
Because his heart is tender,
Shall catch a glimpse of heavenly light
In every earthly splendor.

So, since the universe began,
And till it shall be ended,
The soul of Nature, soul of Man,
The soul of God are blended!

THE POWER OF LOVE.

From the upper window of a tall house was one day seen, in a crowded street a mule in a cart, and the driver with a stick in his hand. The mule had evidently been insulted, if not assaulted, and his dignity thereby much offended. This had so aroused his temper, as to make him, for a time disobedient to the commands of his master. He was as deaf to threats as he seemed callous to the blows freely dealt across his ribs by the driver.

Matters, however, soon came to a crisis: for such treatment was not to be borne; so, not even by a mule, accustomed as he is to cruelty in all its forms. The mule decided, under the circumstances, not to pull the cart round therefore he came to a stand still in front of our window. The mule seemed quite determined that he would not; and his master seemed equally resolved that go he should, and, and go he must make him. The stick was now more freely applied than ever to the poor mule's back, but to no purpose; for move he would not. "You shall go!" said his master; and thereupon he got out of the cart, laid hold of the bridle, and, with all his might, pulled at his head.

It was now a matter of main force between the two, but the mule proved the stronger; for, instead of the master pulling the mule, the mule pulled the master in an opposite direction.

Now the people began to stand and look, till a crowd assembled. Some seemed very much to enjoy the contest. Some said the mule was right, others the man was right; and those that thought the mule was wrong went to help the man to make the mule go. Some got behind the cart, others laid hold of the wheels, while the master tugged away at the poor creature's head. By the united strength of the whole, the poor mule was overcome, and on he went a few yards.

The mule thought it was all right now.—They had got the victory and seen him go, and they left the cart to see the result.—But no; the mule was only overcome by superior force. His determination not to go was the same as ever; and, when they ceased to push he ceased to go. The men got tired, or could not wait to see the end, and went on about their own business, which, perhaps, they were more able to settle than they were the mule's.

No sooner did those who first formed the crowd go than others came up to look, and to ask, "What's the matter?"

"Matter enough?" says one: does'n you see that's the mule that won't go? and the master don't know how to make him."

"His master's old enough to know," says another; "but perhaps he won't be told."

The old man overheard this, and in a pettish tone said, "You can't tell me."

"Well, perhaps not; but I think I could show you if you give me the stick."

"Well, here's the stick. Now do it."

Upon this the stick changed hands: and it was time it had; for the contest had lasted from four o'clock to half-past five. One hour and a half lost, and the mule in that time had only been violently pushed along some fifty yards. All thought the new driver was going upon the old tack of physical force and hard blows. No, no: there had been too much of that already; and he wanted to try a power that had not yet been brought to bear. That power was in the law of kindness. He took the stick, and shewed it to the mule, and then in the mule's sight laid it on the ground, and then went up to the poor creature and patted his neck, and stroked his nose, and looked into his face with a smile, and spoke words in a very kind, soothing tongue. A carrot top was begged of the green grocer close by, and offered.

At first, the mule was not inclined to take it; but with a little more stroking and patting, and soothing and kind words, he took it and ate it, and looked around for more. His ears look now evidently pricking away, and he was beginning to evince his usual aspect. A little more was given him. The bridle was taken off, and put on again. The new driver again pulled and stroked the nose, and with kind words, laid hold of the bridle with a very gentle forward movement; to which the poor mule immediately answered, and off it went with a will and a purpose to serve faithfully under the new law of kindness, but as ready as ever to resist the old practice of brute force. Brave! shouted some when they saw the mule so susceptible of kindness, and the man so successful in administering it.—Well-Spring.

HOP CULTURE.

A correspondent of the Prairie Farmer gives the following as the result of his experiments in the culture of hops:—

In the fall of 1864, I broke two acres of timothy sod, and in the spring following ploughed two acres of corn stubbles adjoining, making four acres. I dragged down smooth, took a cord the size of a bedcord, stretched it across the north side of my proposed yard, where I wanted the first row of hops, fastened at each end with steel stakes driven in the ground. I then, with a twine needle, drew some red yarn through the cord, at distances eight feet apart, cutting the yarn so as to leave one inch projecting on each side of the cord.—Then, with a man and some sticks prepared, one foot long, we started at the same time from each end of the line, and stuck one stick at each red yarn until we met in the centre of the cord. We went back, pulled up the stakes, moved south eight feet, drove stakes again, and pinned off as before, and so to the end. Then, with a spade, on the south side of each pin, and four inches from it, one took out about a foot square and spade deep, filling the hole up with pulverized soil; the other following with a basket of roots, took three pieces in one hand, the eyes up, made a hole with the other hand, put the roots in, tramping the soil nicely about them, leaving them covered about two inches deep. We put in the male plants, commencing with the fifth hill from the edge, then every tenth hill, each way, throughout the yard. Two men will in this way set two acres per day. As soon as the hops began to show themselves, I took refuse hoop poles from the barrel factories and stuck one in each hill. I then planted one row of corn between each row of hops and between each hill of hops the other way planted potatoes. I harvested 80 bushels of shelled corn, 150 of potatoes, and 200 pounds of hops. The hops I sold for $150. These crops more than paid all expenses thus far.

In the winter of 1865 and 1866 I prepared 2000 tamarac hop poles from 16 to 18 feet long, at the cost of $90 per thousand, sharpened; as soon as the soil would do to work in the spring, I set three poles to a hill, except about 600 hills; to these I set but two poles; by this time the vines were large enough to be tied to the poles; this is done by women, winding two of the largest and best vines with the sun round the poles, and tying carefully with yarn string. In case some of the hills are not far enough along, they are left to the second tying; this tying must be followed up until two good vines are growing up each pole. At this stage I worked the ground thoroughly with the cultivator, both ways, and hoed it, at the same time covering up all surplus vines, except one or two to each hill left to replace any that might be broken; if not needed by the next time of cultivating, they were cut off. I thus cultivated and hoed my yard three times during the season.

In the summer of 1866 I built my hop-house—also used as a carriage-house, granary, tool and ice-house—30x40 feet with 16 feet studding; the kiln is 20 feet from out-side to inside, the other half of the building for storing. I had also made ten hop boxes with compartments in each, each compartment holding seven bushels.

On the 5th of September I commenced picking, with 40 hands, all women except one man to two boxes to pull poles. I finished picking on the 19th, picking the four acres in eleven working days.

The yield of hops and what they netted me is set forth in the heading of my letter. The following is a recapitulation of expenditures and process:

7,000 tamarac poles at $30 per M	$630 00
Setting poles, tying up vines and cultivating	25 00
Hop-house	400 00
Stove-pipes, one-half of press, ten hop boxes	100 00
Harvesting, drying, baling, wood and sacking	767 00
Ten days' man and team, drawing manure from village (which cost only the drawing) to cover hops	40 00
Six months' interest on capital, depreciation on poles, buildings, &c., (15 per cent) and $10 per acre for the use of land	101 00
	$2,215 00
Amount received for crop	$4,460 00
Net profits	$2,245 00

A Scene at the Gate of Paradise.

A poor tailor on being released from a troublesome world and a scolding wife, appeared at the gate of Paradise, Peter asked him if he ever been to purgatory.

"No," said the tailor, "but I have been married."

"Oh," said Peter, "that is all the same."

The tailor had scarcely got in before a fat, turtle-eating Alderman came along puffing and blowing.

"Hallo! you fellow," said he, open that door."

"Not so fast," said Peter. "Have you ever been in purgatory?"

"No," said the alderman, "but what's that got to do with the purpose? You let in that poor, half-starved tailor, and he has been no more in purgatory than myself."

"But he has been married," said Peter.

"Married!" exclaimed the alderman, "why I've been married twice."

"Then go back again," said Peter, "Paradise is no place for fools."

Speaking of George III, Erskine remarked that what we call firmness in a king we call obstinacy in a donkey.

A Temperance Story with a Point.

From Ohio comes the following temperance story of the "Drawer" of Harper's Magazine:

Judge Ray, the temperance lecturer, in one of his efforts here, got of the following hard hit at "moderate Drinkers."

"All those who in youth acquire a habit of drinking whiskey, at forty years of age will be total abstainers or drunkards. No man can use whiskey for years with moderation. If there is a person in the audience disputes this, let him make it known. I will account for it, or acknowledge that I am mistaken."

A tall, large man arose, and folding his arms across his breast, said:

"I offer myself as one whose experience contradicts your statement."

"Are you a moderate drinker asked the Judge.

"I am."

'How long have you drank in moderation.'

"Forty years."

"And were never intoxicated."

"Never."

"Well," remarked the Judge, Scanning his subject closely from head to foot, "yours is a singular case; yet I think it is easily accounted for. I am reminded by it of a little story. A colored man, with a loaf of bread and a bottle of whiskey, sat down to dine on the bank of a clear stream. In breaking the bread, he dropped some of the crumbs into the water. These were eagerly seized and eaten by the fish. That circumstance suggested to the darkey the idea of dipping the bread into the whiskey, and feeding it to them. He tried it. It worked well. Some of the fish eat of it, became drunk, and floated helpless on the surface. In this way he easily caught a large number. But in the stream was a large fish, very unlike the rest. It partook freely of the bread and whiskey, with no perceptible effect. It was shy of every effort of the darky to take it. He resolved to have it at all hazards, that he might learn its name and nature. He procured a net and after much effort, caught it, carried it to a colored neighbor, and asked his opinion in the matter. The other surveyed the wonder a moment, and then said:—"Sambo, I understand this cause. Dis fish is mullet-head; it ain't got any brains!"

"In other words," added the Judge, "alcohol affects only the brain, and of course, those having none may drink without injury."

A TERRIBLE MURDER.

A crime has been committed in England at Alton, in the county of Hampshire, which for brutality throws all recent murders into the shade. A band of children were playing in a meadow near Alton Church, when a young man passing by distributed some coppers among the group. He then spoke to a pretty little child about eight years of age named Adams, and, according to the story of the other children, endeavored to get her to accompany him into a hop plantation close at hand. She was evidently reluctant to do so, and the man carried her off in his arms. Later in the day the little girl was missed by her parents, and on search being made the first indications of foul play was the discovery of a pool of blood near the entrance to the plantation. A little further on the searchers came upon the dismembered head of the poor child, which rested on a hop pole, then on a portion of her trunk cut open, and the heart scooped out and then on one arm, leaving the lower part of the trunk and the other arm undiscovered.

From information gleaned from the children a young man employed in a solicitor's office in Alton was arrested on suspicion and a verdict of wilful murder was returned against him by a coroner's jury. In fact there seems no doubt that he was the criminal. When he was arrested his clothes were all bloody, and in a pocket book found in his desk was discovered the entry made upon the day of the murder, "killed a young child to day. Weather dry and warm."

There is little doubt that the perpetrator of the dreadful deed had first indecently assaulted the deceased, and afterwards had totally burnt the unfortunate child to pieces. The father of the victim is a bricklayer living at Alton, close by the spot where the murder took place.

NATIONAL SALUTATIONS.

Nothing affords more interest and amusement than an examination of the various modes of salutation practised by the various nations of the earth. To a certain degree these forms may be regarded as a particular index of national character, or the circumstance of national life.

The Hebrew salutation was "Peace."

With the old Greeks the form was "Rejoice."

The Romans used to salute each other with "Be healthy—be strong" and sometimes with, "What doest thou."

In France they say "How do you carry yourself?"

In Germany, 'How do you find yourself?'

In Spain, "How goes it?"

In Italy, "How do you stand?"

In Holland, "How do you fare?" and sometimes, 'Have you had a good dinner.'

In the West Indies, the negroes say, "Have you had a good sleep?"

In Poland the most common salutation is, "Art thou gay?"

A common salutation in Russia, which means literally "God be with you," has degenerated of late years into the opposite, "Devil take you."

In the sickly districts of Egypt, where fevers are common and dangerous, they salute one by singing, "How goes the perspiration?"

In China they ask, "Have you eaten your rice?"

Among the many forms used by the Turks and Arabs, are the following:—"May your morning be good," "God grant thee favors," "If God will, thou art well," used by the latter; and "Be under the care of God," "My prayers are for thee," "Forget me not in your prayers," used by the former.

BE IT WELL.

"There, that'll do," said Harry, throwing down the shoe brush, "my boots don't look very bright. No matter. Who cares?

"Whatever is worth doing is worth doing well," replied a serious but pleasant voice.

Harry started and turned round to see whom spoke. It was his father. Harry blushed. His father said,—"Harry, my boy, your boots look wonderfully! Pick up your brush and make them shine. When they look as they should, come to me in the library."

"Yes, pa," replied Harry, pouting, and taking up his brush in no very good humor, and brushing the dull boots until they shone nicely. When the boots were polished, he went to his father, who said to him,—

"My son, I want to tell you a short story. I once knew a poor boy whose mother taught him the proverb, 'Whatever is worth doing is worth doing well.' That boy went to be a servant in a gentleman's family. He took pains to do everything well, no matter how trivial it seemed.—His employer was pleased and took him into his shop. He did his work well there.

"When he swept out the shop he did that well. When he was sent an errand, he went quickly, and did his errand faithfully. In breaking the bread, he dropped some of the crumbs into the water. These were eagerly seized and eaten by the fish. That circumstance suggested to the darkey the idea of dipping the bread into the whiskey, and feeding it to them. He tried it. It worked well. Some of the fish eat of it, became drunk, and floated helpless on the surface. In this way he easily caught a large number. But in the stream was a large fish, very unlike the rest. In Poland the most common salutation is, "Art thou gay?"

A common salutation in Russia, which means literally "God be with you," has degenerated of late years into the opposite, "Devil take you."

In the sickly districts of Egypt, where fevers are common and dangerous, they salute one by singing, "How goes the perspiration?"

In China they ask, "Have you eaten your rice?"

Among the many forms used by the Turks and Arabs, are the following:—"May your morning be good," "God grant thee favors," "If God will, thou art well," used by the latter; and "Be under the care of God," "My prayers are for thee," "Forget me not in your prayers," used by the former.

Friend Don't Swear.

A little boldness, united with gentle courtesy, may win the esteem of bad men, and lead many to refuge. The silence of professing Christians in the presence of open sin is cowardly, and ought to inspire in them an honest shame. The following incident is suggestive:

A pious young tradesman, living in a low part of a provincial town, was constantly grieved by the unmanly and wicked habit of swearing which was practiced by many of his customers. He at length hung up a board behind his counter, on which was printed the words, "Friend, don't swear!" On an oath being uttered, the tradesman would kindly direct the attention of his customer to the board, and, in the most affectionate, yet serious manner, point out the fearful consequences of breaking God's law. "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord, thy God, in vain, for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain."

In a short time swearing was entirely abolished, not only in that shop, but in many of the homes and workshops in the neighborhood.

THE LARGEST CITY IN THE WORLD.—A very erroneous idea is indulged in by many people, in relation to the largest city in the world; many confidently assert that London is far superior, both in size and the Annual Meeting of the Provincial Agricultural Society.

The Meeting of Delegates took place on the Grounds, at eleven o'clock, on Friday. There was a very large number of Gentlemen present. After the Meeting was organized by seeing that none but Delegates were present, the business commenced. As the resolutions passed are more or less long, we shall endeavor to appreciate them.

Thomas Stock, Esq., was chosen President of the Association.

James Nimmo, Esq., was elected 1st Vice President.

John Walton, Esq., of Peterborough, was elected 2nd Vice President.

R. L. Denison, Esq., was re-elected Treasurer.

H. C. Thodeon, Esq., who re-elected Secretary.

All by acclamation.

The Place of next year's Meeting is therefore.

Votes of thanks were passed to

The President,

The Secretaries and Treasurer,

The Managers of the Reformatories long discussed was had about including the Proprietors of Steamboats, but it was rejected.)

The Mayor and Corporation of Kingston, the Wardens and County Council, and the Local Committee.

A proposition to change the day of the Annual Meeting to Thursday was rejected, being out of order.

A letter was read from the President of the Lower Canada Association, suggesting the propriety of an Intercolonial Exhibition. Laid over.

Col. Denison brought forward and carried a motion, for a Meeting of one Delegate from each Society, to meet in November next at Toronto, to take into consideration a New Agricultural Bill to suit the altered circumstances of the country. The Societies to defray the expenses of the Delegates. This motion was generally approved of, and we trust will be carried out for a new Bill.

Clerical vs, Lay Politicans.

The functions of a minister of religion are to preach the Gospel, and enforce the practical requirements of love and justice between man and man; not to enter the political field and, if he do not fight himself, to point out who here and there shall be the special object of attack, and be stricken down. Moreover; however much superior in point of intelligence the priesthood may have been in the past, such superiority no longer exists in free countries. Kings need no longer select from the hierarchy of the church a minister of State. They rather turn towards the lords temporal, or cast their regards towards some great commoner, when they would draw extraordinary assistance to their counsels. The people have their political guides, more fitted, from experience in State affairs; more conversant with the world, and the requirements of the country,—than he whose life is spent in an episcopal palace, and whose attention is—or ought to be—occupied by the spiritual necessities of his diocese. The flock in the present day, may, without any disparagement, be more justifiably wise than the shepherd. The may read them to the most limpid sentiments of spiritual truth, and the most wholesome and nutritious moral barbarge; but he may not arrogate to himself any privilege of authority, to point out to them pasturably "fresh fields and pastures new." No wise minister of religion will go out of his clerical way to do this; nor did Archbishop Conolly's head-book-letter-and-words to McGee, in our opinion, win that gentleman one vote.—[Montreal Witness.

Impending Astonishment.

Under such a mildly exciting as this, the New York Tribune makes bold to discourse in such words as these:—

"During a political career of no inconsiderable length, during many years by no common waning in affairs of great public interest, we have never known the general mind to be in a more apprehensive and unsatisfactory condition. The clouds of peace are heavier than were the clouds of war. Whether it be the fault or the misfortune of the President, he has contrived to make the community exceedingly uncomfortable, nor is the tone of those newspapers which profess to speak for him to any extent reassuring; for his organs are full of frightful hints and alarming premonitions. It is publicly intimated by one of his friends that "he will meet the attempt to coerce him from his position in a manner that will astonish every-body." The National Intelligencer officially announces the limits of judicial authority, and advises the President to adopt an attitude of open hostility, if necessary, to the Supreme Court. Hints like these are not lost upon the community and already the most respectable portion of the press is beginning to speak gravely of the possibility of an attempt to disperse congress by force of arms, of a new revolution, of an unprecedented usurpation, of a coup d'etat, and of an illegal appeal to the country. There is a talk of ten thousand men in Maryland called militia, armed and under the command of rebel officers; there are fears that if voters fail, the President will rely upon mercenary bayonets; and men already compare Johnson with Cromwell, and congress scattered by the Protector. This is a kind of danger which we have never before encountered."

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The following particulars of the recent movements of Garibaldi have been received from Italy. While in prison at Alessandria, Garibaldi persistently refused to give his parole not to engage in any hostile enterprise against the Papal States. Meanwhile the Italian government, hoping to allay the popular excitement caused by his arrest, gave orders for the transfer of the prisoner to his home at Caprera without insisting a parole. The General was accordingly taken to the island, where he was apparently set at liberty, so soon after his arrival he suddenly disappeared and succeeded in reaching the main land; but as his movement had been carefully watched, he was again arrested, and sent back to Caprera, where he now remains under guard a prisoner in his own house.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The steamer Quaker City, with the American excursion party has arrived at Alexandria, Egypt. All well.

It is stated that Sir Augustus B. Paget, the present British Minister at Florence, will be appointed Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sir Frederick Bruce.

Bullion in the Bank of England has increased £500,000 since our last report.

COMMISSIONER OF CROWN LANDS.—The hurry of last week prevented us from mentioning as a certainty, that Mr. Stephen Richards has no intention of resigning his Commissionership of Crown Lands, but will take his seat in Parliament shortly after the Legislature assembles. It was the Mess which set that silly story afloat, and without the slightest foundation in fact, we pronounced it a fabrication, because, unless as an exception, do not receive official news.—ib.

RIOTS IN ITALY.

There have been several riots in this, at present, distracted country. Some of them, it is said, have been caused by the belief that the cholera, which now rages there, is caused by poisoning the water or wells; others attribute the excesses to the intrigues of the Bourbons and other clerical leaders, who hold strong feelings against the Government, and take this manner of exciting rebellion. At Ardore, in Calabria, on the appearance of the cholera, the populace assembled and destroyed a drug shop, and butchered the whole family. Garzoni, a military officer, who attempted to put a stop to the riot was trampled on by the mob and killed; six soldiers were also severely wounded. At Polentino, on the 5th ultimo, the people surrounded the house of one Sabelino, and finding some poison that he used for killing rats, they ordered it to be thrown to some pigs, and these of course dying, the mob rushed on the inmates and put them to death. The officers endeavored to explain the matter to them but they would not hear them. In some places it was thought that the poisoners went about and blew the poison through the key holes. Many of the people died, but those who remained kept firing their muskets out of the windows and doors to prevent the poison from entering, or with intent of paralyzing its action. There appears to be a general spirit of discontent among the peasants, and this strengthened by their ignorance is doing much to hurry the revolutionary spirit that now hangs over Italy threatens to burst upon that fair land. Garribaldi, too, is still urging them to rise and free the land of what he considers the cause of all these troubles. If the people are allowed to go on without foreign interference, there will be troublesome times in Italy ere long.

THE UNITED STATES.

This country is considerably agitated just now, but this may be owing in some degree to the elections at the present time. The Republican party do not look upon Andy Johnson as the bean ideal of a President; impeachment is still threatened, and counter threats of using the power of the President to oppose it. The South is not entirely reconciled nor is it likely to be for some time yet. The policy of the North is not conciliatory; they still trust the Southerners as conquered rebels, and the South is slow to come into the union again upon the terms dictated. If they of both North and South do not take care their great Republic may have another ordeal to pass through. Why does the ruling party not soothe rather than inflame their brethren of the South? Oil is better than vinegar for working reconciliation.

There are general fears of war in Europe again. France is not wholly free from alarm on account of the rising power of Prussia and the designs of Count Bismarck. A circular of Bismarck is the pretence for various newspaper articles in France, in reference to the intentions and behemed of the Prussian minister. It is also hinted slightly that any action on the part of Napoleon in Italian affairs may afford Bismarck a favorable opportunity for carrying out his great idea of German unification under Prussia. Be this as it may, the wholesome dread of the Prussian needle gun may deter Napoleon from meddling in Italian private quarrels, and if so, Italian unity is not far distant, whence will also follow the loss of the temporal power, a thing so long contended for by the ruling power of Italy.

BARBARITIES IN WALLACE.—In our last we gave some account of the way the election was conducted in North Perth, but the worst was not related. The foul deeds who acted so villainously at the polls were not satisfied with abusing electors, they actually committed a most brutal act by stabbing the horse of a Mr. Wm. Hemsworth. They stuck a knife into the bowels of the animal, the knife entering under the tail and inflicting a most dangerous wound. What dastardly fiends in human form they must have been, and yet even the opponents of Mr. Hemsworth declare he is an honest, inoffending man. The entire community should testify their indignation at such a deed by ferretting out its perpetrator and dragging him to punishment.

Union School.

The Board has, we believe, made choice of a Principal to fill the place vacated by Mr. King. Mr. Dixon, of Colborne, is the successful applicant. We think the selection is a good one, and one that will be for the interest of the whole school. Mr Dixon has been in Colborne about 12 years and during that period has given entire satisfaction. Indeed, he did not contemplate leaving at all, but some here who have a deep interest in the school thought that he would be a very suitable and efficient Principal and solicited him to apply, and now that he is appointed we feel assured that the Board have made a good choice. He may not be able to keep Dollhope for beauty a month; but it is certainly better to wait that length of time than to take one who is not famous Harvest Agricultural Show.

The above show was held on Tuesday last. We were not present, but learned that there was a large crowd present. The entries were not quite as many as in former years. The ploughing match and the different departments were well filled. The show of cattle was not large, but there were some fine animals present. The show of horses was also small, the number of entries being 200 more here being on the books. With this number of members it is unfortunate to have only so few in the number of entries.

To Teachers.

There will be a preliminary meeting in Ashburnham, on Saturday the 19th instant, at two o'clock, for the purpose of organizing a Teachers' Association for the western part of the county. A full attendance is requested.

There will also be a meeting in Norwood on the 26th instant, for the purpose of forming a similar association for the eastern portion of the county.

Literary Club.

There will be a meeting of the members of the Peterboro' Literary Club in the Firemen's Hall, on Thursday evening, the 17th instant. A full attendance is requested as business of importance will be brought before the Club. Persons wishing to become members are also requested to be present.

Horse Fair.

The annual Horse Fair of the Peterboro Turf Club will be held on Wednesday and Thursday, 16th and 17th instant, when a number of prizes will be offered for competition on style and speed. For particulars see bills.

The Editor of the Review and Mr. John Carroll have fallen foul of each other, as our readers all know, in their quarrel we have given Mr. Carroll room to reply to the Review's attacks against him, not because Mr. Carroll was even friendly to us in any way, but because we believed it simple justice.—Indeed, Mr. Carroll and Mr. Poole were the case tates. The Editor, however, now feels a little of his own measure meted out to him again, and, of course, whines about "the aid of a press (which publishes Mr. C's. scurrulous productions with signatures ingeniously false and misleading). For the public information we assert that the above remarks are entirely false. Mr. Carrol has uniformly signed his own communications, and in no instance has he inserted a name or directed any one to do so for him. All assertions to the contrary are untrue.

The Reformers of West Durham entertained their late representative, Mr. Mowat, at a banquet yesterday. Several of the leading men of the party were to be present, and among them the Hon. George Brown. We have not yet received particulars.

Today is a day of thanksgiving in the Church of England, by order of the Lord Bishop of Toronto, for the late abundant harvest.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

The County Council met on Tuesday.

Present—Messrs. Walton, Gardner, Dunlop, Pearce, S. S. Peck, P. Peck, Carroll, Chase, Jones, Young, Whalen, Lang, Miller and Coughlin.

In the absence of the Warden, the Clerk requested the members present to appoint a chairman.

P. Pearce, Esq., was accordingly appointed chairman, and the minutes were read approved.

Mr. Pearce then explained the cause of the Warden's absence, viz., that being the agricultural show day at Norwood, and Mr. Grover being one of the principal managers, he could not easily get away. And another reason was, that there had been arrangements of some intended row on the day of the show, and Mr. Grover thought it best to remain in order to put a stop to such a thing, if attempted.

Mr. Carroll then remarked that the subject of the conjoint outlay of Dummer and Douro, on the line between these townships, might now be taken up, and enquired what information the parties interested could now afford to the Council.

Mr. Chase asked if the County Engineer had examined the line, as was partly agreed at the last session, and if so, can he now report.

Various members spoke expressing the idea that Dummer should have got the Engineer to examine the line, but they never thought the county should bear the expense.

Mr. Choate thought that was just the way to bark the whole matter; the road, he thought, was a county road, and should be seen to by the County Council. The council of Dummer had not ordered the Engineer to examine it.

Mr. Clark said he did not think the council of Douro; they did not want the road.

Mr. Carroll did not wish to bark the matter, but thought the Reeve of Dummer, chiefly interested, should have been the reporter.

Mr. Walton did not wish to bark the matter, but cordially did not thank the County Council should bear any expense.

Mr. Choate then explained that Mr. Stewart, County Engineer, had promised, if possible, to examine the line, so as to be able to report during the present session.

Mr. Pearce read a communication from Mr. Cameron, Agent of the Canada Land and Emigration Company, in reference to the Buckhorn road, offering to expend $400 on that road through Minden and Harvey, if the Council would grant an equal sum.

Mr. Cameron, being present, was heard before the Council. He remarked that already the Company had spent money in improving roads through government townships, but, of course, with the view to improve the means of ingress and egress of their own lands; and on the same principle they were willing now to grant $400 on the above conditions, believing that that sum would open up the road satisfactorily.

The communication was referred to the committee on Roads and Bridges.

On motion of Mr. Carroll, seconded by Mr. Gardner,—The subject of repairing the bridge across the big shoot at Burleigh, was also referred to the same committee; and a similar motion of Mr. Peck's, referred the matter of repairing the bridge across Gull River at Minden village, to the committee.

Mr. Pearce referred to an application that had been made to him by Mr. John Reid, P.L.S., claiming that he had never been appointed County Engineer, and complaining that another has since been appointed. Mr. Pearce, at the same time remarked, that he always understood the Council could appoint whomsoever they should, and no appointment contained longer than to the appointment is necessary.

Mr. Walton had also been spoken to by (Mr. P.) and told him that he (Mr. W.) was a County Engineer also, observing that such an officer was not needed, and calling attention to the fact that the Committee on Roads and Bridges had previously to report on the Town land done in the matter.

Mr. Carroll moved, seconded by Mr. Chase, that the Committee on Roads and Bridges be instructed to report on the Town land done in the matter.

Mr. Walton moved, seconded by Mr. Carroll, that the By-law to aid the Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora Railway Co. to the amount of $20,000, $10,000 towards opening that road, Railway to Peterboro' and $10,000 towards completing the road to Mud Lake, be read a third time.

The steamer Prince of Peterboro, while on her way from Cobourg was burned to the water's edge. The cargo was saved, but the vessel is entirely destroyed. The loss of the steamer is estimated at $10,000, and the cargo at $5,000. The vessel was insured for $4,000 in the Royal Canadian.

Captain Morse of the Tiger, says that about noon of ninth or the morning of September 27th the engine suddenly stopped. The first and second officers were on deck at the time. They went below to ascertain what was the matter, when it was found the ship was on fire. An alarm was given, and the crew and passengers were soon on deck.—There was but little excitement, and a force was soon organized for the purpose of extinguishing the flames. In half an hour an explosion was heard in the engine room. On going down it was found that the steam pipe leading from the main boiler to the donkey engine had exploded, killing the engineer, a coal passenger, and the other who had been working at the donkey engine. The sounds of death for a few moments subdued the damps.

Four boats were lowered, and passengers and provisions transferred to them. This had scarcely been done when the Rapidan opportunely appeared and took the passengers on board. The small boats returned to the Tiger, and by this time the fire had extinguished the flames, and were down, when by cutting a hole through the deck, it was found that the cotton was on fire, and leaving with a ferociousness that precluded all hopes of saving the vessel. The baggage and personal effects of the passengers were taken out, and at last accounts of course the Tiger was abandoned.

The cargo was chiefly coals, although there was some dishes on board. The bodies of the men killed could not be recovered.

COBOURG.—Mr. Meadows advertises in this issue of the Sentinel, the completion of his flouring mills and Barrel Factory; he has gone to a great deal of expense in fitting this Factory up, and feels assured he must in time Peterboro' Factory and others wanting Whitings to Port Hope can always find a supply at this town. He is also advertising for several thousand cords of excepting timber, also his advertisement continued longer than to the appointment is necessary.

THE RAILWAY QUESTION.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR:—

The Globe of last week is [illegible] in the "Railway question," pleased to say, that the Examiner and Review had joined issue on the Railway question, &c. Sir, [illegible] the style in which the Globe has thought proper to treat the Railway question, I have not considered it worth while to notice it, but as you have thought proper to introduce it into your columns, I will now do so.

The Globe says that the Review has stated that I took part in the Railway meeting held in the town hall; if not, I request, in the most unqualified manner, that you contradict it. Another charge is that I "appeared for a couple of weeks in Guelph to Parish for the purpose of assisting in the election of Robert McFarlane, Esq., who I am happy to say, was successful. But if I opposed the government in supporting that gentleman, how is it that the Review claims him as a supporter of the government while Sept 20th? Wherein, where are they? the inconsistency. Again, the model Editor asserts that "a petition has been got up against my business among the outside of the Burleigh Road, asking the government to remove me to office; false again; nothing of the kind has ever been thought of, certainly not by me, for one reason among others, namely, that it is not necessary. I could prove positively that I never heard a word of this alleged petition until I saw the statement in relation to it in the Review. In order, however, that I should be in a position to "speak by the book," I addressed a letter to E. M. Hall, Esq., Clerk of the Municipality of Burleigh, in relation to it, and tobelved the following reply which speaks for itself:—

APSLEY, October 7th, 1867.

JOHN CARROLL, Esq.

Crown Land Agent, Peterborough.

DEAR SIR,—I am in receipt of your note of the 4th instant requesting whether a petition to the Government in relation to you has been circulated for signatures on the Burleigh Road, and I beg to state in reply that I have no such petition in my possession and have heard of no such movement. If any such movement was undertaken in opposition to you, I would be pleased to know it, as you have in many of it, good off I have not. I have no intention in saying this I believe this report is quite untrue.

I am, dear sir,

Yours truly,

EDWARD B. HALL.

A certain clever newspaper writer speaks of Hockey as a variety of the Poole type as manufacturers of "flap doodle stuff to feed fools on," and certainly, Mr. Editor, Poole must imagine that his readers have an extra dinary capacity for the article, seeing that he serves them with fresh large and continuous doses of it. There is not, perhaps, in the whole Dominion, a parallel instance of a man publishing with bold effrontery to publish from week to week, statements intended to disparage and injure a private individual, but which have not a single particle of proof to rest upon. His purpose evidently is to lie steadily and continuously, and when called to account merely endeavor to back up his falsehoods by publishing fresh batches. Here is an instance: in his last issue he charges me with "appealing to the sympathies of the public as a persecuted individual who is about to become a martyr for his adherence to his political opinions." These are his exact words. Now, if I have made any such appeal to the public, certainly the public must be aware of it. If the statement is true, it is a very easy matter to furnish proof of it, and I challenge this crazy Reeler, who so recklessly makes the assertion, to produce the proof.—Where, and where did I orally or through the press appeal to the public? Caught a rash, slanderer "I have maligned my own clergyman," so says the Editor of the Review. Ah, hypocrite and humbug! Did I ever choose to make the Church of which I am proud to be a humble member, and its Ministers, a subject to be bandied in a newspaper communication. I could nail you. What use have you made of confidential communications? Shame! My politics, too, are ventilated in a manner to suit himself, and best calculated, to his opinion, to evoke prejudice against me, by it is man of all principles and of no principle. If I am a Reformer, that certainly should be no objection in his eyes, seeing that at times he professes to hold similar views. A few weeks ago he contemplated starting a Reform journal, and had gone so far as to write a prospectus, and commenced to canvass for support for it.

Mr. Poole—Editor in the shade—says he is not aware that application has been made to the Government for my removal, altho gh he affirm it could be right in doing so. Well, I can enlighten him—if the attempt has not been already made it is contrary to what Mr. Poole led me to expect. For on the occasion of paying him that Sunday evening visit, on the 7th of July, he assured me earnestly on his own behalf, and on behalf of the other members of the clique, that the attempt would be made unless I promised to yield implicit obedience to the commands of said clique. Conditions which I declined without much ceremony, and in language perhaps more pointed than courteous, but such as the cool impudence of the proposition merited. I deny, however, that the matter was such as he has reported, or that it had any reference to the Conservative party, and less still to the Government. The answer was intended in its entirety for the clique and as a rebuff for the intolerable officiousness of his delegate.

Of a piece with other statements is the insinuation that I am the writer of certain letters which it appears have irritated Mr Editor Poole, by exposing his falsehoods and resenting his wanton insults to the people of the Burleigh Road. In denying the correctness of this insinuation, I merely desire to afford further proof of the little reliance that may be placed on anything this man may utter, and as Mr. Stratton, Editor of the Examiner, is competent to say whether I have or have not written or dictated any communication which has appeared in his columns since the 23th of July, I now call on that gentleman to do so.

I will now leave this man in the hands of the public. There are many, no doubt, who know him better and perhaps more unfavorably than I do, and I appeal to the public, not for sympathy, but for a just verdict on his conduct. I ask all right minded men to say whether it comes within the province of a public journalist to assail a man from week to week in the manner in which I have been assailed. Had I thrust myself before the public, or had I been guilty of any act in an official or private capacity which the public had a right to question or complain of, it would, doubtless, be considered the right of a journalist to canvass the merits of such act in so far as it affected the rights or interests of the public, but no farther. And to the credit of the Press of Canada be it said, that it is seldom a man is found in control of a journal so ignorant, mean, and dishonorable, as not to be capable of recognising and rendering to others their just rights in this respect.

Apologising for the length of this communication,

I remain, &c.,

JOHN CARROLL.

Peterborough, Oct. 9th, 1867.

BURIAL OF SIR FREDERICK BRUCE.—The Episcopal funeral rites took place to-day at eleven o'clock, in Trinity Church, over the remains of Sir Frederick Bruce. The exercises were brief and impressive. The Church was quite full, including the members of the British Legation, the Free Britain Mutual Benefit Society from Canada, foreign consuls, the Mayor and City Council of Boston, and many distinguished persons in civil and military life. The bells of the city churches were tolled during the obsequies. The remains were deposited under the church to await the arrival of the British war steamer Garnets, which has been ordered from Halifax to Boston to convey the body to England.

CORRUPTION AT ELECTIONS.—An instance has come to our knowledge which shows that bribery can go to a considerable length in the purchase of votes. A friend of ours in Toronto employs several workmen, one of whom has a vote in a neighbouring town, where an election contest was progressing. an agent of one of the candidates called upon the voter, and offered him successively $50, $100, and $150, and a free ride to and from the polling place, if he would consent to deposit his vote in favor of Mr. ——. Although the bait was refused, the animus of the transaction was none the less indefensible to those who authorised the offer, and the one who made it.—Canadian Baptist.

LILY LEY.—This is perhaps one of the most wonderful little ladies who ever lived in this good town of Cobourg. She is now three months old, and weighs but little over two pounds,—he weight at birth being only one pound. A gentleman's finger ring can without much difficulty be passed over her hand and up to the elbow; and the general dimensions of her limbs and body are in proportion. On account of the very large numbers who have crowded to see her, it has been decided to charge a small fee for admission. Particulars may be found from advertisement.—Cobourg World.

BERLIN, Oct. 4.—The Berlin Correspondence, a semi-official journal published at this capital, in its issue of to-day, makes the assertion that at the recent meeting of the Emperors Napoleon and Francis Joseph, at Salzburg, an understanding was come to as to the course whom they will support in the succession to Pope Pius IX.

The $60,000 Debentures.—A short time ago, on terms of the Railway Act of 1860 and of the Deed of Settlement, the sum of $60,000, and $6,000 interest, was paid into the Court of Chancery by John H. Dumble, Esq., the Managing Director of the Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora Railway and Mining Company. By this act on the part of the Company, the Town of Cobourg Debentures, issued by the Council on the vote of the ratepayers, are redeemed; and our whole responsibility on their account removed.—World

Over a Million Dollars Saved!

Gentleman:—I had a negro man worth $1,200 who took cold from a bad hurt in the leg, and was useless for over a year. I had used everything I could hear of without benefit, until I tried the Mexican Mustang Liniment—it once effected a permanent cure."

J. P. DOWNING.

Montgomery, Ala., June 17, 1860.

"I take pleasure in recommending the Mexican Mustang Liniment as a valuable and indispensable article for Humans, Horses, Heartches or Colts on Horses. Our men all say it acts like magic."

J. W. HEWITT,

Foreman for American, Wells, Fargo's and Harnden's Express.

"The Sprain of my daughters ankle, contracted while skating has winter, was entirely cured in one week, after she commenced using your celebrated Mustang Liniment.

ED. SHELLY."

Ohio corner, Mass., Aug. 1, 1868.

It is an admitted fact that the Mexican Mustang Liniment performs more cures in shorter time, on man and beats, than any article ever discovered. Families, livery-men and planters should always have it on hand. Quick and sure it certainly is. All genuine is wrapped in steel-plate engravings, bearing the signature of G. W. Westbrook Chemist, and the private U. S. stamp of Dennes Barnes & Co. over the top.

An effort has been made to counterfeit it with a cheap stone plate label. Look sharp!

Among the most important of modern Medical discoveries, stands

THE CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER

As a Family Medicine, it is well and favorably known, relieving thousands from pains in the Side, Back and Head, Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Sprains, Bruises, Cramps in the Stomach, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Bowel Complaints, Burns, Scalds, Frost-bites, &c, &c.

THE CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER

Has now been before the Public for a length of time, and whenever used is well liked, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used, and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction, where the Directions have been properly followed, but on the contrary all are delighted with its operations, and speak in the highest terms of its Virtues and Magical effects.

We speak from experience in this matter, having tested it, thoroughly and therefore those who are suffering from any of the complaints for which it is recommended may depend upon its being a Sovereign Remedy.

The astonishing efficacy of the Canadian Pain Destroyer, in curing the diseases for which it is recommended, and its wonderful success in subduing the tortuing pains of Rheumatism, and in relieving Nervous Affections, entitle it to a high rank in the list of remedies for those complaints. Orders are coming in from Medicine Dealers, in all parts of the Country for further supplies, and each testifying as to the universal satisfaction it gives.

The Canadian Pain destroyer never fails to give immediate relief. All Medicine dealers keep it. Physicians order and use it; and no family will be without it after once trying it. Price only Twenty-five cents per Bottle.

All orders should be addressed to

HOLLOWAY'S WORM LOZENGES

ARE A CERTAIN AND SAFE REMEDY for worms in children and adults. As it is a well-known and melancholy fact that one great cause of death among children is from Worms alone, it cannot be too deeply impressed upon the minds of parents the necessity of closely watching their children. By so doing, and understanding the symptoms and true cause of the disease, thousands of children might be saved from early graves. The following are a few of the very numerous symptoms and diseases which are caused by Worms: Deranged appetite, unnatural extremities, offensive breath, frequent picking at the nose, grinding of the teeth during sleep, hardness of the belly, with frequent stony stools, and sometimes convulsive fits; pain in the head and stomach, negative sleep, blotches, trembling coughs, indigestion, low spirits, frightful dreams, and a general wasting away of flesh. Holloway's Worm Lozenges are palatable and prescribed to the child. Give but the worms thoroughly without pain and completely cleanse the stomach thereby doing away with the necessity of administering Castor Oil or other unpleasant cathartics. Each box contains the facsimile, J. W., who are the sole proprietors. Sold by J. Hightbottom and D. Stott, Bowmanville, and Medicine Dealers everywhere.

40	3.45	16.50	20.80	20.62

☞ Never more than two losses or credits against the policy, and only one of them declared.

Policies issued in 1866, 14,184. Receipts, $3,561,000.

The Ætna's system of insurance is a most excellent one, as indicated by its great success; and there can be no doubt that its large and rapidly increasing business—doing as much in one month's as most Companies do in a whole year—with all its investments drawing nearly double the rate of interest obtainable in Europe, will enable it, at all times, to declare large dividends to policy-holders.

Observe the difference:—While most Companies accommodate the insured with half credit for a few years only, after which full payments are required, the Ætna's half-credit runs throughout life, but does not accumulate as a debt upon the policy.

Peterboro', October 2, 1867. 40

A NEW AND GRAND EPOCH IN MEDICINE!—Dr Maggiel is the founder of a new Medical System! The quantitative, whose vast internal forces embolden the stomach and paralyze the bowels, must give precedence to the man who restores health and appetite with from one to two of his extraordinary Pills, and cures the most virulent sores with a box or so of his wonderful and all-healing Salve.

These two great specifics of the Doctor are fast superseding all the stereotyped nostrums of the day. Extraordinary cures by Maggiel's Pills and Salve have opened the eyes of the public to the inefficiency of the (so-called) remedies of others, and upon which people have so long blindly depended. Maggiel's Pills are not of the class that are swallowed by the dozen, and of which every box fail takes creates an almost necessity for another. One or two of Maggiel's Pills suffices to place the bowels in perfect order, tone the stomach, create an appetite, and render the spirits light and buoyant! There is no griping, and no reaction in the wants of delicate females. Ulcerous and eruptive diseases are literally extinguished by the disinfectant power of Maggiel's Salve. In short, it is here announced that Maggiel's Billious, Dyspeptic and Diarrhœa Pills cure where all others fail. Wills for Burns, Scalds, Chilblains, Cuts, and all Aerations of the skin, Maggiel's Salve is infallible. Sold by J. HAYDOCK, 11 Pine street, New York, and all Druggists, at 25 cents per box.

"COUNTERFEITS!—Buy no Maggiel Pills or Salve with a little pamphlet inside the box—They are bogus. The genuine have the name of J. Haydock on the box with name of J. Maggiel, M. D. The genuine have the Pills surrounded with white powder."

DARLEY'S
Arabian Heave Remedy and Condition Medicine

IS positively superior to any or all other preparations for the cure of Heaves, Coughs, Thick and Broken Wind, and all diseases which affect the Wind of Horses; also, as a Condition Medicine, surpassing everything of the kind; is easy to give, sure to cure, and safe in all cases and at all times, and does not prevent the horse from being worked while using it.

It effectually cleanses the breathing apparatus, by removing from the air-cells the coagulable lymph or that secretion which in Heaves clogs them, causing a difficulty in breathing, and by its action on the diseased part causing the mucous membrane to resume its natural dimensions, thus equalizing the circulation of the blood, and restoring the distended vessels to their natural size; by its use the horse's appetite is improved, all derangements of the digestive organs corrected, rendering the skin, and giving to the coat a sleek and shining appearance.

By Law No.

WHEREAS the Municipality of the County of Peterborough have agreed to raise the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, for the purpose of draining and flooding a certain Lake, known as Chemong Lake, from a point on the shore of said Lake, in the Township of Smith, in the County of Peterborough, to a point on the shore of said Lake in the Township of Harvey, in the County of Peterborough;

And whereas, to carry into effect the said undertaking it will be necessary for the said Municipality and the Municipal Council to raise by way of loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars in the manner hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas, it will require the sum of $1,400, to be raised annually by rate to pay the interest on the said loan, and also to form a sinking fund for the payment of said debt or loan and interest as also hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas, the amount of the whole rateable property of the said Municipality of the said County of Peterborough, according to the last revised and equalized Assessment Rolls of the said Municipality, is the sum of Two Millions Seven Hundred and Eighty Five Thousand Three Hundred and Sixty One dollars, ($2,785,361).

And whereas the existing debt of the said Municipality of the County of Peterborough is Twenty Nine Thousand Four Hundred dollars, ($29,400) for principal money, and Twelve Thousand and Forty-Six dollars, ($12,046) for interest, and there is nothing in arrear or account of said principal or interest.

And whereas for paying the interest and creating an equal yearly sinking fund for paying the said sum of Ten Thousand dollars, and interest as hereinafter mentioned, it will require an equal annual special rate of one half of a mill in the dollar in addition to all rates to be levied in each year.

Be it therefore enacted by the Municipal Council of the County of Peterborough:

1. That it shall be lawful for the Warden of the said County to raise by way of loan from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate, who may be willing to advance the same upon the credit of the Debentures hereinafter mentioned, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and to cause the same to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the said County of Peterborough, for the purposes and with the objects above recited.

2. That it shall be lawful for the said Warden to cause any number of Debentures to be made, for such sums of money as may be required, not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100) each and not to exceed in the whole the said sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and that the said Debentures shall be sealed, with the seal of the said Municipal Council, and be signed by the said Warden and countersigned by the Treasurer of said County.

3. That said Debentures shall be made payable in the years at the farthest from the day hereinafter mentioned for this By-law to take effect, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality, and shall have attached to them Coupons for the payment of interest.

5. That the said Debentures shall bear interest at and after the rate of six per centum per annum, from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half yearly, on the 15th day of October and the 15th day of April in each year, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality.

5. That for the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said Debentures and the interest at the rate aforesaid to become due thereon, an equal special rate of one half a mill in the dollar shall in addition to all other rates be raised, levied and collected in each year upon the rateable property in said Municipality during the continuance of the said Debentures or any of them.

6. That this By-law shall take effect and come into operation upon the Fifteenth day of October, 1867.

The above is a true copy of a proposed By-law to be taken into consideration by the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, at Peterborough, in the said County, on

The Tenth Day of October, 1867,

at the hour of TWO o'clock in the afternoon, at which time and place the members of the Council are hereby required to attend for the purpose aforesaid.

Dated, this 26th day of June, A. D. 1867.

LIFE AND WORKS OF ROBERT BURNS,

BY THE
REV. R. HATELY WADDELL,
(Author of the well-known Eulogy on his Genius, and Chairman at the "Cottage" on the Centenary of his Birth)

The edition will be Illustrated with Two Portraits of the Poet; with Frontispiece composed of five Scenes selected from the Works or Land of Burns; and with Seventy-five Pictures from Original Drawings—the whole produced in finest Oil Colours, from Engravings by eminent artists, in the highest style of the art.

The prominent Literary characteristic of this edition will be an entirely New Life of the Poet, in the form of a Spiritual Biography, by the Rev. Editor; with much valuable additional matter relating to Burns—including some hitherto unpublished Fragments of the Poet himself, interesting original Reminiscences of his Life, original Notes critical and historical on his Poems, and an Essay on the Progress and Development of the Scottish Language up till his day.

In the department of Illustration, the distinctive feature of every Picture will be its Originality in Design, and its absolute fidelity to nature in every detail of Scene, &c. The actual spot reflected in the Art of all the surroundings, wherever locality constitutes a portion of the picture, will be scrupulously adhered to—so that readers at a distance, natives of Scotland, may recognise in these some transcript of the soil; and strangers may look with confidence on every illustration as a reality. In the same department, the Publisher has the highest satisfaction in being able to announce that he is in a position to produce an authentic and most wonderful Likeness of Robert Burns—from the Original Miniature unquestionably, which was painted the year before his death; and of which Burns affirms that it is "the most remarkable likeness of what I am at this moment, that I think ever was taken of any body"—together with the most interesting and beautiful Miniature of his eldest Son, painted at the same time as a pendant to the Poet's likeness. These Portraits which have been lost to the world for seventy-one years, are now in possession of the Rev. R. Hately Waddell; and cannot fail, when presented to the world, to excite universal attention. No Portrait of the Poet known can compare for a moment, in fidelity or force, with this miniature of Burns.

The work will be completed in Seventeen Monthly Parts, Demy 8vo of 48 pages, price Half Dollar each. Printed from new type upon the finest printing paper.

The great care and beauty with which the whole work is being got up will make it an ornament most suitable for the drawing-rooms table of the rich and of the merchant; whilst the mode of publishing and the price charged will bring it early within the reach of every tradesman throughout the world.

"Beyond the sun—beyond the sun:
All then, and then I love thee!"

"A comfortable dinner pill and half-a-dozen pills taken at a time. One of your pills cured me."

"Thanks, Doctor, for the last box; I've sent another box to keep in the house."

"After suffering tortures from Bilious Cholic two of your pills cured me, and I have no return of the malady."

"Your Morgan's pills cured me."

"I took your Morgan's pills and was cured."

"I used four packages of your pills and am entirely cured."

"I used for another box, and keep them in the house."

"Dr. Morgan, your pills cured my headache that was chronic."

"I gave half of one of your pills to my babe for cholera morbus. The dear little thing got well in a day."

"Dr. Morgan, your pills cured my baby of fits. I think it is near cured."

"Your box of Morgan's Salve cured me of scalds in the head. I rubbed some of your Salve behind my ears and I've some left."

"Send me two boxes; I want one for a poor family."

"I enclose a dollar; your price is twenty-five cents but the medicine to me is worth a dollar."

"Send me five boxes of your pills."

"Let me have three boxes of your Salve by return mail."

CANCERS CURED!

By a new, but certain, speedy, and nearly painless process, and

WITHOUT THE USE OF THE KNIFE.

THE cure will be guaranteed, and, as a proof of this, no pay is required, until the cure is complete. The moment a cancer is discovered, it should be cured, as it will cost less and is more speedily cured than when of longer standing, and there is nothing to gain, and everything to lose by delay. What now seems a harmless lump in the breast, neck, eye-lid or elsewhere, or small wart or sore on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, disgusting and loathsome mass of disease. If required, references can be given to parties who have been cured many years since, and who are now sound and healthy. All communications promptly answered. No money required in advance, and none until the cure is complete.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

PREPARED BY
DR. J. C. AYER & CO.,
LOWELL, MASS.

Sold by Druggists, Lynn, Ont. Price, $1.00.

J. C. Ayer & Co., Gents: I feel it my duty to acquaint you with the wonderful effects of your Sarsaparilla in my family. My wife has been afflicted with a humor in the blood for many years, which has caused her much suffering. She has been under the care of some of the most skilful physicians, but has received no permanent benefit from them. She has taken many bottles of your Sarsaparilla, which has entirely cured her, and she is now in the enjoyment of good health. Our little girl, also, has been afflicted with a humor, which appeared in her eyes, and caused her much pain. She was under the care of a physician for some time, but received no benefit. I was induced to try your Sarsaparilla, and before she had taken one bottle, I could see a favorable change. She has now taken three bottles, and her eyes are entirely well. Her general health is much improved, and she is perfectly free from the humor. Yours truly, ALFRED B. TALLEY.

Sold by Druggists, Cobourg and Chemical Works, Belleville. Price $1.00.

Belleville Board of Trade, Toronto, Ontario: "Three bottles of your Sarsaparilla cured me from a distressing blotch, which had spread the past, which, I had endured from my childhood. Yours, &c., JOHN WILTSE.

Lemuel Wilmot, Overseer Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railroad, Thornhill, Richmond Extension, writes: "Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.—Dear Sir: I have used your Sarsaparilla in my family with the most astonishing results. My daughter was afflicted with a humor, which appeared in the form of running sores upon her hands, and which, in spite of the best medical aid we could procure, continued to grow worse, until her hands were entirely useless. Your Sarsaparilla cured her, and I believe it saved her life. Yours, &c., L. WILMOT."

Edward S. Morrow, of Newberry, Ala., writes: "A daughter of mine was cured of a bad humor in the blood, which had defied all the remedies we could employ, but at length been completely cured by your Extract of Sarsaparilla. Our physician declared nothing but contagious blood could have defied him to relieve the evil of your Sarsaparilla as he had tried every remedy which could be administered of your compounding, and failed. Yours, &c., E. S. MORROW."

Syphilis and Mercurial Disease.

NEW ORLEANS, 20th August, 1866.

Dr. J. C. Ayer: Sir, I cheerfully comply with the request of your agent, and report to you some of the effects I have realized with your Sarsaparilla.

I have cured with it, in my practice, most of the complaints for which it is recommended, and have found its effects truly wonderful in the cure of Venereal and Mercurial Disease. One of my patients had Syphilitic ulcers in his throat, which were consuming his palate and the top of his mouth. They were of long standing, and had in the words of the sufferer, "eaten up" every remedy he had used. Another was afflicted by the same disorder with sores upon his body and limbs. Both of these yielded to my administering of your Sarsaparilla. The ulcers healed, and he is well healed, and of course without mercury. Another patient had been under the care of a physician for some time for a disease of the liver, and was suffering from chills peculiar to her locality. They had become so sensitive to the weather that on a damp day she preferred encountering pain in her joints and bones. She, too, was cured entirely by your Sarsaparilla in a few weeks. I have been in practice, which your agent gave me, since this Preparation from your laboratory must be a great remedy; consequently, these truly remarkable results with it have surprised me. Yours, &c., G. V. LABINER, M. D.

Rheumatism, Gout, Liver Complaint.

INDEPENDENCE, Preston Co., Va., 4th July, 1866.

Dr. J. C. AYER: Sir, I have been afflicted with a painful chronic Rheumatism for a long time, which baffled the skill of physicians, and struck to me in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I tried your Sarsaparilla. One bottle cured me in two weeks, and restored my general health so much that I can do better than before I was attacked. I think it a wonderful medicine. J. FREAM.

James V. Getchell, of St. Louis, writes: "I have been afflicted for years with an affection of the Liver, which destroyed my health. I tried every thing, and every thing failed to relieve me; and I have been a broken-down man for some years from no other cause than derangement of the Liver. My beloved pastor, the Rev. Mr. Kopp, advised me to try your Sarsaparilla, because he said he knew you, and knew that you made no worthless thing. By the blessing of God it has cured me, and has so purified my blood as to make a new man of me. I feel young again. The best thing I can do is to tell you to tell all you can."

Scrofula, Chronic Tumors, Enlargement, Ulceration, Caries and Exfoliation of the Bones.

A great variety of cases have been reported to us where cures of these formidable complaints have resulted from the use of this remedy, but our space here will not admit of them. Some of these may be found in our American Almanac, which the agents below named are pleased to furnish gratis to all who call for them.

Dyspepsia, Heart Disease, Pile, Hydropsy, Melancholy, Neuralgia

Many remarkable cures of these affections have been made by the digestive power of this medicine. It stimulates the vital functions into vigorous action, and thus overcomes disorders which would be supposed beyond its reach. Such a remedy has long been required by the necessities of the people, and we are confident that this will do for them all their medicine can do.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF
Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the Relief of Consumptive Patients in advanced Stages of the Disease.

This is a remedy so universally known to surpass any other for the cure of throat and lung complaints, that it is useless here to publish the evidences of its virtues. Its pre-eminent soothing, healing, and curative powers, and its truly wonderful cures of pulmonary disease, have made it known throughout the civilized nations of the earth. Few are the communities, or even families, among them who have not some personal experience of its effects—some living trophy in their midst of its victory over the subtle and dangerous disorders of the throat and lungs. Could know the dreadful fatality of these disorders, and as they know, too, the effects of this remedy, we need not do more than to assure them that it has now all the virtues that it did have when making the cures which have won so strongly upon the confidence of mankind.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Sold in Peterboro by Ormond & Gilmour, A. W. Kempt, and Wm. Coulter. In Keene by A. Campbell, Campbell McNeil & Co., C. Britton, Lindsay, and all Medicine Dealers.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF CONSUMPTION
BY THE
GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY
IN CANADA.

MESSRS. T. & C.—GENTLEMEN:—I Wilson Storms, of Brighton, C. W., make oath and say,—I feel anxious to let you know what the Great Shoshonees Remedy has effected for me. My wife was afflicted with consumption and died; I was also afflicted with the same disease, and after her death I continued sinking just as she had done. I had very severe night sweats; could not sleep unless a little towards morning. I raised over a quart of matter every 24 hours; had severe pain in the left lung, &c., &c., and was greatly debilitated. In fact I was going as fast as I could. I was taking medicine from a regular physician, but it did not even relieve my cough. I went to the village one day about a quarter of a mile, which took me to go and come about two hours.—While there I saw Esq., Wellington, and happened to say to him, "I wish you could give me something to relieve my cough." He said "I hope the Great Indian Remedy just introduced; Dr. Barker has it for sale, and I believe it will cure you." I took his advice, and brought a bottle home with me; took a tablespoonful at once, which I felt through my whole system; at night I took a tablespoonful, and rested well all night, and continued to rest well every night. The Cough, Night Sweats, Raising of matter, Pain in the Lung, &c., gradually left me, and I got hearty and strong. I took only three bottles. I am not taking it now, and I am as hearty and as well as ever I was in my life. My sister-in-law was with me for a while, who was affected with the Liver Complaint. She has taken the remedy, and is well. This certificate you may show to the world if you please.

THAT THE
GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY
Of the Celebrated Indian Dr. Louis Jacobus, of the Distinguished Tribe of Tuscaroras, British Columbia,
Is a sure cure for Consumption and all Chronic Diseases.

THIS all-pervading Great Indian Remedy is warranted, and in broad daft diplomatic language, we are authorized to say may be applied upon to cure the worst cases of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Sore Throat, Whooping Cough, Pleurisy, Digestive Organs, &c., as well as disorders of the entire Blood System, Rheumatism, and all diseases arising from an impurity of the Blood, emanating from the third stage of Consumption. In the Western Country where this Great Remedy has been in use for a short time, it has totally silenced some of the most Horrendious Curses ever recorded in the annals of Diseased Bodies. Bear in mind the case, in addition to the fortune rumors and celebrity, we defy any one to deny or disprove the fact, that this, the Great Physicians Remedy, in connection with the Shoshonees Vegetable Restorative Pills, is the Remedy of Remedies of the 19th Century, and the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

☞ Price of the Remedy in large Vials, $1. For Sale by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.

THE RAILWAY QUESTION.

W. H. SCOTT, Esq.,

Secretary Railway Committee,

Peterboro'.

DEAR SIR,—

Under the proposition of the C. P. & H. R. and M. Co'y., to construct their Railway to Peterborough and Chemong Lake, the Company would expect from the Town of Peterborough aid to the extent of $40,000 —$20,000 to be paid on the passage of the first train to Peterborough, and $20,000 on the completion of the Railway to Chemong Lake.

The road to Peterboro' might be opened for traffic on the 15th of May next, and the Chemong extension by the 1st of July following, if the Legislative authority be obtained this session. But to effect these results, the prompt and hearty co-operation of Peterborough would be required.

Yours truly,

J. H. DUMBLE.

October 10th, 1867.

REPORT.

The Committee appointed at the public meeting held in the month of June, last, to consider the question of Railway extension to Chemong Lake, report as follows:—

Your Committee, deeming the subject to which they were desired to give their attention of a two-fold character, as relating in the first place to the propriety of furthering any such extension in view of the possible advantages that would follow; and secondly, to the available means of accomplishing such work with a due regard to time and economy, have duly considered either branch of the subject in the light of such information as they have been able to secure.

Laying aside, for the present, the probable operation of such extension on the ordinary trade of the community, your Committee desire to refer to an isolated branch of industry through which the trade of the Town has derived material advantages in the past, namely, the manufacture of lumber, in regard to which—

Your Committee are advised that that branch of the trade hitherto extensively pursued in the northern townships of this and the neighboring county, and limited to the manufacture and transportation of square timber, has given place in great measure to the production of board lumber, in which the capital of lumber merchants in this vicinity is now very generally embarked.

That during the period in which the timber of these localities was being converted into square timber, the manufactured articles following the unalterable rule of determining for itself the readiest route or transportation, was moved past our own doors by that natural channel of the Otonabee and Trent.

That the supplies essential to production naturally reaching the seat of operation by the same route, as nearly as circumstances could afford, as that traversed by the productions themselves, rendered the Town of Peterborough the principal emporium of the various articles necessarily consumed in the course of production.

That owing to the altered form into which the timber of these localities is being now converted in principal part and the absence of any means of transportation by way of Peterborough the trade hitherto arriving to our town and vicinity, through the operations of lumbermen, has given already suffered a very material reduction in favor of the rival town of Lindsay, and in the estimation of your committee, existing circumstances will tend to its entire removal at no very distant day.

That the timber proceeding from the same localities whence the square timber was carried by way of Peterborough, now finds access to market, under various disadvantages, by way of Lindsay, and in the event of no provision being made for its transportation by way of Peterboro', will ere long follow a still more tedious and tortuous course by way of the river and Lake of Scugog to Whitby on Lake Ontario, and hence the source of supplies for the manufacture of this vast quantity of timber is being established in the rival town of Lindsay in the same proportion as it is being removed from ourselves.

That over 30 millions of feet of lumber annually is now being moved from the timber localities in our rear by way of Lindsay, which, in the event of reasonable railway accommodations being once established between Chemong Lake and the front, would in the natural course proceed to market over this latter route, and in the estimation of your committee, the trade through which we have derived so much assistance in the past would then be restored. Peterboro' would again assume its natural position as the source of lumbering requirements, and the seat of expenditure of the wages of operatives involving a large annual outlay.

Your committee are also advised that the agricultural productions of the country to our rear, increasing rapidly from year to year, find their shortest market in Lindsay, for the same reasons that fix the direction of the lumber traffic by that route.

That following the progressive settlement of the country, villages are springing into existence at intervals, whose trade now of, considerable proportions, and extending with the gradual development of the country, is being established in the direction of our rival town, when, in the opinion of your committee, an extension of railway accommodations from here to Chemong Lake would divert this trade in the direction of Peterborough, where also the agriculturist would find a readier, if not a livelier, market for his produce.

The same considerations which your committee have applied to the lumbering traffic and to the ordinary trade with the northern portion of this and the neighboring county, may with equal force and propriety be referred to the mineral productions of these localities, and in this connection your committee are advised that preparations are now being made for mining operations on the Bobcaygeon road, and that in other localities these operations are only deterred by the unpracticability of transportation.

In view of these circumstances your committee would recommend to those interested in the future prosperity of the town, the propriety of adopting such measures as would tend to secure the opening of railway communication with Chemong Lake at as early a period as possible.

Coming now to the second and more essential branch of the question, under the consideration of your committee, the available means of accomplishing the object of whose expediency they have reported.

Your Committee instituted a correspondence with Henry Covert, Esq., as representing Peterboro and Chemong Lake road with the Cobourg and Peterboro and Marmora Railway Mining Company, and incidently with His Worship the Mayor of Cobourg, copies of which correspondence are attached to this our report.

From this correspondence will appear the desire of your Committee, in the first place to ascertain from Mr. Covert if he would be willing to enter into any, and what arrangements for the construction and working of the Chemong road was built chiefly upon the fact that under the present act in relation to the charter for this road, the road when once constructed could be utilised by any other company upon equitable terms, and that there would thus be afforded an inducement to the Cobourg Company to extend their operations as far as Peterborough, by which we would have the advantage of competing routes to the front.

The correspondence will further shew the proposition of the C. & P. & M. R. & Mining Company, as embodied in a resolution of the Board of Directors as follows:—"That they would open communication with Peterborough by the first day of April next, upon being assured of the sum of $150,000 in cash bonus or stock of the company, and would further agree, subject to legislative impediments, to construct an extension to Chemong Lake by the first day of October following, upon being assured of an additional sum of $50,000 in cash bonus or stock."

It will also appear from the correspondence that the town of Cobourg has already assured to the company the sum of $100,000, parcel of the sum required for operations between Cobourg and here, leaving a balance of $50,000 to be provided by other municipalities for connection with Peterboro', and $50,000 additional for the extension.

This proposition of the Cobourg company being generally to all municipalities interested, placed your committee in a position somewhat difficult of action, inasmuch as it was uncertain to what extent other municipalities would come forward. They were, however, relieved by the favor of a personal communication with the managing director of the road, who submitted to your committee the proposition attached to this our report.

Your committee are of opinion from the whole term of the correspondence that the proposition of Mr. Covert to extend the P. H. L. & B. Railway Company to Chemong Lake would not meet the requirements of Peterborough, and he declines to name any terms upon which he will complete the Chemong Lake road. There therefore remains no option but to accept the offer of the C. & P. & M. Railway and Mining Company, if the communication with the back lakes is to be carried out in a way to benefit the town. The amount asked from the town is not large in proportion to the cost of making a road from Peterborough to Chemong Lake, and although a portion of the sum asked appears to be towards opening a communication to this point: yet, on the completion of the entire line, the town will be in the same position as if a vote of $40,000 were made towards the Chemong Lake road.

The committee would, however, recommend a slight variation in the proposal made by the C. P. & M. Railway and Mining Company, viz:—That the delivery of the debentures in aid of the connection with Cobourg be delayed until the completion of the road to Chemong Lake, either by the same company or some other company or individual, but that interest upon the said debentures be payable to the company for five years from the date of the first train running from Cobourg.

W. H. SCOTT, Esq.,

Secretary Railway Committee,

Peterboro'.

DEAR SIR,—In answer to your communication of the 22nd ult., I have to state that the P. H., L. & B. Railway Company will be glad if the parties moving for the extension of the Railway to Chemong Lake will construct it, and the Company will afford such facilities as their charter embraces to enable them to do so. The Company don't run their cars on the extension when completed until we keep it in repair for freights not exceeding those charged from Lindsay. Should these terms meet the approval of those concerned there need be no delay in proceeding with the work. As different interests have to be consulted, an earlier reply to your communication could not be given.

DEAR SIR,—I have the honor to enclose herewith copy of resolution passed at a meeting of the railway extension Committee held this morning. The Committee are of opinion that you may not have understood in the sense intended, the terms of the resolution passed at a former meeting of the Committee and transmitted to you, inasmuch as the resolution last named solicited some proposition for the completion and working of the Chemong road to Mud Lake, when your communication of the 5th instant had apparently reference to the extension of the Port Hope and Lindsay road to Chemong Lake under the old charter for that purpose. I am requested by the Committee to ask the favor of an early reply hereto.

DEAR SIR,—I have the honor to enclose herewith copy of resolution passed at a meeting of the railway extension Committee this morning, whereby I am requested to communicate with you for the purpose of ascertaining upon what terms the Company above mentioned would complete their railway to Peterborough, and also upon what terms they would make the further extension to Mud Lake. By placing the matter under the attention of the Directors of your Company and affording an early reply hereto you will confer a favor on the Committee.

(No. 2.)

COBOURG, 3rd August, 1867.

TO THE SECRETARY OF THE RAILWAY COMMITTEE, Peterborough.

DEAR SIR,—In answer to your recent communication relative to the amount of assistance we should require to induce us to complete the communication with Peterborough and to extend our railway to Mud Lake, I beg to submit (as to the former) a copy of a resolution of our railway board herewith enclosed. I would also say in answer to the latter question that simultaneously with the commencement of operations on the main line the company would be prepared to extend their road to Chemong Lake on the various municipalities giving the sum of $50,000 as a bonus towards the construction of the same. The company would have no objections to permitting other companies to run trains on equitable terms over the extension to Mud Lake, and they are prepared to guarantee the opening of the main line to Peterborough by the first day of April next and the Chemong extension by the first day of October following, providing the municipalities perform their part of the obligations within the next two months.

I remain, sir,

Your obd't servant,

J. H. DUMBLE.

"Whereas the citizens of Peterboro and Cobourg have expressed a desire to have this company complete the connection between the above towns by repairing the breach in Rice Lake and relaying the same north of that point and purchasing the necessary rolling stock to enable the company promptly to move the freight offered between those points; and, whereas, said towns and intermediate points interested have expressed a willingness to contribute a portion of the cost to the company as an inducement to an easy completion of said works; therefore, with a desire to comply with same request, provided said parties contribute a sum which will justify the company in proceeding with said work,—Resolved that the President is hereby authorized and instructed to take measures to put the work under contract, provided the parties interested will satisfactorily secure to be paid to the company in cash or in the stock of the company not less than $150,000."

DEAR SIR,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 3rd inst. covering copy of resolution of directors and have to state that at a meeting of our Committee at which your letter and resolution were submitted, it was requested to communicate with you further for the purpose of ascertaining if the proposed deflection towards the construction of the road to Peterborough thence to the lake be forthcoming) the company would be willing to enter into and on what understanding by which they would be bound to any and what maximum tariff from Cobourg to and from Peterboro and from Cobourg to and from the lake upon the ordinary articles of freight. It may doubtless require time and consideration to arrange a tariff which the company would not exceed, but I believe I am correct in saying it would be very difficult to obtain assistance here unless some such stipulation was arrived at, as the people here cannot help looking forward to the possibility of a monopoly, notwithstanding the roads are now in different hands.

1. That in accordance with the action of Railway Board, the amount specified being guaranteed, the President is authorized to put the work for re-connecting Cobourg with Peterborough under contract.

2. As to a tariff, I can only give you my opinion, fully corroborated by the Managing Director, that the company will not enter into any stipulation for a fixed tariff nor will they accept of any assistance coupled with any such condition as you refer to.

3. A maximum tariff is now fixed by law, and that is the only rule the company will be bound by; how much less they may be disposed to take at any time must be left to circumstances.

THE MAYOR OF COBOURG,

DEAR SIR:—At the last meeting of the railway extension committee of this place, communications were read from the C. & M. R. W. H. SCOTT, Esq.,

DEAR SIR:—In reply to yours of the 12th inst., I beg to state:

1st. Our corporation has by By-law appropriated $100,000 of their stock in railway and mining Company, and the directors of the company have expressed their willingness to accept of this amount at that sum, each forming one portion of the $150,000 which they have named as the amount, which upon being guaranteed in cash or stock, they will re-connect the towns of Cobourg and Peterborough by a permanent railway communication.

2nd. The amount stated in the foregoing is the full amount which our corporation will offer, and apply to the connection between our towns, not to the extension between Peterboro and Chemong Lake.

3rd. We look with anxiety for the extension to the Lake, and will cheerfully sustain any effort thereto with whatever influence we may have, but we have offered as large a proportion of the stipulated sum for the connection with your town, that the other municipalities may provide for the extension.

I am,

Very truly yours,

COUNTY COUNCIL.

This session of the County Council has been an important one in some respects. A By-law to provide for the construction of the Mud Lake and Pigeon Creek bridges was passed, but counterseted by another until the Town give the Council a satisfactory guarantee for the five thousand dollars the Town Council promised for the same purpose.

The subject of railway extension and reconstruction was also taken up, and there was evidently a large majority of the Council in favor of both. In another column will be seen By-laws to raise money to aid in the above objects, and these will in all probability be carried.

The extension to Mud Lake would be better for Smith, Harvey and the back country than the proposed gravel road scheme, as it would materially benefit Smith, Enniskmore, Harvey and all the back Townships and Douro, by enlarging the trade of the county.

Yesterday we learned that lowness of water in the Trent river has compelled the shipment of ore to cease for a while, but there is an evident movement towards constructing a railroad from the narrows to meet the Cobourg road. It is needless to tell our readers that the most direct and the best route for such road is through Norwood, direct to Ashburnham, and then of course to the front. The narrows are directly east of Ashburnham—a straight line between the two places would pass a few rods south of Norwood—and it may be a matter of some consequence to Asphodel and Norwood to have a railroad through Norwood. Perhaps it would be better to have a railway to Peterboro than a gravel road; we do not say so, as we have not had time to consider the subject fully; but we do say that it is worth consideration. We will return to the subject of railways in some other issue; in the meantime we throw out the hint for meditation.

The gravel road scheme has been left in abeyance for another session; this will give time to obtain an opinion of the people on the matter. We felt that all the roads proposed would never be carried by the Council. Our own idea is, that if the Council would lay out the interest of the money necessary to construct either of the roads proposed on it, for five years, the roads would then be as good as the people would wish for. It would require at least $250,000 to complete all the lines of roads embraced in the resolution of the Council. The interest on this sum would be $15,000. If this interest were expended on the roads for five years under judicious management, we would then have good roads, indeed a less sum would do much to improve our roads. One thing the amount required for the roads would give us a railway to Mud Lake, and another to Norwood. Will we have them?

Another feature in this scheme is, that it would ensure the outlay of a large sum of money in the county. A good road costs about $10,000 to $12,000 a mile, we are told; at that rate the cost of the proposed road would be little short of $400,000, and all this to be expended amongst ourselves. The question for us is not, who shall build the roads? but rather who will do it soonest and cheapest? Shall the mineral and lumber wealth of our county go to build up Lindsay as has been up till now? or shall we put our shoulders to the wheel and by the expenditure of a few hundred dollars compel it to revert to its natural channel through our own town. The outlay of nearly half a million dollars would give our mechanics and laborers something to do for a year or two, and the expenditure of such a sum would be no small item in the trade of the county.

ROBBERY AT LAKEFIELD.—We learn that on Saturday night last some person or persons entered the dwelling of Mr. John Fitzgerald, of Lakefield, and abstracted therefrom notes of hand to the amount of $760 and $10 in silver. In their haste they threw down an old paper which contained $50 in bills, which they did not get. They then departed without being detected. Mr. Fitzgerald was from home at the time, and consequently only Mrs. Fitzgerald, a daughter and two little boys were in the house at the time. Parties in the habit of purchasing notes of hand would do well to take care of purchasing any drawn payable to Mr. Fitzgerald, lest they get into trouble. This is a lesson to farmers and others, having too much of this world's wealth, not to keep it where thieves can easily break through and steal it, while these are saving banks in town, in which, if they cannot keep it from moth and rust, they can from thieves and robbers.

HANDSOME.—At the Railway meeting, Mr. Shaw stated that he would give $5000 towards the construction of the Mud Lake Railway. We understand that the other lumbermen assume the task of making up the deficiency of $15,000 yet unprovided for. It is hoped the Town will not be behind in contributing her share; a railway to Mud Lake which is only to cost us $10,000 is better than we anticipated. Success to the road.

We have been requested by the directors of the County Agricultural Society, to thank the people who attended the show for their orderly and obliging behaviour on the show grounds, and for their obliging readiness to aid the directors in rendering the proceedings pleasant and orderly.

We have been delayed this issue by one of our compositors neglecting his post during the last three days. We trust our readers will consider the imperfection of human things under such circumstances.

The County Agricultural Show.

The show, this year, was far behind the shows of former years, in this county, especially in those things exhibited in the hall. There were very few competitors in roots, and what were shown looked equal to the same crops of former years.

The Fall Wheat was considered excellent.

The Spring Wheat was very fair, but there were only two or three samples in either of them.

The Dalhousie Manufactures were almost invisible, except a few articles. Mr. Calcutt exhibits his flax this year packed for transport, in a waterway, which he has invented himself and which he claims possesses many advantages over the old way of tying in bundles with the ends loose, thus rendering clean and waste certain, and which the new method completely prevents.

The Ladies' Work. This is a delicate subject to touch on, but we cannot help it.—The Ladies' Work was almost nothing compared with former years, leading almost to the conclusion that they must all have taken to some other amusement, to visiting or to the more troublesome duties of house-keeping. Of course what was shown was very nice and very good, each article, but all fancy. The dear creatures must intend that their Liege Lords shall go in early Paradisiacal fashion, for we saw no articles intended for their wear, with the exception of a single article, a plain shirt. The thoughtful lady exhibitor of this article we hope has already a good husband, if she has not, we sincerely wish her a good one soon.

Apples were well represented, and the Judges pronounced many of them of excellent quality. The number of entries and qualities shown, demonstrated that it is our own fault if we do not raise fruit enough for our own use at least.

The Butter Department could hardly be surpassed. We know that the Judges must have had some difficulty in awarding the prizes.

The Cheese Department was very fair indeed, but the competition was not equal to our anticipations.

Horses. Mr. T. Donnelly was the only exhibitor in this line, but the articles shown would have stood comparison favorably with any similar articles from any establishment in the county; both his carriage and draught harness appeared to be of excellent workmanship.

The Carriages shown were not numerous. Mr. McWilliams, of Peterboro, showed largest in covered carriages and buggies, and carried off the prizes in that line. Mr. Finlay, of Norwood, exhibited a very durable and well finished open carriage, and a neatly finished cutter. In these articles there were no competitors.

Agricultural Implements were few indeed, our old friends, James Hamilton and White & Hamilton having the department entirely to themselves, and it consisted of six plows and one cultivator. They were neatly got up, showing the enterprise of those gentlemen.

The show of horse flesh was good; some fine looking animals for draught, carriage and saddle, the first prize carriage team belonging to Mr. W. McKee, Smith, was admired by every one.

In Sheep too; one of our best farmers informed us, those shown here would compare favorably with any shown at Kingston, of the same grade. Mr. Gill, M. Walton, A. Hall and Cowgill Walton were the principle exhibitors.

The Porcine Family was very well represented. W. S. Scott, H. Collins, Mr. Northey and S. Webber carried off most of the prizes.

In Cattle, Mr. John Walton carried off the greater number of prizes; H. Collins not a few. Mr. James Wallis also exhibited some fine looking animals.

The show, on the whole, may be considered as favorable. What was wanting in one department was fully made up in another. The managers need not feel discouraged but go on.

We have learned just as we go to press that the cause of the Ladies' Department being a failure, is that few knew of the show at all. There were posters, no doubt, but very many never saw them. Some of the ladies have been heard say they did not hear it in time to make entries. Query! Would it not be a good idea to advertise for a week before the day in future.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

The proceedings of first day were given last week.

WEDNESDAY.

The Council met, The Warden in the chair.

All the members were present but Mr. Mellville.

The minutes of Tuesday's meeting were read and confirmed.

The Warden addressed the Council as follows:—

I have but little to record since the last meeting of Council.

The bridges put in charge of the several Committees have been attended to; the Lakefield and Nassau bridges are finished, and the one at the Locks is nearly completed; a report of the expenditure upon them will be laid before you during the session.

I am happy to say that the appropriation made for the roads has been satisfactorily expended in most instances.

There was a sum of money granted by the County of Victoria to be expended on the boundary between the Counties, and it having been understood at last meeting that this Council would meet the County of Victoria by a similar grant, and I find that our proportion will amount to $175, which sum I trust you will order to be paid.

The Master in Chancery called my attention to changes that he requires should be made in his office, and I hope the Council will take the matter up after examination, as I think it would be for the convenience of the Public that the alterations should be made.

I hope the subject of gravel roads will be again taken up by you, and a definite scheme arrived at."

He had intended also to bring under their notice a communication from H. Cameron, Esq., in reference to a road through Snowdon and Minden, but the subject had been already brought up. He had also received a letter from Mr. W. S. Reed, claiming $175 as our share of money expended on the Harvey boundary line.

Moved by Mr. S. S. Peck and seconded by Mr. Pearce,—That the Warden's address be referred to a committee composed of Messrs. Laing, Walton, Pearce, Carroll, Scott, and Choate.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Pearce, seconded by Mr. Scott,—That the petition of T. D. Croly be referred to the Finance Committee.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Young and seconded by Mr. Carroll,—That the necessity of repairing the bridge on the town line between Monaghan and Cavan on the 12th concession, be recommended to the consideration of the Road and Bridge Committee.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Scott and seconded by Mr. Carroll,—That the sum of money granted to repair the bridge at the head of Little Mud Lake is insufficient to repair it properly, and that the matter be referred to the committee on Roads and Bridges.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Walton, seconded by Mr. Scott,—That the Committee on the Scugog Bridge be allowed to report.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Coughlin, seconded by Mr. Carroll,—That the report of the committee appointed to inspect Scugog Bridge, now reported be adopted.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Carroll, seconded by Mr. Probert,—That the necessity of making permanent repairs on the Hastings Bridge be recommended to the consideration of the committee on Roads and Bridges, and that the co-operation of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham be invited.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Coughlin, seconded by Mr. Young,—That John Reid, Esq., be heard before the Council. Mr. Reid was heard.

Moved by Mr. Lucas, seconded by Mr. Probert,—That as it appears that the work on the Buckhorn road has been entirely suspended, and this county having performed the portion of the agreement in connection with the construction of said Road, we therefore move that the clerk of this council be, and is hereby instructed to correspond with the government and ascertain why said road is not being proceeded with, and report at next meeting of the Council.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Laing, seconded by Mr. Laing,—That the clerk of this Council be instructed to apply to Mr. Fitzgerald, P.L.S. to complete his duty in regard to the re-survey of the Township of Burleigh, by handing in his plan in duplicate of the survey, with amount of expense incurred in said survey.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Choate, seconded by Mr. Clerk,—That the amount which the corporation of Douro shall be required to contribute toward the repairs of the boundary line between Dummer and Douro shall be forty-five dollars, the corporation of Dummer having agreed to expend an equal amount, and that the forty-five dollars be expended southward from lot No. 6 inclusive, under the supervision of David Forsythe, of Douro, road commissioner; and forty-five dollars northward from lot No. 12, commencing at Dummer Road, under Mathew Lundy, commissioner.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. Scott, Mr. John Dumble was heard before the Council in connection with the Cobourg, Peterboro & Marmora Railway and Mining Company.—Carried.

Mr. Dumble addressed the Council.

The Council went into committee of the whole on the subject of railway extension.

THURSDAY.

The Council met.

On motion of Mr. Pearce, the committee on the Warden's address was allowed to report.

The Report of committee on the address was received and adopted.

On motion of Mr. Pearce, seconded by Mr. Laing, a By-law to raise the sum of ten thousand dollars for the purpose of assisting the Cobourg, Peterboro & Marmora Railway and Mining Company to construct a railway from Harwood to the village of Ashburnham, was read a first time.

The Council went into committee of the whole on the second reading of the By-law. The By-law was read in committee and blanks filled in.

On motion of Mr. Scott, seconded by Mr. Carroll, a By-law was introduced to aid the C. P. & M. R. and M. Co. to the extent of ten thousand dollars towards constructing a railway from the Ashburnham station to Chemong Lake.

The By-law was read a first time.

The Council went into committee of the whole on the second reading of the By-law. Mr. Choate in the chair.

The committee arose and reported, asking leave to sit again.

The Council adjourned to 3 o'clock.

SPECIAL SESSION.

The Council met pursuant to notice for the purpose of taking into consideration the third reading of a By-law, entitled a By-law to raise by way of loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, for the purpose of raising said sum to construct bridges across Mud Lake and Pigeon Creek.

All the members present but one.

The special session adjourned till next day at 3 o'clock.

At 3 o'clock the Council met in regular session.

The Warden read a communication from James Hall, Sheriff, in reference to his office bonds. The communication was referred to the Finance Committee.

On motion of Mr. Pearce, seconded by Mr. Scott, the Council went into consideration of the whole on the said By-law to raise money to aid in the construction of the Cobourg, Peterboro & Marmora Railway by issuing debentures to the amount of $10,000 for that purpose. They made progress on the By-law, and had it examined by several practical miners, and all pronounced it a very rich one. An American company hearing of it, sent Prof. Robb, of Montreal, to make an examination of the mine, and on assay of the ore brought to the surface. The Professor went up last week and returned yesterday [illegible] reports it the richest mine of the kind in the Dominion, of which he knows anything or has ever heard. There is great excitement in consequence. Many [illegible] this company who sent the Professor up will either purchase the mine or take a considerable interest therein, and work will be at once commenced in earnest, and a large quantity of ore got out by the opening of navigation. The ore will be brought down in waggons to Bobcaygeon over a very good road; thence by steamer to Lindsay, when it will be shipped to wherever it is wanted. The lead contains a small [illegible] of silver, in fact quite enough to make it very valuable for that alone.

Throughout all the tract country there are large deposits of various minerals, such as Iron, Galena, Plumbago, Copper, &c., which only require capital and experience to work, and these are now being attracted thitherward. No doubt but gold also exists in the northern part of this county, and Professor Robb's statement, with reference to the Galway Lead Mines, will give an impetus to exploring operations in that section of country.

If the government would send a part of the geological staff to make an exploration of the country, it would confer a boon on this part of Canada at least, and might be the means of doing a vast deal of good for the whole union. It is to be hoped that when our parliaments meet, our members will use their influence to induce the government to take immediate steps to have the country north of us thoroughly explored, with a view to ascertain what kind and quantity of minerals we possess.

The crops throughout that part of our county have been good this year, in fact much superior to those of any other year, both in quantity and quality. In Fall Wheat and Hay there is a great deal more than the settlers can use; they will be able to supply all the lumber shanties with hay, and a large quantity of the flour and oats needed therefor can be had also in the neighborhood. Peace and plenty reigns throughout our county.—Com.

A Dinner to the Ashburnham Volunteers was given by the Ladies of the Village yesterday evening, on the occasion of the formal opening of the Drill Shed. It was a decided success, as everything the Ladies undertake for the Volunteers is. The Reeve, A. C. Dunlop, Esq., occupied the chair. A. H. Campbell and D. Sutherland, Esq's., the vice-chairs, and we noticed Brigade-Major Patterson, Lieut.-Col. Poole and Col. Donaldson, of Bad. Militia, present. Also, Geo. Read, Esq., and J. Carsegie, Esq., M.P.P's. The Rev. V. Clementi, of Lakefield, and the Rev. Mr. Burt, of Minden, and the Mayor and Council of Peterborough, were present. About 100 in all sat down to the splendid repast. Mr Rackett's Brass Band was also in attendance, and discoursed several pieces during the intervals.

We are unable to more than give the toasts of the evening. The speeches must be reserved for another time.

From the chair—"Our Most Gracious Queen," "The Prince and Princess of Wales and all the Royal Family," "The Governor-General of the Dominion," "The Army and Navy and Volunteers."

The Army, responded to by Brigade-Major Patterson. The Navy, responded to by Capt Sutherland. The Volunteers, responded to by Col. Poole. The Sedentary Militia, responded to by Col. Donaldson.

From the vice-chair—"The House of Commons and the Local Legislature," responded to by Mr. Reid and Mr. Carsegie, the Rev. V Clements and Mr. Dennistoun also responded.

Capt. Sutherland then proposed the "Agricultural and Mercantile Interests," responded to by Mr. Edwards.

"The Mayor and Corporation of Peterboro," responded to by the Mayor.

"The Chairman," responded to by the Rev. Mr. Clementi, acknowledged by Mr Dunlop.

"The Press and the Ladies," came next, and after thanks returned for both, the party broke up, highly pleased with each other, but especially with the Ladies of Ashburnham.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

DEAR SIR,—There are few who cannot see that further railway accommodation by way of Cobourg, and extension in the direction of the "Back Country"—when these advantages can be secured at a comparatively small outlay—will conduce in a large measure to the welfare of the town and county. This fact is so evident that many are at a loss to understand the cause of the unceasing opposition of the Review to a movement of so much importance to our welfare. If, as some positively allege, the Review is subsidized by the Port Hope Railway people, and that its Editor is hired by Mr. Covert to write up its interests to the detriment of the town and county, then the course pursued by Dr. Poole can be easily understood. If this is the case it is well the public should know it and act accordingly. Some time ago Dr. Poole was hired to perambulate the county with Mr. Fowler in furtherance of a wild goose Railway scheme, and latterly he has attended Railway meetings which have taken place, as the special advocate of Mr. Covert's interests. Mr. Covert says plainly that his interests are not the interests of Peterborough, and as a man cannot serve two masters it is clear that the Review Editor cannot serve his master, Mr. Covert, and Peterborough at the same time. Whenever, therefore, Dr. Poole tenders advice in Railway matters to the Ratepayers of the town and county, either in his capacity of Editor or as special pleader at Railway meetings, it should be borne in mind that he has in view the interests of Mr. Covert solely, in comparison with which he treats as nought the future prosperity of the town and county. It is understood that Dr. Poole is employed as assistant Clerk during the sessions of the County Council, and it is known that at the last session he occupied himself in secretly writing resolutions which he prompted certain members to propose, and which were calculated, if carried, to defeat the By-Laws in support of the extension of the Railway then under consideration, and which By-Laws a large majority of the Council were in favor of. This conduct was all well enough on the part of the hired agent of Mr. Covert, but it will scarcely be considered conduct befitting a salaried servant of the County Council. This is a case or our County Fathers should look to.

RATEPAYER.

A singular suicide was committed at Dublin on Saturday night last. A private in the 60th regt. and the wife of a sergeant who was separated from her husband met themselves together in the week—took a board and jumped into the Liffey, near Carlisle bridge. The splash was heard and boat put off to save them, but when picked up they were both dead.

OUR BACK COUNTRY.

Some few weeks ago Messrs. Galvest, Rogers and Stephenson, of this place, discovered [illegible] of Galena on a lot [illegible] and 11th of the Bathurst Road in Dalhousie Township of Sydney, about [illegible] miles from this town. They made [illegible] and found it to be [illegible] quantity of ore. They then [illegible] and had it examined by several practical miners, and all pronounced it a very rich one. ☞ Never more than two loans or credits against the policy, and only one of them demanded.

Policies issued in 1866, 14,151. Receipts, $3,921,209.

The Ætna's system of insurance is a most excellent one, as indicated by its great success; and there can be no doubt that its large and rapidly increasing business—doing as much in one month as most Companies do in a whole year—with all its investments drawing nearly double the rate of interest obtainable in Europe, will enable it, at all times, to declare large dividends or policy-holders.

Observe the difference:—While most Companies accommodate the insured with half credits for a few years only, after which full payments are required, the Ætna's half credit runs throughout life, but does not accumulate as a debt upon the policy.

Peterboro', October 3, 1867. 40

BY-LAW No.

A By-Law to raise the sum of TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS for the purposes hereinafter mentioned.

WHEREAS the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, deem it expedient and necessary to raise by loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, payable within Ten years from the time this By-law shall be finally passed and take effect, with interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, to be applied to aid the Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora Railway and Mining Company, to construct a railway from the village of Harwood to the village Ashburnham.

And whereas, the sum of fourteen Hundred Dollars will be required to be raised annually, by special rate, for paying the interest and creating and equal yearly sinking fund for paying the said principal sum of Ten Thousand Dollars.

And whereas the amount of the whole ratable property of the said Municipality of the said County of Peterborough, irrespective of any future increase of the same, and, also irrespective of any income to be derived from the temporary investment of the sinking fund hereinafter mentioned, or any part thereof, according to the last revised and equalized Assessment Rolls for the said Municipality, is the sum of Two Millions Seven Hundred and Eighty-five Thousand Three Hundred and sixty-one dollars, ($2,785,361)

And whereas the existing debt of the said Municipality of the County of Peterboro' is Twenty-nine Thousand Four Hundred Dollars, ($29,400) for principal money, and Twelve Thousand and Forty-six dollars, ($12,046) for interest, and there is nothing in arrear on account of said principal or interest.

And whereas for paying the interest and creating and equal yearly sinking fund for paying the said sum of Ten Thousand dollars, and interest as hereinafter mentioned, it will require an equal annual special rate of one-half a mill in the dollar in addition to all rates to be levied in each year

Be it therefore enacted by the Municipal Council of the County of Peterborough:

1. That it shall be lawful for the Warden of the said County to raise by way of loan from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate, who may be willing to advance the same upon the credit of the Debentures hereinafter mentioned, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and to cause the same to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the said County of Peterborough, for the purposes and with objects above recited.

2. That it shall be lawful for the said Warden to cause any number of Debentures to be made, for such sums of money as may be required, not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100) each, and not to exceed in the whole the said sum of Ten Thousand Dollars and that the said Debentures shall be sealed, with the seal of the said Municipal Council, and be signed by the said Warden, and countersigned by the Treasurer of said County.

3. That said debentures shall be made payable in ten years at the farthest, from the day hereinafter mentioned for this By-law to take effect, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality, and shall have attached to them Coupons for the payment of interest.

4. That the said debentures shall bear interest at and after the rate of six per centum per annum, from the date thereof which interest shall be payable half yearly, on the First day of February, and the first day of August in each year, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality.

5. That for the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of said Debentures and the interest at the rate aforesaid to become due thereon, an equal special rate of one half a mill in the dollar, shall, in addition to all other rates, be raised, levied and collected in each year, upon the ratable property in said municipality, during the continuance of the said Debentures or any of them.

6. That the sum of Ten Thousand dollars, being the amount to be contributed by the said municipality of the County of Peterboro for the purpose in the recital mentioned, be paid over to the Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora Railway and Mining Company, on the passing of the first train over the Railway aforesaid from Cobourg to the Village of Ashburnham. And provided that should the Rice Lake Bridge not be made permanent on the day of the passage of the first train, as aforesaid, the Railway Company is to give their guarantee that the same shall be made permanent within three years from the passage of said train.

7. That this By-law shall take effect and come into operation upon the First day of February, A. D., 1868.

The above is a true copy of a proposed By-law to be taken into consideration by the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, at Peterborough, in the said County, on Tuesday, Fourteenth of January,

A. D. 1868,

at the hour of TWO o'clock in the afternoon, at which time and place the members of the Council are hereby required to attend for the purpose aforesaid.

Dated, this 10th day of October, A. D. 1867

By-Law No.

By-law to raise by way of loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars for the purposes hereinafter mentioned.

WHEREAS the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, have found it necessary that the sum of Ten Thousand dollars for the purposes of erecting and building a bridge across Chemong Lake, from a point on the shore of said Lake, in the Township of Smith, in said County of Peterborough, to a point on the shore of said Lake in the Township of Harvey, in said County, and also another bridge across Pigeon Creek from a point on the shore or bank of said Creek in the Township of Ennismore aforesaid, to a point on the shore of said Creek, in the Township of Harvey, in the County of Peterborough.

And whereas, to carry into effect the said received object it will be necessary for the said Municipal Council to raise by way of loan the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars in the manner hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas, it will require the sum of $1,000, to be raised annually by special rate for the payment of said debt or loan and interest as also hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the said Municipality of the said County of Peterborough irrespective of any future increase of the same, and, also irrespective of any income to be derived from the temporary investments of the sinking fund hereinafter mentioned, or any part thereof according to the last revised and equalized Assessment Rolls of the said Municipality, is the sum of Two Million three Hundred and Eighty Five Thousand Three Hundred and Sixty One dollars, ($2,385,361).

And whereas the existing debt of the said Municipality of the County of Peterboro' is Twenty Nine Thousand Four Hundred dollars, ($29,400) for principal money, and Twelve Thousand and Forty-Six dollars, ($12,046) for interest, and there is nothing in arrear or account of said principal or interest.

And whereas by paying the interest and creating an equal yearly sinking fund for paying the said sum of Ten Thousand dollars, and interest as hereinafter mentioned, it will require an equal annual special rate of one half of a mill in the dollar in addition to all rates to be levied in each year.

Be it therefore enacted by the Municipal Council of the County of Peterborough;

1. That it shall be lawful for the Warden of be said County to raise by way of loan from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate, who may be willing to advance the same upon the credit of the Debentures hereinafter mentioned, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and to cause the same to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the said County of Peterborough, for the purpose and with the objects above recited.

2. That it shall be lawful for the said Warden to cause any number of Debentures to be made, for such sums of money as may be required, not less than One Hundred Dollars (($100) each and not to exceed in the whole the said sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, and that the said Debentures shall be sealed, with the seal of the said Municipal Council, and be signed by the said Warden and countersigned by the Treasurer of said County.

3. That said Debentures shall be made payable in ten years at the furthest, from the day equal money thereof, and shall have coupons to the effect, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality, and shall have attached to them Coupons for the payment of interest.

5. That the said Debentures shall bear interest at and after the rate of six per centum per annum, from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half yearly, on the 15th day of October and the 15th day of April in each year, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality.

5. That for the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said Debentures and the interest at the rate aforesaid to become due thereon, an equal special rate of one half a mill in the dollar shall in addition to all other rates be raised, levied and collected in each year upon the rateable property in said Municipality during the continuance of the said Debentures or any of them.

6. That this by-law shall take effect and come into operation upon the Fifteenth day of October, 1867.

The above is a true copy of a proposed By-law to be taken into consideration by the Municipality of the County of Peterborough, at Peterborough, in the said County, on

The Tenth Day of October, 1867,

at the hour of TWO o'clock in the afternoon, at which time and place the members of the Council are hereby required to attend for the purpose aforesaid.

Dated, this 26th day of June, A. D. 1867.

LIFE AND WORKS OF ROBERT BURNS,

BY THE

REV. P. HATELY WADDELL,

(Author of the well-known Eulogy on his Genius, and Chairman of the "Centenary" on the Centenary of his Birth).

This addition will be illustrated with Two Portraits of the Poet; with Frontispiece composed of five Scenes selected from the Works or Life of Burns, and Twenty-five Fac-Simile Prints from Original Drawings—the whole produced in finest Oil Colours, from Engravings by eminent artists, in the highest style of the art.

The prominent Literary characteristic of this edition will be an entirely New Life of the Poet, in the form of a Spiritual Biography, by the Rev. Editor; with much valuable additional matter relating to Burns—including some hitherto unpublished Fragments of the Poet himself, interesting original Reminiscences of his Life, original Notes critical and historical on his Poems, and an Essay on the Progress and Development of the Scottish Language up till his day.

In the department of Illustration, the distinctive feature of every Picture will be its Originality in Design, and its absolute fidelity to nature in every detail of Scene, &c. The actual spot referred to with all its surroundings, wherever locality constitutes a portion of the picture, will be scrupulously adhered to—so that readers at a distance, natives of Scotland, may recognise in these some transcript of the soil; and strangers may look with confidence on every illustration as a reality. In the same department, the Publisher has the highest satisfaction in being able to announce that he is in a position to reproduce an authentic and most wonderful Likeness of Robert Burns—from the Original Miniature, unquestionably, which was painted the year before his death; and of which Burns affirms that it is "the most remarkable likeness of what I am at this moment, that I think ever was taken of any body"—together with a most interesting and beautiful Miniature of his eldest Son, painted at the same time as a pendant to the Poet's likeness. These Portraits which have been lost to the world for seventy-one years, are now in possession of the Rev. P. Hately Waddell; and cannot fail, when presented to the world, to excite universal attention. No portrait of the Poet known can compare for a moment, in fidelity or force, with this miniature of Burns.

The work will be completed in Seventeen Monthly Parts, Demy 4 to 48 pages, price Half Dollar each. Printed from new type upon the finest pinting paper.

The great care and beauty with which the above work is being got up will make it an ornament most suitable for the drawing-rooms alike of the price and of the merchant; whilst the mode of publishing and the price charged will bring it early within the reach of every gentleman throughout the world.

Till then, and then I love thee!"

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS.

From a Prosperity Merchant of St. Louis, Mo. 4, 1866.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the purgative of all that is in medicines. They have cured my family of diseases which had baffled the skill of our best physicians. Their sugar coating makes them pleasant to take, and they are the safest as well as the best physic we can employ. Their penetrating power to the remotest regions of the system, their searching and purifying effects, and their tonic energy, all conspire to make them the most wonderful remedy we possess. They have cured my children of Worms, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and Ulcers. Their virtues are unknown to me, but their effects are marvelous. I have no doubt they have saved my children's lives from Croup, Diphtheria, Measles, Scarlet Fever, and Whooping Cough. Their sugar coat renders them very acceptable and convenient for the use of women and children.

Dyspepsia, Impurity of the Blood.

From Hon. J. F. Shaw, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston.

DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with unvarying success in my family and among those I am called to visit in distress. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood, they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. V. SHAW.

WARREN, Wyoming Co., N. Y., Oct. 24, 1866.

DEAR SIR: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the blood. JOHN G. MEACHAM, M. D.

Constipation, Costiveness, Indigestion, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Dropsy, Paralysis, Piles, etc.

From Dr. J. P. Vaughn, Montreal, Canada.

DR. AYER: I find your pills to be the best of cathartic medicines. Where I have used them in my own family and practice, they have given perfect satisfaction. Many of our fashionable pills, although bad enough, are tolerable in their operation; but your Pills admit their superior, and seem the climax of perfection.

From Hon. H. Hunt, Magistrate and Sheriff, Dyton.

I find one or two large doses of your Pills, taken at the proper time, are excellent promoters of the natural operations of the system, and when taken with care every alternate day, are sufficient to keep the body in health. I am in habit of recommending them to my friends, and have no other in my pantaloons.

From the Hon. Mr. Minister, of the Methodist Epis. Church.

PUBLIC HOUSE, Savannah, Ga., Jan. 6, 1866.

HONORED SIR: I consider it ungrateful for the relief your skill has brought me if I did not request my case to you. A cold settled in my limbs and brought on excruciating neuralgic pains, which ended in chronic rheumatism. Notwithstanding I had the best of physicians, the disease grew worse and worse, until by the advice of your excellent agent in Baltimore, Dr. Blanchard, I tried your Pills. Their effects were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them, I am now entirely well.

SENATE CHAMBER, Baton Rouge, La., 8 Dec. 1865.

DR. AYER: I have been entirely cured, by your Pills, of Rheumatic Gout—a painful disease that had afflicted me for years. VINCENT SLIDELL.

☞ Most of the Pills in market contain Mercury, which, although a valuable remedy in skilful hands, is dangerous in a public pill, from the doubtful consequences that frequently follow its incautious use. These contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF

CONSUMPTION

BY THE

GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY

IN CANADA.

MESSRS. Y. & C.—GENTLEMEN:—I WILSON Storms, of Brighton, C. W., make oath and say,—I feel anxious to let you know what the Great Shoshonees Remedy has effected for me. My wife was afflicted with consumption and died; I was also afflicted with the same disease, and after her death I continued sinking just as she had done. I had very severe night sweats; coughed nearly all night and every night; could not sleep unless a little towards morning. I raised over a quart of matter every 24 hours; had severe pain in the left lung, &c., &c., and was greatly debilitated. In fact I was going as fast as I could. I was taking medicine from a regular physician, but it did not even relieve my cough. I went to the village one day about a quarter of a mile, which took me to go and come about two hours.—While there I saw Esq., Wellington, and happened to say to him, "I wish you could give me something to relieve my cough." He said "There is the Great Indian Remedy just introduced; Dr. Barker has it for sale, and I believe it will cure you." I took his advice, and brought a bottle home with me; took a tablespoonful at once, which I felt through my whole system; at night I took a table-spoonful, and rested well all night, and continued to rest well every night. The Cough, Night Sweats, Raising of matter, Pain in the Lung, &c., gradually left me, and I got hearty and strong. I took only three bottles. I am not taking it now, and I am as hearty and as well as ever I was in my life. My sister-in-law was with me for a while, who was afflicted with the Liver Complaint. She has taken the remedy, and is well. This certificate you may show to the world if you please.
